City Manager Evans Fired, 3 Officials Quit

Willard, Gables' Ex, Hired

Commissioner High Resigns

By JOHN MORTON
Herald Staff Writer

E. A. Evans was fired as Miami city manager Monday in a surprise city commission move aimed at a general shake-up in city hall's anti-Metro government.

City Commissioner James W. High promptly resigned in protest, and was joined by Evans' two top aides.

Evans was replaced by Ira (Dutch) Willard, former Coral Gables city manager, who will take over the city's top administrative post today at $18,000 a year. Evans was paid $25,000.

Voting to remove Evans "as of today" were Commissioners Otis Shiver and George W. DuBreuil and Mayor Robert King High.

Failure to cooperate with Dade's new Metropolitan government was given by Shiver as the reason for Evans' ouster. Shiver made the motion for the firing.

Willard, 47, who'll take over his new job this morning, promptly set the stage for a complete turnabout in city policy toward Metro:

"Metro is here to stay," Willard said. "A close working agreement between the city and Metro is necessary to best serve the people."

Also asked to leave the city's employ immediately was Assistant City Manager Ray Williams. The veteran employe said he will retire.

Williams, 58, with the city 33 years and $15,000-a-year assistant city manager since 1954, will retire with a $9,000 annual pension.

Evans's $9,000-a-year trouble-shooter, Edward Barber, promptly resigned after his boss was axed. Like Evans, Barber is a retired general.

"The day of the generals is over," Mayor High commented.

The city manager's firing immediately casts uncertainty on the futures of Police Chief Walter E. Headley — a target of Mayor High — and other department heads closely identified with Evans' anti-Metro policies.

Evans took the sudden loss of his $25,000-a-year job calmly.

Evans, 63, has been city manager for six years and seven months. A retired Army general, he once headed the Reserve Officers Association.

"I have no hard feelings," he said. "I knew some day this would happen."

Willard immediately accepted the job after he was told of the offer by telephone. He will go to City Hall this morning to take over his new office. His salary will be $18,000 a year.

He said the job was first offered to him two weeks ago. He said he told the commissioners then that he would take it.

The firing came as a sur-

Here's what they say:

Metro Officials:

Commission Chairman Walter Weiss: "This is one for the books. Gen. Evans and I had lunch together Monday and I'm sure he didn't know anything about his firing then."

Commissioner John McLeod: "How can I predict so soon whether there will be more cooperation between Miami and Metro now that Gen. Evans has been fired? He's only been gone 30 minutes."

Commissioner Alex Gordon: "Any cooperation at all would be more than we've had."

Commissioner Robert Haverfield: "We should see a lot more cooperation between Metro and Miami from now on. While Ira Willard was Coral Gables city manager he had a wonderful relationship with the Metro Commission."

Commissioner Edwin Mason: "Gen. Evans did just what the Miami City Commission wanted him to do. Blaming him for non-cooperation with Metro is putting the monkey on the wrong back."

County Manager O. W. Campbell: "I am sorry to hear about Evans' firing. In dealing with administrators I never found him uncooperative. He supported the autonomy amendment, of course, but in doing so he was only carrying out the wishes of his policy-making body, the Miami Commission."

Dade League of Municipalities:

President Dean Claussen: "It's a tragic thing. Evans was a great man, the best city manager the city ever had. Miami is in the best shape financially it has ever been."

Others:

Ex-Miami Mayor Abe Aronovitz: "If Mr. Evans' dismissal didn't accomplish any more than prompt Commissioner Jimmy High to resign, the result will be of great benefit to the people of Miami. I think the lesson to be learned is that the servant of the people should not seek to become the master of the people, to misuse their funds and to give private parties to enhance his personal reputation."

Even Police Tell Them

NORTH BAY, Ont. — (AP) — Two police officers, Gordon Nuttley and Al Pike, swear by this fish story:

They said they were ice fishing near here from holes 40 feet apart. They propped their rods in the snow. One began to bob and Nuttley made a dash for it. He was too late. The rod disappeared under the ice.

Moments later the other rod began to bob. When the end of the line was hauled to the surface it was hooked to the lost rod and a seven-pound pike.

What You Can Look For Now

What to look for in the "new look" at Miami City Hall:

1 — More cooperation with Metro, beginning with: closing of all city traffic courts. Metro instead of Miami auto inspection stickers.

2 — A new police chief, with new assistants.

3 — Firings or demotions of: Administrative Assistant Edward Barber; Building Director Ellis Knox; Engineer Arthur Darlow; Slum Clearance Director Frank Kelly. The full story inside:

U.S. Rocket Roars Away for the Sun

Pioneer IV Off After Third Try

By DAN BROWN
Herald Staff Writer

CAPE CANAVERAL — The Army's big Juno II rocket roared off into the heavens early today carrying Pioneer IV, a potential sun planet.

The goal is to send the 13.4 pound gold-plated satelite close to the moon and into orbit around the sun.

Russian scientists accomplished the feat with their Mechta rocket early in January.

In Westford, Mass., a spokesman for the Massachusetts Institute of Technology's Lincoln Laboratory reported signals from the new moon rocket were coming in "strong and clear."

The rocket rose on a column of flame into the clear Florida sky at 12:11 a.m. today.

The successful firing followed two weekend postponements, one on Saturday because of bad weather and another Sunday because of a minor technical difficulty.

The instrument package was rigged to take further readings on the twin bands of dangerous radiation surrounding the earth and on cosmic rays.

A huge cloud of smoke hid the 76-foot rocket for about two seconds, until it emerged and began its majestic climb.

Then it arched over and continued climbing at a steadily increasing speed until it was only a tiny white speck after about three minutes.

If all went well, the probe would pass within 10,000 miles of the moon in 33 hours, 45 minutes before being lured later into a wide orbit around the sun. That would make Pioneer IV a permanent artificial planet.

The sun itself is 93 million miles away from the earth.

Actually, the Army spacemen were aiming directly at the moon, but the chances of hitting it were remote. The probe was sterilized in surgical fashion to make it germ free just in case the impact occurs.

The earth's gravity would slow the probe's pace to 6,700 mph at an altitude of 90,000 miles, a short time before it was due to make its rendezvous with the moon.

A sun orbit also was an objective of an Army moon rocket launched here Dec. 6. The rocket didn't reach the moon because it didn't go fast enough. Pioneer III, its instrumented bullet, went 66,654 nautical miles into space before falling back to earth.

Pioneer IV faces the same odds which licked its predecessor. It's got about "one in 10 chances" of reaching the moon, according to Dr. Keith Glennan, associate director of the

Reds Give, Agree to Conference

West Refusal Seen, P. 6C

By Herald Wire Services

MOSCOW — Russia reversed itself Monday and conditionally agreed to a foreign ministers' conference on the Berlin crisis in notes that warned that the German issue could cause war "a hundred times more serious" than all past conflicts.

Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev withdrew his rejection of the Western plan for a foreign ministers' meeting after pleas from Britain's visiting Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

The Soviet note handed to the ambassadors of the U.S., Britain, France and West Germany urged a summit conference as having "the greatest chance" of success.

But if the West "is not ready" for that, the Russians agreed to a ministerial-level parley on one condition: Inclusion of Poland and Czechoslovakia.

The Western proposal which Khrushchev rejected verbally last Tuesday called for a Big Four foreign ministers' meeting. Russia wants the two Communist nations included to give the Eastern bloc numerical balance. East and West Germany also would attend and have "active participation" in the talks.

(In Bonn, West German official sources said the government will oppose the presence of Poland and Czechoslovakia at a conference.)

The Soviets suggested a meeting of "not more than two or three months" which would begin next month at Geneva or Vienna. The West also has

House Stamps OK On Anti-Red Bill

WASHINGTON —(UPI)— The House of Representatives unanimously and without debate Monday passed a bill to strengthen the Smith anti-Communist Act and help counteract recent Supreme Court reversals of convictions of Communists.

The measure now goes to the Senate where it is expected to stir up considerable controversy.

The Smith Act bill was aimed at partly offsetting a 21-month-old Supreme Court decision which limited application of the law. The act, among other things, made it a crime to teach or advocate overthrow of the government.

The Supreme Court held in 1957 that the word "organize" referred only to official organization of the Communist Party in 1945, rather than later activities such as formation of new party units or recruitment of new members.

Partly as a result of this decision, a number of Smith Act convictions later were reversed. The government dropped some other cases.

The House-passed bill is one of a number of measures to counteract Supreme Court decisions which won House approval in the last Congress. All of the measure died in the Senate.

The bill would redefine the word "organize" so as to include such activities as forming new party units, expanding other units or recruiting new members.

The high court's ruling was given in a decision freeing five of 14 California Communists convicted under the Smith Act and ordering new trials for the other nine.

The bill was sponsored by the American Bar Association and the Department of Justice.

Civilian Heads on Pan in Missile Race

Who decides what missiles research the U.S. will pour its billions into? In today's installment of his series on the great defense debate famed Reporter Bob Considine puts the spotlight on a little-known but powerful official in weapons development.

By BOB CONSIDINE
Herald Columnist

The position of the U.S. at this time has been likened to that of a man crossing a rocky ford in a stream, daring not to take his weight entirely off one foot until he is sure that the other foot is on solid ground.

We are in some cases haltingly and other cases feverishly changing our military retaliation reliance from manned bombers to missiles. Articulate members of the Democratic Congress believe that many aspects of the Eisenhower administration's defense problem are being bungled now or have been in the past.

But no other segment has come under more fire than that part of the setup which must compete with the Soviet Union's unquestionably brilliant rocket developers. We were caught with our Sputniks down on Oct. 4, 1957, and despite a tremendous awakening to Russia's scientific and engineering prowess we have yet to catch up.

The task of getting the U.S. abreast of or preferably ahead of Russian missile wizardry was complicated until the 1958 Reorganization Act. There were conflicting and competing groups, not to mention jealousies and the fanning of the dead embers of old inter-service rivalries.

As outlined by Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy before the House Armed Services Committee last Feb. 2, here is where the breath-taking authority rests:

"A Director of Defense Research and Engineering, Dr. Herbert York, has been appointed with the mission to assure that all scientific and technological resources of the Department of Defense are put to the best possible use.

"The Director of Defense Research and Engineering will supervise and coordinate all Department of Defense research and engineering programs. He will be responsible for providing effective leadership, eliminating unnecessary duplication, encouraging basic research, and developing an integrated research and development program covering all operational needs."

Answerable to Dr. York is all the work and thinking of the Advance Research Projects Agency, headed by Roy Johnson. Dr. York has veto power over ARPA's spatial brain-children. The same is true of his office's control over William Holaday's Guided Missiles Operation, and missiles heads of each service.

"We will proceed with de-

A high in the mid-70s is predicted, with the low tonight in the 60s.

Temperatures were expected to dip into the 40s early today as a south-bound cold wave pushed through the state.

There's no other cold wave following, the weatherman said.

Scattered frost in the lowlands of North Florida was also expected.

Frisco Sweats Out Long, Rolling Quake

Tremor Lasts Over A Minute

SAN FRANCISCO —(UPI) — A long, rolling earthquake which alternately swelled and diminished for more than a minute, struck earthquake-conscious San Francisco late Monday.

The temblor hit the city and surrounding areas at 6:29 p.m. Miami time. The University of California seismographic office at Berkeley, Calif., said the quake registered a magnitude of 5.5 on the Richter scale.

The quake, it said, was centered 65 miles northwest of Berkeley, which would put it near Santa Rosa, but residents of that area said they barely felt the shock. There were no immediate reports of damage.

In southern California, the California Institute of Technology at Pasadena reported the temblor registered 4.5 on the Richter scale, a full point lower than what was registered at Berkeley. There was no immediate explanation for the discrepancy in the readings.

Telephone service was sporadically disrupted throughout the Bay area by overloading calls from anxious residents calling schools — where their children were still in class—relatives, and the police department.

Reports of the temblor came from as far south as Salinas, Calif., some 100 miles from San Francisco, and from San Rafael, a suburb 20 miles to the north.

Oakland police said they had some 1,500 calls within a few minutes. San Francisco's police switchboard was so jammed with calls it was impossible to reach city officials immediately by phone.

Discoverer I Is Believed In Orbit

INGLEWOOD, Calif. — (UPI) — The Air Force in a cautiously worded statement announced Monday that the "lost" 1,300-pound satellite Discoverer I is apparently circling the earth every 96 minutes in a polar orbit.

Preliminary studies indicated the 19-foot-long satellite's life would be in excess of one month, the Air Force said.

The satellite was blasted into the heavens Saturday afternoon at Vandenberg Air Force Base to become the first satellite launched on the West Coast.

Its fate remained in doubt for nearly 32 hours because of an apparent radio failure before the Air Force's Ballistic Missile Division (BMD) here broke the suspense by releasing a guarded statement Sunday night reporting the reception of "random" radio signals.

A BMD spokesman explained the difficulty the Air Force was having in determining whether the Discoverer I actually achieved orbit.

Daughter Diane, Sen. John Carroll Make Work Team
. . . school officials forcing showdown on job

'Pick One: School Or $12,000 Salary'

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Diane Carroll, 27, daughter of Sen. John Carroll (D., Colo.), may have to decide between her $12,000-a-year job as an aide to her father and a full schedule law course at Georgetown University Law School.

Her plight, if such it can be called, came to light with an Associated Press survey of senators' relatives on Senate payrolls. Her father and school officials agree she has too heavy a load, but each wants the ease-up to be in the other field.

"I gave her a raise this year to induce her to stay with me instead of full-time law school," the senator said.

"I think I've convinced her she should become a part-time student. I want her to study administrative law so she can help with the new subcommittee on government administrative procedures I have been assisgned to organize."

The head of the law school, The Rev. Francis Edmund Lucey, said he would hate to see Miss Carroll lost to the school but that she couldn't continue as a regular student and also hold a full-time job.

"She will either have to quit her full-time job at the Capitol," he said, "or reduce her course load and become a part-time student or drop out of school. It's too bad. She's a fine girl."

Father Lucey said that under school rules Miss Carroll cannot work outside more than two hours a day. He said he was disappointed to hear that she was working more.

Miss Carroll worked for her father during his campaigns for the House when he was in that body and for the Senate. Previously she had worked as clerk of the Colorado district court in Denver and had studied law part time.

County Auditor Concurs

Metro Budget Men Backed on Tax Stand

By LEO ADDE
Herald Staff Writer

The Metro Commission's budget committee, bent on heading off a threatened tax increase, got the backing of Special County Auditor Robert M. Morgan at its first meeting Monday.

Committee Chairman Alex Gordon, plus members John McLeod and Robert Haverfield, voted to sit in on the 1959-60 budget request hearings which the administration holds with department heads.

Metro's current $38,434,259 budget — which Gordon and other commissioners lambast as "not understandable" — was assembled by County Manager O. W. Campbell and Budget Director Harry Toulmin. First look commissioners got at any of the budget came when the whole document was presented for their approval.

"You are making a wise move," Morgan told Gordon Committeemen after they decided to study the new budget as it is being formed.

Metro cut 1.1 mills from the county's 17-mill tax rate last year. But a highly-placed Metro budget official said last Friday that "the same county services are going to cost more money next fiscal year."

Evans Out As City's Manager

prise, however, even to many City Hall insiders. In the past, Shiver and DuBreuil have voted with a four man majority that included James High and B. E. Hearn.

Like James High, Hearn continued loyal to Evans.

He challenged Shiver's complaint that Evans has been ignoring the wishes of the commission and pursuing his own policies.

"I believe the city manager in every instance," said Hearn, "has carried out the will of this commission."

Shiver charged that Evans was "standing in the way of an orderly transfer of Miami functions to Metro, and that means standing in the way of the wishes of the people."

Last summer Evans was a leader in the Dade League of Municipalities campaign to curb Metro's powers by passage of a proposed "autonomy amendment" to the Metro charter. The City Commission, with the exception of Mayor High, offered no objection when Evans mobilized city employes and equipment to work in the "vote yes" campaign.

Still bitterly opposed to Metro, James High said in making his exit from the commission that it was led by "nitwit theorists who make silly, power-grabbing moves."

The commissioner said he will devote his full time between now and the November city election "to making known to the people what has been done here."

"At the end of that time," he added, "I expect to be a candidate for reelection to this commission."

The firing came Monday afternoon when commissioners changed an informal session into an official meeting.

'We're Ready To Shoot'

U.S. Has Edge, McElroy Says

By Herald Wire Services

WASHINGTON — U.S. military forces are ready to back up President Eisenhower's avowed determination to stand fast on American rights in Berlin, Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy told Congress Monday.

"We think we have a definite offensive superiority over the Russians at this time," McElroy said in discussing the situation with the House Space Committee.

While voicing doubt the Russians want to start a war, the Pentagon chief told the congressmen "we are prepared to meet various stages of the Berlin situation as it develops." Then he added:

"We are prepared to make good on the statement of the President that we will not yield one inch on our rights in Berlin."

McElroy said there are no plans now to mobilize because of the deepening crisis over Russia's campaign to force the U.S. and other Allied powers out of Berlin, 110 miles inside Communist-held territory.

Mobilization steps have been suggested in Congress in recent days, and Rep. James Fulton (R., Pa.) raised the issue again Monday. He asked McElroy if this country has adequate protection for a firm position on Berlin and "if not, should we mobilize in whole or in part?"

"We don't regard that as being required at this time," McElroy replied.

Saying the German crisis has been studied by the Joint Chiefs of Staff and the State Department, McElroy said there may be some moves to strengthen the U.S. position. He did not go into detail.

The secretary said this country is ready for anything. He conceded Russia greater strength on the ground in Central Europe, but said it has been "clear for a long period of time that we will never fight the Russians on the ground."

McElroy also said during the course of his testimony that present U.S. policy is not to strike the first blow in a war, but "whether that always will be true is another matter." He did not say what conditions could lead to a first strike by the U.S.

As McElroy testified, Russia sent new notes to the Western Allies proposing conditional Big Four negotiations on the Berlin crisis. Several key members of Congress interpreted the Russian proposal as a "thaw" in the cold war.

The White House and State Department deferred comment until the text of the note can be studied.

U.S. Rocket Roars Away for the Sun --Will It Orbit?

National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Its launching rocket has nearly 300,000 parts — each of which must work perfectly.

Malfunctions in the 300,000 parts have caused four other American moon rockets to fail to reach the moon, but they have gone far enough into space to collect fresh information about space radiation and the problems of communication in space.

Pioneer III didn't reach the moon because its main Juno engine burned for 176.3 seconds instead of 180. The loss in speed was one per cent.

Pioneer II — A Nov. 8 Air Force attempt to orbit the moon — failed because its third stage didn't fire.

Pioneer I, another Air Force orbiting attempt launched Oct. 8, went 71,300 miles into space. Its guidance system hadn't placed it on the path to the moon.

And another small part malfunction caused America's first moon rocket — an unnamed rocket — to explode after 77 seconds of flight last Aug. 17.

U.S. Space Projects For Year Spectacular

By JAY CLARKE
Herald Staff Writer

Twin launchings of space probes from both the Atlantic and Pacific coasts during the past four days are just a hint of what the U. S. has planned in the way of space experiments this year.

Outer space, a lonely place which used to be populated only by cosmic rays and an occasional speck of dust, is about to be bombarded with a variety of man-made "bullets."

The shotgun-like blasts of space-bound rockets scheduled to blast off this year will make 1958's satellite launching activity seem like a beanshooter in comparison.

And this year's pace news promises to be much more spectacular than last year's. With 1959 just two months old, the U.S. has already put a weather satellite (Vanguard II) into orbit, launched Discoverer and is ready for another Pioneer moon probe.

But just take a look at some of the headlines you're likely to be reading in the coming months:

- First interplanetary probe (to Venus).
- First flight of X-15 rocket powered airplane.
- Recovery of earth satellite.
- Launching of a high-altitude earth satellite.
- First pictures of Earth from far out in space.
- Rocket orbiting the moon.
- 100-foot diameter satellite (visible to eye).
- Possible first manned space flight.

And that's not all. The Russians have hinted strongly that they're going to stage one of their patented space "spectaculars" pretty soon — this one probably the first interstellar flight, sending a rocket completely out of the solar system.

Touch Not That Roulette!

Miami police uncovered a huge cache of professional gambling equipment Monday night and were all set to put it to the ax — until they found out it belongs to the Metro Police racket-busting vice squad.

The mix-up began when a burglar-alarm system flashed a break-in signal from Hadco Bonded Warehouse, 6750 NE 4th Ct.

Several Miami squad cars raced to the scene but found only a short circuit. While checking for a break-in, however, they stumbled on the fancy gambling gimmicks:

One roulette wheel, two roulette tables, one "wheel of chance," one dice table, and two twenty-one tables.

Confronted with their find, which is destroyable-on-sight according to Florida law, the Miami sleuths weren't sure what to do.

So they called their captain. He wasn't sure either but called Assistant Police Chief J. A. Youel who said it should be "taken into custody."

But while police trucks were on their way to pick up the contraband items, Metro detectives came to its rescue.

They had seized it two months ago in one of their raids on harlie Freed's Caribbean Cargo Co., 2031 W. Flagler St.

43 Batista Fliers Freed

SANTIAGO, Cuba — (UPI) — A Cuban revolutionary tribunal Monday acquitted 43 Batista airmen accused of "genocide" for their air missions over Oriente Province during the revolution.

The verdict ended a two-week mass trial during which the prosecution contended that the former Cuban Air Force pilots, gunners and mechanics were guilty of common crimes when they bombed and strafed their objectives, sometimes killing and injuring civilians.

The prosecution had demanded the death penalty for 22 of the airmen and long prison terms for the other 21. The 19 pilots among the accused were all American-trained under the military and defense assistance program.

The prosecution based its charges on aerial missions flown by the men over Southeastern Cuba when the former regime of ousted Dictator Fulgencio Batista was trying to smoke out Rebel Leader Fidel Castro and his followers from the hills of Oriente Province.

Our Aim: No More Pop-Ups

Scientists Try For a 'Liner'

CAPE CANAVERAL — If all goes well, the moon rocket fired early today will be the first "line drive" ever fired into space by American scientists.

But the same scientists have scored scientific successes with two "pop flies" — they have shown by instruments that man can survive a trip into space.

Dr. William H. Pickering, head of the laboratories which built Pioneer III, the instrument package hurled into space by the last "pop fly," says of the Dec. 6 shot:

"From a scientific point of view, the shoot was very close to success. But from the engineering point of view we did not attain all our objectives."

"Did not attain all our objectives" because the 13.4-lb Pioneer III wasn't a "line drive" to the moon, or better yet a "driving foul" which missed the moon and fell into orbit around the sun.

Instead Pioneer III and Pioneer I of Oct. 11 were "pop flies" which fell back to earth after space penetrations of 66,654 and 71,500 nautical miles, respectively.

So far only Russian scientists have hit a "line drive" into space.

They did it Jan. 6, with their 800-lb. Mechta rocket which swept past the moon and fell into a near-permanent orbit around the sun.

Reds Yield To Mac on Berlin Talks proposed such a time and choice of places.

Western diplomats said the proposal for two or three months of negotiation starting in April shows the Soviet Union has long since scrapped May 27 as an absolute deadline for settlement of the West Berlin question.

They pointed out that since Khrushchev set the original date, Soviet officials both here and abroad — including Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan in the U. S. — have reiterated that no deadline exists and that the proposal contains no ultimatum.

However, the note stressed again that Russia intends to hand over control of the Berlin lifelines to the East Germans by May 27.

It warned the West that any attempt to use "tanks or aviation" to force a path to West Berlin would bring war.

(The White House maintained silence on Russia's note. Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said a translation has not been received in Washington and therefore, there will be no comment at this time.)

Khrushchev expressed pleasure over his talks with Macmillan. As a result, he added, Britain and the Soviet Union are better prepared for an attempt to end the cold war.

Macmillan declared Britain is "well content with the talks we had here. We hope they will lead to clarifications in negotiations to come."

The two leaders made their statements at a lavish reception in St. George's Hall of the Kremlin. Macmillan and his party were guests of Khrushchev prior to their departure today for London.

National Summary

An area of low pressure off the North Carolina shoreline maintained precipitation from the Virginia coast southward across the Carolinas at noon today while high pressure over the Gulf of Mexico produced fair weather across most of the Southland.

Temperatures in the 60s were scattered across the Southland at mid day with 70s before noon in Texas and a mild flow of southwesterly breezes carried 50 degree temperatures into the lower Ohio valley. Under partly cloudy skies 40s were prominent from the Great Lakes into New England but a few patches of snow were scattered over New York state.

Colder weathr is expected to accompany fair skies over most of the Atlantic States during the night and frost warnings have been issued for portions of Northern Florida but sunny warmer weather is in prospect for most of the mid and south Atlantic States Tuesday. Colder air from the Great Lakes across the plains and into the Southern Rockes during the night is expected to spread across much of the Gulf States but giving way to a warming trend across the Northern and Central plains on Tuesday.

Problem in Detroit

Integrated Police On 'Ticket Strike'

DETROIT —(UPI)— Detroit police went on a "ticket strike" Monday and Police Commissioner Herbert W. Hart conceded that putting white and Negro officers together in squad cars is one of the prime factors.

Integration of white and colored policemen in squad cars was begun on a regular basis in the Hunt precinct March 1, which coincided with the expiration of 1958 automobile license plates.

The "ticket strike" became quickly apparent when the number of tickets issued to motorists without 1959 plates dropped radically.

In the 24 hours following expiration of the 1958 tags, 72 motorists were ticketed for failing to have their 1959 plates. Last year, the number of tickets issued for the same offense totaled 1,086 in the same period.

Hart said discontent among officers was the reason, and admitted the move to integrate the department is a factor in the discontent.

"We did anticipate some difficulty with integration as you always have whenever changes are made," he said.

"But we will wait and see what develops on this matter."

Plans for the "ticket strike" to demonstrate opposition to integration reportedly were made at a secret meeting of white police officers a week ago.

"I guess the department just isn't ready for integration yet," said one.

Another said, "I feel sorry for the colored policemen because many of them are nice guys and they're really in the middle in this thing."

Hart indicated that the action of the policemen would not interfere with integration plans, but that ringleaders of the "ticket strike" plan will be sought for punishment.

MEMBERS NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE AND OTHER PRINCIPAL SECURITY AND COMMODITY EXCHANGES

There's no mystery to finding a second income

If you want a second income, there really is no mystery to tracking it down. Bloodhounds are no help at all. But here are six simple clues that can be helpful . . . and may lead you to a handy second income from dividends on stocks or interest on bonds.

Clue #1 Drop in to see a Registered Representative or Partner in a Member Firm of the New York Stock Exchange. You can find the Member Firm nearest you in your classified telephone directory. You'll certainly get a cordial welcome.

Clue #2 Once you're there, put your cards on the table. Tell the Registered Representative what you feel you can spend . . . what sort of investment plans you have in mind. He's qualified to help you. To become registered, you see, he had to pass a tough examination of his knowledge. His business background and personal integrity were also carefully examined. He will be glad to discuss an investment program in keeping with your circumstances. He may suggest common stocks or preferred stocks. Or perhaps bonds may seem best for you. He'll base his opinions on experience and the facts at his disposal. (Altogether, Member Firms spend millions on research.)

Clue #3 If you've been holding off until now because you thought the amount you have to invest is skimpy, the Registered Representative can give you a cheery thought or two. Many investors are buying stock under the Monthly Investment Plan for as little as $40 every three months up to $1000 a month . . . systematically.

Clue #4 When investing, it pays to be guided by these important cautions: Always get facts; never rely on tips or rumors. Invest only money left over after bills have been paid and emergencies provided for. Remember, stock and bond prices go down as well as up.

Clue #5 The services of your Member Firm don't stop with good advice. After you have examined the facts and consulted with the Registered Representative, let's suppose you decide to buy some securities on the New York Stock Exchange. You give your order, and it is transmitted right away to the Member Firm representative on the floor of the Exchange – the market place where orders to buy and sell come together from investors everywhere. He will buy for you there at the lowest price he can; and usually, in a matter of minutes, your order is executed.
It's important, from time to time, to ask your Registered Representative to review your holdings with you, to take advantage of new developments or investment opportunities that may arise.

Clue #6 Be sure to get the free booklet, "DIVIDENDS OVER THE YEARS," published by Members of the Exchange. It's crammed with helpful information. For example: The records of some 365 stocks on the Exchange that have paid a cash dividend every year from 25 to over 100 years. Your Registered Representative will be glad to give it to you, or you can write for it. Finding that second income isn't very mysterious. What's more, you'll probably enjoy knowing a Registered Representative. Hang on to him. He's a good friend to have. Before you forget it, why not clip the coupon right now and send for that free booklet.

Meany Urges Law-Enforcement Probe

WASHINGTON — (AP) — AFL-CIO President George Meany Monday called for a congressional investigation of what he said is a breakdown in law enforcement on the federal and state level.

Meany, speaking to 3,500 delegates to the AFL-CIO building and construction trades department fifth national legislative conference, said such hearings should be conducted by a committee other than the Senate Rackets Committee.

The AFL-CIO chief said present Rackets Committee hearings on gangster links to the coin machine industry, for example, have nothing to do with labor union activities — yet the nature of the hearings, he said, leaves that inference.

"Is anyone so naive to believe that where an illegal slot machine is operating it is operating without the knowledge of some corrupt official?" Meany asked.

On another subject Meany said the AFL-CIO supports the Kennedy-Ervin labor control bill but will withdraw that support and actively fight the bill if labor-wanted clauses are dropped.

These clauses amend the Taft-Hartley Act along lines long advocated by organized labor to permit strikers to vote in bargaining rights elections and to permit construction unions to negotiate prehire contracts.

Sen. John F. Kennedy (D., Mass.) predicted the Kennedy-Ervin bill will pass Congress at this session. He said some businessmen are opposing it as they did a similar bill last year.

"Some employers and businessmen are not so much interested in breaking the power of crooks and hoodlums as they are in breaking the power of honest organized labor at the bargaining table," Kennedy said.

Owner Fined In Gun Theft

CHESTERFIELD, England —(UPI)— Robert E. Archer was fined $14 here because someone stole his rifle.

Police, to whom Archer complained about the theft, charged him with violating a provision of his firearms license by carelessly leaving his rifle where it was easy for a thief to take.

She Gave Back Ring, Now They're Both Dead

PEOPLE

IRA SCHWARTZ met Sandra Chick three years ago at a dance.

A year later they became engaged. He was 20. She was 17. They didn't marry because they both had school to finish, and they felt they were too young.

Ira attended Brooklyn College at night and worked days as a buyer for a clothing firm. Sandra, a pretty honey blonde, also attended Brooklyn College nights and worked days in a law office.

Sandra's father, Irving, the prosperous owner of a gas station at Rockaway Beach, loaned Ira a car so he could travel between his home in Brooklyn and the Chick's home in Queens more easily.

Ira used it to visit at the Chick home three or four times a week. "He was the happiest guy I knew," a schoolmate said.

Then Sandra met a lawyer. About a week ago she returned the three-carat engagement ring for which Ira had saved. She told him it was all off.

Sunday night he asked her to go for a drive with him and reconsider. They parked the car in a beach section of Queens, about a block from the Atlantic Ocean. No one knows what they said, because both of them are dead.

Police say he shot her twice with a .22 caliber rifle, once in the abdomen and once in the head. Then he turned the gun on himself and fired twice more. Both were dead when police arrived.

Dry-Eyed Liz Hears Eulogy

ELIZABETH TAYLOR stood tight-lipped and pensive Monday at the gravestone of her late husband, producer Mike Todd, and heard a rabbi eulogize him as "an extraordinary man who lived with intensity."

Then the screen actress spent 30 seconds alone beside Todd's grave beneath a tent in windswept Waldheim Cemetery in Chicago.

CELEBRATING his 112th birthday in Fort Worth, Tex., Charlie Earls attributes it to 'hard work and being active.' His great grandson Tony Dicky, two, helps with the festivities.

There were no tears, only a few family members and close friends in attendance, and none of the circus aspects and curious mobs that accompanied Todd's burial services in the suburban cemetery last March. The stone, dwarfed by those nearby, read simply:

Rift Blamed On Elopement

PHILIP K. WRIGLEY, millionaire gum manufacturer, Monday said the marriage of his daughter to a Phoenix, Ariz., television executive had destroyed close family ties.

Wrigley, who has a winter home in Phoenix, told a newsman: "We were a close group, doing things together and going places together. That era is over."

Mrs. Dorothy Wrigley Rich, 33, and Thomas W. Chauncey, 45, president and general manager of KOOL-TV and radio station KOOL, eloped to Albuquerque, N.M., Friday.

When asked if his daughter still would be considered an active member of the family, he answered, "No."

Wrigley, in answer to another question, said his daughter would be welcomed home for a visit "as long as she doesn't bring her new family.

Bob Hope Fears Loss of Sight

BOB HOPE says "from now on, I'm doing whatever the doctor tells me. I've got too many places to see."

HOPE

Eye trouble threatens to come between Hope and the spots he wants to see. He flew to New York from Hollywood by jet liner Monday to see a Columbia University specialist about the ailment.

The comedian suffered a blood clot in his left eye during a Christmas holiday trip to Europe to entertain U.S. servicemen. He says vision in the eye is now going fuzzy.

Hope said physicians have told his wife he may lose full vision in the eye unless he gets help from specialists.

Birmingham Closes Door

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. — (AP) — The superintendent of Birmingham schools Monday turned down the last two pending applications of Negroes for entry in white schools.

Seven others were rejected last week.

Superintendent J. Frazer Banks declined to give the reasons for the rejections of the last two applications but a spokesman for the Department of Education said:

"It would be safe to assume the reason is the same as it was for the others."

Banks told the parents of six of the other seven that he was turning down their application because he could see no benefits that might be derived from a transfer.

The other application was turned down on grounds that the child was not of school age.

The children whose transfer applications were rejected Monday were Frank Johnson Jr., 17, and Carolyn English, 14.

The applications were processed — and rejected — under the terms of Alabama's pupil placement law.

A Change In Management

Uprising At City Hall

THE SHAKEUP at City Hall yesterday took most Miamians by surprise. Its full effects probably won't appear overnight.

The simultaneous departure of a city manager and a city commissioner is unprecedented in the city's history.

City Manager E. A. Evans was fired by the votes of Mayor Robert King High, Commissioners Otis Shiver and George DuBreuil.

Thereupon, Commissioner James W. High resigned. He had been Evans' most outspoken supporter on the commission.

For nearly seven years, Evans had run the city government pretty much as he pleased. His term of office set a record for unbroken tenure in the long list of Miami's city managers.

IN MANY OTHER communities, Evans would have been discharged for his role in the anti-Metro campaign last fall. He spent taxpayers' money and used civil service personnel to campaign for a charter amendment which would have hamstrung Dade County's new Metropolitan Government.

The big changes at Miami's City Hall will prove beneficial to Greater Miami if they spell the end of efforts to sabotage Metro. As the core of the metropolitan area, the central city can and should lead the way in helping to make Metro work.

Is Mr. K. Giving A Little?

ALL OF A SUDDEN but all of a piece with Soviet strategy, some of the heat is off the Berlin crisis.

British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, who got a chilly back of the hand from Nikita Khrushchev last week (it was only an "electioneering speech," Mr. K. explains — but who, pray, is his opponent at the one-party polls?) is resuming discussions in Moscow.

Presumably to help these along, the Soviet government gave ground yesterday and agreed to an East-West foreign ministers conference on Germany, providing that this be followed by a summit meeting.

So the tension appears to ease a mite. Or anyway, the crisis becomes resilient.

LET US ALWAYS bear in mind that what Winston Churchill called "hotting up the fires" periodically is a tactic dear to Soviet grand strategy. Indeed, it's a tiresome fact of history.

Let it be noted also that Moscow has already begun talks with East Germany on the conclusion of a separate peace and "liquidation of the occupation regime in West Berlin."

This has an ominous sound, the more since it isn't Russian hyperbole but German — Red German — plain-talk. To it East German Defense Minister Willy Stoph adds the blustering threat that another Allied airlift to supply Western garrisons in Berlin might mean the beginning of war.

No, Russia hasn't given up its first object, which is to get the West out of Berlin.

WHY THE ALMOST frenzied insistence on the withdrawal of troops from a fixed zone in and around Germany?

In the current Harper's, Editor John Fisher suggests that "although we may find it hard to realize, the Russians are genuinely afraid of Germany . . . the Russians see Germany, miraculously recovered from its defeat, as the most vigorous power in Europe . . . Germany might (as they see it) be able to lead a united Europe, with American backing, in another attack against the Soviet empire."

Western Germany certainly has given the democracies no cause for fear, even though a strong Germany has been an historic threat to France and eventually to Britain.

It is the purpose of the proposed treaty to assure against the threat of a resurgent Germany, toward which, it might be assumed, the United States would be just as objective as it was when it intervened against Britain and France at Suez in the announced interest of world peace.

In broad effect, then, and leaving out ideologies, Western and Soviet aims in this detail of peace-seeking are not dissimilar.

IS THERE ROOM here to negotiate? If there isn't, then Berlin can only provide the trigger of a war too horrible to contemplate. Given the premise that the West can't and won't be forced out of the city, which we now think Mr. K. thoroughly understands, the way may be open for negotiation at a foreign ministers conference.

If this conference fails to produce any results, it will at least dramatize the futility of a meeting at the summit.

Russia has now come a little of the way from its own inflexible position, which stoutly opposed a foreign ministers conference. It would be folly to accept this without reservations, but it would be futile to reject it out of hand.

It's Just Plain Unlawful

NEITHER Jimmy Hoffa's Teamsters nor any other union can do anything about the pay, hours or working conditions of city employes in Florida.

Despite that fact, Hoffa is out to collect dues money from the 25,000 municipal workers here. We hope they will not be so misguided as to take his bait.

The law is clear. It was spelled out by the Florida Supreme Court on May 24, 1946, in these words:

"The City of Miami has no authority to enter into negotiations with labor unions or any organized groups concerning hours, wages or conditions of employment and to make such negotiations the basis for fiscal appropriations."

That was the first decision of an appellate court on the question of recognizing unions of municipal employes for collective bargaining. It has not been upset, and has been cited successfully elsewhere.

HOFFA and his henchmen are bound to know this. We called attention to it on this page last December 18. That was just after Hoffa had hired City Councilman Harold Shapiro, former mayor of Miami Beach, as his local lawyer.

With such counsel, the Teamster boss can't fail to understand that Florida municipalities are not allowed to recognize unions as bargaining agents for their employes.

Yet now, less than three months later, Hoffa has personally launched the Teamsters' drive to organize city workers. His local union will have headquarters in the office of Attorney Shapiro, who might have to answer the rollcall as a city councilman if the matter comes before the Beach's governing body.

What kind of procedure is this? It jibes with Hoffa's unforgettable remark: "We will not be stopped by the McClellan Committee, laws or the courts."

That Strangely Twisting Road

THIS ROAD we travel side by side with our less well fixed allies has some curious twists.

They can squander our handouts and misuse our friendship for their own greedy purposes, but we mustn't admonish them about it because the Communists might stir up more troubles of which we have an ample supply now.

This most curious twist was turned up by Edwin A. Lahey, chief of our Washington Bureau, in a report of a House subcommittee headed by Rep. Thomas E. Morgan (D., Pa.).

The committee discovered more instances of waste and actual theft in our foreign military assistance program. But the committee cannot point a finger nor name names and countries. That might alienate our friends, say the folk in the Pentagon and the State Department, and they might not cooperate.

We must not reflect unfavorably on those whose friendship we would purchase. We've just got to take it even if we don't have to like it.

Challenging The Brighter Mind

DADE COUNTY school authorities — and Dade County citizens generally—are due congratulations on the new "no nonsense" high school abuilding in the Northwest area.

In arranging the curriculum for the school, the school planners have shown an imaginative and intelligent approach to a most serious educational problem. That is the lack of technical and educational courses needed for the age we live in. Central High School, due to open in September, will emphasize these subjects. It is designed especially to prepare young minds for careers in science and engineering — careers that will be rewarding in satisfactions as well as material returns.

There will be a place here for the bright youngster with a mathematical mind, who may have been held back by the emphasis on the social and liberal arts that prevails in traditional schools. Central High will have plenty of English and social studies. But there will also be four years of mathematics and four years of technical science. There will even be eye-opening courses in the budding nuclear sciences.

STUDENTS MUST HAVE high scholastic standing to get in the school. They must maintain good grades to stay. From first to last, it will be a challenge without precedent here.

Dade citizens merit praise for their part in the planning. The idea developed from the series of town hall meetings arranged by the school board last year to find out what the community wanted and needed in its schools.

Discussion in these grass-roots sessions pointed up the need for an academic atmosphere where the brilliant student of scientific bent could go as fast and as far as he wished. Central High will provide just that.

This is another demonstration that Dade County has a good school system, willing to pioneer as in its widely-watched experiment in educational television. Despite critical problems created by sheer growth, the school authorities are doing a thoroughly commendable job for our community and our children.

Air Safety Must Come First

Editor The Herald: I read with interest and approval your editorial titled, "Let the Pork Barrel Wait."

Your suggestion coincides with my thinking exactly. As chairman of the Senate subcommittee handling appropriations for civil aviation I have always been a friend of aviation.

I feel that funds necessary to guarantee safety of the air lanes have the first call, and I will continue to press for such expenditures. For new installations and operation of flight controls we are spending over $400 million this year and the new budget calls for sizeable increases.

I voted against the airport development bill when it became impossible to delete from it largely-increased authorizations for construction of terminal facilities unrelated to air safety.

School Needed By Community

Editor The Herald: We cannot afford to lose "Mr. Monty" and his school for handicapped children. Everyone with a stake in the cultural welfare of this area should realize the significance of the condemnation of the Montanari Clinical School by the Hialeah City Council.

The same municipality that tacitly approved the school's continued existence by issuing building permits for its physical improvement, now gives it 60 days to close its doors.

The Montanari Clinical School is unique in its service to the Dade community. Its director is well-known and respected as an educator and humanitarian; his school has become one of the best in the United States. He has put everything he had and could solicit into this organization for promoting the education and welfare of children for whom there is no other school available.

Will all of the progress Mr. Montanari and his dedicated staff have demonstrated with exceptional children cease in 60 days?

This is no time to quibble about a $40 billion budget for defense. Even twice that amount would be cheap life insurance. We need now a Paul Revere to wake us up to our dangers.

I am buying 10 copies of The Herald and clipping Lahey's article to send to friends, thus starting a chain.

Hammy Dialect Murders Hamlet

For, during the 20 minutes I agonizingly watched this 90-minute colossal, I was unable to understand one word the characters were speaking. All I could gather from the play, judging from facial expressions, was that something was rotten in Denmark.

5th Amendment Needs Changing

Editor The Herald: Your editorial on the American Bar Association's warning on Supreme Court decisions was undoubtedly sincere, but I believe you missed the point of the ABA's contentions.

The ABA concludes that any group which advocates violent overthrow of our free institutions should not be afforded the benefits of these freedoms. Therefore it follows that we should amend the Constitution to exclude such groups from normal civil rights. The ABA did not criticize Supreme Court handling of the Law of the Land as written.

For instance, the Fifth Amendment was written to guarantee the concept that the burden of proof is on the prosecution, that is, a man is innocent until proven guilty and he cannot be forced to make a prejudicial statement.

However, we should now amend the Constitution to exclude statements of loyalty from the protection of the Constitution. This should include statements which are tantamount to disloyalty.

One rotten apple can ruin a barrel of good apples, so it behooves us to affix the onus of traitor to all American Communists and expatriate them. In addition we should put teeth back into the Smith Act, preserve the FBI's right to protect its files, give back to congressional committees the right to determine if questions they ask are pertinent.

Tax Pros and Cons Line Up Their Guns

By JOHN PENNEKAMP

THERE'S AN INTERESTING conflict between press agentry and lobbyists (and don't ask me to explain the difference) brewing as the state's legislative session nears.

It will be concentrated in the many faceted area surrounding the suggestion for getting more money for the State Road Department through a raise in the gasoline tax.

Roughly, I suppose, you'll be able to say that those who are on the "pro" side will be press agents, or public relations men. Opposing them will be the lobbyists on the "con" or opposed side.

Pennekamp

The lineup was about the same, with simpler variations, at the session two years ago. Then it was proposed to add up to two cents to the gasoline tax in Dade County alone.

Everything was bowling along smoothly, with the "pros," most of them volunteers, doing all right until the oil companies got their heads together.

They didn't like the idea, found that the filling station operators didn't either.

Result: Their most persuasive representatives went to Tallahassee, did a quick but effective job of lobbying, and the added tax suggestion was dead.

* * *

THIS TIME THERE is wider "umph" to the added tax suggestion.

The State Road Department would like to see its adoption, probably with all the counties having a local option on whether they want to add it. And, only one cent is suggested thus far.

But, the cities have stepped in through the Florida League of Municipalities.

"If," they say, "such a tax is put on, then return to the city in which it is collected that portion of the extra tax which is collected there."

Making for a very interesting probable conflict between the cities and the counties, with the weight of legislative support inclining toward the counties.

After all, it is there that cooperation with the State Road Department is encountered.

* * *

ROAD CONTRACTORS may be expected to be represented. Building roads is their business, and the more money there is the more opportunity they have to keep going.

There is a healthy segment of public opinion which also wants road building to be stepped up. Included is just about everybody who uses an automobile and recognizes that more and better roads will help to reduce hazards, move traffic, make for fewer irritations.

Sure to be scanned carefully is the financial report of the State Road Department.

Joe Grotegut, chairman, pointed out recently that last year the department took in from the gasoline tax $115.5 million, of which $49.5 million went to what are termed secondary purposes such as retirement of old bonds and county road construction.

That left $66 million for primary roads, or the integrated highway system.

Of this money $11.6 million went for routine maintenance; $8.2 million for administrative costs; $1.2 million for handling charges; $2.6 million for buildings and equipment and $3.2 million for signal lights, signs, boat ramps, paving at state institutions and similar purposes.

Thus there is left about $29 million for primary construction to which is added approximately $9.1 million in regular federal aid.

The federal program is another facet of the problem. It is falling behind for lack of money, and an increase in the federal tax — now three cents a gallon — has been proposed. Should it be made it will hamper efforts to raise the tax in the state.

In the current year, Grotegut reported, federal aid for the interstate highway is $377.057 million, $5.729 million for urban construction and $5.949 million for secondary. Florida's matching share for the interstate will be $8.276 million, he said.

Strictly Personal

Here's True Test Of Good Breeding

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

LIKE MOST people, I used to think that the real test of good breeding was the way we behave toward those less fortunate than ourselves — toward the poorer, the weaker, the men and women lacking the advantages we have known.

Harris

This is important, surely, but I now think there is a truer test of good breeding. After all, it is relatively easy to behave in a normal and kindly fashion toward someone we feel superior to.

Where most of us fall down is in our reactions to those more fortunate than ourselves — toward the richer, the stronger, the celebrated men and women who are known to us as personages rather than as persons.

Genuine breeding (which is as rare as it is delightful) consists in regarding a celebrity (distasteful word!) with the same naturalness and ease we would approach any ordinary person.

* * *

PERSONS in the limelight have a heavy cross to bear. They are subjected to the most searching scrutiny by strangers; and by the time we meet them, we have already formed some opinion of them, which may be nothing like their real characters at all.

When we approach them, at a dinner or a party or a public event, most of us do so defensively or fawningly or with a tremendous concern for the impression we will make upon them. Thus, from the first, a person-to-person relationship is impossible — not because the celebrity is aloof, but because we ordinary mortals refuse to treat him in an ordinary way.

Good breeding (which I can admire more than I can imitate) accepts each person for what he is, and does not hastily type him as belonging to this "class" or representing that "king." Nobody, at bottom, is a class or a kind; our surfaces have been formed by the society we have lived in, but our distinctive personalities are as individual as our fingerprints.

* * *

AND THE celebrity — no less than the humblest worker — wants to be regarded, and accepted, as an individual, not as an inflated dollar sign, or a mighty brain, or a magnificent piece of flesh. The most miserable women I have ever seen in my life were Hollywood beauties who bitterly resented being tagged and typed by all who met them — and never achieving a normal, easy relationship with people.

In the end, the most crushing price one can pay for a famous name or a famous face is to be known to millions, but known by nobody.

State Right at Median

Florida Spent $235.95 For Each Of Us

By Congressional Quarterly

WASHINGTON — The Census Bureau just released a report showing how Florida's finances compare with those of other states.

What the Census Bureau did was take a long look at the fiscal 1957 financial reports of the states and then compare them. It is the first such report published since 1942 and contains the most recent information available.

The bureau study shows that Nevada spent the most per citizen, $367, and Arkansas the least, $147. Florida ranked 27th among the states in per capita spending with $235.95. The median among the states was $236.81.

* * *

CALIFORNIA spent the most per capita, $98, on its public schools and Arkansas the least, $39. Florida in per capita school spending ranked 35th with an expenditure of $58.56. These figures, like others in the study, are based on the estimated total population on July 1, 1957.

For highways, Connecticut spent the most per person, $106, and South Carolina the least, $25. Florida ranked 26th by spending $48.73 per capita.

For such public welfare as aid to the poor and the blind, Oklahoma spent the most per capita, $46, and Virginia the least, $6. Florida ranked 32nd by spending $16.69.

* * *

FOR HOSPITALS and other state and local health services, New York ranked first with a per capita expenditure of $32 and South Dakota last with $8. Florida ranked 13th by spending $19.44.

The Census Bureau reports that the average per capita indebtedness of the states in fiscal 1957 was $274. This is the money the state owed in long term obligations. The highest per capita debt in fiscal 1957 was in Delaware, $498, and the lowest in South Dakota, $66. Florida ranked 16th among the states with a per capita debt of $273.85.

This debt figure combines money the state owes through agencies such as turnpike authorities and the total debt of individual communities.

Evans Ducked City Salvoes 6½ Years

By JUANITA GREENE
Herald Staff Writer

IT WAS HIS knowledge of people and politics that enabled Edward Arthur Evans to survive as long as he did as Miami's city manager.

Though the fate of the 13 other city managers finally caught up with him, the 64-year-old Evans leaves behind him a record remarkable in at least one respect:

He held the job longer than anyone else.

Six years and seven months ago Evans quit as executive director of the Reserve Officers Assn. and moved from Washington to Miami.

Here in August of 1952 he officially went to work at the $25,000-a-year manager's job that was then Dade's most important and best paying.

It was 6½ years filled with controversy although everything started out well enough. The City Commission had given him unanimous endorsement, though up to the last minute there was doubt where Chelsea Senerchia, then mayor, stood.

Evans also had the backing of some powerful forces in the community, notably William C. Lantaff, former U.S. Congressman, who had been on Evans' staff during the war.

Not for several months did the boat begin to rock.

The Perrine (Gootsie) Palmer, on the City Commission, publicly attacked another commissioner, Robert H. Givens for what he called an attempt to oust Evans.

Palmer claimed Givens wanted a vacancy for Senerchia, who had once worked as city manager.

But nothing came of the alleged plot, which brought strong denials from Senerchia.

* * *

FROM THIS FIRST uproar Evans showed his ability to remain outwardly unruffled while the words flew around him.

Outspoken but seldom antagonistic, Evans always maintained the confidence of a man who knew he had at least three votes he could count on out of the five-man commission.

It was this knowledge that got him through his most trying period, when Abe Aronovitz was mayor. The two men began to disagree almost immediately after Aronovitz was elected in 1954.

At issue was the Police Department.

Before and since, the Police Department has been held up as a bad example by Evans' critics.

But never with as much noise or consistency as when Aronovitz reigned.

The Mayor complained of too much vice in the city. B girls and perverts were his special targets.

In the end, it was Aronovitz who lost, defeated by a heart attack and the frustration of failure to muster majority support on the five-man Commission.

After each crisis there remained not only Evans, but Police Chief Walter Headley and the other brass that was running the department when Evans became manager.

From time to time, shakeups were promised by Evans, who doubled as Safety Director.

This was a post set up when one Commission decided there should be a Commission-appointed executive between the police chief and the city manager. But even after the most vigorous shaking, only the minor officials were dropped or reshuffled.

* * *

A PERSONABLE extrovert, Evans acquired the ability early in his army career to make and keep important friends. He learned, too, how to keep issues from arising whenever possible, and to keep out of many of those that were bound to erupt.

He seldom attempted publicly to lead the commissioners, even on major public issues. He was a good man for carrying out the administrative details of running a city, and to put over the big projects which originated with the commission.

Evans' defense of the Dodge Island port site endeared him to commissioners while it alienated some of the leading citizenry. But on this issue he also managed to muster much public support.

When Metro was first proposed, Evans gave his support to the new countywide government. When the job of County Manager was created, he applied for it. Earlier, with Lantaff's help, he had tried to get County Commission appointment as director of the Dade County Port Authority.

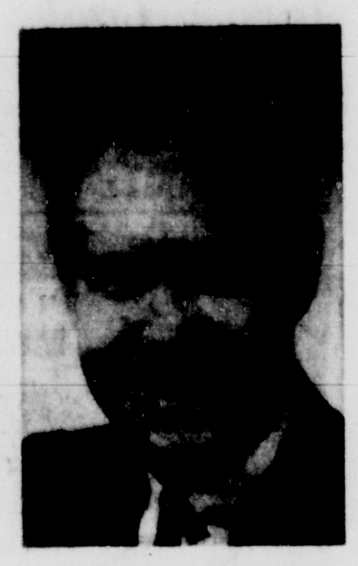
After Metro began operating, however, Evans became one of its leading opponents. He sparked the Dade League of Municipalities' fight to put some curbs on it.

Rejection of the League's "autonomy amendment" by the voters last September was considered a personal defeat for Evans. He had allowed—and even encouraged—city employes and city equipment to be mobilized in an all out campaign by the "vote yes" group.

* * *

THE LAST TIME Evans emerged the hot water of politics caught him was in December. He entertained 250 invited guests at a Christmas party at his home, at city expense.

"You're damned right," he replied when asked about the bill. "I'm giving an official city party and it is being paid for out of my expense account."



Mayor High
. . . he won long fight

Abe Aronovitz
. . . long-time Evans' foe

Only Commissioner who refused to go to the party was Mayor Robert King High, a protege of Aronovitz.

Like his old tutor, High kept up a constant attack against Evans pointing particularly to the Police Department.

Once he spent several days buying bolita tickets around town, and confronted Evans and Chief Headley with the evidence.

No shakeup ever came to pass.

His job here was Evans' first in public administration. For a time between World War I and World War II, he was in the structural engineering business in Los Angeles.

Always active in the reserves, he reentered active duty in 1940, was promoted to brigadier general in 1943, and spent 18 months in Miami as head of ground troops guarding the Florida coastline.

* * *

EVANS AND his active, attractive wife, Nancy, are a popular pair in local social circles.

She is president of the Democratic Women's Club of Dade County.

In recent years, "the general" has turned his spare time from golfing and fishing to painting, with much success.

He's had many exhibits, and his work hangs in the homes of friends all over town.

The current crisis that ended the career of this city manager came on quietly.

Not until the last minute was there any outward indication that he had lost three of the four votes that had supported him so consistently in the past year and a half.

Rosenberg Has No Trouble In Landing Printing Jobs

(Second of a Series)
By JOHN L. BOYLES
Chief of Our Capital Bureau

TALLAHASSEE—He seems always to be for the winner, whether he was for him on election day or the day after.

That recent observation of Charles Rosenberg's ability to get along with state politicians doesn't explain that he developed the art in relatively short time — after he returned from service with the Marine Corps in World War II to the printing business.

BOYLES

Rosenberg's father, Sam, came to Tallahassee from Atlanta in 1932 and bought a bankrupt printing firm across the street from the state capitol.

When his father retired at the peak of Rose Printing Co.'s prosperous rise, Charles Rosenberg and his brother-in-law Al Block became partners in its operation and it continued to get a giant-sized chunk of the state's business in Tallahassee.

* * *

BEFORE THE PARTNERSHIP was dissolved in a bitter feud four years ago, Block was considered the liaison man with the legislature and the state's key political figures.

Rosenberg, who had been the production man inside the plant, became an effective salesman in a hurry after he purchased Block's interest.

The dissolution of the partnership stipulated that Block would not go back into the printing business, competing with Rose Co., in the Tallahassee area.

Block made an unsuccessful effort in Leon Circuit Court to break that restriction.

* * *

TWO YEARS AGO Gov. LeRoy Collins proposed that the legislature create separate state departments of administration to include a purchasing division and a department of finance.

When the proposal bogged down, the governor's forces got behind a central purchasing system bill which would include printing, taking it away from individual state agencies.

But, the governor said later, he agreed to take it out of the bill when his legislative leaders conceded that all past efforts down through the years to get a central purchasing system had failed because printing was included.

Rosenberg, a director of the Printing Industry of Florida, an organization of about 100 north, central and west Florida printers, was a registered lobbyist for the group.

But the fight over putting printing under central purchasing became a personal one when Block got behind an amendment that passed the House of Representatives to do just that.

Rosenberg got the amendment killed in the senate and the House didn't try again.

Both he and Block were accused of lobbying on the floor but an investigating committee said it found NO intention on the part of either man to violate the rules.

A man of vast energy, Rosenberg works from dawn until the late hours. When the Rose Company was founded in 1932 it was geared to doing state business and Rosenberg has maintained and increased the volume. In 1958 his company did $700,000 business out of two million dollars spent for printing by the state.

Yet, he says this is less than half of his total business and his future plans include branching out into more private ventures instead of depending on state business.

BLOCK

SOME FIRMS give calendars or ball point pens at Christmas, persons on Rosenberg's extensive gift lists which include many townspeople as well as state employes, may receive hand towels decorated with rose designs or a bottle of domestic champagne.

Rosenberg, cooperating with the chamber of commerce, helps his political relations too by trying to find houses and apartments available for rent to legislators during the session. His office staff assembles the list.

Although he is given credit for wide influence there is no indication he does any lobbying on matters not related to printing.

During the legislature he and Mrs. Rosenberg give four or five parties, entertaining the legislature. Principal legislative attaches and the press corps also are invited.

State employes have been among many guests on fishing trips aboard his boat. A friend explained, "Charlie grew up in Tallahassee; he's known most of the state workers a long time. He likes people and wants them to like him."

* * *

THE AFFABLE, AGGRESSIVE Rosenberg will take a chance. He picked up $200,000 profit through his friendship with Lou Wolfson on the Capital Transit System in Washington, D.C.

If somebody wants to publish a book or magazine Rosenberg will back it if he thinks it has possibilities.

Rosenberg recently was criticized after it was revealed he advanced the state sheriffs' association expenses for a fund raising campaign with an agreement he would provide the printing and split the profits. The sheriffs pulled out when the drive made money and the contract expired.

The sheriffs' association said later Rosenberg did not share in proceeds raised for its Boys Ranch—a home near Live Oak for underprivileged boys—and that it intends to make public an audit of financial opeations for the project.

Rosenberg's varied operations in printing have blossomed into probably the state's largest affiliated group.

He is president of Rose Company in Tallahassee; president of Rose Co. of Jacksonville; treasurer of Rose Co. of Miami, formerly Publisher's Press which he recently acquired; vice president of Letter Service Inc. and also owner of Florida Photo and Plate Service, Inc., both of Tallahassee.

Rosenberg will eventually have to give up his location near the capitol. It is in the area zoned for the capitol center expansion and he and Block sold the property to the state for $319,600 in 1955.

His current three-year lease under which he is paying $40,000 rent expires next September.

* * *

THE CROSS-CURRENTS of politics have thrown the name of Charles Ausley, Gov. LeRoy Collins' former law partner, into the printing controversy, because he is Rosenberg's lawyer and vice president of Rose Co.

Ausley's legal relationship with Rose Printing Co. has existed for more than 20 years and he says he has absolutely no financial interest in any printing firm.

Although under the law Rosenberg could bid any or all of his separate corporations on any state printing contract, there is no evidence he has taken advantage of this defect in the law

Tallahassee printing firms, have a natural advantage under the law, however, since it requires only two bids on a job and some agencies limit their bidding to only a few companies.

It isn't likely Rosenberg will make a strong push to keep printing from going under central purchasing in the 1959 legislature.

It is likely that under any law he will wind up with a healthy share of the state printing business.

(NEXT: Possible reforms in the purchasing of printing, what other states are doing. The trend nationally is toward central purchasing, including printing.)

Necessity of Summit Importance Increasing

By DREW PEARSON

PEARSON

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower, Prime Minister Macmillan and Premier Krushchev have now got themselves in a position where they will almost have to hold a summit conference or face the alternative of war.

Both sides have now edged so close to the Berlin brink — with the author of brinkmanship in the hospital — that neither can back away. Only alternative is a summit conference. And although President Eisenhower is flatly opposed to such a conference, it's probable he would prefer it to the dread prospect of war.

How dangerous has been the brinkmanship of the past few days is indicated by the following straws in the diplomatic winds:

1. THE RUSSIAN FLEET has rushed radar picket ships to key points around Russia—an ominous move which would indicate the Kremlin is expecting trouble.
2. RUSSIAN SHIPS and submarines have been in American waters many times in greater number and closer than the fishing trawler that was boarded last week. There were no incidents. The boarding of the trawler, which never before had been done in American history in connection with a cable break, was partly inspired by the war of nerves between Moscow and Washington.
3. ALLEN DULLES, head of Central Intelligence, has warned the White House that the Kremlin may seize his brother's illness as an opportunity to make a lightning strike against some isolated part of the free world. Allen Dulles is worried about a move into Iran, which Russia has long coveted as a warm-water route to the Gulf of Persia. He has also warned that the Kremlin may crack down on the growing yearning for freedom in Poland.

* * *

IT WAS THE FEAR that Russia might take advantage of Secretary Dulles's illness that caused the President to make such a flat statement at his press conference, warning that the United States would not retreat an inch in Berlin.

The statement was carefully thought out in advance, and the inside story of what happened prior to the statement is significant.

During one of the President's visits to Walter Reed Hospital to see his ailing Secretary of State, the latter warned that the Kremlin might miscalculate as a result of the confusion and uncertainty during Dulles's illness and try to catch the United States off-base.

Therefore he advised Eisenhower to issue a strong statement warning Khrushchev that American policy had not changed because the Secretary of State was ill and would not retreat over Berlin.

Eisenhower conferred twice with Dulles at his hospital bed before finally issuing the statement.

Simultaneously, Khruschchev was issuing similar statements both publicly in Moscow and privately to Prime Minister Macmillan. Whether Dulles's advice was wise or not, remains to be seen. It was a reversal of what he had said before.

In his own private talks both with Deputy Premier Mikoyan and with Chancellor Adenauer, Dulles was quite flexible, indicated every willingness to compromise.

Western Nations Still Calm

European Situation Differs From Atmosphere of 1939

By WILLIAM H. STONEMAN
Miami Herald-Chicago News Wire

LONDON — Twenty years ago this summer Europe headed downhill for World War II.

The Munich crisis in the fall of 1938 had made it clear to everybody that Hitler was preparing to conquer Europe and that sooner or later Britain and France would have to fight him.

Both countries were preparing for the showdown. But there is an important difference between the situation then and now.

The summer of 1959 now threatens to produce another crisis with Russia filling the role of Nazi Germany and Khrushchev the part of Hitler—with a difference.

* * *

ANOTHER WORLD WAR is so unthinkable that nobody in Western Europe takes the possibility seriously

Although Britain and France, together with the United States, say that they will resist any attempt to ease their forces out of West Berlin nobody seems to believe that they will really fight to stay there if the "easing" is not done too violently.

Certainly there isn't a sign in Western Europe that anybody in the West is getting ready to fight.

France still has practically all of its forces tied up in North Africa and could not play any part in an armed showdown.

The British who have been steadily pruning their ground forces only have 55,000 men in Western Germany and have taken no steps to strengthen their position either there or at home.

* * *

AT LEAST FOR THE MOMENT not too much importance is attached to reports from Washington that SAC (the Strategic Air Command) is being alerted and that several mobile "fire department" divisions are being readied for possible action.

The United States, which has also been cutting its ground forces to the bone, has the equivalent of six divisions in Western Germany.

But the Russians have some 24 smaller divisions in East Germany alone and Khrushchev has said "they are not there to play skittles."

* * *

PARTLY BECAUSE a nuclear stalemate now exists between the United States and Russia, and partly because "the situation doesn't lend itself to such methods," the Europeans don't believe there is much chance that the United States would employ super weapons in a dispute over Berlin.

Aside from the fact that "war is unthinkable" the main reason why the West doesn't anticipate war against Russia over Berlin is that the Russians and the East Germans are not likely to give the West a chance to fight even if it wants to.

There are a hundred different ways in which the East German authorities could obstruct traffic between West Berlin and Western Europe without providing a casus belli.

Another reason is that Western Europeans really don't feel that Berlin is worth fighting for.

It certainly does not compare in material importance with prewar Czechoslovakia, Austria or Ethiopia which the Germans and Italians were allowed to swallow without armed opposition from the west.

Reckless Spending Laid to AF

SAN FRANCISCO — (AP) — The San Francisco Chronicle said Monday that civilian employes at Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif., claimed the Air Force has been spending money recklessly.

Quoting "a number of authoritative civilians," the newspaper said millions of dollars have been spent recklessly on "crash" programs to set up ballistic missile launching sites.

The sources were not named in the article.

The article, citing what it called "powerful lobbying" by building contractors, said the money could have been saved through a normal building program.

The paper said expensive launching systems rushed to completion months ago now stand idle because the missiles for which they were built are months or years away from operational status.

'Couldn't Die' Ax Slayer Says

STREATOR, Ill. — (AP) — Police said Stephan Dzurisin fatally wounded his father with a hatchet early Monday drove to a deserted spot, cut his own throat and then surrendered to police.

Dzurisin, a 40-year-old bachelor, said he turned himself in because, "I just couldn't die." He was charged with murdering Andrew Dzurisin, 73, a widower who lived alone in a basement apartment.

The younger Dzurisin told authorities he planned the slaying because his father had thrown him out of the house several years ago.

Police said Dzurisin entered his father's bedroom and struck the sleeping man three or four times with the hatchet. Then he fled in his car to a road north of Streator, slashed at his throat, waited for about a half hour and then drove to the police station.

Lenten Prayer for Today

Only God's Love Gives The Peace We All Seek

By JIM BISHOP

Go With God

Oveta Culp (Mrs. William P.) Hobby, a native Texan, is executive vice president of The Houston Post and a distinguished public servant. After commanding during World War II the Women's Auxiliary Army Corps, with the rank of colonel, she was appointed to President Dwight D. Eisenhower's cabinet as the first secretary of health, education and welfare. She served in that post until 1955. She is an active member of many civic organizations.

Almighty God, make us to know the light of Thy spirit; lighten our darkness; defend us from all perils and danger; give unto Thy servants that peace which the world cannot give, that our hearts may be set to obey Thy commandments and express Thy love for all mankind.

—OVETA CULP HOBBY

The following short prayer is the favorite of another nationally known woman, Loretta Young, the motion picture and television star.

Lord, Thy will—not mine—
BE DONE.
Lord, give me patience, and then strike hard.
This suffering does not nourish my heart—but by bearing it patiently I may at least increase the fire of Divine Love, by which alone life can profit us anything.

One Man Set Off A Strike

The New York Times Service

LONDON — A strike over one man has made 10,000 employes idle at the Ford Motor Co. plant at Dagenham, a company spokesman said Monday.

The strike began when 400 men in the door assembly division refused to work with George Havard, 31-year-old welder, who had been expelled from the Amalgamated Engineering Union for not paying his dues.

The strikers insist on a 100 per cent union shop, but the company refuses to fire Havard. He has been reporting for work daily with a police escort.

The strike brought a shutdown on the main passenger automobile assembly lines last Tuesday and halted the normal daily production of 1,200 cars. The production of tractors and trucks contines and some 17,000 men remain at work.

Leaders of the A.E.U. and other unions have urged the strikers to return but they have remained adamant in their refusal to work with Havard.

The Ford company has invited union leaders to a meeting to discuss the strike but it has not received a reply.

Guard Checks Ship Collision

NEW YORK —(UPI) — Coast Guard investigators checked the radar equipment of the luxury liner Constitution and the Norwegian tanker Jalanta Monday to find why it failed to prevent collision of the ships in a heavy fog.

The 30,500-ton American Export liner sheared the bow off the 12,228-ton tanker Sunday at a busy shipping crossroads in the Atlantic 22 miles from the tip of Manhattan Island.

There were no deaths or injuries and both ships made the Bethlehem Steel Co. yards in Brooklyn under their steam.

Cmdr. Meyer Stockman, Coast Guard officer in charge of the New York marine inspection office, sent investigators to both vessels when they docked for repairs. They questioned the captains and crews and began a check of the ships' naviagtional aids.

Capt. James LaBelle
. . . Liner's skipper

Capt. James W. LaBelle, master of the Constitution, described the accident as "one of those unfortunate occurrences." Capt. Anders Lovald, skipper of the Norwegian ship, was not available for comment.

Heavy Turnout At Polio Clinic

Response at the free polio clinic sponsored by the Carol City Junior Chamber of Commerce Sunday was so good—1,100 shots were given — that the supply of vaccine was exhausted, it was reported Monday.

The shots were given at the public health clinic in Opa-locka.

It was the third such program sponsored by the Carol City Jaycees and most of the persons appearing were receiving their final injection of the three-shot series.

Mom Appeals to Kidnaper: 'Please Watch Eric's Cold'

ONTARIO, Calif. — (UPI) — "Take good care of my baby. Watch his cold, and please, please bring him back to me."

A 35-year-old widowed mother of six children thus publicly appealed Monday to a volunteer baby-sitter who kidnaped nine-week-old Eric Leon Flores last Friday night.

Mrs. Ruth Flores, widowed last June when her husband was killed in a welding explosion, sat at her home tearfully cradling in her arm the twin brother of Eric.

"I just want her to bring back my baby or take him to a doctor," the slight, blonde woman said.

"He has such a cold."

Mrs. Flores said Eric had been fragile since birth and besides needing medical attention also requires a special formula.

FBI agents and police working together in the case — the second kidnaping in southern California over the week end—said the kidnaper apparently was a woman known only as "Ann Williams" who befriended Mrs. Flores in order to carry off a child.

"Isn't it too bad a single woman who wants a baby and can support one can't adopt one," Mrs. Flores recalled the woman having remarked to her before the kidnaping.

The distraught mother, who has gone sleepless since discovering Eric missing from the crib he shared with his brother, Aaron, late Friday, said Miss Williams told her she was active in church work and wanted to help her out.

Mrs. Flores said many persons have volunteered to help her since the death of her husband, Joseph.

BUICK LESABRE!

Saves your money 6 different ways

Do you know you can own this Buick LeSabre for only about $200 more than the best models of the leading low-priced three?

Compare the manufacturers' suggested retail prices posted right on the cars, and you'll find this true.

1 . . . What a difference for your money. That's your first saving with LeSabre — a lot more car per dollar of price. For this is a Buick. A substantial, fine-riding and fine-feeling car in every way. Fisher body, too.

2 . . . Better gas mileage this year. In planning the '59 Buicks, the new Wildcat engines, transmissions, and axles were all engineered to work together for greater gas mileage. Reports from owners across the country tell of 15 to 18 miles per gallon.

3 . . . Buick values other cars don't have. The outstanding new style of today . . . Equipoise suspension for the finest ride in Buick history . . . the smoothness of Twin-Turbine or Triple-Turbine transmissions* . . . Buick's exclusive fin-cooled brakes, with fast-cooling aluminum drums in front . . . these are values you find in Buick alone.

4 . . . The value outstanding QUALITY brings. "Best-performing Buick ever!" . . . "Best-operating car I've driven in 30 years!" . . . "My sixth Buick and the best I've ever owned!" . . . "Much the best Buick yet!" . . . That's how owners themselves describe the quality-satisfaction these '59 Buicks give.

5 . . . That wonderful new Magic-Mirror finish. A new kind of way to keep new-car beauty far longer. Two years from now the original color and gloss will be brighter than previous finishes would be in six months.

6 . . . When trade-in time comes. The acceptance of this Buick's outstanding new style alone can add many dollars to the resale value of your car. In fact, Motor Trend magazine has called a Buick '59 "the most beautiful car of the year . . . overall!"

So here's what we suggest. Any new car you buy today will cost enough money to think carefully about. Before you settle on any car, come let us show you how much more you get for what you pay in the most valuable Buicks ever built.

liberate caution with respect to the priority and production responsibilities in order not to lose any of the momentum the program has developed," McElroy testified.

Despite this declaration, a great deal of confusion has resulted. Sen. Lyndon Johnson speaks of "piling missiles czar on czar." One Washington correspondent quoted Gen. Nathan Twining, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, as saying of the civilian missile chieftains, and their overlapping duties, "They're a bigger threat than the Russians."

This reporter found no organizational confusion visual, surfacewise at least, in the countenance of Dr. York. He was one of the bright young men associated with the government's development and test of the H-bomb. He has the scientist's placid patience, confidence in the fruits of proper research, and wit:

Over the door of his Pentagon office is hung a crude spear. A neat card beside it reads: Weapon of World War IV.

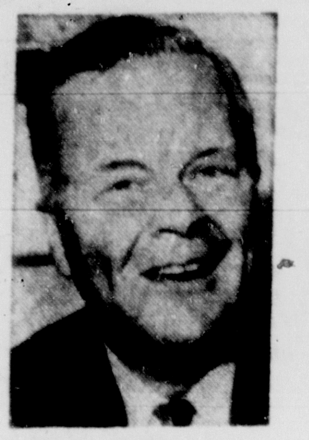
York's job is to prevent World War III by stimulating, developing and assaying weapons so awesome that the Soviet Union will lose what must be its temptation to attempt a saturation bombing of the U.S. and our bases overseas.

He tries to remain above the battle between the Democratic Congress and the Republican administration whose military spokesman is Defense Secretary Neil McElroy.

"I know it's serious," the big, crew-cut young scientist told me. "But it's not in my bailiwick. Of course, it's impossible not to form opinions or to ask questions in the light of testimony before Congress.

"For example, it seems to me that the important thing in this whole argument is not how many weapons we need now but how many would be left after, and if, we take the first blow. So we're concentrating on a retaliatory force made up of just about everything that can deliver a warhead. Where and how they'll be delivered, if they have to be delivered, is none of my business. My job is simply to provide them. The military takes over from that point.

"This office now has other jobs, notably control of developing or coordinating the development of the defense of the country. Thus we've inherited what is called SAGE, the system of computating, tracking and determining the trajectory of ICBMS which might be headed our way.



Roy Johnson
... projects' aide

We're also charged with setting up what will be called BMEWS — ballistic missile early warning system."

Dr. York explained that the present and costly DEW Line was built on the assumption that Russia might launch a manned - bomber attack against the U.S. over the North Pole. It is incapable of detecting the weapon which replaced the Red air force's bomber squadrons in the affections of the Kremlin's planners — the monstrous intercontinental ballistic missiles which Soviet Defense Chief Marshal Malinovsky claims can hit any U.S. city or base overseas.

"Contracts have been let for the installation of bigger and longer-range radar sights to take care of this," Dr. York said casually, giving no target date on when they'd be completed. He spoke comfortingly, too, of the Army's U.S.-based Nike Ajax and Hercules, guided ground-to-air anti-aircraft missiles with respective effective ranges of about 25 to 50 miles, and the Nike Zeus, a big anti-missile missile which is "in the development stage."

We asked him about the Air Force's Minuteman, a solid fuel ICBM intended to replace the Atlas and Titan as America's No. 1 long-range military missile.

York shrugged. "The Minuteman won't come along until well in to the '60's," he said. Its appearance won't mean an end to liquid fuel missiles such as the Atlas and Titan or perhaps even larger ones, York noted.

"The liquid fuel missiles will always be more efficient at the job of lifting big objects into orbit or space," he said, and added soberly, "or big warheads. Militarily, 'they'll have to give way to the Minuteman or something like it. We'll be able to store Minutemen, launch them in minutes rather than hours, move them here and there with only a fraction of the trouble and cost."

We asked Dr. York if man, homo sapiens, had any role in his office's plans for the future.

"Man has been eliminated from the flying part of the program," he said placidly, as if disposing of a fly. "But there will be work for him to do, naturally. The vehicle won't need him, but what about the decision to fire it, aim it? Man will have to make those hard decisions. Once in flight, computers will take over because they can think faster than man can."

We wondered whether the Russians had a counterpart of the Defense Research and Engineering Division.

"Of course," he said. "The Russians are well-armed, capable. I think they're beginning to underestimate us a bit. Our arms are not 'too short,' as Marshal Malinovsky said. We acknowledge that his arms are good long arms.

"But we're catching up in the long-range field, and in most fields we're ahead on the overall problem of defense of the nation.

William Holaday
... guided missiles

"We're behind in long range missiles for a simple reason. We started behind them. But we're not as far behind as we were.

"The Russians started immediately after the war, duplicating the 200-mile German V2s. Then they worked their way up through the thrusts slowly but surely until they had their ICBMs. It was a natural succession. We jumped all the way from our 200-mile Redstone to Atlas. Or tried to.

"But on the whole I think the Department of Defense has done a crackerjack job. And we're far from finished."

Rear Adm. J. T. Hayward, the Navy's Director of Research and Development, has his own views on the question of the relative brain-power of U.S. and U.S.S.R. scientists and designers.

"Has anybody ever looked into the question of why the Russians have better rocket engines than we do in the U.S.?" He asked Sen. Johnson's missiles subcommittee.

"If you go back in Russian history — and I attribute a lot of the credit to their Academy of Science — they made a basic technical decision a long time ago to decentralize their research and development.

"There is one man in Russia who has nothing to do but make the best rocket engines. That's all he does. He has a dual incentive. If he does not make the best rocket engines he gets shot. If he does, he gets lots of money and he is a wheel.

"We've gone the other way. Look at the ICBM. The Russian Academy of Science right after the war decided to go ahead and try to perfect one. We waited for a breakthrough by the Atomic Energy Commission on how to package a small atomic or an H-bomb. The Russians didn't care whether they had a warhead of 20 tons or 20 megatons. . . "

Adm. Hayward spoke of the heavy task of "selling" new developments.

"If I come up with a glamorous weapons system and can put the news on the front pages, I get what I want. But when I try to get money or support for a solar battery, let's say, then I have a real tough time. This system has made congenital liars out of people like myself, trying to get money.

"This is where the Russians are ahead of us. But, of course, there are other reasons," he continued. "Actually they have some very famous firsts in rockets. The rocket staging business was one of Russia's firsts. They are good scientists. If you look at the table of elements that you see on all physicists' walls, Mendeleev, in 1857, was the man who put that table together.

"I don't want to leave the impression that all Russians are 12 feet tall. They put their pants on just like you and I do," he said to the senators, "and I think we can beat them."

But, frankly, some in Washington are beginning to wonder.

Annual Aid Howl Is Heard

By EDWIN A. LAHEY
Chief Of Our Washington Bureau

LAHEY

WASHINGTON — The regular annual revelations of stealing in the military assistance program have brought the regular annual congressional threat to curtail this program.

"We may cut the whole Latin American military assistance program out," said Rep. Barratt O'Hara (D., Ill.) member of a House Foreign Affairs subcommittee which began a critical examination of this phase of mutual security. O'Hara, as well as other members of the House Foreign Affairs group, was angry over revelations by another foreign affairs subcommittee that the theft of U.S. property was still a happy custom among our friends and allies abroad.

This subcommittee, headed by Rep. Thomas D. Morgan (D., Pa.), said that it had evidence of theft in the military assistance program, but that it would not give taxpayers the details, because the evidence has been classified as secret by the State Department and the Department of Defense.

"There must be some collussion somewhere," said O'Hara, "and when this subcommittee report comes before the full House Committee on Foreign Affairs, I intend to get some answers."

This year's regular annual report of stealing did not indicate in any way that larceny was found in the Latin American military assistance operation. But members of Congress are skeptical of this branch of the aid program for other reasons, one of which is the belief that military assistance in Latin America is a WPA project for colonels.

The Latin American military assistance program takes about 35 million dollars per year.

Twelve countries share in this aid. The country by country distribution is a secret, like so many other things about military assistance. But it is known that Brazil gets the greatest share of the Latin American military assistance.

Lemuel C. Shepherd, chairman of the Inter-American Defense Board, was the first witness at a series of executive sessions at which the House Foreign Affairs Committee is taking a critical look at Latin American military assistance.

Iran Abrogates Red Troop Pact

TEHRAN —(AP)— Iran has notified the Soviet Union it now regards as invalid the articles in a 1921 treaty allowing Soviet troops to enter Iran under certain conditions, Deputy Foreign Minister Javad Sadr announced Monday.

Articles five and six of the 38-year-old Soviet-Iranian agreement gave the Russians the right to send troops into Iran if the Soviet Union was threatened from bases on Iranian territory.

Soviet troops entered Northern Iran during World War II under this agreement.

The Iranian denunciation of the articles comes after a Soviet propaganda campaign against Iran that stems from the recent breakdown of Soviet-Iranian talks aimed at a new agreement.

Iranian officials have said the 1921 agreement applied specifically to a possible threat to the young Soviet state from White Russians and from an Armenian anti-Communist party called the Dashnaks. Neither of these threats could now apply, they said.

Sadr said the two articles refer specifically to possible attack against the Soviet revolution.

Iran is negotiating a military defense agreement with the U.S.

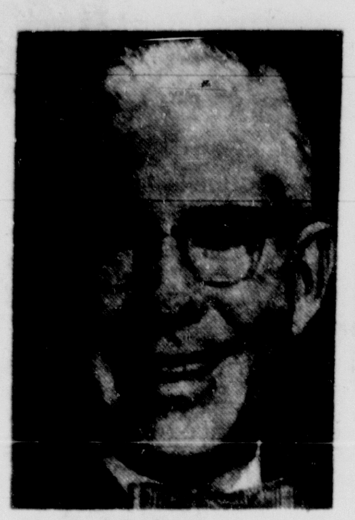
Church Council Names Head



Donald C. Swanson
. . . plans interviews

Donald C. Swanson Monday was named executive director of the Greater Miami Council of Churches.

The 47-year-old South Dade citrus grower retired two years ago as an executive of a Chicago public relations fund-raising consulting firm.

A lay member of the South Dade Christian Church in Homestead, Swanson steps into the key job of the council which has been vacant for two years because of a policy dispute between the old board of directors and the former executive director, the Rev. Wilfred P. Harman.

The Rev. William C. Wahl filled in as interim director and maintained the basic council program during a period of policy and financial readjustment.

Swanson was selected by the board of directors which for the first time is dominated by lay leaders.

A native of Nebraska, Swanson was with the firm of Beaver Associates for more than 20 years and specialized in fund-raising projects for churches, church hospitals, YMCA organizations, and similar groups in 22 states.

The father of an eight-year-old girl and a four-year-old boy, he lives with his wife and family at Tropical Acres, a grove on Farmlife Rd. near Silver Palm St., about six miles north of Homestead.

"My first project will be to interview 100 ministers and lay leaders on a list of questions to find out what they want the council to do and what they don't want it to do," Swanson said.

He said he would talk to representatives of churches which are members of the council and also to those whose churches are not members.

Swanson added that he will not try to impose any pattern used in other areas upon the council but will try to make the program fit the needs and desires of the local churches.

He asserted, however, that he hopes to make the council predominantly a lay organization.

A group of laymen already has underwritten a minimum budget of $25,000 for this year.

Aim High, Al, and You Might Wind Up With a Lady!

By ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN: Girls of today smoke, swear, drink in bars, wear trousers, drive motorcycles and work alongside men in factories. Yet they feel insulted if they are not offered a seat on the bus. They complain the American male is rude. They say they want to be treated like ladies. Yet not one of the girls I take out will permit me to open a car door or help her with her coat.

ANN

When I tired to assist a young woman who was struggling to retrieve an earring which had fallen behind a piano, she pushed me aside and said, "Thank heavens I still have my health!"

Last week I rose when my date returned from the powder room, She said, "Where are you going?" I said, "Nowhere." She asked, "Why are you standing?" When I replied it was good manners to do so, she said, "Boy, are you square. Knock it, Clyde." (My name is Al).

Have manners gone out of style? What's the word? — Al

Dear Clyde — I mean Al! Manners are still very much in style, and ladies still like to be treated like ladies. The big question is, where do you find these piano-movers you've been taking out? I suggest you raise your sights and take out girls who appreciate a gentleman.

DEAR ANN: I've been married eight years and have three active children. My husband gets home from work at 4:45 in the afternoon. I'm rarely finished with the housework and dinner preparation by that time. He thinks I should drop everything the minute he walks into the house and make love to him.

When I tell him I have work to do, or I'm too tired, he acts like a three-year-old. He pouts and sulks, throws things around and slams doors. Sometimes he even walks out of the house and goes to the tavern for a beer.

What can I do with a man who is so childish and selfish? —JAN

Dear Jan: I suggest you reorganize your housework, sneak in a nap after lunch so you won't be tired, or just let a few things go.

There's more to being a good wife than waxing the linoleum.

DEAR ANN: I was very much in love with a girl before I left for the Navy. She was only 18 (I was 21) but I thought she was mature and knew what she wanted. She wrote wonderful letters and I dreamed of marrying her when I got out of the service.

Last week I was discharged. She met me at the bus depot, with my folks. She looked heavier and older, and didn't seem quite so gay. That night she told me she had had a baby less than six weeks before I got home. She says she was secretly married and divorced, but I don't believe it.

My folks say she's a tramp, and ran with every salesman who passed through town. They knew about the baby but didn't want to write me. When I asked her why she didn't write, she said she wanted to tell me in person.

I can't bring myself to look at the baby. She wants to get married right away. I'm heartsick and undecided. What is your advice? — AWAY TOO LONG

Don't get married right away. Date others (and this one, too, if you feel like it) for at least six months. She sounds like a fifth-rate marriage risk at best. Watch out.

DEAR ANN: I was intrigued by the account of the young lady who was hit with the Buffalo telephone book. Please advise, was it the classified or unclassified edition? — 21

Dear 21: What a question! Unclassified, of course!

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Miami Herald, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Real Pay TV Could Top Brand We Pay for Now

JOHN CROSBY—About TV

COSTS ARE BECOMING an awful problem on television. Gads, I remember way back when the Milton Berle Show — the whole hour, including musicians, writers, chorus girls, guest stars, and Berle — came to $17,000 a week.

Today you can hardly get the dog act for that. Today you can hardly get anything for $17,000 except prolonged commercials on day-time television.

CROSBY

Sure, television is graced by an occasional Hamlet" or "For Whom the Bell Tolls." But increasingly, the specials and even the regulars like "Playhouse 90" are falling behind their budgets. Television more and more is in an era of deficit financing like government. Sometimes the deficits are fairly formidable, too. Eventually, they will be downright frightening.

Already "See It Now" has vanished, mostly though not solely because it was too expensive.

The other serious operations on television — most of them anyway — are sustained by deficit financing that cannot go on forever.

However, even apart from the shows that have disappeared altogether, like "See It Now," the rising problem of cost has cut the quality of television in less spectacular ways.

* * *

ALREADY, A GOOD MANY writers, including several who started in television, said they won't write for TV because TV can't afford them. That applies also to actors.

To get a cast like that in "For Whom the Bell Tolls" you have to go way over your budget. If the best writers are unobtainable you must take lesser writers and get a lesser script.

All of which leads me to ask the question aloud that I have been asking myself for a long time: Can the advertisers afford television much longer?

Or, to put it another way, can it afford good television, which is what we are primarily concerned with here?

Sure, the advertiser can afford to turn on the network and fill it almost uninterruptedly with commercials, as is now being done on daytime television.

Or, it could fill the night time air with garbage—Westerns and parlor games.

* * *

BUT IS THIS enough? It's not enough for me. I am increasingly in favor of pay television, because I think it is the only solution to the interesting problems.

I have never been naive enough to suppose that pay TV would automatically open the flood gates to operas, symphonies, and really worthwhile things. Let's not delude ourselves with great expectations. There will be plenty of junk on pay TV, too.

But at least there will be plenty of money to put on decent dramas. Actors we got; writers we got; directors we got; and the creative energy of this country is at white heat.

All we haven't got is money, at least on television we haven't.

I would dearly love to see a top producer like Fred Coe given enough money to pull together all the elements he needs in writing and acting and then thrown into competition with the junk merchants at the box office.

If it were a question of paying a quarter to see a "Playhouse 90" (or a top drawer two hour live drama), as against paying a quarter to see "I've Got a Secret," who do you suppose would win?

And, you can't argue with the cash register. Ratings, I'm convinced, are hogwash, but you can't dismiss the cash register that lightly.

* * *

TELEVISION SHOULD be restored to the hands of the showmen instead of the advertisers. Again, this is not necessarily Nirvana. There have been some awfully shoddy, sensational, cheapjack showmen.

But at least the aim of any showman is to entertain, not simply to sell goods. Just the absence of commercials would add so much to some shows. Already good directors are driven out of their wits by inserting underarm deodorant advertisements in the middle of tender, dramatic scenes.

When the under-arm commercials become the price of survival, then your serious writer and director leaves the medium altogether.

Why not pay TV? Well the chief cry against it is that it is un-American. Free broadcasting is the American tradition. But is any television really free?

They add the cost of "As the World Turns" to the soap chips. And I don't even like "As the World Turns."

I'm forced to pay for a program I don't want — and so are you. This isn't free TV; this is pay TV, and you don't have any control over what you're paying for.

* * *

I DON'T THINK sponsored television will disappear altogether, either. If you wanted to play "Concentration" or to watch Dick Clark's teen-agers dancing to rock 'n' roll music, or to see "Secret Storm," it would have to be on free television because no one in his right mind would pay to see those things.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
Pass	1♣	Pass	1♥
Pass	3♥	Pass	4♥
Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Five of ♠.

In today's hand West, a player far above the tyro class lost a game to his opponents because of a technical error in the choice of a lead.

Against the natural contract of four hearts, West opened the five of spades and declarer won with the ace. Declarer's first play was to attack trumps and West took the second round of that suit. It was quite apparent that a shift to diamonds was mandatory, for no more tricks were available in the major suits, and even if partner held the king of clubs, that suit would yield only one defensive trick. Since the diamond suit was the only source of tricks, West properly shifted to it, but in doing so unfortunately selected the orthodox lead of the fourth best.

Declarer played low from the dummy, and East had no choice but to win with the king. At this point defenders' hopes went up in smoke, for all that was left to them was the king of clubs.

West's choice of the four of diamonds with which to attack that suit was actually unsound. While it is true that East, a seasoned campaigner, would have played the nine of diamonds, third hand, had he been blessed with that card, unfortunately he had nothing better than the seven with which to guard the king.

West should have concluded that if his partner has the king and two other diamonds, the contract could be defeated irrespective of the location of the nine. If South has that card it is sandwiched in between West's ten and eight and for playing purposes should be presumed to be in West's hand. West should, therefore, lead as tho he held Q 10 9 8. The lead of the ten would have yielded the defense two diamond tricks. If dummy plays the jack East wins with the king and returns the suit to trap South's nine. If dummy plays low East does likewise.

RCAF Holding The 'Dew' Line

OTTAWA —(P)— Royal Canadian Air Force officers now control operations of the DEW (Distant Early Warning) radar line in the Canadian Arctic, Defense Minister Randolph Pearkes told the House of Commons.

He said fewer than 20 U.S. Air Force officers remain on the line, built as a joint defense project of the U.S. and Canada, and they will be replaced as more Canadians are trained.

Legislators Split on Racing Cut

By JOHN B. McDERMOTT
Herald Political Writer

Dade Legislators split Monday on a proposal to cut racing to a five-day week.

A plea was made that "Miami businessmen want a chance to capitalize on the tourist business one day a week."

Legislators were unanimous, however, on two other proposals which also had a race track flavor.

They agreed to sponsor laws designed to cripple big-time, illegal wire service operations of bookmaking syndicates and to make more elastic the search-and-seizure law used against bookies.

State Attorney Richard Gerstein sponsored the anti-bookie bills.

The second round of hearings will be held today, starting at 10 a.m., in the Civic Center building on NW 12th Ave.

The five-day racing week proposal was offered by Erny Fannotto, a professional golfer who heads a "Voters and Taxpayers Political League" here.

Sen. Joe Eaton said he felt five-day racing "might be a good thing" although he felt Fannotto should back up his argument with expert studies of economists.

Rep. George Hollahan said he agreed. However, he predicted the legislature would turn it down in committee.

Rep. Cliff Herrell and Rep David Eldredge both opposed changing to a five-day week.

Thomas N. Gates
. . . 'completely ready'

U.S. Navy Prepared, Gates Says

JACKSONVILLE —(UPI)— U.S. Navy Secretary Thomas N. Gates said Monday the Navy was "completely ready all over the world" for total warfare should it break out.

Gates, making an informal tour of local Navy installations, said the Navy's readiness was obvious from its recent operations in Lebanon when the six fleet was ordered to the strife-torn country last year.

The 52-year-old cabinet member, who will resign from his post sometime in June, also pointed to the Navy's preparedness in its missile program.

In an impromptu news conference in front of the local naval operations quarter-deck, Gates cited the top priority Polaris missile program which calls for rocket launching from submarines.

Doped, He Says; Asks $200,000

A jewelry salesman charged in a $200,000 Circuit Court suit Monday that he was doped and threatened with burial in cement while being euchered out of his sample case of jewelry worth $8,232.

The suit was filed by Jack Tischler, against "Crying Joe" Adjmi, Emile Halfon, and Jack Koslow, who allegedly kept him in their Dresden Galleries, 225 Lincoln Rd., Miami Beach, from 11 a.m. until 11 p.m. Jan. 19 to get him to sign a bill of sale for the jewelry.

During that time he had no food or rest, Tischler said. They brought him a soft drink and he "began to feel happy and believes he was under the influence of a drug."

The suit says they gave him a promissory note and phony orders for $100,000 worth of jewelry, and put him on an airplane for New York. There he was promptly fired by Allied Jewelry Co. He said he thought the promissory note was a check.

When he returned for his jewelry, Adjmi had him arrested on a charge of assault and battery telling him he would have him "put in cement and dumped into the ocean," the suit alleges.

Senate Tables It

Arkansas House Votes Faubus Bill

LITTLE ROCK — (UPI) — The Arkansas House of representatives Monday overwhelmingly voted Gov. Orval Faubus the power to appoint three new members to the deadlocked Little Rock School Board.

It was tabled, however, in the Senate.

The six-member School Board is deadlocked because three members are pro-Faubus and the rest are opposed. The split occurred in a regular school election last Dec. 6.

Faubus asked Rep. T. E. Tyler of Pulaski County to introduce the bill to allow the "packing" of the School Board. It passed the lower chamber Monday 71 to 23.

About 30 women, most of them members of the Women's Emergency Committee to Open Our Schools, marched on the statehouse Monday to protest the bill, which they called "dictatorial."

The women buttonholed Tyler on the steps of the statehouse and fired a fussilade of questions at him about the bill.

"Can't you stand on your own two feet?" screamed one woman.

"This is the most un-American thing I have ever seen," said another.

"Did Gov. Faubus tell you how to write this bill?" asked a woman.

Tyler was telling the women that Faubus had nothing to do with the bill when a secretary emerged from the statehouse, and told Tyler that Faubus wanted him on the telephone.

"This is an absolutely ridiculous power the governor is asking," charged Rep. Sterling Cockrill Jr., of Little Rock.

"It makes as much sense for the governor to make appointments to break a deadlock on the School Board as to appoint new senators and reresentatives to break a deadlock on an appropriation bill."

Just Dripped Away

IPSWICH, England —(UPI) — Farmer John Leeks reported that his 60-feet wide pond vanished down a three - inch hole.

No surgery needed to Put Nerves to Sleep-Stop Pain of Swollen Piles in Minutes!
Remarkable compound ends painful misery . . . while reducing the swelling and promoting healing of raw tissues!

Pain, itching of swollen piles are torture. You may think there's no relief without an operation. Yet . . . thousands have discovered how to stop this nagging discomfort in minutes — and without surgery! A remarkable compound you use at home makes you feel worlds better, right away! Not only reduces swelling but stops pain at once, promotes healing of inflamed tissues too!

Preparations that just act to "shrink" piles can't offer complete symptomatic relief. For real comfort, fast, you need this more complete medication, called Stainless Pazo. In doctors' tests, patients reported immediate relief of discomfort. That's because Stainless Pazo combines the most effective ingredients known for piles. Thus works 3 ways at once: 1. Anesthetic action stops pain, itching in minutes . . . puts rectal nerves to sleep, thus relaxing muscle spasms that cause discomfort. 2. Reduces tissue swelling, congestion . . . protruding parts shrink. 3. Promotes healing of raw tissues. You get immediate new comfort while Nature's own healing magic goes to work.

Supports Kremlin on Berlin Proposal

Red China Pledges Allout Aid if East Germany is Attacked

The New York Times Service

HONG KONG — Vice premier and Defense Minister Marshal Peng Teh-Huai said Sunday that Communist China would regard any "imperalist" assault on East Germany as an "attack on the whole Socialist camp" and would give "all-out support to defending the army of the German Democratic Republic."

Speaking at a Peiping reception given by the East German military attache, Col. Johannes Weinhold, Peng reiterated Peiping's support of Soviet proposals to make West Berlin a demilitarized free city and hold a peace conference of all nations who fought Nazi Germany in World War II.

He called the Soviet proposals "greatly beneficial to reunification of Germany and to the security of Europe and world peace."

"If the western countries, headed by the U.S., unreasonably refuse to accept these proposals or still contrive in one way or another to turn West Germany and West Berlin into bases of aggression against East Germany and other Socialist countries, they are sure to meet shameful failure," the defense minister asserted.

The Town Crier

BY Jack Bell

BELL

RICHARD PIERCE is a senior at Miami High School — a thinking senior. Listen:

"A quiet Friday morning: the sun shining, people going to work, children on the way to school, dogs and cats running and playing. People striving for a good life, to better their community, working for the American way: freedom of speech, religion.

"But serenity can be shattered. A school is blown up, a church threatened, people beaten. That's right, mister, don't let those Communists enforce the Constitution.

"It has been a long hot day. Go home. Greet the family. Have a beer. Call the boys. When is the meeting? Tonight, now! Get your cloak, your cloak of authority. And don't forget the mask. Pick up the bums, the mental defects. Get on to the meeting. Look at your leader . . . great man . . . knows how to hate . . . praise him for leading you. After all, you've no mind. Absorb it all: blind hatred. It's yours for the asking. When is the next bombing or beating? Get drunk with the rest of the animals. Go home; even the little ones must be taught to hate.

"Live long. Have a blast. Spread hatred and corruption. Grow old — and die. You've been a good man — says you. Into the promised land you go."

Gulfstream Park opens Wednesday, in far different fashion than the inaugural in 1939. That sad meeting ran just three days. Horace Wade of Gulfstream tells me that Robert Dienst of the Beula Park, Ohio, track, took motion pictures of that first day crowd jumping the fence.

"His movie shows the famous ice skater, Sonja Henie, jumping the fence," Horace said.

Why shore, me lad; Sonja had to be inside to cut the ribbon to open the track officially, and couldn't get through the gate.

Y'know, when I go home there's a huge police dog named Baron and a half-grown boxer, Tami. When they see my little red car it's fair game. When that boxer becomes full grown they're going to take me some evening.

Miami Intriguer Is Nabbed With Canadian Loot

By ARTHUR JOHNSEY
Herald Staff Writer

A 42-year-old Miami soldier of fortune, who once organized a military force against Venezuela, was arrested Monday carrying $136,650 worth of stolen bonds and a cocked automatic.

Edward J. Browder Jr., black-mustached adventurer and son of a Santa Fe Railroad official, was held under $20,000 bond after the FBI picked him up on a downtown street.

—Herald Staff Photo

Edward Browder Jr.
. . . free on bond

At the time of his arrest, said Lee O. Teague, special agent in charge of the Miami FBI District, he was preparing to negotiate sale of the stolen securities, part of the loot from a $2,250,000 burglary.

The suspect was using the name John Smyth, Teague said, and carried the securities and pistol in a briefcase.

Teague said the FBI learned Browder contacted several persons trying to sell the bonds. Still a dashing figure, the once highly-publicized man of intrigue in Latin American revolutions appeared with an attorney before U.S. Commissioner Roger Davis who set a temporary $50,000 bond.

Davis will give him a hearing on March 16.

The lawyer, Louis A. Sabatino, emphasized there was no charge Browder had any connection with the burglary itself. It took place at Brockville, Ontario, last May 3, one of a series of huge securities thefts in Ontario and Quebec.

A Brockville bank was robbed by five men who hammered through a two-foot brick wall to reach a vault where millions of dollars worth of stocks, bonds, cash and jewelry were kept.

Browder is the 12th man to be arrested in connection with the burglaries. The FBI said $386,650 worth of Canadian securities have been recovered.

Browder got an 18-month sentence in 1948 for his part in a plot to bomb Caracas, Venezuela.

A year earlier he had been found not guilty in Miami Federal Court on a charge of conspiracy to transport planes to Cuba for use in an invasion of the Dominican Republic.

Teague said Browder has lived periodically in Miami since 1948. For the past nine months he has lived at 801 NE 83rd St.

Birthday Turns Into Funeral

Little William Allen would have been two years old today. But instead of planning a celebration, his family will be planning his funeral.

WILLIAM

Mrs. George Edwin Allen of 876 NW 12th St., Homestead, slipped away from his home at noon Monday, crossed a busy highway and somehow got into an apartment house pool. Less than an hour later, his screaming grandmother, Mrs. Virgil Lott, of 422 NW Ninth St., Homestead, found his lifeless body floating in the deserted pool.

Two nurses who joined in the search tried to revive the boy with artificial respiration but he was pronounced dead a short time later at James Archer Smith Hospital.

It was not determined if any of the fenced pool's three gates were open at the time, but Air Force Sgt. Ronny Baker, who lives nearby, said another two-year-old often climbs over the fence.

Man Robbed Of $6,500

An all-or-nothing bandit took $6,500 from a mortgage broker in a Coral Gables parking lot Monday after turning down an offer of half by the pleading victim.

"I explained to him it represented half of my life savings," Charles E. Horner, of Kendall, told police after the robbery. "I asked him if he wouldn't take just half."

Horner said that he had withdrawn the money from his account before eating lunch. Returning to his car in a lot at Catalonia Ave. and Ponce de Leon Blvd., the bandit surprised him from the back seat.

'Quick Draw' Artist Hits His Visitor

A 26-year-old night watchman shot a man he had just met Monday night while showing off a "fast draw" holster he designed for his .38 caliber revolver.

The victim, Leroy Pierce, 23, of 5867 SW Fourth St., was treated for a bullet wound in his lower abdomen. His condition was described as fair.

The watchman, George Moore, of 3745 SW Eighth Pl., told Metro Detective Irwin Plavnick the shooting was "a terrible accident."

Pierce visited Moore's office at the Rockdale Concrete plant, 2800 SW 71st Ave., with a friend.

Moore entertained Pierce by showing him how his new strapless holster worked. He drew once and Pierce smiled. He drew again and — boom!

Banana Boat's Crew Rescued

A Japanese merchant vessel notified the Coast Guard here Monday that it had picked up the 12 crewmen of a grounded Miami freighter and was proceeding with them to Tampa.

FBI Man Leading Candidate for Job

By JUANITA GREENE
and DOM BONAFEDE
Herald Staff Writers

A City Hall shakeup, which led to the sacking of City Manager E. A. Evans, threatened Monday to sweep Police Chief Walter Headley and other municipal department bosses out of their jobs.

At the same time, it seemed likely to crush much of the official opposition to Metro.

Already mentioned as a successor to Headley is Charles Weeks, former head of the Miami FBI office, who has been transferred to Louisville, Ky.

Mayor Robert King High, leader of a victorious triumvirate which included Commissioners Otis Shiver and George DuBreuil, clearly indicated that if Headley doesn't resign, pressure will be brought to force him out of his post.

Walter Headley
. . . next?

James High
. . . resigns

Ray Williams
. . . he'll retire

However, Headley, a political ally of Evans, declared he has no intention of resigning.

"This doesn't change my official position at all," Headley maintained.

Severely crippled as a result of Monday's political squall was the Dade League of Municipalities, chief opposition force to Metro government.

It was Evans' alliance with the league which prompted his dismissal by the commission majority.

Also predicted under the new deal at City Hall:

THE TRANSFER of all traffic cases from city courts to Metro courts.

THE END of resistance to Metro auto inspections in the City of Miami.

Up to now, the city has jealously clung to its right to try traffic cases and issue its own auto stickers despite Metro laws and court rulings which transferred these functions to the new countywide government.

Meanwhile, speculation arose as to the successor of Commissioner James High, who quit the board in a huff following the bouncing of Evans.

The commission must either appoint a successor within 10 days to fill out Commissioner High's term until this November, or it must hold an election within 30 days.

Prevailing opinion was that an appointee would be named.

Declared Mayor High:

"I would like to fill the vacancy with an outstanding Miamian with the right concept of government; one who puts civic responsibility ahead of personal whim."

High said that the commission had not yet discussed a fill-in appointee.

There was some question as to whether Commissioner High's verbal resignation was legal.

The city attorney's official upheld the resignation but added the commission must accept or reject it formally.

Later informed of the opinion, Commission High remarked:

"Does that bunch think they can tell me I can't quit?"

Meanwhile, the shadow of the chopping block hung over the heads of several municipal department officials, all considered a part of Evans' "team."

These include City Engineer Arthur Darlow, Slum Clearance Director Frank Kelly and Building Inspector Ellis Knox.

If Headley gets his walking papers, several top-echelon police officers can expect to be shuttled to posts of lesser responsibilities.

High on the purge list are Detective Chief Tom Lipe; Detective Capt. R. W. Tanner; Capt. Lee Napier; Lt. Otis Huttoe; Asst. Chief J. A. Youell; Police Accountant Lt. Adam Klemkowski, and Lt. Charles Price, Headley's personal assistant.

Headley can decide to remain in the department in a secondary job if he is toppled. Chances are, however, he would elect to leave the force altogether.

Under law Headley cannot be fired "without cause."

"It is my hope he will resign so we can get a new shuffle among the top brass in the police department," Mayor High told The Herald.

The mayor and Headley have frequently been at odds over bolita and bookie enforcement in the city.

Mayor High said he was in favor of calling in an FBI man to take Headley's place, rather than bring an officer up from the ranks.

With Commissioner James High's resignation, the commission will lose its strongest anti-Metro voice.

And if the commission abandons its fight against Metro, the leadership will go to Miami Beach, still a stronghold of opposition to the new government.

Asked whether Miami would consider transferring anything beside the traffic courts and tag inspections to Metro at this time, Shiver replied:

"Let's see what progress we make on the courts first."

Discussions on this project, said Shiver, will be started with Ira Willard, the new Miami City Manager, this week.

Tough and Amiable 'Dutch' Samples Miami's 'Hot Seat'

By PHIL FORTMAN
Herald Staff Writer

This is the man who's moving into the hottest seat in Miami:

They call him "Dutch," and he's a big, amiable guy with tough policies and a southern drawl.

Less than 10 years ago he was city manager for a little Virginia town called Hopewell.

Today Ira F. (Dutch) Willard takes over as Miami's city manager — with a background as attorney, soldier, banker and city manager. He has a reputation as a diplomat, but also a record of running his own show.

Selected from a field of 84 applicants, he came to Coral Gables in 1956, from Alexandria, Va., where he was city manager for four years.

Before that, the man who got his nickname from a childhood incident, was city manager for four years in Hopewell.

The nickname "Dutch" goes back to World War I — twenty-five years before Willard was to go on to become a U.S. Army lieutenant colonel.

As a seven-year-old in Union, S.C., he fell in love with a pair of wooden shoes which a soldier neighbor brought back from Holland as souvenirs.

He clumped around in those wooden shoes so long that the neighbors started calling him Dutch — and it stuck.

In 1934 Willard completed his pre-law studies at the University of South Carolina. He won a law degree from Southeastern University, Washington, D.C., in 1938.

World War II found Willard leaping from lieutenant to leiutenant colonel in five years.

The Willards, Dutch and Mary, are the parents of four children, and have two grandchildren. They live at 902 Catalonia Ave., Coral Gables.

A man who has never been anti-Metro, Willard was mentioned as a county manager possibility before O. W. Campbell was selected.

His policy as Coral Gables city manager was to let the commission set the policies — and leave the rest to him.

As manager of the Gables, Willard held weekly staff meetings to brief his personnel on commission decisions — a policy he'll probably bring to Miami.

His concept of a mayor has always been as a goodwill builder, a figurehead.

His avowed policy has been "the best possible municipal services at the lowest possible cost."

Willard also is widely known in his field, having been active in the International City Managers' Association.

Airman's Woes Are Dissolving

By EDDIE GONG
and JOY WINANS
Herald Staff Writer

Cynics say people forget you when you're in trouble.

But for Airman Harry Frydman, it doesn't seem true anymore.

FRYDMAN

Frydman, who saw his parents marched off to their deaths in a Nazi concentration camp in his native Germany, is serving a six-month jail term at the Homestead Air Force Base for desertion.

Last Saturday, Miami Congressman Dante Fascell appealed to Air Force Secretary James Douglas to review the desertion conviction because of Frydman's good moral character and honesty.

But Sunday, his wife, Sylvia, got a "final" collection notice on her house mortage on their $11,000 project home at 11050 SW 52nd St. She gets $124 a month to support their family.

And then their 1950 model car broke down so she couldn't take their three children to visit Frydman at the air base.

But Miamians, reading of the Frydman family's plight in The Herald, came to the family's aid.

Monday morning a woman drove up to the Frydman home and deposited, two large parcels of grocers at the doorstep.

William Freeman, of 5301 NW Seventh Ave. called and offered to repair the family car. While Mrs. Frydman was figuring a way to get the car towed to Freeman's garage, Miami Car Dealer Anthony Abraham telephoned.

Now the family car is in Abraham's car agency, being completely overhauled.

Abraham then paid the February mortgage payment on the house. And Robert Mackle, of Mackle Brothers, Co. notified Mrs. Frydman not to worry about losing her home. He has taken care of the March mortgage payment.

"It's simply fabulous," said Mrs. Frydman. "I never thought anything like this could happen to us."

In Washington, Secretary Douglas' aide told Rep. Fascell that Frydman's case would be up for review in a week or 10 days.

When the airman was told what had happened, he was visibly moved.

"Oh, it's too much . . . I want to thank everyone," he said.

Limousines Are Backed

Miami Beach's Chamber of Commerce has asked the city council to retain the present limousine service between the beach and International Airport.

The chamber has joined hotel owners and airlines in asking that the limousine services not be restricted.

The controversy began several weeks ago when ex-Gov. Fuller Warren, representing a taxi driver's association, asked for laws restricting the limousines.

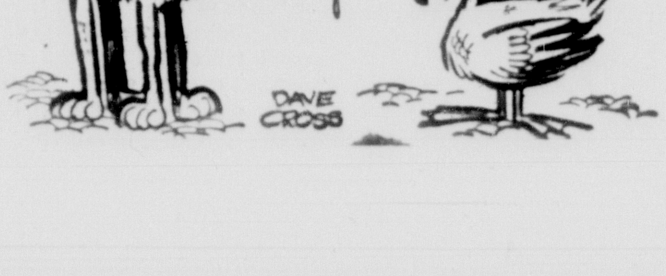
An Easter present that grew up is driving a haughty cocker spaniel to insanity.



DON'T PRESS YOUR LUCK, DUCK!

DAVE CROSS

Jerry, a three-year-old champion cocker who lives at 6751 SW 28th Ter., is being shadowed by a white duck which follows him every time his master, Fred Hueber, lets him out.

But that's not the worst of it.

The white duck, says Hueber, waits until Jerry turns his back, then nips his derriere with her beak and holds on until the yelping dog breaks loose.

Legally this is assault and battery.

"I think she likes Jerry," says Hueber. "She sits by his cage all day long and ogles him."

The lovelorn duck belongs to a neighbor who gave him to his kids for an Easter surprise last year, said Hueber.

Monday night Jerry retaliated. Hueber took him out for his evening walk and the duck pursued.

There was the nip from the rear, a howl, a growl and a quack as Jerry chewed into the duck.

But Hueber separated the pair before mayhem could occur. "Jerry," said Hueber, "looked like a mad dog with a mouth full of white downy feathers."

The duck chewed into Hueber's arm.

"That was close," breathed Jerry's master.

"But where's it going to end," he said, "in the end?"

Old Man Politics Referee in Evans KO

By DOM BONAFEDE
Herald Staff Writer

The sudden eruption which left City Manager E. A. Evans out in the corridor at City Hall Monday was chalked up to pure and simple politics.

Evans, according to insiders at City Hall, had become a liability because of his defiance of Metro and his refusal to light a flame under Police Chief Walter Headley in citywide bolita and bookie cleanup drives.

As one ringside politician put it:

"Commissioners Otis Shiver and George DuBreuil didn't want to be weighed down by Evans so they threw in their lot with Mayor Robert King High."

The combination of the three strange bedfellows was enough to spell the end for Evans — and possibly Headley and others.

Tradition to the contrary, the story behind the City Hall shakeup is not one of whispered conversations and smoke-filled rooms.

The political merger of Mayor High, Shiver and DuBreuil was completed in a few minutes of conversation about three weeks ago.

Shortly afterwards, Mayor High made the first move when he called former Coral Gables City Manager Ira Willard.

This is what happened as Willard recalled Monday:

"Mayor High asked if I'd be interested and I told him I would be if there was a vacancy.

"That was the last I heard of it until he called again last weekend to confirm it and I told him the same thing."

Safe in the knowledge that they could offer a highly-reputable professional to take Evans' place, the three made their move Monday

At no time did Commissioners James High or B. E. Hearn know what was going on.

As staunch and loyal supporters of Evans and Headley, they were not invited to take part in the action.

Actually, the tipoff that Evans was about to be axed came about a week ago at an informal commission meeting.

During a heated discussion a sharp exchange of words flew between Shiver and Evans.

"You want my resignation?" snapped Evans.

"I'd take it in a minute," replied Shiver.

That, according to many insiders, was a prelude to the dam that broke wide open Monday.

He went to see a comedy.

But when he left the movie, tragedy awaited him.

A 12-foot-high brick wall crumpled under lashing winds and crashed down on Silvio D. Piccini, 31, of 4150 SW 13th St.

"It's touch and go," Doctors Hospital said Monday night.

Nurses wouldn't even permit the victim's nearest relatives to see him.

Both Piccini's arms and legs are believed broken. He also suffered multiple internal injuries.

The bachelor insurance agent was headed for his car, parked a few feet from Loew's Riviera Theater, when the wall next door collapsed Sunday night at S. Dixie Hwy. and Yumuri St.

"This is the first time in my 60 years of construction work something like this has ever happened," said S. R. Longo, 2910 Granada Blvd., Coral Gables, builder of the wall.

City building commission officials said the builder had complied with every required safety precaution.

But Longo said more than a dozen flares he and his son set out Friday night — when the wall was first put up — were stolen each morning by vandals.

15 Minutes That Shook City Hall

In 15 crackling minutes Monday, Miami City Manger E. A. Evans was fired, City Commissioner James W. High resigned, Evans' top administrative aide quit, and Ira F. Willard was appointed city manager.

Here is how it happened:

COMMISSIONER OTIS W. SHIVER — "At this time I would introduce a resolution removing Gen. E. A. Evans as city manager of the City of Miami as of today. I would also give one reason only; in my opinion, as long as Mr. Evans is here there can be no cooperation with Metropolitan government. I feel that certain members of the commission, and certain people, have dedicated themselves to oppose it on every front and every inch of ground. On that motion I would request a second and ask for a vote."

MAYOR ROBERT KING HIGH surrendered the chair to COMMISSIONER GEORGE W. DUBREUIL and seconded the motion at 3:30 p.m.

RESOLUTION NO. 30630 — "Be it resolved by the Commission of the City of Miami that Gen. E. A. Evans be and he is, hereby, removed as city manager as of this date."

COMMISSIONER JAMES W. HIGH — "Call the vote."

COMMISSIONER B. E. HEARN — "I am voting 'no' very emphatically because I think the city manager has in every instance carried out the will of a majority of the commission: . . . I want to make the further statement that I don't believe in taxation without representation, and that is definitely, to me, what Metro government is trying to set up for the City of Miami; when the tax bills come out from Metro government . . . the people . . . will see . . . what is happening."

(The resolution passed, with Commissioners Hearn and James High voting against it.)

COMMISSIONER HIGH — "I am tendering my resignation in protest of the politically inspired action of this commission today. I am turning in my resignation as a city commissioner so I can devote full time from here on out until November to make known to the people what has happened here today, and at that time expect to be a candidate again. You can put my resignation as of today also, and add to that, may God help this city and Dade County!"

EVANS — "May I hear the resolution firing E. A. Evans?"

CITY CLERK FRANK CORRELL read it, including the portion setting "as of this date."

EVANS — "Today? That's fine, because if it wasn't, it would have been when I got through talking."

COMMISSIONER SHIVER (turning to Assistant City Manager Ray A. Williams)—"Looks like resignations are in order. Do you hear that, Ray?"

WILLIAMS . . "Since I am eligible for retirement, and have been for a considerable length of time, that I would like to announce that I will apply for immediate retirement. I took this position — I was appointed by Gen. Evans, because it was the city manager's prerogative, and I feel, in order to leave this thing wide open to the commission for whatever action they want to take, that I should withdraw. And I have no desire to serve in any other capacity except as assistant under Gen. Evans."

James W. High left the room at 3:45 with this comment:

"I have no further connection with the city, so I bid you gentlemen goodby and God speed. It will come home to you."

Reuther Sees Rise In Jobless

'59 Auto Work 'Has Hit Peak'

DETROIT — (UPI) — Unemployment will increase in the auto industry before 1960 model cars are introduced, United Auto Workers President Walter P. Reuther told a Senate subcommittee Monday.

Reuther, testifying before the Senate subcommittee on stabilization and production, said employment in the production of 1959 model cars has reached its peak and "can only go downward."

The subcommittee, headed by Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D., Ill.), made Detroit its first stop outside of Washington in an effort to gain support for a bill aimed at putting some of the nation's 4,700,000 unemployed back to work.

Subcommittee hearings on a bill sponsored by Douglas which would provide $389 million for area redevelopment in chronically depressed areas were expected to move to West Virginia today.

Reuther appeared before the subcommittee in support of the bill, although he said it did not go far enough.

The union president said some of the cities which would receive immediate benefits from passage of the bill were Terre Haute and Evansville, Ind.; Waterbury, Conn.; Fall River, Lawrence and Lowell, Mass.; Erie, Johnstown and Hazelton, Pa.; Racine, Wis.; Detroit, Grand Rapids, Flint and Muskegon, Mich., and Providence, R.I.

Senate Unit Rejects Ike's Labor Bill

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Senate Labor Committee Monday beat down 10-3 an attempt to substitute President Eisenhower's labor bill for the measure sponsored by Sen. John F. Kennedy (D., Mass.).

The vote came as the committee held its first closed-door session on the legislation.

Kennedy declined to give the vote but it was learned that the nine Democrats on the group voted solidly along with Sen. John S. Cooper (R., Ky.) to reject the administration's bill.

An aide to Sen. Cooper later explained that Cooper voted against the substitution because neither of the bills had been discussed fully before the Republican amendment was offered, and that his vote does not "prejudice his position" on the bills in the future.

Supporting the bill were Sens. Barry Goldwater (R., Ariz.), Everett M. Dirksen (R., Ill.) and Winston L. Prouty (R., Vt.). Sens. Clifford P. Case (R., N.J.) and Jacob K. Javits (R., N.Y.) were absent.

One other Republican amendment was defeated at the session but Kennedy said the GOP members advised they had about 30 others to offer. This might delay plans to get the bill on the Senate floor by next week.

Stockholders Ask Accounting

Majority stockholders asked Circuit Court Monday for an accounting and receivership of American Air Taxi, Inc., operating airplane taxicabs from Miami International Airport.

The suit, filed by Samuel and Marvin Silberman of New York and Fairleigh Dickinson of New Jersey, says that Charles P. English, president and general manager of the Miami company, is defaulting on payments for new airplanes and jeopardizing the firm's $75,000 assets.

They claim two-thirds ownership and say they lent English the money to buy his stock.

2 Officers Injured in Mill Town

HENDERSON, N.C.—(UPI) — A surging crowd of angry textile strikers carrying baseball bats and sticks clashed with police and state troopers Monday in a fresh outbreak of violence in this tense mill town.

A number of injuries were reported. Two of a force of about 40 police officers were hurt in the near-rioting in the streets.

The crowd of several hundred persons dispersed after about 20 minutes. State Highway Patrol Sgt. R. H. Chadwick, in charge of a force of 22 troopers carrying billy clubs, appealed through a loudspeaker for the crowd to keep order.

The strikers surged into the streets surrounding a car carrying non-striking workers at the end of the afternoon shift.

The trouble erupted near the gates of the South Henderson mill of the Harriet-Henderson Cotton Mills. The mills reopened Feb. 16 after being shut down by a strike called in mid-November by the Textile Workers Union of America (AFL-CIO).

Strikers swarmed off the sidewalks and rushed down the streets. The car was stopped. Police rushed forward.

Authorities shouted, "If they can carry guns, why can't we?"

"I'm going to have my shotgun here tomorrow . . .

"We're supposed to get protection too." Rocks were hurled.

Earlier Monday, authorities investigated reports that gunshots were fired through windows at the mills. Deputy Sheriff L. B. Faulkner said a South Henderson mill employe reported windows broken apparently by bullets.

End Killing, Cuban Civic Group Asks

A Cuban civic organization says their "glorious" rebel army should stop killing the citizens and soldiers of the vanquished Batista regime.

"If there were criminals who killed and tortured people during the ominous dictatorship," says Organizacion Civica Cubana, "they should have been shot within 15 days after the triumph of the revolution."

Propaganda distributed by the organization states that Fidel Castro may have a "shooting complex" because he once received a pardon, "but it is not right that they continue to shoot 20 or 25 citizens every day . . ."

"It isn't just," the group says, "to seek the death penalty for 22 aviators when the real criminals are outside of Cuba.

"It is inhuman to ask for the death penalty for 45 aviation mechanics who have never flown through the air of our republic."

Since the executions began early last month, the unofficial grand total runs to nearly 400 men convicted by the revolutionary courts of "war crimes." These men were killed by firing squads.

Apartment Crammed Full

Under Hoarded Food, Clothes--a Man Died

COHOES, N. Y. — (AP) — A 47-year-old man was found dead Monday beneath clothing, groceries and junk crammed into his four-room apartment in piles that touched the 10-foot-high ceiling.

Some of the clothing was new and there were boxes of unused tools and cartons of unopened canned goods. But there also were old bricks, empty bottles, old pocketbooks and old paint brushes.

A passage wide enough for one person led from front to back of the apartment.

Police and city workers had been digging into the mess for more than five hours and had carted away three truckloads of junk before they found the body of Mieczylaw Domowicz. It was on a cot only 10 feet from where they had started working.

Dinner on the Ground Flushed Them

Spirits in Pisgah's Pulpit!

TALLAHASSEE — (AP) — "Build your church from a firm foundation" advised the speaker at services conducted at a little church in the wildwood.

But the speaker, Sam Teague Jr., said 200 gallons of moonshine whisky found later concealed beneath the pulpit of the old Pisgah Methodist Church wasn't what he had in mind.

The cache was uncovered Sunday when a small boy crawled beneath the building to locate some tables for the monthly dinner on the grounds.

Sheriff's deputies, summoned by Teague over his newly-installed automobile telephone, later nabbed two men who returned to the church and loaded part of the whisky.

The two, Jerry E. Reeves, 37, and Steve A. Edward Jr., 25, of Crawfordville, were charged with moving and concealing moonshine whisky.

The congregation of the church helped in the arrests. They disbanded after the discovery and the two deputies waited in an outdoor building four hours before making the arrests.

The church, located in an isolated area in the northern part of the county, is celebrating its 100th anniversary.

The Rev. James Farr reported that he had noted two strange men driving away when he arrived at the church grounds Sunday morning for services. But he said they appeared friendly and waved to him as they drove off.

British View of Florida

Bright Lights, Golden Future

"Florida is a market that is expanding very fast, even by the American yardstick of the 'colossal.'"

These are the words of the British consul in Miami, David Crichton. He wrote them in a recent issue of the British Board of Trade Journal.

CRICHTON

"Behind the bright lights, the commercial background (of Miami) is solid and promising," Crichton says in a bid for British businessmen to take advantage of "Florida's rich market."

Here is our business community in Florida and in Miami as seen through the eyes of a business-minded man from across the Atlantic. These are excerpts from Crichton's article:

* * *

The "glamour and glitter" of Florida "has tended to hide the fact that the state . . . is, in fact, the fastest growing of all the United States with an economic future that is golden, even by American standards."

* * *

". . . there are two different Floridas—a broad and narrow band in the north which stretches from the Atlantic Ocean almost to New Orleans . . . and the main trunk of the state which thrusts down into the Caribbean Sea and which looks on the map like a small and insignificant thumb protruding from the body of the United States . . ."

* * *

"Florida is growing three times as fast as the rest of the country and, given a similar rate of increase in the future . . . there will be seven million people here in the 1970's."

* * *

"Florida caters for tourists in every income group. Lincoln Road in Miami Beach and Worth Avenue in Palm Beach are two of the 'richest' shopping streets in the world, but for the millions as opposed to the millionaires, there are the big stores and countless small stores and gift shops . . ."

* * *

"Lines of merchandise that sell like hot cakes in Bradford or Brisbane or Bombay may mean absolutely nothing to the American shopper . . ."

* * *

"Any firm which decides to make a start here can be almost certain of getting all the labour it needs."

* * *

"The industrial picture is a confused one . . . but from the confusion emerges a very definite impression that a big operation is under way."

* * *

"Florida is a fine market for both the small car and the sports car . . . and we (the British) seem to be more than holding our own with our competitors."

* * *

"We in the British Consulate here do wish that more thought were given to Florida and in particular that people would come and see for themselves what is to be done."

Banker's Forecast

New Metropolis Is Taking Shape

By STAN JOHNSON
Herald Business Writer

HOLLYWOOD — The invisible line separating Dade and Broward counties will disappear within 25 years, a prominent Broward County banker believes.

"The dozens of small towns from Fort Lauderdale to Miami will eventually become part of Greater Miami" said, Raymond E. Dilg, president of the First National Bank of Hollywood.

DILG

Dilg, a former chairman of 'the State Racing Commission and the dean of Broward County bankers, believes his home town of Hollywood will someday have the same relationship to Miami as its better known namesake in California has to Los Angeles.

He foresees a politically and economically integrated metropolis stretching for 50 miles from Florida City to Fort Lauderdale.

"It's as inevitable as time," Dilg commented. "It may not come in my lifetime, but I believe we'll see it happen within the next 25 years."

Dilg started his banking career in 1921 as a messenger boy for the First National Bank of Miami.

In 1926, the Miami bank took over the First Hollywood Bank at the request of Joseph W. Young, founder of Hollywood. Dilg was sent to Hollywood as an assistant cashier.

In 1935, Dilg and a group of investors headed by Attorney Adrian McCune of Fort Lauderdale bought the bank from its Miami owners. Dilg was named president, and McCune became chairman, a post he still holds.

In that year, he recalls, the bank had total resources of $488,926 including $462,953 in deposits.

Today, the First National of Hollywood has total resources of $31,491,899 and deposits of $29,883,925.

Dilg said the First National's directors have no intention of moving the bank from its present location.

The institution occupies the first two floors of a five-story building that was erected in 1926. The building was designed for eventual expansion to 10 floors.

The bank has 184 feet of frontage behind Hollywood Blvd. on Tyler St. which is to be converted into a double-deck parking area.

New Lincoln Penny Is Only a Cent

Miami Herald-Chicago News Wire

CHICAGO—If you're tightly clutching one of the new Lincoln pennies that appeared Feb. 12, let go. Spend it.

It's not a collector's item.

Although the new design was first issued on Lincoln's 150th birthday anniversary, the coin is not a commemorative, but a regular issue.

As such, it will be around for another 25 years, under federal law governing changes in coin design, a Federal Reserve Bank spokesman said here.

Already 10 million of the pennies, or $100,000 worth, have been circulated through the Reserve Bank in Chicago.

Although causing some raised eyebrows on their first appearance, the pennies are now being accepted calmly by the public, he said.

"After all, it's only a cent," he said. "And what's a cent today?"

Odds on Steel Strike Drop As Buyers Snap Up Stocks

Dow Jones, AP, UPI

The chances of a steel strike later this year are dropping as a result of strike-hedge buying, a trade publication reported Monday.

Steel Magazine said industry observers are not as sure now that there will be a strike.

Consumers have been pressing for everything they can get before July 1, when labor contracts expire, but there has been little, if any, panic in buying, the magazine added.

Louisville: Study in Absentee Ownership

By SYLVIA PORTER

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — Usually, when I visit a city on a business trip for the first time, my hosts insist on driving me through the finest areas of town. And usually, they boast and I exclaim about the city's new houses, stores civic centers, etc.

Here in Louisville, though, I was given the reverse treatment. For in Louisville, my hosts took me on a drive through the downtown shopping district, the downtown streets bordering on the Ohio River, the downtown areas where once were mansions of Kentucky's oldest families. And I saw . . .

STREET AFTER STREET choked with stores bearing nationally-known names but thoroughly identified with lower-income shoppers. Street after street deformed by massive, decaying structures shockingly out of place in the heart of Kentucky's largest city. Street after street of old homes haphazardly turned into make-shift offices.

AND SLUMS, used car lots, minimum - income apartments on land which in almost any other city of comparable size would be in the highest-price category.

* * *

"This is dreadful!" I said to my hosts. "This I didn't expect." "Yes," nodded the operating head of one of the biggest industrial firms in the area. "When I bring in important people, I bypass downtown. I take the long way around so they don't see this area."

"This is the tragedy of Louisville," added another of the town's most prominent citizens, and he gave me statistics to prove what is happening.

Although population has been expanding, the number of businesses in Louisville's central business district actually is down from a decade ago. The percentage of the city's retail sales in downtown has slumped from almost 50 per cent in 1948 to under 40 per cent now. Downtown Louisville is not only failing to progress; it is retrogressing rapidly.

* * *

SPECIFICALLY, absentee ownership — control of a vast portion of Louisville's industrial, financial and commercial enterprise by interests located elsewhere and concerned not with Louisville's beauty or potential growth, but primarily with maintaining their profit margins or return on an initial investment.

It's a harsh indictment. But the evidence is unmistakable.

As an illustration, many of the men in charge of big operations here are not really the bosses. They are branch managers. As one put it frankly to me, "We'd like to help in rebuilding Louisville, but it's not within our power to do so. We haven't the right to invest major capital. We must get permission from headquarters and they tell us, 'If we do it here, we must do it elsewhere. We can't participate in the redevelopment of every city in which we are located.'" Headquarters reply makes financial sense, but it doesn't help an absentee-owned city.

* * *

What happens, now?

One thing that will happen in Louisville is a meeting this coming Monday, Mar. 9, called by Mark F. Ethridge, world-famous publisher of the Louisville Courier-Journal and Times, to compel action instead of just talk.

* * *

ALSO UNDERWAY IS A study to wipe out the eyesores along the Ohio River just as New York has replaced her slums on the East River and is about to revive deteriorating properties along the Hudson River.

"The other day someone asked me why I cared so much about this," remarked one of my hosts. "Without thinking, I said, 'Why, I live here!'"

That one simple reply holds the key — and shouts a warning to all cities which welcome ownership without pondering its implications and taking steps to offset its dangers.

7 STOCKS LIKELY TO TRIPLE?

Our Editors have newly analyzed an extraordinary list of 66 growth stocks — each picked by one or more professional analysts as likely to triple in the next 3 years. After intensive study, we now recommend 7 of these 66 stocks. All 7 are featured in our new Special Report. It is titled: '7 New Growth Stocks Most Likely to Triple in the Next 3 Years'. These 7 stocks remind us of outstanding profit-makers like Thiokol Chemical (8¾ to 70⅜ in rocket fuels). And stocks like Ventures, Ltd. (4 to 42⅜ in mining and oil). Two of these 7 stocks are special 'atomic' stocks. One is in guided missiles. One is in electronic controls. Another is in 'stereo' sound. A copy of our new Report featuring these '7 Stocks to Triple' is yours as a bonus now when you send just $1 (new readers only) to try our weekly advisory service 'The Growth Stock Letter' for the next two weeks. Mail this ad with your name and address and $1 today to Dept. ST-158.

This is certainly true of investing, since misinformation has probably been ten times as costly as simple ignorance. It is always best to double check the story.

25th ANNIVERSARY CHASE FEDERAL SAVINGS AND LOAN ASSOCIATION

IN 1934
CHASE FEDERAL OPENED

...AND THAT SAME YEAR
NEW CHEVROLETS
SOLD FOR $465

Chevrolet Sport Roadsters priced at $465. Plymouth Sedans selling for $620. Veal chops 15c a pound. You could feed your family Western sirloin steaks for 23c a pound.

This was in 1934. The "good old days?" Indeed not. The year before, Franklin D. Roosevelt had entered the White House and set in motion that intricate series of events known as the New Deal. But the nation was still in the grip of the Great Depression.

The situation was no better in Miami and South Florida. The boom and bust of frenzied real estate speculation had taken a heavy financial toll. Then followed the nation-wide depression to make recovery doubly difficult.

A bright local note in 1934 was the American Legion National Convention in Miami. The veterans came in a holiday mood to fill the hotels. The Legion parade and the music of fifes and drums were harbingers of happier days ahead.

This was the year that Chase Federal opened on Miami Beach. It required faith, vision and courage, for money was tight and the Beach had less than 11,000 residents.

Chase Federal has witnessed and contributed to the fabulous growth of our area during the past quarter of a century. Many communities boast of their past: Metropolitan Miami's greatness lies in the future — for all to share.

COMPLETE N.Y. STOCKS: Space Stocks Go Upward

NEW YORK —(AP)— Following is the complete tabulation of today's stock transactions on the New York Stock Exchange:

Helped by Hot Berlin Situation

NEW YORK — (AP) — Wide gains by some of the space age stocks and a recovery by oils featured an irregularly higher stock market Monday.

The electronics and rocket fuel stocks continued to fascinate the buying public. The nervous situation over Berlin helped emphasize these issues which are so closely related to national defense.

Conspicious gainers included Thiokol, up 12 to 145, Zenith, up 7 to 220, and Litton Industries, up 6 to 93.

A technical rebound by oils, which have been sold down badly in recent sessions, was highlighted by a 4⅛-point leap of Gulf Oil.

Otherwise, the list of key stocks showed a jumble of gains and losses kept generally within a one-point gain. Exceptions were Goodyear and Goodrich, both down two on profit taking.

American Stock Exchange prices were fixed on volume of 2,200,000 shares compared with 2,300,000 Friday.

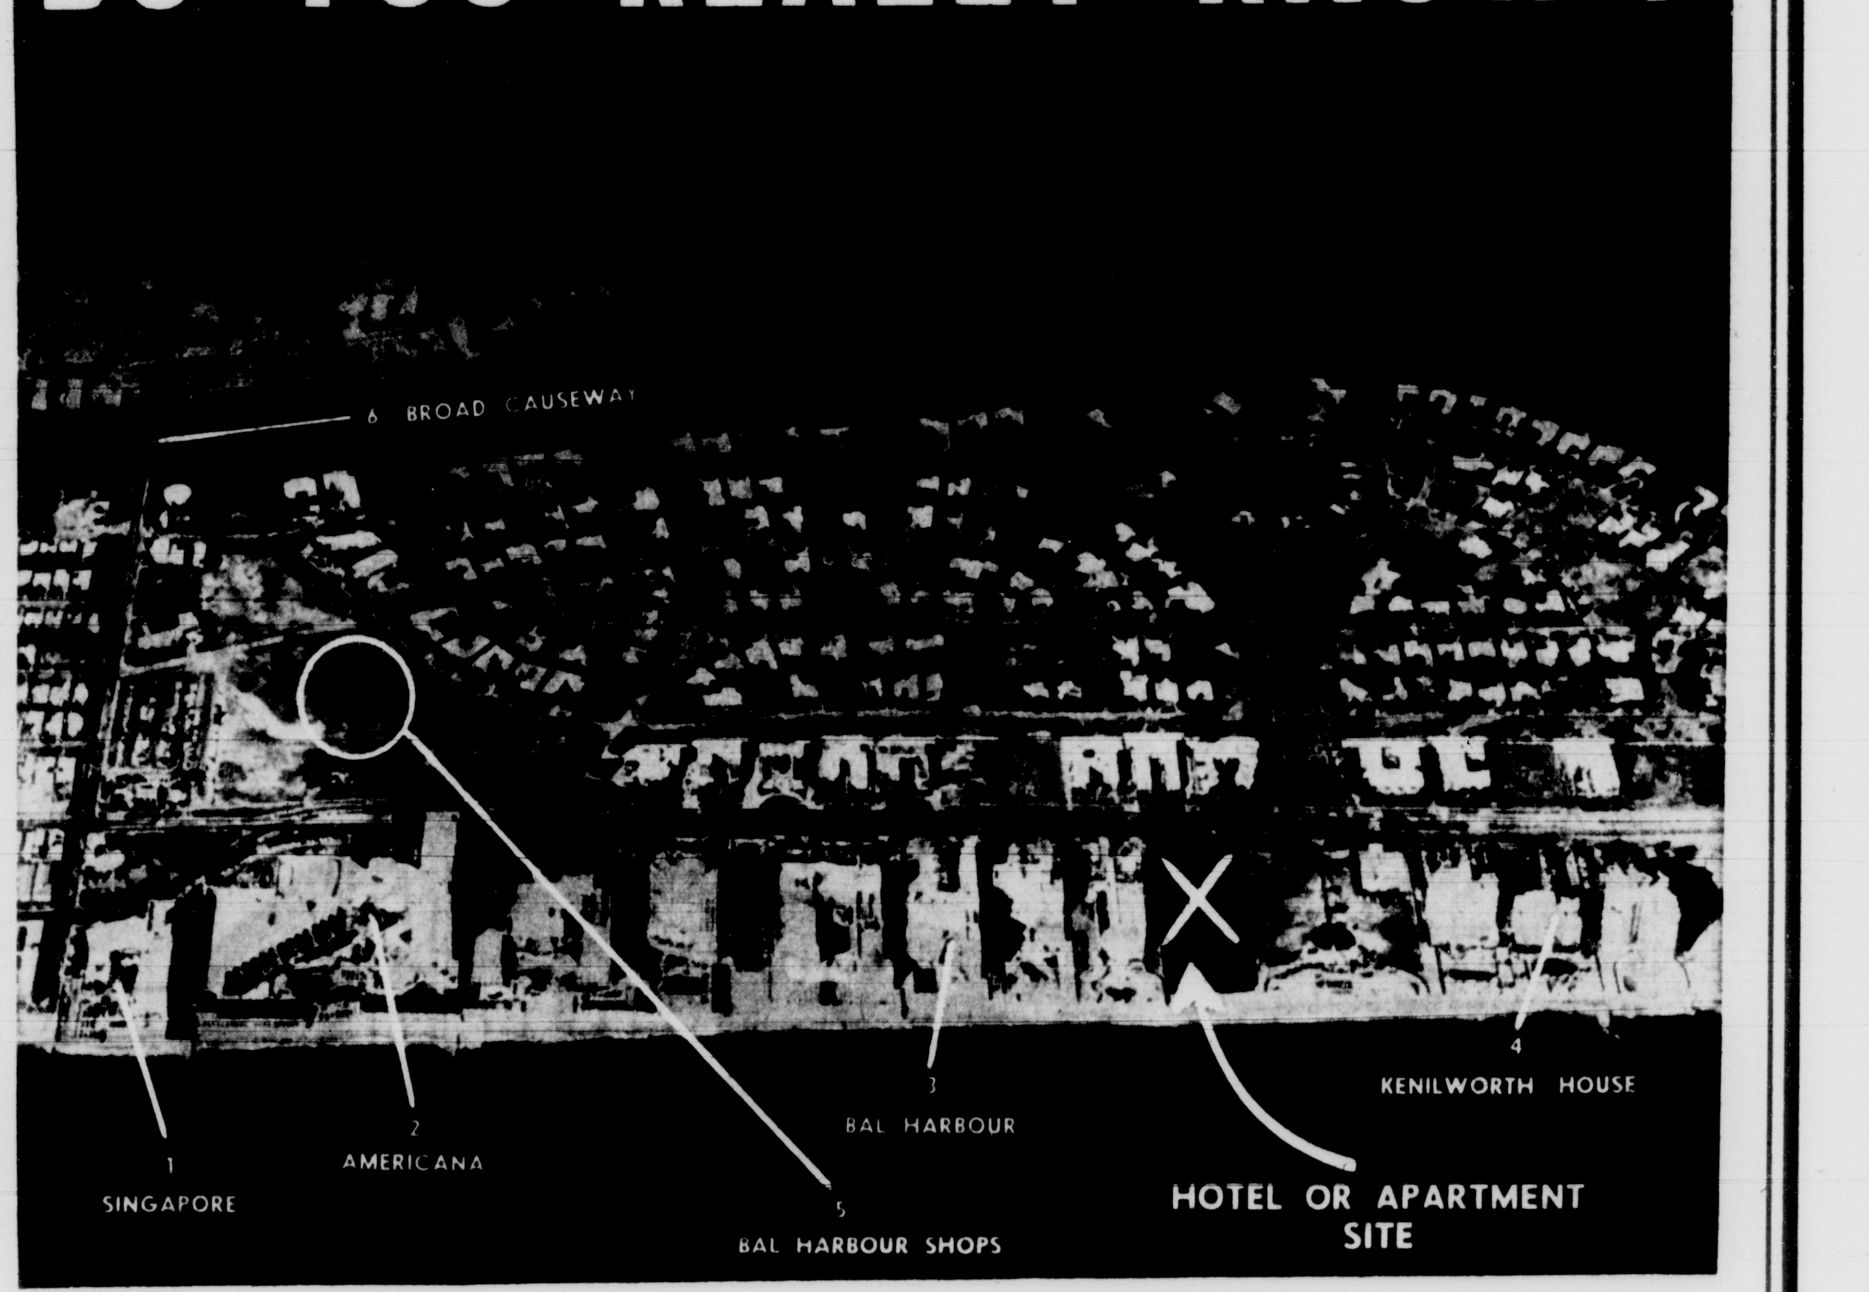
DO YOU REALLY KNOW ?



What happened to Bal Harbour last year?

1958 the year of the recession . . . a bad year for our nation — probably even a worse year for South Florida doubly hit by unprecedented cold. Yet, in spite of this, Bal Harbour moved ahead! Please note:

1. Added the beautiful new Singapore.
2. Americana Hotel enlarged by over 100 rooms.
3. Bal Harbour Hotel increased in size by more than 40%.
4. Kenilworth House co-oped by Marion Butler.
5. Bal Harbour Shops commenced leasing to nation's style leading merchants.
6. Broad Causeway maintained its annual traffic increase of 23% despite recession, weather and 4 lane construction improvements.

Qualified investors are entitled to know that Marion Butler is the exclusive agent for the finest and the last unimproved hotel site in Bal Harbour (see photo).

If you are interested in building The Hotel or The Apartment for 1960, this location next to the Bal Harbour Club is "it." This is your opportunity to realize the tremendous advantages of a prime growth location coupled with the lasting values of South Florida's only completely pre-planned community.

Please call me right now. My telephone is UNion 6-2423 and my office at 9577 Harding Avenue is only a couple of blocks from the property offered.

Robbers Grab Big Haul

Spa Safe Job Laid to Pros

CLEARWATER — (AP) — Three armed men broke open the safe of an exclusive tourist resort Monday and escaped with a large trash can full of checks, cash and jewelry.

Sheriff Don Genung and Police Chief Claude Rigsby of nearby Safety Harbor placed the haul from the pre-dawn robbery at "more than $100,000."

John Marshall, manager of the Safety Harbor Spa health resort, said, "I couldn't even guess at the amount taken until we complete an inventory of the safe's contents."

Marshall said, however, that he thought the loss would run "somewhat less than $80,000." One source said the final figure might total $200,000.

Pinellas County Sheriff Donald Genung said he was seeking to tie up the robbery with a series of Tampa Bay safe crackings, all unsolved, in the past two months. In each case the safes, usually located in food or department stores, were "peeled."

The bandits, wearing yachting caps and jackets and armed with pistols, entered the office of the two-story Spa at 2:50 a.m. while 250 guests slept in the building.

One of them announced to Pierce Owens, 63, a night watchman, and Mrs. Helen Rowe, about 45, a telephone operator:

"This is a holdup. Be quiet and you won't be hurt."

Owens said later, "I thought it was a joke. As I lowered my hands, I struck the mask of one of the men."

The watchman said the bandit kicked him in the stomach, knocking him down. The bandits then placed handcuffs on Owens, tied Mrs. Rowe's wrists and put tape gags in their mouths and bound their legs with tape.

While one of the men stood guard at the door, the other knocked the combination off the safe and peeled off the door.

The men departed 20 minutes after they entered the building, carrying with them the contents of the safe in a trash can taken from the office.

Owens was able to free himself and Mrs. Rowe about 10 minutes after the men left. He called the sheriff's office.

Genung said he and the police chief had "no suspects and nothing much to go on."

The bandits wore gloves. No description was available on the automobile they used.

An FBI agent from St. Petersburg said he had "been monitoring the case so we will be prepared if it is determined federal laws have been violated."

Only nine days ago, thieves peeled the safe at Maas Bros. department store at Sarasota, getting away with about $25,000. Other safe-peelings have occurred in Tampa, St. Petersburg, Bradenton and Fort Myers.

Officers have reason to believe all were committed by the same gang.

Teamsters Seek New Quarters

Miami Teamsters officials, heart-bent on organizing Dade County, will soon push their drive from a new central headquarters office here.

M. W. Miller, Teamsters' Southeastern Conference chairman, confirmed reports that the union is looking for a site to put up new quarters or, that failing, move into an old building.

Miami's three Teamsters locals will be housed in the new headquarters "to coordinate our activities here," he said.

The Teasters currently claim almost 5,000 members in Dade.

Yeshiva Chief To Be Honored

Dr. Samuel Belkin will be honored for his 15 years as president of Yeshiva University in New York at a reception scheduled for 6:30 p.m. Thursday in the Sterling Hotel in Miami Beach.

One of the nation's youngest university chief executives, Dr. Belkin is now 48. He assumed the post at 32, just seven years after he went to Yeshiva as an instructor in Greek.

More than 20 Greater Miami youths are students at Yeshiva, a non-sectarian university comprised of 17 schools and divisions at six teaching centers.

INTERNATIONALLY FAMOUS is The Hofbrau Haus, located on U.S. Route 1 in Hallandale, just south of Gulfstream racetrack. One of the largest and finest kitchens in Florida is maintained by this excellent, air conditioned dining place.

Gourmets from Every State Relish Hofbrau's German-American Food

COOLING, RELAXING and inviting is the beautifully decorated, modern rathskeller of The Hofbrau Haus. It was designed after the old German beer cellars that are famed in song and story.

Lovers of finer food have made The Hofbrau Haus internationally famous.

Visitors learn from home folks, and in turn tell others, of the authentic German and American cuisine and seafood specialties featured by this popular restaurant.

During any given week in the year it is not unusual for this famous restaurant to serve people from every state in the Union, as well as several foreign lands.

Using the finest ingredients obtainable, The Hofbrau Haus is truly a gourmet's paradise. Specialties of the house include sauerbraten — specially marinated beef, roasted to delicious tenderness by one of the eight European - trained Hofbrau Haus chefs.

Very popular are the carefully selected pork hocks; then there's spring chicken saute a la chausseur, and a tempting variety of schnitzels (Minnesota veal cutlets, prepared in a number of different ways, and all taste thrills).

Lovers of steamed shrimp or broiled lobster usually order these on the special all-you-can-eat basis.

Desserts, too, are extremely popular at The Hofbrau Haus, with old fashioned apple strudle and whipped cream leading the lengthy list of favorites.

Every waitress adds to the festive atmosphere of the dining rooms by wearing an authentic Bavarian costume — and each is thoroughly trained to give that attentive but unobtrusive service so much appreciated by gourmets.

You may enjoy your favorite beverages in the dining room, rathskeller, or cocktail lounge. All are prepared by expert mixologists.

Comfortably air conditioned, The Hofbrau Haus is located on U.S. Route 1, just south of Gulstream Park in Hallandale, and nine miles north of the Miami city limits.

Popular prices prevail at this fine restaurant which is open daily and Sunday from 12 noon until 10 p.m. Ample free parking space is provided, with doormen and runners to park and deliver your car without delay.

Lawns Need Properly Balanced Plant Food

David Hughes
. . . developer of Blu-Green

The condition of a lawn and plants around a home often can reflect a person's way of life.

A well cared for lawn shows an interest in the real beauty of a home, and adds greater pleasure to the family's daily living.

"In many years of helping amateur and professional gardeners with their lawn and garden problems," says David Hughes, manager of Hughes Seed Store, "we have found that Blu-Green meets virtually all requirements for South Florida soil and weather conditions.

"In this area it is advisable to do some work in your garden all year. A rich soil is needed for planting, but usually isn't available. However, you can find most of the needed minerals and plant food in Blu-Green."

In order to meet all needs of plants, shrubs, fruit trees, and lawns, Hughes has developed a complete family of plant foods, which is known as the Blu-Green family.

Members of the Blu-Green family that can help with every phase of gardening are Blu-Green Bloom Special for flowers and fruits, Blu-Green Fruiter Special for the development of finer fruits and vegetables, F.V.H. Gardenia Special, and Hughes Rose Food for special uses.

In addition to these, Blu-Organic, a high-organic, high analysis plant food for use on trees, palms, bananas and others also is available.

"We cater to do-it-yourself and professional gardeners alike," he added. "We can supply your needs for a window box or a 10,000 acre farm.

"Helping people grow things is not only our business, it's a hobby and pleasure, too. We are always happy to furnish helpful information about any planting problem, without charge or obligation."

Blu-Green, is available in bags of five, 10, 25, 50 and 100 pounds.

Information about the specific uses of each of the plant foods in the Blu-Green family may be obtained by calling PLaza 8-8773, or visiting Hughes Seed Store, 116 S. Miami Ave.

Free delivery anywhere in the Greater Miami area is offered on orders of Blu-Green and the Blu-Green family of plant foods.

LIFE WITH LARRY THOMPSON

Age Starts to Show

I'VE BEEN TRYING to keep this a secret, but its beginning to show. Despite my best efforts, I'm looking more like a grandfather every day.

I now have great sympathy for a woman about to have her first child.

She wants it, but she hates to let the world know that she is about to pass into that circle in which she no longer can pose as a giddy young thing, but must concede maturity. But there's no way she can keep her secret. Sooner or later, it shows.

Nobody has come right out and said it, but I could swear that several friends, met casually on the street, have given me an appraising look and were on the verge of saying:

"You look as if you were to have a grandchild."

I always change the subject or say goodbye before they can say it.

But there's no use fighting it. I might as well admit the fact before it happens.

* * *

IT IS TRUE THAT I AM a very young man to be a grandfather. Maybe my birthdays don't show that, but I feel like it. In a way, I resent the fact my oldest daughter has placed me in this position. She is trying to make an old man out of me.

Of course, I've had reason to expect this ever since last summer, when she got married.

According to her, the blessed event will be this summer. She only gave me a year of additional youth before she did this to me.

Despite my reluctance to admit the passing of the years, I must admit that it sounded like music when Patsy called and gasped into the phone: "Daddy, you're going to be a granddaddy!"

It's silly of me, of course, but I'm actually excited about the coming event. If it's a boy and looks like his grandpa, I may even pass out cigars.

* * *

WEDNESDAY MORNING, this column mentioned that Michael Strange, a singing guitarist, wanted the music to an oldie called "Down by the Tan-yard Side," so he could sing it on St. Patrick's Day. He offered $50 to the first person coming up with it.

Before Strange reported for work at Pierre's lounge that day, Robert Baron, 1110 NE 203rd St., was on the scene with a 30-year-old record of "Down by the Tan-yard Side."

As soon as Strange arrived, he paid the $50—and within a few minutes had a call from another member of the Old Songs and Poems Musical and Literary Society.

Strange called me to say he was "amazed" at such quick response, and I'll bet he's received more since then. Me, I'm not surprised. Our Society members know everything.

* * *

THE REASON I SAID "St. Patrick's Day" in the above item was that I got a scolding for saying "St. Pat's Day" the other day.

Harry J. Kelly, Fort Lauderdale, wrote: "You know you should show reverence to the name."

I didn't mean to hurt anybody's feelings, most of all the sainted Patrick.

* * *

AND GETTING BACK to Mr. Baron, who won the 50 bucks, he has a collection of "hundreds" of old records, 30 to 35 years old.

* * *

I AM PLEASED and flattered by a note from Willis A. Boughton, Fort Lauderdale. He had photostats made of a column, in which I was giving advice to my oldest son. He is sending as gifts to boys' homes, orphanages, hospitals and such places, copies of his book for boys, "Everglades Adventure," and is placing a copy of the column in each book.

That makes me feel good.

* * *

WHEN HE WANDERED into a Miami store the other day, Arthur LeSeur saw some ties offered at $7.50 each. He writes:

"All is not lost if there are still people who can buy $7.50 neckties, or even people with nerve enough to make and try to sell them."

He adds the unconnected information that children should not jump on the seats of small cars. "My kids do it once in awhile," he says, "and they have to get out and help me put the car back on the road."

Arrest Tickles Court Officials

LOS ANGELES — (AP) — Those guys who are smiling are traffic court veterans who just heard this news:

Superior Judge Roger A. Pfaff was ticketed by two police officers, who said Judge Pfaff went by their patrol car at 45 m.p.h. while they were cruising at the legal 25 m.p.h.

Before he was elevated to superior court in 1955, Judge Pfaff was a traffic judge who instituted jail sentences as part of a crackdown on speeders.

Jack Kofoed Says

Parking Law Reads A Bit Peculiar

Whoever writes city ordinances should take a course in elementary English. Paragraph A, Chapter 38-165 of the 1957 city code makes it illegal "to stop, stand or park" until a coin has been deposited in a meter. If you can do that with your car in motion, you have Houdini licked.

A man was fined last week because he slid into a space where time had not expired. The traffic bureau says not more than 10 tickets have been handed out in two years for this abominable "offense."

Could be cops, who wrote those citations, were upset by early morning squabbles with their wives and had to take out their frustration on somebody.

Doctors usually advise men over 60 not to engage in strenuous sports, but three physicians over that age limit entered a senior's tennis tournament at Palm Beach.

Kiki Valenzuela, players' manager at the West Palm Beach jai alai fronton and for years a local favorite, will take over the same job when summer play starts at Daytona Beach.

Miami Shores Kiwanis Club stages its annual chicken barbecue at the Country Club March 12. It's for the benefit of underprivileged children, so I hope everyone in the village will be there . . . Joey Ross (tough "Sgt. Ridzik" of the Sid Silvers show) sunburning at the Singapore . . .

Whitney (Dartmouth) Cushing, talented Palm Beach artist, investigating the brighter side of Miami Beach with lovely model Odile Fenoyle of Lyons, France . . . The death in Havana of Harry Berman, a wonderful fellow, saddened countless people in Our Town . . . Mention here of the lasting qualities of redwood reminded Paul Moore that street curbing of redwood in Oakland, Calif., set out 50 years ago, is still in excellent condition . . . "Old Silver Throat," Gene Austin, has sold more records than all the top stars of today combined. The total has passed 86 million . . . Ruth Foreman will have a Summer Workshop at Studio M.

Former heavyweight champion, Jack Sharkey, who defeated Young Stribling in Flamingo Park 30 years ago, will give fly casting demonstrations during the Sports and Vacation show at Miami Beach Exposition Hall March 14-22. Jack seems to be as good with a rod as he was with his fists . . .

A flock of wild geese have settled on the lake at Miami Springs Villas, but Art Bruns never has roast goose on his menu . . . When a youngster, Capt. Dwight Williams of Miami Shores decided to take a shot at boxing. He put on the gloves with a middle-aged man in a Philadelphia gym, and within a minute was on the floor, cold as iced mackerel. Miami Beach Lodge 170 Knights of Pythias will hold a spectacular show and dinner dance at the Saxony May 16 under the direction of noted maestro Irving Pietrack, with Gov. LeRoy Collins as toastmaster. It is for the benefit of Lend-a-Hand Fund's summer camp and Hope School. Even though the date is quite a way in the future, you'd better make reservations now because it's going to be a sellout.

In a recent mention of favorite dishes, boneless duck Fu Manchu, one of Al Goldman's delicacies should have been listed . . . Don Newcombe may become a big winner for Cincinnati, if Manager Mayo Smith gives the huge pitcher the same psychological uplift Roy Campanella used to do . . . The Greater Miami Industrial Exposition will be presented at Dinner Key March 6 through 15, a fine showing of the area's industrial might . . . Again a sad duty to report the death of two friends. Albie Booth, all America Yale quarterback of the 30s, who starred on my WHN football radio show, and Paul Keister, former sports editor of The New York Post.

Barry College will offer one of the season's delights when dramatic soprano Marjorie Lawrence sings there March 14.

Bolivians Yell 'Down With U.S.'

LA PAZ, Bolivia —(AP)— Approximately 1,000 students demonstrated in downtown La Paz Monday, shouting "down with Yankee imperialism" and "we don't want to be a Yankee colony."

The demonstration followed an expression of Bolivian concern over a statement attributed by Time Magazine to a U.S. embassy spokesman that the only solution to the Bolivian problem is to "abolish Bolivia and let its neighbors divide the country and its problems."

A statement from the Bolivian government on Saturday declared the magazine article was "injurious to national honor." Time Magazine has not commented.

Some of the students gathered in front of the U.S. embassy and listened to speakers from their ranks appeal for Bolivians to unite against the "imperialistic" U.S. policy.

Communists distributed leaflets blasting U.S. policy.

In this week's Post a college professor exposes the shocking truth of how Campus morals are ruining our colleges!

Are colleges today turning into marriage mills and fun factories? "Yes!" says Professor Jerome Ellison in this week's Saturday Evening Post. And with shocking frankness he puts his finger on the reasons why. He tells:

- how most college girls are out to nab a man — and what they'll do to get one.
- how fraternities isolate top men in an atmosphere of drinking, dating and Don Juanism.
- how "passion pits" and off-campus hangouts cater to students who own cars.
- how one college even gives a B.S. degree for "studying" volleyball, archery, lacrosse, deep breathing and refereeing.

You'll be stunned by the harsh truth of this report. And you'll cheer (maybe!) the drastic measures recommended. Be sure to read "Are We Making a Playground Out of College?"

The truth behind the Babe Ruth legend
—by Mrs. Babe Ruth

"Most of what they wrote about him was junk!" says Mrs. Ruth. Now, in this week's Post, she tells what the Babe was really like.

You'll find out why he was tagged "a hopeless incorrigible" by a judge at age 7. Learn what drove him to spectacular feats of hard drinking in his early years.

You'll discover why he was switched from pitcher to outfielder (he hated the man who did it!). How women were really the cause of his feud with Lou Gehrig.

And you'll learn of the heartless treatment he got from the baseball world in the last dreadful, despondent years of his life.

Be sure to read this tough, tender story of a man who fought fans, players, managers (everybody except the kids) ... but whose greatest battle was with himself. You'll be fascinated by "My Life With Babe Ruth."

Dean Acheson warns:

Berlin must be saved!

Even at the risk of World War III, we must stop the Reds from grabbing Berlin — says one of the most controversial Secretaries of State in our history. He tells why the fall of Berlin would mean the end of U.S. influence in the free world. How it would set up Khrushchev as undisputed master of Europe. Bring us even closer to an inevitable world holocaust. Read why Dean Acheson says "Wishing Won't Hold Berlin."

Maurice Chevalier Still Loves Steak, Wine and Pretty Girls

By HELEN VAN HOY SMITH
Herald Staff Writer

Celebrity Parade

PALM BEACH — Maurice Chevalier likes a good steak, medium rare, and potatoes—French fried of course—has a good appetite, but eats moderately. He doesn't smoke. One day 25 years ago he stopped "like that," and hasn't puffed a cigar or cigaret since.

The French people are fond of dancing and light wines, and Maurice is a Frenchman.

"I am more than a Frenchman," he said drawing himself proudly, "I am a Par-is-i-enne."

And he is abstemious about wines or any spiritous liquors.

"Pretty girls? They are all lovely, Madame, whether French, Span-issh, or Americaine. And it isn't important what styles they wear. Long skirts, short skirts — any style — they all look well on a pretty woman."

In "Gigi" he sang "I'm glad I'm Not Young Any More." In real life is that so?

"Yes, I'm glad that I realize I am getting older, and I hope I will never pretend to be younger, especially to myself."

Chevalier will be 71 Sept. 12. A tall, well-built man with thinning gray hair he is 1 m. 77 cm. tall, in case you calculate in French.

In spite of his age he maintains a schedule that would make mincemeat of many a younger man.

He arrives in Miami today to appear tonight at the Deauville Hotel.

Then he goes to Hollywood, Calif., to accept the Cecil B. DeMille award for his outstanding contribution to motion pictures; then Puerto Rico for nine days.

March 18 he'll be back in Miami Beach for a 9-day engagement at the Eden Roc, then again at the Deauville for one night March. 29.

* * *

HE HAS JUST FINISHED "An Evening in Palm Beach" at the Society of the Four Arts under the banner of Mary Howes and it was noon when he appeared on the lakefront terrace of the Walter T. Shirley house where he was a guest in Palm Beach. He had just gotten up.

He had been to a big dinner party the night before given by Mrs. Jessie Woolworth Donahue at her beach house directly on the sands of the seashore.

He had danced with Mrs. Donahue, Mrs. Shirley and other guests, and had had a wonderful time. The moon silvered the ocean and he was enchanted.

"The deef-er-ence between success and failure is about like thees," holding his thumb and forefinger close together, "and we must always be prepared not to have success."

Wearing a black and white checked blouse jacket with a cap taking the place of the familiar straw skimmer, he didn't take dance steps, crack jokes, or try to project the famous Chevalier personality. His demeanor was that of a well bred, courteous gentleman.

A sunburst of crinkles appear around his eyes when he smiles, but his face is pink and practically unlined, except across the forehead.

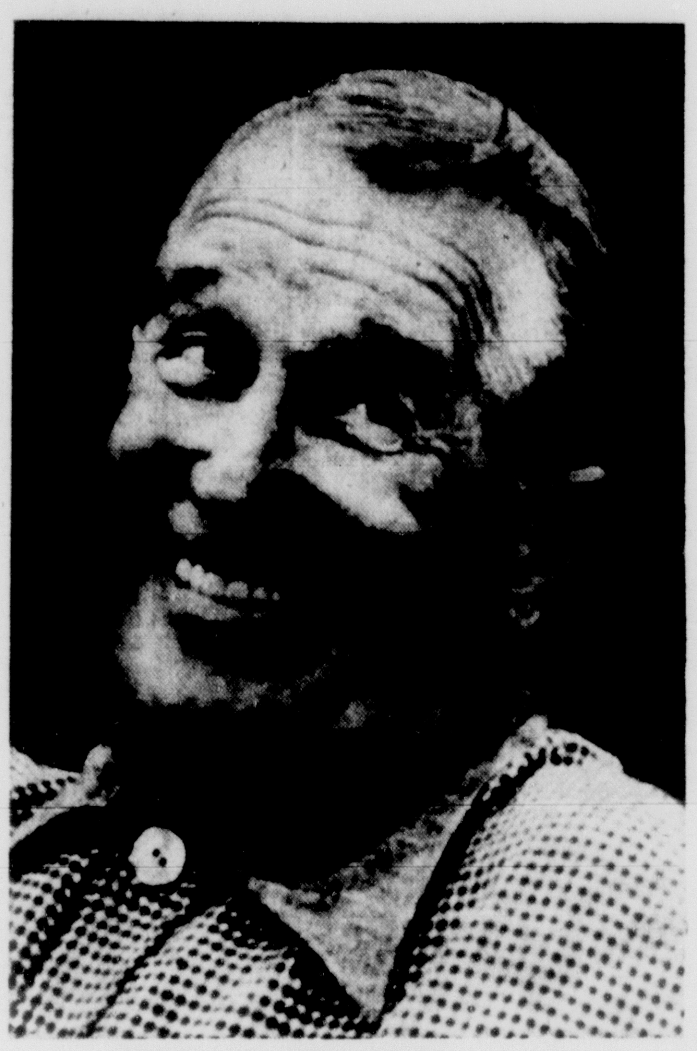
* * *

Chevalier likes to lie in bed and read, write, or watch TV. He doesn't care for Westerns "too much."

The actor is a Catholic and a religious man, but likes to go to church when he can be there alone.

In real life, it's the little things he notices that endears him to his friends.

He was delighted with a silly little pillow on a chaise lounge on the Shirley terrace. A pink pillow, and in deeper pink were the words, "Don't Kiss me Now, I'm too Busy."



"Make the World Happier"
. . . there's enough sadness, says Chevalier

PARIS—As it is the rich whose goods are most envied, so it is in the fashion world. The best collections are most tempting for piracy, and the extent of a designer's loss in that direction can also be looked upon as a measure of his success.

An American buyer, after looking at all the hats in Paris, rushed to Zurich to see whose hats the Swiss were copying. He tells me: Cardin and Svend. He flew home by way of Paris to pick up more Cardins and Svends.

Cardin's most sensational new hats are quite an airlift — big bright Jean Bal bretons, woven of thin Oriental rice straw which has a special affinity for brilliant pink and violet dyes. These are untrimmed, worn far back on the head, with the front turned up and the back down, Cardin shows them wtih straight plain day dresses or silk suits.

He makes enormous tulle hats heaped with flowers and lingerie hats of white embroidery tied in front with big white organdy bows like French laundresses used to wear. "My hats look like creampuffs in a pastry shop," he says, which they do.

* * *

SVEND, at Jacques Heim, does two types of hats—small plain sailors worn straight on the head and extravagant cloches made completely of flowers, ribbon loops, tulle, or organdy, in black, white or yellow.

Sometimes he puts a large quill or one long-stemmed rose straight across the front. A flat white pique boater which he calls "Fiacre" sports one long pink horizontal quill.

All new Paris hats sit lightly on the head, and weigh almost nothing.

Claude Saint-Cyr, who pioneered the featherweight hat, has invented and patented a device, like a bicycle clip, called a Wicket, which is sewn on the inside of the hat anchoring it but letting it look poised like a butterfly. For daredevil motoring (and how else do the French motor?) she has invented a crash-proof hat lining.

Morever, she has taken cognizance of the fact that the sun doesn't always shine on one's best hat (Madame goes to London often) and has designed a dress hat that is rainproof without looking "impermeable." It is the printed fabric cloche she does so well, but waterproofed. She has an exclusive on this, too.

Other Saint-Cyr inventions are a simulated chip straw made of fabric, and a veil stippled with bits of straw and registered under the name of "grenu," meaning grained.

Her daytime colors are all shades of browns of the crusts of breads, from rusks to French rolls, plus a color she calls a cheerful navy. For evening, sherbet colors: tangerine, pistachio and coffee.

* * *

THE LINK between all Paris hats this Spring is Impressionism, with ideas freely taken from Manet, Toulouse-Lautrec, Renoir, and Berthe Morisot.

"The little boaters dear to Manet," Yves-Saint Laurent explains the origin of his tiny hats. "Practically no feathers on the head for evening" adds the boy who had plumes on all his mannequins last year.

His favorite form is the deep cloche, usually with a brim of loosely woven straw — often lacquered bamboo leaves, which look like dried cornhusks and permit the sun to dapple the wearer's face. Bamboo, dyed green or purple or red, is combined with printed silks.

At Dior there are many little hats of white or black net edged with narrow valencienne lace — and these the Swiss have embraced, too. One such little boater weighs only an ounce or two.

Dior uses double brims on big straw hats — red brim over pink, white over green. New: with a tweed suit, a big hat of the same tweed, the brim lined with straw. For cocktail-time, Saint-Laurent likes one rose on the brow, a twirled rose made of the same printed chiffon as the dress.

Balmain does both big and little hats, always worn away from the brow, an effect inspired, he says, by the exquisite Tanagra statuettes long buried in Greece. Little did the ancienct Tanagreens guess what they were working toward.

YW Shoestring Theater 'Fun,' Says Its Director

By ELEANOR DIXON
Herald Staff Writer

Mary Jane Wells, new director of the Shoestring Theatre players of the YWCA, hopes to match the theater's expenses and admission prices to its name.

"I do want to keep expenses down and to build the group and audience slowly and solidly," says the slim young actress with liquid brown eyes.

Mary Jane Wells
. . . theater should be fun

Mary Jane looks the part of an ingenue (she's 24) but she speaks with calm authority about directing. Her background includes four years of study at Chicago's Goodman Memorial Theatre, where she graduated with honors and an offer of fellowship for graduate work.

Her husband, T. H. Wells, teaches technical theater for the University of Miami's drama department and gives Mary Jane "all sorts of advice." But he won't do any back-seat directing in person because he does a good bit of night work and research.

"This is the kind of work we love," she says with a soft smile. Her nine to five job is as a receptionist to a psychiatrist—"very rewarding."

Mary Jane says the Shoestring players has an opening for anyone — from the performer to the person with little acting ability but real enthusiasm. "We need people with enthusiasm. They can become real craftsmen."

"Not everyone in community theater is there because acting is a 'mission in life.' Community theater should be fun and for all levels of interest. Right now we have about 25 members — all ages, all occupations."

After high school she enrolled in the Goodman Memorial Theatre, which is a full time theatrical school. Fourth year students at Goodman attend classes in the morning, rehearsal classes in the afternoon and take part in productions at night. "You get to school in the morning, come home at 11 at night and collapse! During the summers she played stock in three Wisconsin resort towns.

Shortly after Mary Jane and her husband arrived in Miami last fall she saw a casting announcement for Shoestring Theatre in the newspaper and now she's the director, replacing Jay W. Jensen.

Her first production will be "Picnic" by William Inge on April 17 and 18. It will be done in a theater-in-the-round style. Auditions for "Picnic" will be held tonight at 7:30 in the auditorium, 106 SE 1st Ave.

Exclusive Hillsboro Club In Pompano Has New Owners

By HELEN WELLS
Herald Society Editor

Here's news from Pompano. The exclusive Hillsboro Club has been sold. Purchasers are Chris Keagy and Wilbur Kretz of Fort Lauderdale, who built the first co-ops in their home town.

Helen Wells

They'll take over in April and have a "four-year plan" to remodel the old clubhouse and also to build apartments there. This private club is one of the oldest on Florida's Gold Coast.

It was founded in 1925 by Herbert L. Malcolm, who first opened it as a school. He came from Lake Placid where he operated the Northwood School.

The Club's membership roster reads like a Who's Who in American finance and the longtime members take a dim view of any change in their club. They like the simplicity, exclusiveness and privacy they have always had there.

Chris Keagy's mother and father, Louise and George Keagy, came down from Fort Lauderdale for Laurel and Steve Wilson's dinner dance at La Gorce Country Club on Saturday.

Mr. Keagy is an artist. He paints landscapes and portraits and told of one time when he went to Arizona to take lessons from a well known artist there.

The Keagys have a country place outside of Fort Lauderdale with their own pump for water. One night Mrs. Keagy didn't know that the houseman had turned off the water to run the water softener. She tried the water in the basin in the bathroom, with no results and thought the pump wasn't working.

Inadvertedly she left the faucets on and awakened next morning to water lapping around her bed! She telephoned Mr. Keagy frantically to come home, "I've flooded the house," she cried.

"It took ten men to lift the huge Oriental rug in the living room and we had to send it to St. Louis to get it dried out!" But what he regretted most was his interrupted painting lessons!

Hostesses Dressed Alike

They have the same initials, M. H., both are blondes and they both wore identical dresses, sparkling sequined sheaths, when they entertained at a fun and frolic dinner dance at the Surf Club.

Maybelle Haynesworth

Marge Hunt

They are Maybelle Haynsworth and Marge Hunt and their respective mates, John and Nate, who gathered 200 of their chums for cocktails, buffet supper and dancing.

Marge's sheath was royal blue and Maybelle's was bright red. They stood in the main ballroom to welcome their guests. The ballroom was divided into dancing space and cocktail area with a garden effect of greenery; dinner was in the Green Room. Innovation was a pretty girl photographer who circulated among guests snapping their pictures, like mad, and handing them the finished product.

Nate's cousins from Tanafly, N. J., and Fort Lauderdale, Frances and Randolph Hyde drove down for the party. From Alliance, Ohio, were Dody and Paul Kintz and from St. Louis was Judge David Fitzgibbon who squired Petie Bettandorf, also a St. Louisan.

That so-pretty and so Southern Martha York and her husband, Jones York of Concord, N. C., came with Margaret Pentland whom they are visiting.

Others dancing the night away were Irma and Ed Collins, Margaret and Judge Emett Choate, Mary Streit Preston and her attractive young nephew, Bill Streit, here from Canada for a stay.

The Carlton Eachos were saying hello to friends. They have just arrived in their Miami Beach home for their annual winter sojourn. Mildred and Emile Cotton, Mary Jane and Lino Sertel, Joe Timilty, Nina and Spratt Mangus, Ada and Ray Dodge were more.

* * *

Fords Plan Party Series

Now that Jeff Ford can't add onto his and Yvonne's home on Pine Tree Drive any more . . . he said the only place he has to go is "up" . . . he has been doing over the inside. White walls and more space in the patio where white iron lace has been used effectively add charm to this gracious home.

The Fords have been having a series of small cocktail parties at home with dinner afterwards at the Surf Club.

And speaking of series, Bev and John Muckerman are broiling more steaks for their friends on March 20th at their home on Alton Road.

* * *

Dora Belle Reed says she is burning incense to the weather gods for a balmy night and no rain on March 23rd. That's when she and Earl are entertaining for the Herbert Mays and the party is at their home on La Gorce Island, NOT at the Surf Club as reported here. Gremlins!

Miss Miller, Mr. Tracey Are Married

Mrs. Eugene A. Tracey

In a ceremony at the home of the bridegroom Miss Joanne S. Miller and Eugene A. Tracey were married Sunday.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Ryan, 1955 NW 53rd St., attended Miami Edison High School. Her husband is employed by the Magnus Organs in New York and New Jersey.

After a honeymoon trip to Mexico, the couple will live in New York City.

Let Child Help You Paint

You may be surprised that your small child can help you paint.

Children love applying color, so if you will let them have a hand in painting their own room, you may keep them happy and interested for a while even if it slows up your paint job.

Who's Giving Whom a Line?

PARIS, France — (WNS) —Yves Mathieu St. Laurent of the House of Dior, Antonio Castillo of Lanvin-Castillo and Balenciaga all consult the same lady fortune-teller who used to offer advice to the late Christian Dior.

It was she who suggested the day and hour at which they should first show their new spring lines.

Fortunately for the three competitors, she carefully selected different times for each of the couturiers.

BAKED APPLE TREAT

For a taste treat next time baked apples are on the menu, fill the cores with cake crumbs, mixed with chopped pecans, currants, and melted butter or margarine, using just enough to moisten crumbs.

'Best' Cherry Pie

Karen Ann Gunning of Mulberry, Ind., made her interest in cooking pay off to win the 27th Annual National Cherry Pie Baking Contest. This is her recipe:

CHERRY PIE

- 2 20-ounce cans frozen cherries, thawed and drained (4 cups drained cherries)
- 1 cup sugar
- 3 tablespoons tapioca
- ¼ teaspoon red food coloring
- ¼ teaspoon almond extract
- 1 teaspoon lemon juice
- 1 tablespoon melted butter
- 2 tablespoons cream

Combine all ingredients except cream and pour into a 9-inch pastry lined pie pan, distributing cherries evenly. Wet edge of bottom crust, arrange the top crust or lattice strips in place and press. Trim off overhanging edges of dough. Flute the edge with fingers.

To give the pie a golden brown glaze brush top pastry with cream. To prevent the edge of the crust from overbrowning place a strip of aluminum foil around edge of the pie pan. Bake in a preheated moderately hot oven (400 degrees) for 55 minutes.

Note: If water-packed canned cherries are used increase sugar to 1½ cups.

PASTRY

- 2 cups sifted flour
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ⅔ cup lard
- ¼ cup milk

Sift flour and salt together. Add about half the lard and cut in until the mixture looks like corn meal. Add remaining lard and blend to the size of small peas. Add the milk, a few drops at a time, and mix. Continue this procedure until all the particles are damp enough to stick together.

Press together, divide and shape into 2 balls. Flour pastry cloth and rolling pin lightly. Roll the bottom crust 3 inches larger than the pie pan. Fit pastry into pan, being sure not to stretch it. Roll remaining dough. Make a design in it to allow steam to escape or cut into strips ½ inch wide and place on pie in lattice design.

WOMEN WHO FIRST GRASPED
THIS NEW LANGUAGE OF BEAUTY
ARE ALREADY SEEING THE ASTONISHING RESULTS!

'Bio-energizing'...'Polyunsaturates'...'Squalene'...
These new words mean younger-looking skin for you!

Whether you've used 'Ultima' or not, once you understand the scientific terms that describe it — you'll know why this nutrient cream can mean younger-looking skin for you!

Now, if you're one of the discerning women who have used 'Ultima', you've already recognized it as a major advance in modern scientific skin care. And by now, you've begun to see the results in your own skin . . . with the return of a vibrant young glow you thought you'd lost forever. You've probably also sensed that 'Ultima's' new kind of light-textured action is one of the reasons behind these remarkable results . . . visible proof that 'Ultima' does things for your skin never accomplished by old-fashioned, heavy, "buttery" creams!

WHAT DOES A BIO-ENERGIZER DO FOR YOUR SKIN?

It does just what it says . . . it "energizes", or stimulates. The bio-energizer in 'Ultima' simply increases the capacity of your blood vessels, steps up circulation. Now this is important because it's your blood stream that carries nutrients to feed skin cells . . . and carries away waste materials, to help keep your skin clear and healthy. You see, by stimulating your circulation, 'Ultima' helps both these vital processes. When you use 'Ultima' for the first time, you'll actually feel the bio-energizer working. Your skin almost tingles, comes "alive", begins to get back that healthy young glow. You know something's happening!

POLYUNSATURATES AND SQUALENE HELP YOUR SKIN REGAIN WHAT IT HAS LOST!

'Ultima' contains fast-acting polyunsaturates ...elements that act directly on your skin cells to help increase their moisture holding capacity. This is important because, as you get older, your skin loses its ability to hold moisture. 'Ultima' also contains a specially treated form of squalene much the same as the natural oil your skin had in abundance years back.

So with polyunsaturates and squalene, 'Ultima' gives you back oils and moisture . . . the two things that kept your skin soft and smooth when you were young.

WHY 'ULTIMA' CONTAINS NO HORMONES, ROYAL JELLY OR SO-CALLED . . . "WONDER DRUGS!"

In sufficient amounts, some of these ingredients can be beneficial to the skin. Take hormones, for example . . . they're fine, as far as they go. But our research shows that your skin is so complex that no "one" ingredient goes far enough. In fact, not even a combination of the finest ingredients in the world goes far enough . . . if they're put into a heavy, greasy cream that just "sits" on the top of your skin. Then, no matter what the ingredients are—you don't get the full benefit. Because it stands to reason if a lot is left on the surface, there's less working down inside.

Even more important, two other things happen with a heavy greasy cream . . . and they're both bad! First, you go to bed with your face all "buttered up" . . . and second, you can do your skin more harm than good.

YOU CAN ACTUALLY STRETCH YOUR SKIN WITH A HEAVY CREAM!

The truth is, as you get older you can actually stretch your skin with a heavy cream, because you have to drag and pull to apply it. Does this make any sense when what your skin really needs now is just the opposite?

Here at Revlon, we just couldn't accept the theory that a rich cream had to be heavy and greasy. So our goal for 'Ultima' was to bring you a cream that probably has more beneficial nutrients in it than any you've ever used. Yet we believe it has the lightest, sheerest, finest texture ever . . . for the quick penetration you need. 'Ultima' is so quickly absorbed, it goes to work almost instantly!

HELPS CORRECT SKIN STRUCTURE!

You've probably seen a lot of complicated diagrams that are supposed to show what happens to your skin cells when you use this or that treatment product. But there's really nothing "mysterious" about what happens to your skin when you use 'Ultima'.

Actually, what you do with 'Ultima' is restore to the physical structure of your skin a scientific blend of nutrients and oils similar to those it had when you were younger.

Now we don't promise you that 'Ultima' will make your skin look younger over-night . . . you have too much good sense to believe that. But we do promise you that within a short time, you'll begin to see a change in your skin that no other cream has ever accomplished!

'Black Helen' Looms Bright

By REGRET
Herald Columnist

A note of evil forboding is not the note to end a race track meeting on, and despite the gloomy sound of its stake race today, the Black Helen, Hialeah promises to cross its season finish line in a burst of enthusiasm.

Winners' Circle

Some of this enthusiasm is left over from Saturday's colorful Flamingo Day. Not only did the countless patches of brilliant pink light up the park, but the sky-rocket success of newcomer Troilus and his attractive young owners the Bayard Sharps has given the 1959 racing season new glitter.

Today's Black Helen race, a mile and a furlong handicap for fillies and mares, is named for a little gal whose career is in keeping with this atmosphere of sudden brilliance.

Her big year was 1935 when as a three-year-old she won the Flamingo, the Coaching Club American Oaks, the American Derby and the Maryland Handicap. That same year she finished fourth in the Arlington Classic.

The small black filly ended her racing days right then. Her owner the late Col. E. R. Bradley took her home to Idle Hour Stock Farm where she devoted her time to motherhood.

This year's distaff race features several big name thoroughbred entries who fittingly enough are owned by well-known racing women.

There's Columbiana winner Idun, owned by Mrs. C. Michael Paul, Mrs. Gene Markey's Calumet Farms entry A Glitter, Mrs. William Veeneman's Rosewood and Big Effort from Mrs. Isabel Dodge Sloan's Brookmeade Farm.

Pardala, property of Bonnie Heath and Jackson Dudley, won last year's Black Helen. In 1957 Mrs. Markey's Amoret won it and in 1956 John Galbreath's Clear Dawn.

* * *

CUPID CAME to Hialeah Saturday. David C. Krimendahl, son of thoroughbred owners Mr. and Mrs. Herbert F. Krimendahl of Indianapolis, brought his fiance Martha Wiles, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Wiles of Flint, Mich., and Boca Raton.

A second engaged couple were Lynn Lummus and his blonde bride-to-be Donna McKinney of Grand Island, Neb.

MOCHA CHOC-A-BLOC

- ½ pound sweet cooking chocolate
- ½ cup strong coffee
- 2 egg yolks, slightly beaten
- ½ teaspoon vanilla
- 1 package (12) lady fingers

Melt chocolate over hot water. Add coffee and stir until smooth. Pour a little chocolate mixture on egg yolks and blend. Return to remaining chocolate mixture. Cook over hot water, stirring constantly, until slightly thickened. Cool to room temperature.

Split lady fingers. Place 3 halves close together and spread with chocolate mixture. Top with 3 lady finger halves placed crosswise to first layer and spread with chocolate mixture. Repeat until lady fingers are all used. Spread remaining chocolate mixture on sides. Chill. Cut in slices and top with coffee ice cream. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

'Let's All Fight Trashy Movies'

DEAR ELEANOR HART:

My beef against the PTA is that they're more concerned with whether there's a palm in the patio than violent, trashy movies in local theaters.

I don't permit my youngsters to see brutal, bloody pictures . . . they just aren't fit entertainment. Some parents are so careful to be sure Junior drinks his milk, but his diet of crime and trashy movies doesn't seem to matter.

When our neighborhood theater showed "Blackboard Jungle" to little children, it made me sick. I have not seen the picture, but I have read reviews and reports, and it is a "blueprint for delinquency."

My kids didn't go and I influenced a couple more not to. Some parents don't care what their children see, hear or read. But I do.

Maybe I'm old fashioned, but I've learned to say "no" and make it stick, even though "everyone else is going."

OLD-FASHIONED MOM

What happened to the "approved" movie program presented by neighborhood theaters??? Perhaps this was just a vacation package, but it was always a welcome one.

Needless to say, if there were more mothers like you, Old-Fashioned, a lot of the sensational movie trash would die a-borning.

* * *

Speak To Moms

It's a South Florida convenience for children to run about clad only in training pants. I doubt if many of the children you see frolicking in the all-together were sent out to play in that manner. But if you have been embarrassed by hordes of little ones minus their underpinning garments converging on your lawn, I am sure you'll get results if you give the word to mother.

Western Refusal Is Seen

Red Proposal Has 2 Flaws

See Story, P. 1A

By WILLIAM J. JORDEN
The New York Times Service

WASHINGTON — Western diplomats found little in the latest Soviets notes on the German problem to encourage hope for any easy, quick solution.

The only encouragement they could find in their first reading of the long messages from Moscow was that the Russians had kept the door open for possible negotiations.

Diplomatic sources here indicated the West almost certainly will reject the proposal for the kind of conference of foreign ministers that Moscow advanced Monday. It was assumed that rejection would be the diplomatic initiative to the Kremlin.

Diplomats here found two fundamental objections to the Soviet position:

First, they noted, the Russians have indicated a willingness to discuss only those problems Moscow deems important — making West Berlin a "free city" and arranging a peace treaty with a divided Germany.

Second, Moscow wants to add two Communist states, Poland and Czechoslovakia, to the roster of conference participants. The Western position is that only nations with an internationally recognized "special interest" in Germany — the Soviet Union, Great Britain, France and the U.S. — should make basic decisions on Germany, with the advice of the Germans themselves, both Communist and non-Communist.

Western counter-proposals can be expected to concentrate on those points. The West can be expected to argue that if they are willing to discuss problems raised by the Russians, the latter cannot expect to rule out matters the Western allies consider important.

On the question of participation, experts here doubt the West will rule out the presence of other states. It would argue, however, that expansion of a conference should not be confined to Communist countries Moscow wants in, while ignoring others, and that to include all nations with an interest in Germany would make a conference unwieldy and unnecessarily complicated.

U.S. to Get Bookie Cash

The $16,833 seized in a 1956 bookie raid on Harris Leveson Jr., will go into the U. S. treasury, the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled Monday.

The money was found in a safe and Leveson admitted gambling without a federal stamp, but has contended successfully in district court that there was no proof the money was used for gambling.

In reversing the decision, the appeals court heard an agent report that he heard the click of safe tumblers when they invaded the back room of a cigar shop at 221 23rd St., Miami Beach.

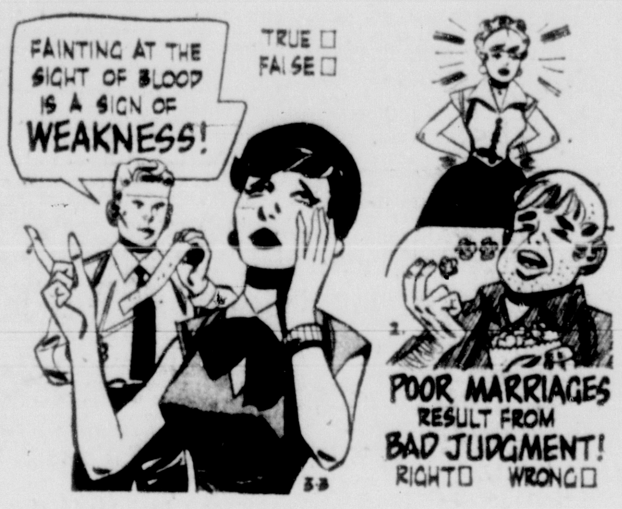
EXPLORE YOUR MIND

Sight of Blood



FAINTING AT THE SIGHT OF BLOOD IS A SIGN OF WEAKNESS!
TRUE ☐ FALSE ☐
1.
2.
POOR MARRIAGES RESULT FROM BAD JUDGMENT!
RIGHT ☐ WRONG ☐
3-3

By S. M. DUVALL and EVELAN M. DUVALL, Ph.Ds

FALSE. IT USUALLY shows that the person has had some horrifying experience in his past life that was associated with blood. Usually he has "forgotten" what this was. Sometimes only long probing by a psychiatrist can bring this out in the open where it can be handled. In some cases, if thoughtfully treated, the individual may gradually outgrow the trouble. But whatever the cause, ridiculing or telling the person to "buck up and be a man" is likely to do much more harm than good. Trying to cure him by making him look at blood can do serious damage.

2. Wrong, because the "bad judgment" usually results, not from stupidity or lack of knowledge, but from poor mental health. People make "mistakes," not because they don't know any better, but because they want to believe what will support their own wishes and neuroses. A girl may be deceived, not so much by her boy friend's lies as by here own irrational wish to believe these lies. Get your personality straightened out and you'll be deceived far less often.

Jimmy Jones Not Giving Up Derby Hopes for On-and-On

ALONG WITH the fans who bet on him, Calumet Trainer Jimmy Jones was disappointed in On-and-On at Hialeah Saturday. The odds-on favorite ran behind Bim Bout in the second race.

"I won't give up on him as a Kentucky Derby horse," said Jones. "I believe he can do better and I'll try some things to help when we run him again in a week or 10 days. I may put blinkers on him."

The biggest thrill for Jones at Hialeah, which ends its 40-day meeting today, was winning the Widener with seven-year-old Bardstown. Beaten in the McLennan, the Calumet gelding staged a comeback. He joined retired stablemate Armed in becoming the only two-time Widener winner.

Colorful Meeting for Hialeah

EXPECTATIONS WERE high when Hialeah opened. Tropical Park had shown a gain and President Gene Mori and Walter Donovan were confident their track would show an increase, too.

Instead Hialeah will wind up less than one per cent behind the $68,735,130 handle of the past season. A lot of hotels and other businesses would be happier if they used so little red ink.

It has been a colorful season highlighted by Bardstown's victory and the impressive win by Bayard Sharp's bargain horse, Troilus, which is now a favorite to cop the Florida Derby at Gulfstream.

Hialeah made a lot of headlines during its meeting, the most shocking incident being Security Chief John Madala being shot by an ex-tip sheet seller.

Then there was the rhubarb over Jockey Bill Hartack refusing at the starting gate to ride Fred Hooper's Greek Circle. Arguments are still raging over that one.

* * *

Optimism Still Runs High

ONCE, THE end of Hialeah's meeting meant that everything sluffed off. The popular theory was that Miami's season ended with Hialeah's action. The tourists addicted to improving the breed started leaving.

DONN JR.

Things have changed. Jimmy Donn's Gulfstream has changed the trend, actually being credited with creating a new season. Undaunted by failure of their predictions that Hialeah would show a gain, the optimists are now insisting Gulfstream will show increases.

The track by the sea opens Wednesday and Jimmy Donn Jr., executive vice president, predicts the track will have an opening day handle of $2,100,000, or almost $200,000 more than for the 1958 inaugural.

Booth An All-time Great

ALBIE BOOTH, former Yale football player who died Sunday, was one of the all-time great halfbacks despite weighing only 145 pounds.

Georgia was one of the few teams which experienced success in stopping Albie. The Bulldogs tackled him high — the best way to stop a little fellow — and once in the Yale Bowl, I heard the fans boo the visitors.

"Don't let that bother you," cautioned Westbrook Pegler, then a sports writer and my next seat neighbor in the press box: "You oughta hear 'em boo when Harvard players grab Booth around the neck."

Georgia beat Yale five straight times, including Booth's three years, 1929-30-31. In one game he got away with a 40-yard punt return and you could tell from his motions why he was so dangerous.

Booth's love for football inspired him to continue in the game as an official and he had worked in games here.

Orioles Get Wrist Action Tips

WESTVIEW PRO Ross Sobel was at Miami Stadium again Monday, showing the Orioles that hand action used in golf can help 'em in batting. Manager Paul Richards is appreciative of Sobel's help, particularly as Al Rosen credited improvement in his batting to Sobel's tips.

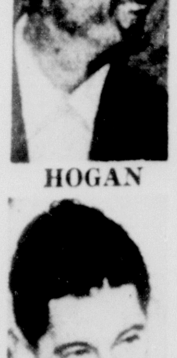
Hogan Interested in Match Here



HOGAN

Middlecoff

A SPECIAL golf match with Jimmy Demaret and Ben Hogan playing as partners against Sammy Snead (Boca Raton) and Cary Middlecoff (Diplomat) has been suggested to Bill MacDonald by Hogan, now in Florida . . . Ben proposed a $10,000 purse, but Bill is dubious whether even such a stellar attraction would draw—in view of so many conflicting attractions . . . If they could sell mutuel tickets, there'd be no doubt about its success . . . Recently Fred Corcoran advised this corner that he'd had a letter from Walter Hagen saying that he would like to come to Florida and play Tommy Armour again . . . "I had a letter from a man in the east saying, 'tell me when and where they meet and I'll fly down to see it,'" Corcoran advises . . . Ty Cobb thinks walking is the best exercise for oldsters and decries the fact so many use golfmobiles in getting around the links . . . Sure saves your strength, Ty . . . Corcoran's home is opposite the 15th hole of the Winged Foot Golf Course where the 1959 National Open will be played . . . Fred recalls Bobby Jones took a seven on that hole in 1929, but tied Al Espinoso and then beat him by 23 strokes in the 36-hole playoff.

Black Helen Draws Field of 13

Idun Favored in Hialeah's Finale

By RUSS HARRIS
Herald Turf Writer

Hialeah rings down the curtain on its 40-day meeting today with Idun, champion three-year-old filly of 1958, heading a field of 13 in the $30,000 added Black Helen Handicap.

Idun, owned by Mrs. Josephine Bay Paul, whipped six members of the Black Helen lineup in the seven-furlong Columbiana Handicap on Feb. 11. That was Idun's first start of the year and she held on courageously under 122 pounds to nip the fast-closing Woodlawn by a neck.

This time Idun must pick up two pounds and go two extra furlongs but is still rated as a 6-5 choice under Bill Hartack.

Following Idun's 124 pounds in the weights are A Glitter, 122; Big Effort, 118; Rosewood, 116; Woodlawn, 112; Happy Princess, 110; Rare Treat, 109; Wonder Star, 109; Point Pleasant, 108; Water-Sparrow, 107; Edna Allen, 107; Rich Tradition, 107; and Loyal Lady 2nd, 105.

Calumet Farm's entry of A Glitter and Rosewood is ranked as second choice in the wagering at 3-1.

A Glitter drew the outside post in a field of 15 in the Columbiana and never got in the running. However, she has been training well for the Black Helen and should appreciate the longer route. She will be ridden by Chris Rogers, the man who booted Troilus to victory in Saturday's Flamingo.

Rosewood, the other Calumet starter, won an allowance test in her last outing and also likes a distance of ground. Charlie Burr rides.

Sam Boulmetis handles Woodlawn, which just missed beating Idun in the Columbiana and could be the big horse today if she runs back to that race.

351 Gone...9 to Go!

NINE MORE APPEARANCES like this and Stan Wolfman can call it a season. It's his job to bugle the horses to the post in each Hialeah race. He's done it 351 times since Jan. 17 and has only today's nine events to finish off.

Hialeah Suspends Arcaro Ten Days

"The Master" flew here to ride the favored First Landing in the $100,000 added Flamingo. He not only got whipped by Troilus in the Flamingo, but also drew a 10-day suspension from the Hialeah stewards which will cost him the mount on Ole Fols in the $100,000 added Santa Anita Derby next Saturday.

The suspension, announced Monday, was handed down for careless riding on Derrick in Saturday's fifth race.

Derrick lost by a nose to Cedar Brook after weaving a perilous path between the stretch turn and the eighth pole.

Arcaro will be grounded from March 4-13.

Hialeah stewards also dealt a 10-day suspension to Calvin Stone for reckless riding which caused his mount, Ricodee, to fall in Saturday's eighth race.

$3,000 Pay Cut Seen Likely

Loes Signs, But Still Would Welcome Trade

Billy Loes, temperamental Baltimore Orioles pitcher, Monday ended a brief holdout and came to terms with Manager Paul Richards.

The salary figure was not disclosed, but one source estimated it at around $20,000. Last year Loes' salary was $23,000.

Loes, who posted a 12-7 record with the Orioles in 1957, slipped last year to 3-9.

He feuded at times with Richards last season and repeated Monday that he'd "like to be traded to another club."

Wise, Rice Sign With Milwaukee

BRADENTON — (AP) — The Milwaukee Braves trimmed their holdout list to three Monday. Infielder Casey Wise and Catcher Del Rice both came to terms with Executive Vice President Birdie Tebbetts.

Rice already is at Bradenton and Wise told Tebbets from St. Petersburg that he would report today.

Still unsigned are Joe Adcock, Gene Conley and Don McMahon.

Campy Back --With Jokes

VERO BEACH —(AP)— The round-faced guy with the wide grin looked familiar, and why shouldn't he? Roy Campanella was back with the Dodgers.

The jokes and horseplay began — almost like old times— as soon as Campy checked into the Los Angeles training camp.

But this time Camp came to the spring baseball wars not as one of the game's great catchers, but as a coach and in a wheelchair. Flanked by two attendants, Campanella rolled to the batting cage in the electrically powered wheel chair he calls his "Cadillac."

Waiting to take his cuts was an old buddy, Duke Snider.

"You're some cowboy," snorted Campy, referring good-naturedly to Duke's recent role as a bad guy in a television shoot-'em-up.

Cerv and A's $5,000 Apart

KANSAS CITY — (AP) — Bob Cerv, the Kansas City Athletics' No. 1 holdout, said Monday he and the club are still $5,000 apart on salary and the A's "will have to contact me" if they want to negotiate further.

Cerv, who drove in 104 runs for the Athletics last year, including 38 home runs, said:

"I have not talked with anyone since I talked with Parke Carroll (A's general manager) here in Kansas City last Thursday before he left for West Palm Beach (the A's Florida training site). I'm holding pat. We're still $5,000 apart. They will have to contact me."

Cerv reportedly is asking $35,000.

Bicycle Ordered To Help Roach

BRADENTON — (AP) — Mel Roach of the Milwaukee Braves is going to get a new bicycle.

The team ordered the two-wheeler for the 25-year-old athlete who is worried over missing a chance as second baseman because of a troublesome left knee.

Roach said he was dissatisfied with the diagnosis of a Florida physician who told him to forget about swinging a bat until opening day. He said he wants to return to Milwaukee for a checkup by Dr. Bruce Brewer, the club physician who operated on his knee.

Meanwhile, Roach will pedal the bicycle around to build up the knee and leg muscles.

Cards Getting A Mite Heavy

ST. PETERSBURG — (AP) — A lack of training because of poor weather, three straight damp days, has added to the weight problems of some St. Louis Cardinals.

"This weather has slowed us up," said Manager Solly Hemus. "Some of the boys have put on pounds instead of taking off. But if it warms up and is clear, we'll be all right."

To our good friends who sometimes can't get Jack Daniel's:

We'd rather ask your patience than lose your respect for Jack Daniel's Whiskey

We've been rolling barrels of sippin' whiskey out of our Tennessee hollow for nearly a century . . . but never before have we been in quite the situation we're in today.

Right now the calls for our Jack Daniel's Whiskey are running ahead of supply. And, unfortunately, the thing that makes so many friends for Jack Daniel's is the very same thing that limits the amount we can make.

You see, we're the only distillers who still smooth out our product by an age-old Tennessee process called Charcoal Mellowing. It's a costly "extra blessing" which takes more than twice the time of the other whiskey-making steps put together. We've always made Jack Daniel's this way. And we'll never change. That's a promise.

But we're not sitting still. We're building a little extra capacity into our small distillery. So, we hope you'll patiently keep on asking for Jack Daniel's Tennessee Whiskey—and if you find your dealer is out of it, we hope you'll try him again later.

Boulmetis Wins 'All' In Juvenile

By RUSS HARRIS
Herald Turf Writer

When they show motion pictures of the second division of the Hialeah Juvenile Stakes, Brookmeade Stable's Ouija Board will appear only at the start of the film and then "vanish."

But Ouija Board won the top slice of the $10,000-added purse. Jockey Sammy Boulmetis took the bay colt down the extreme outside of the course, a couple of yards from the fence, and beat F. B. Holbrook's Carrollton by two and a half lengths.

Ouija Board was all by himself, so far from the rest of the 13-horse field that he doesn't appear in the movies except just at the break.

Boulmetis didn't intend to take the "overland" route. "I didn't want to be that close to the fence," said Sammy. "I was trying to get him in."

Sammy didn't get him in but he got him home. The colt paid $21.10.

His time for the three furlongs on a "good" track was 33.1.

Boulmetis had the right number — 11 — in both halves of the Juvenile. He won the first division on Leo Fruchtman's Bally Ache.

Boulmetis brought Bally Ache down the center of the track to score a neck victory over Greentree's Brud.

Bally Ache, who was 15-1 on the morning line, was bet down to 3-1 and refunded $8.70. He ran the three furlongs in 33.4.

Just before scratch time Monday morning, Chick Lang, agent for Bill Hartack, cancelled the jockey's mounts for the afternoon. Lang said, "Bill's not sick, just not feeling good. He'll be back riding Tuesday."

As it turned out, Hartack may have saved the public some money. He had been scheduled to ride Andale and Cape Canaveral in the two divisions of the Juvenile.

Andale, a 51-1 chance in the mutuels, ran seventh while Cape Canaveral, 88-1, finished ninth.

The crowd of 19,479 wagered $1,886,824. A year ago Monday, 18,204 fans a total of $1,813,367.

Nats Sign Lemon, Pearson

ORLANDO, Fla. — (AP) — The Washington Senators Monday signed holdouts Albie Pearson and Jim Lemon and learned Coach Bill Jurges had declined an attractive offer from the Cleveland Indians.

Pearson, 1958 American League rookie of the year, signed for an estimated $11,000. That would be $4,000 more than his freshman pay of last year.

Lemon, who hit 26 home runs last year, also was raised to a reported $14,000.

Jurges negotiated a two-year contract to his liking with President Calvin Griffith. General Manager Frank Lane of the Indians last week had offered the 50-year-old former shortstop what amounted to a $5,000 boost to instruct infielders throughout the Cleveland system.

Castoff Powers Surprises Reds

TAMPA — (AP) — Johnny Powers, a fellow who was just a "throw in" in a recent deal between Cincinnati and Pittsburgh, provided the surprise Monday in the Reds' first intra-squad training game.

Powers hit successive home runs to drive in all of his team's tallies as the "regulars" won a six-inning 5-2 game from the "scrubinis."

Powers was one of the second line players given up by the Pirates in the deal in which the Reds traded away pitcher Harvey Haddix, Catcher Smoky Burgess and Infielder Don Hoak to get Frank Thomas. Last season Powers batted .183 with the Pirates as a pinch hitter.

First Yank Tilt Ends in 3-3 Tie

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. — (AP) — The first intrasquad game at the New York Yankees' training camp ended in a 3-3 tie Monday. The 6½ inning contest between teams led by Charley Silvera and Steve Souchock was called, depriving the Souchocks of a chance to bat in the seventh.

'Could Hit 30' -Bucs' Stuart

FORT MYERS — (AP) — First Baseman Dick Stuart, who figures to be a key man for the Pittsburgh Pirates this season, believes he might hit 30 home runs.

"I don't know what Danny's (manager Danny Murtaugh) plans are, but I would like to play the full year at first base. I think I could hit the 30 homers then and maybe we'll all be playing in the World Series."

Stuart came up from Salt Lake City of the Pacific Coast League in mid-season last year and hit 16 home runs for the pirates. He had 31 for Salt Lake City earlier.

Oklahoma Prexy Raps Big Eight

NORMAN, Okla. —(UPI)— Dr. George L. Cross, University of Oklahoma president, Monday stood behind the university's handling of its difficulties with Orange Bowl officials.

Oklahoma regents were reprimanded by Big Eight faculty representatives Friday for airing their grievances publicly instead of going through the conference.

But Cross gave the conference officials a polite though terse reply. He pointed out that the faculty representatives have been guests of the Orange Bowl each year.

"I am sorry that they were unhappy about it," he said. "I can understand their unhappiness.

"The contract with the Orange Bowl has been a lucrative contract for the conference and the trips to the Orange Bowl have been pleasant experiences for the institutional members who voted this little reprimand."

Kansas State Leads UPI Poll

NEW YORK — (UPI) — NCAA Tournament-bound Kansas State, boasting the nation's second best (22-1) won-lost record, replaced Kentucky atop the United Press International college basketball ratings Monday in the next-to-last week of balloting for the national champion.

Kansas State, second in last week's ratings even though it received more first-place votes than Kentucky, was the top pick of 16 of the 35 coaches who make up the UPI rating board this week, and the Wildcats picked up enough second and third-place votes to pile up a 305-point total.

Kentucky, which got the Southeastern Conference berth to the NCAA Tournament when Mississippi State (24-1) declined, got 11 first-place votes this week, compared to 13 last week, for 297 points.

Cincinnati (21-2), the pre-season choice of the coaches, held onto third place, drawing five first-place votes and 259 points.

Maroons' Bailey Howell Voted SEC's No. 1 Player

ATLANTA —(AP)— For the second straight year, basketball players in the Southeastern Conference have voted Bailey Howell the most valuable player in the league and Gene Tormohlen the best rebounder.

Howell, who led Mississippi State to its finest season, also was voted the league's best shot in an Associated Press poll. The players picked Rex Frederick of Auburn as the finest defensive man and Henry Hart of Auburn as the best playmaker.

HOWELL

TORMOHLEN

Frederick was runnerup to Howell in the MVP balloting, just as he was a year ago.

But Howell's margin again was lopsided—51 votes to 11.

Tormohlen, the 6-8 ace of the Tennessee Vols, scored an even bigger majority in the best rebounder balloting. He drew 56 votes to 8 for Howell, the runnerup.

Howell, who has set several scoring records during his brilliant varsity career, had no serious challenger in the best shot category. He polled 42 votes to 9 for runnerup Gary Stoll of Tulane.

Like Chill, O's Drill —Richards

If Manager Paul Richards is finding any fault with the spring training progress of his Baltimore Orioles, he's keeping it in the family.

Richards had nothing but good things to say following Monday's baseball workout at Miami Stadium — even about Sunday and Monday's chilly weather.

"It was a welcome change," said Richards, who last week praised the 80-85 degree temperatures as "just right" to work off his athletes' excess poundage.

KLAUS

"The squad appears to be getting into condition," said Richards. "The players are doing things faster and quicker than they have been."

In Monday's intra-squad game, Rookie Outfielder Dave Nicholson smashed a two-run homer over the right-center wall to provide Coach Luman Harris' team with a 3-1 margin over Harry Brecheen's "Cats."

"He showed a lot of power," said Richards after the 6-2, 215-pounder cleared the 375-foot portion of the fence.

Breaking into pro ball last year, Nicholson had bat, did travel.

In order, he played with Class A Knoxville (25 games), Class B Wilson (65), and Class E Dublin (28).

Despite only a composite .222 batting average, the report on his all-around performance was:

"Highly favorable first season . . . threw and ran better than anticipated . . . fielding showed decided improvement."

Richards labeled the pitching of Wes Stock and Chuck Estrada as "very Impressive."

For Class C Aberdeen (S. Dak.) last summer, the fastballing righthander Stock won 14 games, lost six. Estrada, also a righty, had a 15-11 record with Knoxville last season.

Also cheering to Richards was the sight of such veterans as Infielder Billy Klaus, Infielder Jim Finigan and Catcher Joe Ginsberg "beginning to round into form."

"We'll give the older players long batting drills each morning," Richards said, "and continue using the youngsters in intra-squad games in the afternoon."

He feels his bread-and-butter workers should be ready to play a portion of Sunday's opening local exhibition against the Kansas City's A's.

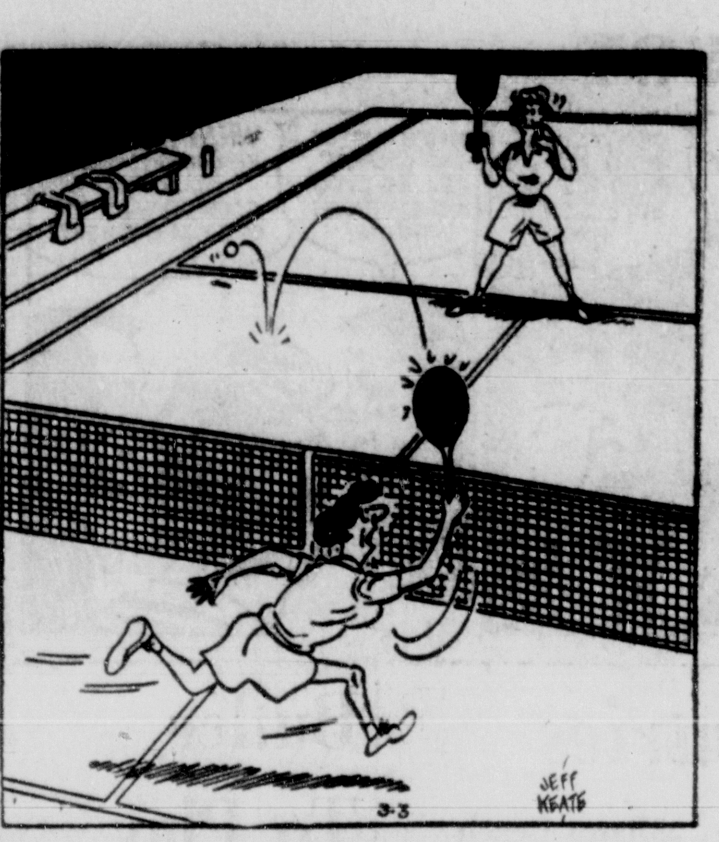
Otto Graham Opens CG's Football Drills

NEW LONDON, Conn. — (AP) — The Coast Guard Academy held its first spring football practice Monday under its new coach, Otto Graham.

Graham plans a wide-open game for the Cadets next fall. He said the emphasis will be on "passing the ball — if we can get someone to throw it."



"Oh, dear! I'll be glad when we play well enough so we won't always be hitting it out of reach of the other!"

Gables Makes Swim Debut; MHS Opens Baseball Play

Two defending state champions, Coral Gables and Miami High, today make their debuts in swimming and baseball, respectively.

Gables, winner of both the boys and girls swimming crowns, was scheduled to unveil its powerful 1959 team against Miami Beach Saturday. But the Typhoons called the meet off.

Today, the Cavaliers of Bill Burrell open against Pompano Beach in the Tornadoes' home pool.

The Miami High-Southwest game at Miami Field at 3:15 will open the high school baseball season. Eric Wanderon is expected to pitch for Coach Ralph Davis' Stingarees. They'll miss bonus star Paul Higgs.

Other swimming meets today match Fort Lauderdale and Southwest at Curtis Park and Miami Edison and Pine Crest at Fort Lauderdale.

St. Pat's Opens Cage Tourney at Pahokee

Special To The Herald

PÁHOKEE — Clewiston and St. Patrick's of Miami Beach meet here at 7 tonight in the opening game of the Group 8, Class B basketball tournament.

Forest Hills takes on injury-plagued Clewiston in the nightcap.

The tournament moves Wednesday to Southwest High where the host Eagles meet Palmetto at 7. Riviera Beach opposes St. Ann's, upstate.

Okeechobee plays the Clewiston-St. Pat's winner here Thursday night and Naples meets the Forest Hills-Pahokee victor in the second game.

The four winners return here Friday night for the semifinals. Consolation games and finals are on tap Saturday night with the champion advancing to the state tournament in Gainesville the following week.

Clewiston, winner of only one game this season, will have its hands full against St. Pat's. John Murray and Phil Drosdick gave the Shamrocks a solid one-two punch.

Pahokee, minus injured rebounding star Richard Shackford, will be hard pressed against the 10th grade invaders. Shackford and Alvy Early form the Blue Devils' scoring punch.

Only Catfish Brought Booth Down to Earth

NEW YORK — (AP) — The athletic feats of little Albie Booth of Yale nearly 20 years ago read like the pages of a Frank Merriwell novel but they weren't exaggerated, Booth's old coach said Monday.

"Albie was a fabulous athlete," said Dr. Marvin (Mal) Stevens, former head football coach at Yale and now a leading orthopedic surgeon. "He was a fierce competitor and he had marvelous timing. He could have excelled in any sport."

Booth, a 145-pound mite who rocketed to fame as a phantom-hipped football quarterback in 1929-31, died of a heart attack early Sunday at the age of 51. His exploits in football and baseball have become legendary.

"When Pat Osborne, our freshman coach, said he had a swell little player coming up, I pooh-poohed the idea," Stevens recalled. "I said no man that small can play football. But he showed me."

"His forte as a ball-carrier was his timing. He could cut on a dime."

Stevens said once he saw Booth dropkick a goal 63 yards in the mud. Other times he would stand in the middle of the field and dropkick the football over one goal, then turn around and dropkick it over the other.

"He would stand in a huddle with those big giants hovering over him and bark signals," Stevens said. "When a beefy lineman balked or questioned him he would say 'get your big feet down the field and do what you're supposed to do. I'll handle this.' "

It was in his senior year that Ben Ticknor, the Harvard giant, smeared Albie near the sidelines, then held him pinned to the ground.

"You can get up now," Booth told the big fellow. "Everyone knows you made the tackle."

Whereupon Ticknor gave Albie another bounce and got a 15-yard penalty for roughness. "It was worth it," said Ticknor.

In the Georgia game that same year, Catfish Smith, great Georgia end, nailed Albie with a vicious tackle early in the contest.

"Listen, Smith," said Albie, "There are two things that don't go in this bowl. One of them is unnecessary roughness."

"Sure," drawled the Catfish, "and the other one is you." Georgia won, 15-0.

Florida Opens Grid Workouts

GAINESVILLE — (AP) — Florida spring football practice finally got underway Monday after a two-day delay due to rain.

Coach Bob Woodruff said there will be 20 actual practices during the next 36 days and that, despite the starting delay, the annual Orange and Blue Game will be held March 21 as originally scheduled.

More than 80 candidates were on the field Monday, but only two lettermen who will be seniors next season were in the group. They were Quarterback Wayne Williamson of Tampa and Halfback Jack Westbook of Miami.

Others who will be seniors were excused to take part in spring sports.

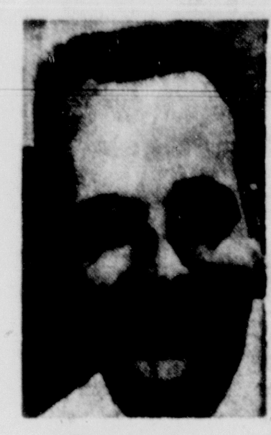
Met Angler Lands Sail, Steers Boat

Every year brings a new raft of fishing tales to the desk of George Robey, manager of the Herald-sponsored Metropolitan Miami Fishing Tournament. They all concern, of course, the struggle of man against fish.



DUNAWAY

Some of the stories have the traditional sad ending of the big one getting away. These go into competition for the Met's Hard-Luck Trophy sponsored by Philip Wylie.

Others are inspiring tales in which the angler conquers all obstacles and boats his catch. Usually these accomplishments win no trophies, but it's obvious that the angler would much prefer to have his fish than any award in the world.

Richard S. Ruslander of Buffalo sent in the story behind his sailfish entry in the Met.

"Mrs. Ruslander and I were in a 16-foot skiff which we rented from the Jack Tar Motel. Because of Mrs. Ruslander's back difficulty it was necessary to put a large chair in the boat, which gave very little room for me to work.

"While trolling with my freshwater muskie tackle, I got a strike from a 6½-foot sailfish—my first. Since Mrs. Ruslander could not operate an outboard motor, I had to take care of the boat as well as fight the fish and try to follow it around.

"After a dozen jumps the sail turned and charged the boat. I was not able to take up slack line and run the boat at the same time, so for a moment it looked as if the fish would go right through the boat. However, he missed it by a foot and at the end of the run he became tangled in the terminal tackle.

FISHING
with Vic Dunaway

"Luckily he was all in at that point and I managed to pull him over to the boat. Since my hands were sore from helping someone else land a sail without gloves, I had no choice but to gaff him."

Warning—Don't Sell Without License

THE FLORIDA STATE Board of Conservation has issued a friendly tip to out-of-state fishermen: Don't sell your catch without a license.

Conservation Director Ernest Mitts said he has been receiving reports about winter visitors selling their salt water fish. "I think some of the cases may be due to the person not knowing the law," Mitts said. "We want to inform residents and nonresidents alike. We would rather do that than make arrests for violations."

* * *

Resident Can Sell to Wholesalers

LOCAL AGENT John G. Dampier explains the terms of the law this way: "Any person who is not a legal resident of Florida must have a commercial fishing license to sell the fish he catches. The license costs $25, and it is an agent's duty to arrest any person violating this law."

Dampier said that a resident (a person who has established residence and lived in Florida at least a year) may sell his salt water catch to a wholesale dealer. But a resident who sells to a consumer must have a retail license which costs $10. A wholesale dealer's license costs a resident $50.

License applications can be obtained from Dampier, who has an office at Pier 5, Miami, or may be applied for direct to the Conservation Department in Tallahassee.

Butts' Sizzling 29.6 Wins Scoring Crown

Averaging 29.6 points for 21 regular season games, Hialeah's Bernie (Boom Boom) Butts ranks as Dade's high school basketball scoring champion.

The lefthander scored 621 points, including a record 61 against South Broward. Twice Butts hit above 40 points, seven times above 30 and six times above 20. His low point was 17 against Miami High.

North Miami's Tom Baxley scored a record 640 points in 24 regular season games. But the talented junior finished runnerup to Butts with his 26.6 average.

Both boys will count conference and tournament playoff games on their career totals. Butts scored 460 points last year, his first in Dade County, and Baxley 302.

Ronnie Poh scored 31 points in Edison's final game Saturday night to give him 471 on the season—a Red Raider record. Poh was third in averages with 22.4.

The only other player averaging above 20 points was Coral Gables' Wally Dale. The senior sharpshooter scored 433 points for a 21.1 average.

Several of the county's leading scorers will return next year. These include Baxley, Palmetto's Bruce Meade, Edison's Charley Key, Norland's Ronnie Butts and Miami High's Bob Paterson.

Butler To Play In NIT

NEW YORK — (AP) — Butler (18-8) Monday was picked to participate in the National Invitation Basketball Tournament at Madison Square Garden March 12-21.

The Indianapolis team was the ninth picked for the 12-team field. The other three berths are expected to go to St. Louis and Bradley, and either Utah or Denver of the Skyline Conference.

Previously named for the tourney were St. Bonaventure, Villanova, Oklahoma City and Providence, and four New York teams — New York University, Manhattan, St. John's and Fordham.

The Butler Bulldogs lost to St. John's in the first round of the NIT last year.

This year's team, composed mainly of sophomores and juniors, came on fast after losing its first five games. The Bulldogs won the Indiana Conference title. Their victims included Dartmouth, Tennessee, Indiana and Notre Dame.

Unitas To 'Help Out'

RICHMOND, Va. — (AP) — Johnny Unitas, the quarterback who led the Baltimore Colts to the National Football League Championship, will help out this week as visiting coach at the University of Richmond.

Shorts Wins Rough Fight

NEW YORK —(AP)— Cleveland's Cecil Shorts, a last day substitute and a 5-1 underdog, Monday night won a split decision over Cuba's Benny (Kid) Paret at St. Nicholas Arena. It was a bitter, bruising and penalty-packed 10-rounder.

The 21-year-old Ohioan called on to sub for ailing Randy Sandy at noon, spotted Paret 8½ pounds—146½ to 155.

The loss snapped Paret's win streak at four and was his third against 27 victories. Shorts scored his third straight triumph. Referee Petey Scalzo penalized Shorts the fourth round for heeling and took the fifth round from Paret for low blows and roughing.

Seminoles Sizzle

TALLAHASSEE — (AP) — Sophomore Buck Hiles trimmed nearly three seconds off Florida State's butterfly record Monday night, as the Seminoles coasted to a 63-23 swimming victory over East Carolina College. It was Florida State's fifth dual triumph.

LENDING-A-HAND, Herman Sumars Monday presented a $500 check to The Herald's Lend - a - Hand Bowling Tournament fund on behalf of his own Bowl-O-Mat Lanes, Hialeah Lanes, Cloverleaf Lanes, Palm Springs Lanes and the Brunswick bowling company. The tournament has raised $6,952, all of which will help send underprivileged youngsters to a free summer camp.

Tomy Lee, Terrang Brighten Gulfstream 'Possibility' Picture

On the eve of the opening of Gulfstream Park, where a 43-day meeting begins Wednesday, there was good news for the management in connection with the track's two top features, the Florida Derby and the Gulfstream Park Handicap, each $100,000 added event.

In addition to the prospect that Troilus, the Flamingo winner, would be ready to meet all comers in the Florida Derby on April 4, word from California was that Tomy Lee was not as seriously injured as first believed and has returned to training. He is eligible for the local Derby and may make the trip here.

The handicap picture also brightened with an announcement from the West Coast that Terrang would make the Gulfstream Park Handicap his next major objective. Terrang last Saturday won the rich Santa Anita Handicap for his ninth stakes victory at the Santa Anita oval, an all-time high for any one performer.

In his Santa Anita Handicap victory, Terrang turned back the favored Hillsdale in a torrid stretch duel and Hillsdale also is among the eligibles for the local mile and a quarter classic to be run on March 21. He is expected to make the excursion to Gulfstream Park.

There is also the possibility that Llangollen Farm's Royal Living, in the Santa Anita Handicap, may be made a supplementary nomination to the Gulfstream Handicap. That may be done up to next Monday for $5,000.

Meanwhile Racing Secretary James P. Ross, Jr. anticipates a bumper field of sprinters when entries close today for the $10,000 Armed Handicap which headlines the opening program of the Gulfstream meeting.

Ross also issued his weights for the Magic City Handicap, mile and 70 yard attraction for Saturday.

These show Adele L. Rand's Clem, now recuperating from a training injury, as the top weight under 126. He is followed by F. A. Piarulli & J. J. Brunetti's Vertex with 125 and Claiborne Farm's Nadir under 122. Vertex may be the starting high weight of the field in this $15,000 "prelim" to the Gulfstream Park Handicap.

If the Armed Handicap shapes up as expected and the supporting races fill well, the management anticipates a turnout of around 24,000 for the inaugural and prospects seem bright that a new opening day mutuel mark may be set. The old one of $2,009,453 was established in 1956.

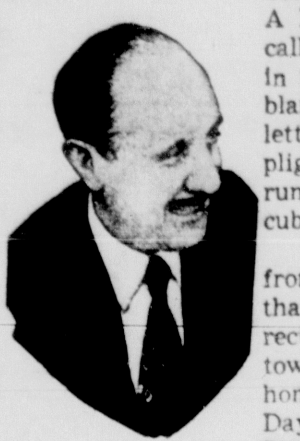
Nightlife with George Bourke

O'Connor Conquers Collapse, Pneumonia to Be Here March 17



MOSS MABRY who went from Plant City, Fla., some years ago to win awards for his costume designing for Warner Brother movie stars, is starting a line of gowns bearing the Moss Mabry label . . . A New York radio station, which called itself the "hottest" station in town has been offering electric blankets to the writers of the best letters describing cold winter night plights. Consolation prize, for 100 runners-up, will be a set of ice cubes, deliverable this summer.

We had ever so many notes from press agents informing us that Burt Lancaster's publicity director, Bernard M. Kamber, was in town — but no one told he was honeymooning with his Valentine's Day bride, Helen Haft . . . Ralph Stephens, long time restaurateur and publicity director, is handling publicity and sales for Biscayne Terrace Hotel . . . Rex Carlton and Rick Newberry have decided to film "Havana Intrigue" at the Vera Cruz Studio in Sao Paulo, Brazil, instead of in Havana! "Current film commitment problems in the island country" is cited as the vague reason for the switch . . . Donald O'Connor is back on his feet — and dancing — after a collapse from overwork and pneumonia. He opens at Fontainebleau Mar. 17 and will be seen as guest with Dinah Shore on Dean Martin's TV spectacular on March 19.

Tip to Movie Theater Execs

SIGN OF THE TIMES? Or maybe nearby Melbourne and Orlando are close enough to the Mackle's new 30,000 home housing development at Port Malabar to provide the movie theater facilities which are not in its prospectus? A sum in excess of $18,250,000 is being spent on the development — but no movie house in the plans! . . . William Inge, in to see Dick Shawn in "Where's Charley?" at Coconut Grove Playhouse, discussed possibility of showing his "Dark at the Top of the Stairs" there this spring.

We did specify that some "West Coast of the USA" brewers were using slightly smaller beer cans but it seems it was misunderstood never the less. Florida West Coast brewers are not involved. . . . It's Carol Martin, not Martine Carol, who is at the Biscayne Terrace Hotel. She's pianist in the Rendezvous Lounge . . . . It's been a busy season too for the Three Jays, the talented musical and vocal teenager children of Rose Jay. Stan, Marty and Marilyn played the Kenilworth on Saturday, will play the Shore Club tonight and the Algiers next Saturday.

There's a Countess Rita Alexandrova billed at Leon and Eddie's. No, we don't know whether she's listed in Almanac de Gotha. We haven't seen her press book . . . It's reported that Shirley Jones won't be able to keep her "Pound in the Pocket" date at Royal Poinciana Playhouse in Palm Beach, but the show will go on — with Helen Broderick and others in the cast.

Know Your A(ces), B(rewer), C(lary)

A PLEASING demonstration of the great-things-in-small-packages adage is in evidence at the Cafe Cristal Room of the Diplomat Hotel these evenings in the coupling of a petite package named Teresa Brewer and a Napoleon-sized-and-accented-dynamo of humor and song named Robert Clary. Together — and with the added contribution of the dapper dancing Mambo Aces — they make for a sparkling session of smart supper club entertainment.

Miss Brewer doesn't depend on the vocals which have brought her great recording success, however. She has an act—an act featuring a male quartet and four costume changes!

Donald O'Connor . . . bouncy

Marty Jay . . . busy

Carol Martin . . . boogie

True, she does all these recording hits—from "Put a Nickel in the Slot" down to her more recent triumphs. For variety of tempo she demonstrates her talent with a ballad in a tribute to "Mothers" and sequels from that into a lively treatment of "Don't Bring Lulu" which brings down the house.

Clary is a delight in a generally familiar (and that is good!) act which runs the Clary repertoire from "Lucky Pierre" all the way to "I'm in Love with Miss Logan," topping that with a Chevalier medley delivered with charm and humor.

Frankie a Real Jockey to Actor

REMEMBER Frankie Darro, the pint-sized actor who specialized in playing jockeys? He did the job that killed the favorite in "Broadway Bill." Recently he worked in Key West with the "Operation Petticoat" company, which included Arthur O'Connell. First day on the set, and meeting Frank for the first time, Arthur looked disapprovingly at him and said: "Why did you have to pull all those nice horses and throw all those races, Frankie!"

Coincidence: The new Mammy's restaurant is directly across the street from the two operation of Morris Lansburgh, who got reams of publicity with his Cavalcade of Stars at the Deauville which offers large-lustre stars free to guests. Without depriving the orginators of the Cavalcade idea of any credits, Bob Feinstein, operator of Mammy's, had his own cavalcade of stars back in the salad days of Mammy's. And don't bicker, please, with the contention that Bob's stars, who dropped in to eat, didn't "put on a show." You know that performers are never off-stage. It will be doubly true when Bob London installs his 12-to-3 radio show there Thursday!

Buster Keaton has a good alibi if the tax agents call him in on the basis of a piece in the Feb. 22 National Inquirer which says in part: ". . . Buster Keaton won a big bundle in Las Vegas the other night and he was smart enough to quit while he was ahead." Deauville publicist Gene Hogan will testify for him that there must be two Buster Keatons, one with a rabbit's foot. Screen star Buster Keaton had been working in "Newcomers of 1928" at the Deauville for three weeks!

Paris Studio Plays Angel

NEW YORK — (AP) — For the first time in Broadway annals, a foreign film company is helping underwrite the cost of a White Way stage show. United States movie makers have frequently been investors.

The show, "C'est La Vie," is a musical based upon the life of Valentin, a dancer friend of painter Toulouse-Lautrec.

Cinopera & Gregor Films of Paris and Rome has put up $150,000, half of the estimated cost. "C'est La Vie" is to go into rehearsal in October.

Did Fisher's Pals Help to End Marriage?

DEBBIE REYNOLDS' divorce suit blamed "another woman" for the marriage crackup. The problem, however, wasn't just "another woman." Oddly, Eddie Fisher's male chums were a major factor in the marital explosion. Discussing their marriage problems in the December Redbook, Debbie confessed: "The buddies had more time with him than his wife did, and I didn't like that. I was excluded. I was his wife, but I wasn't included; I wasn't his buddy. I'd come home from shopping and there would be a dozen men in the living room, all sitting around smoking. It looked like a men's club and it made me angry. I made it obvious that I wanted them to leave."

Debbie Reynolds ... scram

PRINCESS Margaret's romantic didoes are constant fodder for mags and dailies. Apparently, a castle is a glass house and the princess is condemned to living her private life in public. Incredibly, her heart is ruled by antiquated laws. Princess Margaret's right to marry, for example, is regulated by the Royal Marriage Act of 1772. The measure was enacted by George III as a bitter whim—after two of his brothers married women of whom he disapproved. In other words, a princess doesn't have the romantic freedom extended to any ordinary British lydy. Sometimes the throne is a trap.

Princess Margaret ... old law

In the final analysis, more important than being a famous princess is being a happy woman.

* * *

MARTHA RAYE, it is reported, is being sued for back taxes by the government. Some people may wonder why stars who earn lofty fees frequently have tax problems. June Allyson has explained the stark arithmetic of stardom: "High-echelon salaries result in the high cost of business managers, agents, publicists, secretaries, Screen Actors Guild dues, charities, cars, clothes, entertainment. Then come high-echelon taxes." Miss Allyson once received $5,000 for a single radio appearance. She later told Dick Powell she would use the money to buy a mink. "Go ahead," her groom responded, "after taxes, spend it any way you like."

Suzy Parker ... secret

After taxes, Miss Allyson had $300.

* * *

LOVE has no logic simply because it is ruled by the heart rather than the mind. Suzy Parker's marriage endured while it was a secret. Less than a year after it was made public—the merger ended. Why did she keep it a secret? One of Miss Parker's friends has a whimsical explanation: "Suzy may have liked the idea of living in sin, but her strict upbringing made her feel that it was better to be married while doing so."

* * *

The headlines disclosed that Deborah Kerr will soon have an opportunity to marry the man she loves. She is a lovely, talented lady who deserves happiness. She knows that being a star is not as important as being loved . . . Miss Kerr once authored the following touching words: "As long as you live, know this: If you care for a man, really care, there is only one thing you can give him that has value. It is not a thing of money, pride, intelligence or position. But it's the greatest thing you can offer as a woman. Just say, quite simply: "Have I told you today how much I love you?"

NOEL COWARD'S latest effort, "Look After Lulu," opens this week. It is his 47th play. Dear Noel—who has written several dozen songs and books—is undoubtedly talented. Moreover, the Sophisticated One will be the first to agree with anyone who praises him. When he clicked at Vegas, an actress came backstage and gushed: "I've never been so thrilled in my life. That's not Hollywood talking. I mean it, I do mean it."

Coward responded: "The nicest thing in the world, my dear, is to be praised. It sounds warming and lovely and I adore it."

NAUTICAL TALK is hardly the subject in this scene featuring James Garner as a Naval officer and Andra Martin as his mate from "Up Periscope." The Warner color film opens today at the Carib, Miami and Miracle Theaters.

Fine Color Can't Offset Crudity

'Wongo' Does Wrongo by Our Miami

By GEORGE BOURKE
Herald Amusement Editor

Movie Review

IN BRIEF—Good color photography is top quality in generally so-so made-in-Miami movie.

"Wild Women of Wongo", now at the North Miami Theater and the Palm, Dixie and 22nd Ave. Drive-ins, may do all right on double bills such as it premiered here over the weekend, but it is hardly fully representative of what an independent producer should be able to do in movie-making in Miami.

Some of the ambitious color photography is excellent and director-producer James Walcott has made ingenious use of Fairchild Gardens and Tahiti Beach and Rock Garden locations (all in the metropolitan Miami area) in telling his story of the Cave Man era.

But the story is clumsily told, performances are little more than recitive exercises, and the physical presentation (camera angles and staging), except in the introduction of some exciting and provocative under-water shots featuring Jean Hawkshaw fighting an alligator, is flat.

Throughout the footage there are frequent instances of supposedly enraged extras grinning at their own antics, or looking toward the camera.

Basically the story has possibilities for a spoof of prehistoric dramas. Situation offers one "tribe" in which the men are Adonis-like and the women are ugly, and another in which the women are beautiful but would rather go without men than mate with the ape men available to them.

Eventually the good-looking gals go husband-hunting and capture the Adonis-like boys.

Miss Hawkshaw has the lead but she, Mary Ann Webb, Adrienne Bourbeau, Candi Gerrard, Val Phillips and other locals in cast are given little chance except to show they are women. Ed Fury, Ray Rotello, and Buck Buckley are prominent in male roles..

Harry Walsh's cameras handled the color nicely. Zuni Dyer has a character role as a ruling goddess.

Join Hands, Stage Groups

NEW YORK — (AP) — Theater groups throughout the country need to improve their liaison, according to a study by the Ford Foundation.

W. McNeil Lowry, director of the foundation's humanities and arts division, told the Assembly of the American National Theater and Academy that a study in 85 cities disclosed that community, professional and educational branches of the drama are uninformed about each other.

Band Concert

Luella Franks, soprano, will be the soloist at tonight's concert by Caesar La Monaca and his band in Bayfront Park bandshell. Gordon Shaw will narrate the program which opens at 7:45.

You Achieve Ideal By Faith in Christ

GRAHAM

QUESTION: I am a person with the highest ideals for living. I have read much and traveled. I should be an example of the ideals I espouse, but am perpetually harrassed by my persistent failure. Would you know why this is so, and is there any help?

ANSWER: Nearly every person has ideals that are far above the level of daily practice. It is true that neither learning nor travel affect one for good, except that it becomes possible to have a suave and confident appearance. The heart, meanwhile remains the same. Happily, there is both an explanation and a solution. Our conscience, in spite of all that may be said pro and con, continues to either condemn or approve our every action. Right now your conscience is condemning your general conduct, which is below your ideals. You cannot achieve what you know because of weakness.

The Bible says, "What the law could not do in that it was weak through the flesh," and this is exactly the explanation to your dilemma. But God, in His word never gives just the diagnosis. He also gives the remedy. He says, "God, sending His only begotten Son in the likeness of sinful flesh, and for sin, condemmed sin in the flesh." (Romans 8:1).

Here is both the diagnosis and remedy for your problem. What you need is a dynamic for living according to your God-given ideals, and this is just what a vital faith in Christ can do for you.

Nikita Helps British Defense

BURTON-ON-TRENT, England — (UPI) — Britain's director-general of civil defense likes Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

"Whenever things slow up a bit, Khrushchev makes a frightful speech and I get some more money," he explained.

Crime Up 8 Per Cent

WASHINGTON —(AP)— FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover reported an appalling increase in major crimes last year. He said a preliminary digest of police reports from all parts of the country indicates an increase of eight per cent over 1957.

The digest involves the processing of offenses known to the police in cities of over 25,000 population. This covers about 87 per cent of the total population.

Hoover said these reports reflect increases of five per cent in murders, 10 per cent in forcible rapes, 14 per cent in robberies, two per cent in aggravated assaults, 10 per cent in burglaries, nine per cent in larcenies involving more than $50, and two per cent in auto thefts.

The FBI director said the number of juvenile arrests—the under-18 age group—continues to rise, with an indicated increase of about 6½ per cent in 1958.

Britons Develop 'Sound X-Ray'

LONDON — (UPI) — British scientists and doctors have developed a "sound X-ray" which uses harmless sound waves instead of potentially dangerous radioactivity to look inside the human body, it was reported.

The Sunday Graphic said the "ultra-sound image camera" uses very high frequency sound waves which reflect back to a special type of camera which converts the sound waves into a television-like X-ray picture.

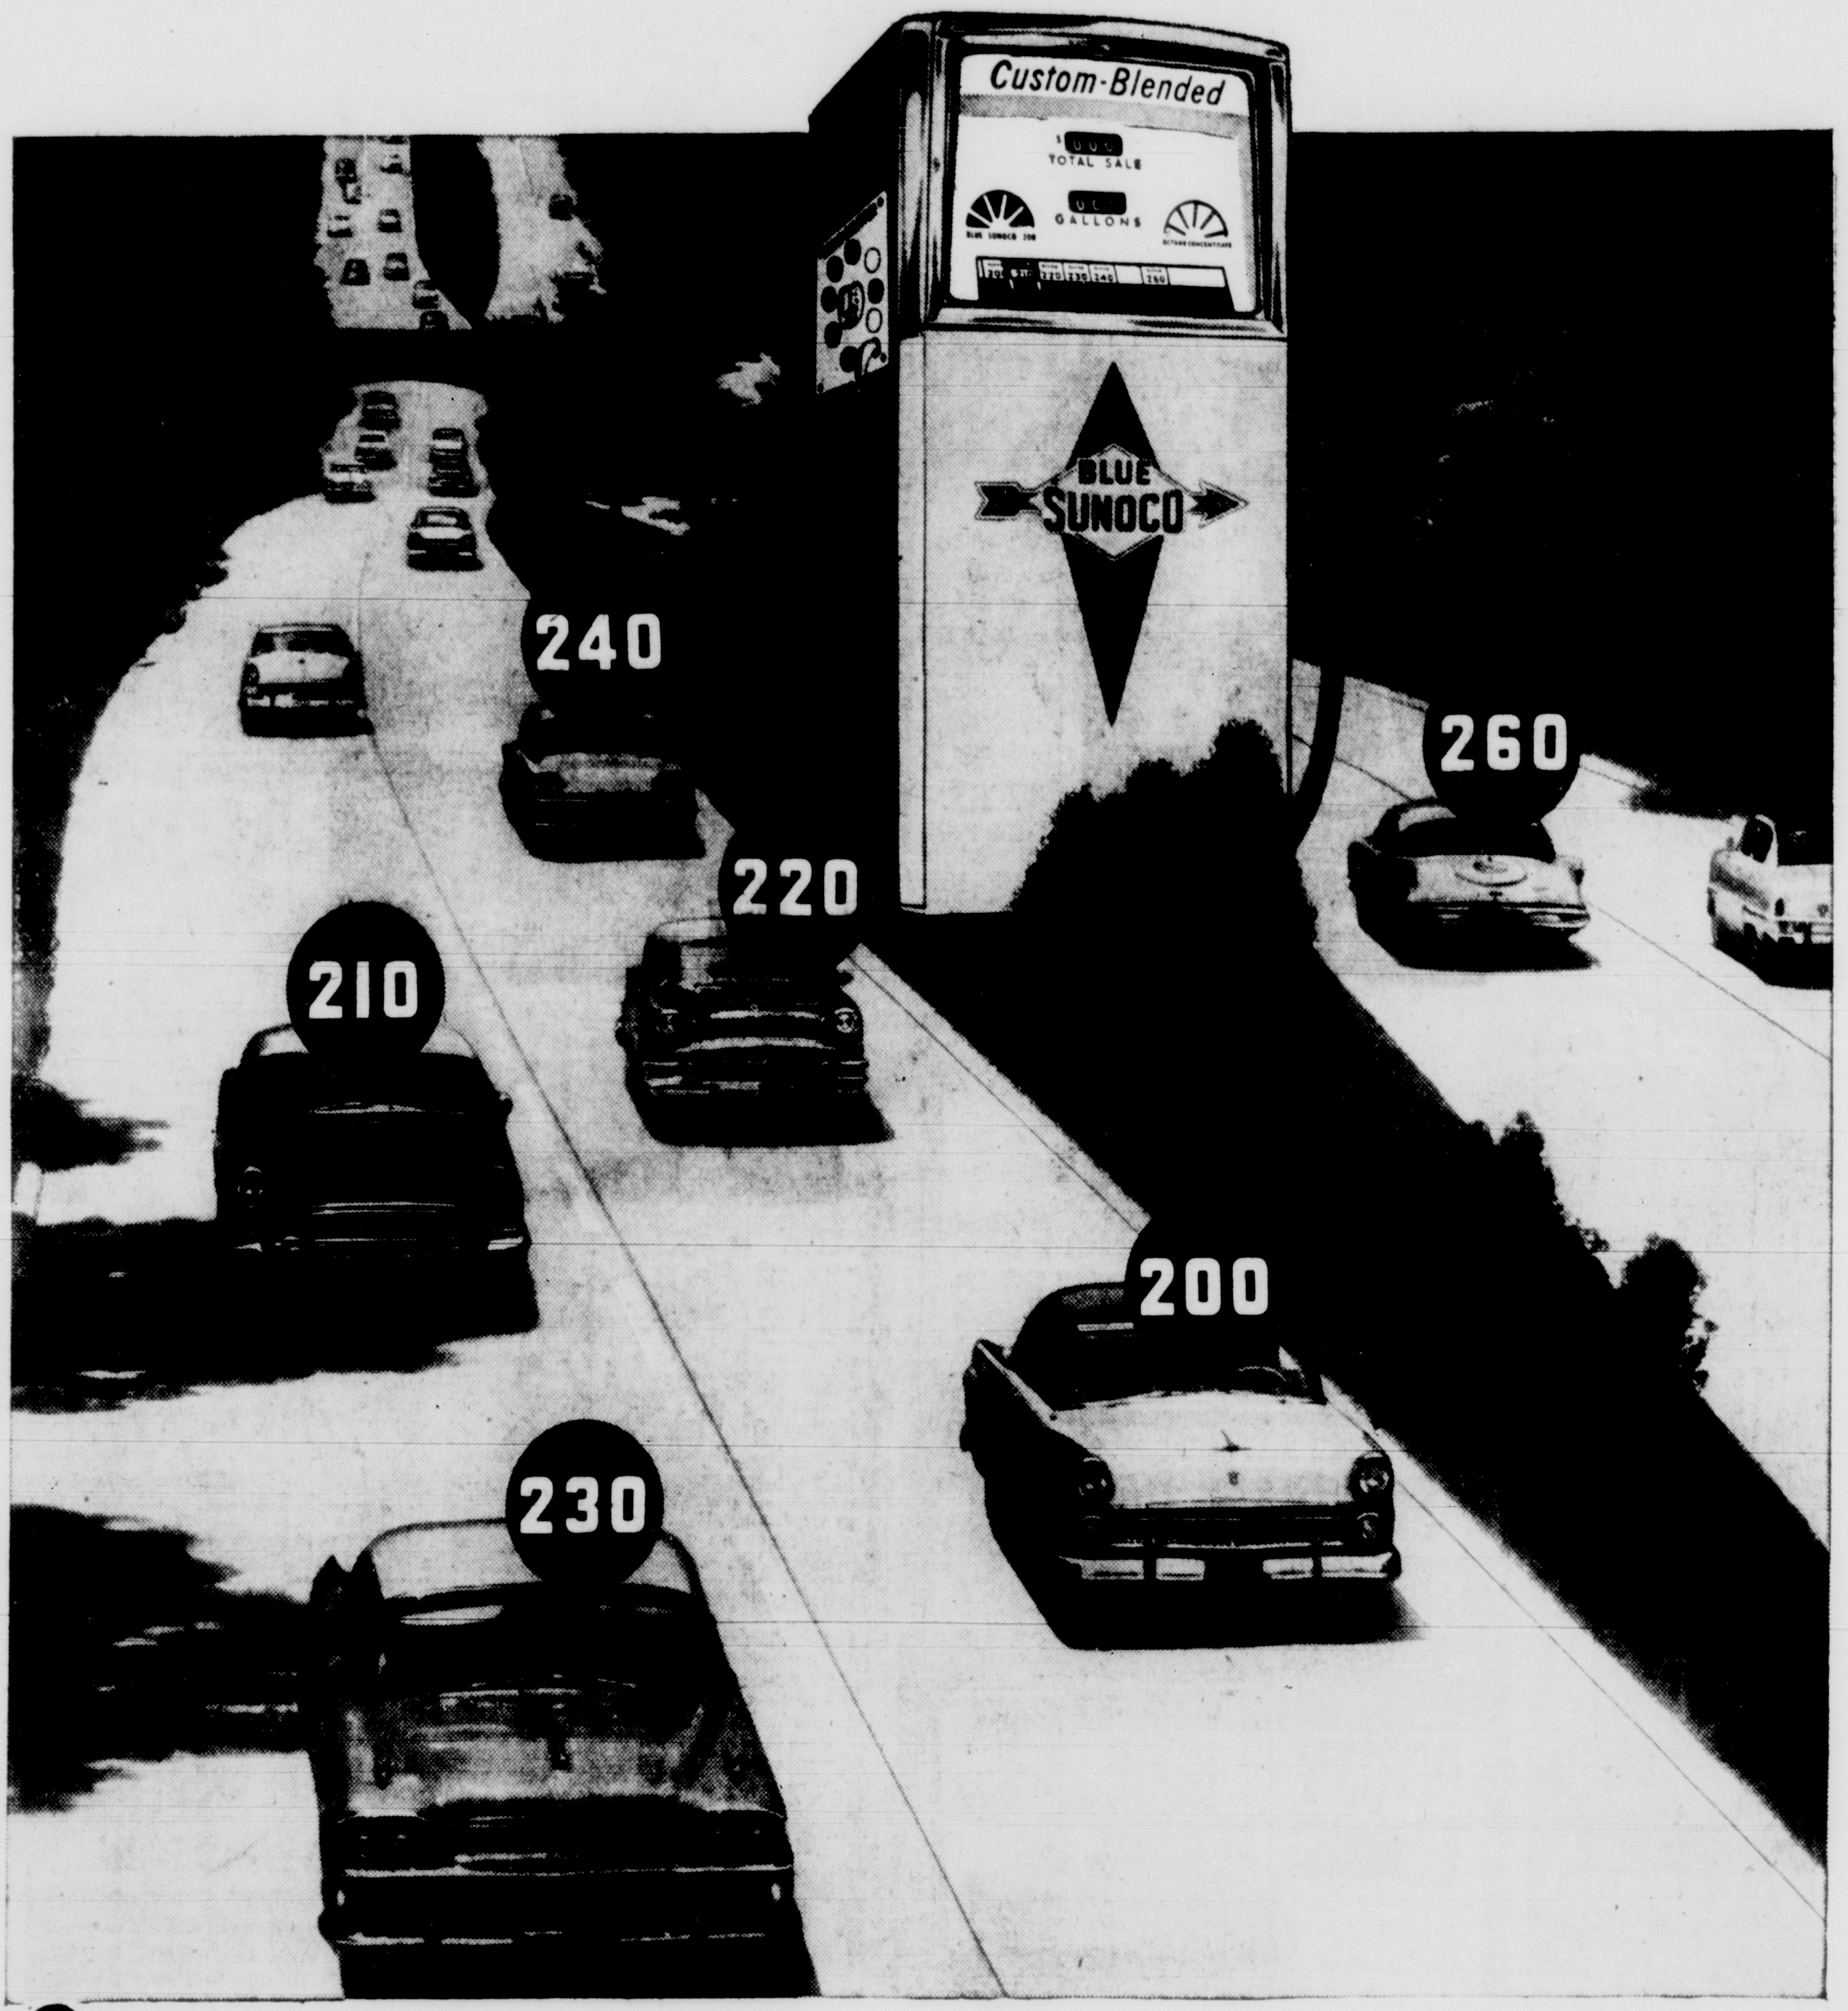
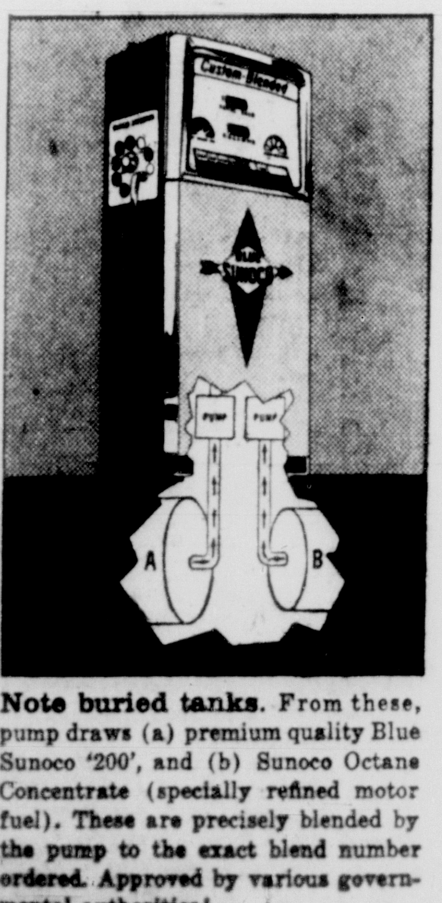
Exact fit for all cars!

6 great fuels from Sunoco's amazing new Custom-Blending pump can fit today's octane needs more exactly than 2 or 3 grades possibly can!



6 different prices, too-scaled down, grade by grade-to save you up to 4¢ a gallon!



Note buried tanks. From these, pump draws (a) premium quality Blue Sunoco '200', and (b) Sunoco Octane Concentrate (specially refined motor fuel). These are precisely blended by the pump to the exact blend number ordered. Approved by various governmental authorities!

The big reason for you to try Custom-Blended Blue Sunoco is to see how much power, pep and mileage you can get . . . without wasting money on octane your car can't use.

Now your Sunoco Dealer offers 2 or 3 times the octane selection you can get from anybody else (from premium quality Blue Sunoco '200' at "regular" price to Blend '260', the highest octane sold anywhere at any price!) These and the blends in between give you all the finest performance qualities possible today.

First, fill your tank with the blend number recommended for your particular make, model and year. But next time you refuel, try dropping down to the next lower blend – at the next lower price. And, chances are, you'll get performance just as hot. (Most cars do!)

So it goes with Custom-Blended Blue Sunoco . . . and so you save!

Attention! "Regular" buyers—

Premium quality Blue Sunoco '200' is the highest octane gasoline in Florida at "regular" price. It's actually higher in octane than many premiums of a few years ago!

The only thrifty way to buy premiums today!

Willard To Take The Job

Commissioner High Resigns

Headley Next? 2A
Willard, His Views 2A
Evans Set Record 7A

By JOHN MORTON
Herald Staff Writer

E. A. Evans was fired as Miami City Manager Monday by a new majority that developed suddenly on the City Commission.

He was replaced immediately by Ira (Dutch) Willard, former city manager of Coral Gables, who recently entered the banking business.

Voting to remove Evans "as of today" were Otis Shiver, George W. DuBreuil and Mayor Robert King High.

Commissioner James W. High angrily protested the surprise action and announced his immediate resignation from the commission.

Failure to cooperate with Dade's new Metropolitan government was given by Shiver as the reason for Evans' ouster. Shiver made the motion for the firing.

E. A. Evans
. . . he's out

Also asked to leave the city's employ immediately was Assistant City Manager Ray Williams. The veteran employe said he will retire.

Evans took the sudden loss of his $25,000-a-year job calmly.

"I have no hard feelings," he said. "I knew some day this would happen."

Willard immediately accepted the job after he was told of the offer by telephone. He will go to City Hall this morning to take over his new office. His salary will be $18,200 a year.

He said the job was first offered to him two weeks ago. He said he told the commissioners then that he would take it.

The firing came as a surprise, however, even to many City Hall insiders. Up to now Shiver and DuBreuil have voted with a four man majority that included James High and B. E. Hearn.

Ira Willard
. . . and he's in

Like James High, Hearn continued loyal to Evans.

He challenged Shiver's complaint that Evans has been ignoring the wishes of the commission and pursuing his own policies.

"I believe the city manager in every instance," said Hearn, "has carried out the will of this commission."

Shiver charged that Evans was "standing in the way of an orderly transfer of Miami functions to Metro, and that means standing in the way of the wishes of the people."

Last summer Evans was a leader in the Dade League of

Lots of Confusion

Civilian Heads On Hot Seat in Missiles Race

Who decides what missiles research the U.S. will pour its billions into? In today's installment of his series on the great defense debate famed Reporter Bob Considine puts the spotlight on a little-known but powerful official in weapons development.

By BOB CONSIDINE
Herald Columnist

The position of the U.S. at this time has been likened to that of a man crossing a rocky ford in a stream, daring not to take his weight entirely off one foot until he is sure that the other foot is on solid ground.

We are in some cases haltingly and other cases feverishly changing our military retaliation reliance from manned bombers to missiles. Articulate members of the Democratic Congress believe that many aspects of the Eisenhower administration's defense problem are being bungled now or have been in the past.

But no other segment has come under more fire than that part of the setup which must compete with the Soviet Union's unquestionably brilliant rocket developers. We were caught with our Sputniks down on Oct. 4, 1957, and despite a tremendous awakening to Russia's scientific and engineering prowess we have yet to catch up.

The task of getting the U.S. abreast of or preferably ahead of Russian missile wizardry was complicated until the 1958 Reorganization Act by conflicting and competing groups, not to mention jealousies and the fanning of the dead embers of old inter-service rivalries.

Dr. Herbert York
. . . directs research

As outlined by Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy before the House Armed Services Committee last Feb. 2, here is where the breath-taking authority rests:

"A Director of Defense Research and Engineering, Dr. Herbert York, has been appointed with the mission to assure that all scientific and technological resources of the Department of Defense are put to the best possible use.

"The Director of Defense Research and Engineering will supervise and coordinate all Department of Defense research and engineering programs. He will be responsible for providing effective leadership, eliminating unnecessary duplication, encouraging basic research, and developing an integrated research and development program covering all operational needs."

Answerable to Dr. York is all the work and thinking of the Advance Research Projects Agency, headed by Roy Johnson. Dr. York has veto power over ARPA's spatial brain-children. The same is true of his office's control over William Holaday's Guided Missiles Operation, and missiles heads of each service.

"We will proceed with deliberate caution with respect to the priority and production responsibilities in order not to lose any of the momentum the program has developed," McElroy testified.

"Therefore, for the time at least, Holaday will remain as a special assistant to me with the assignment to continue to handle those special aspects of the program which are beyond the research, engineering and testing phase. He will also continue as chairman of the Ballistic Missile Committee to coordinate and accelerate high priority projects," McElroy said.

Despite this declaration, a great deal of confusion has resulted. Sen. Lyndon Johnson speaks of "piling missiles czar on czar." One Washington correspondent quoted Gen. Nathan Twining, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, as saying of the civilian missile chieftains, and their overlapping duties, "They're a bigger threat than the Russians."

This reporter found no organizational confusion visual, surfacewise at least, in the countenance of Dr. York. He was one of the bright young men associated with the government's development and test of the H-bomb. He has the scientist's placid patience, confidence in the fruits of proper research, and wit:

Over the door of his Pentagon office is hung a crude spear. A neat card beside it reads: Weapon of World War IV.

York's job is to prevent World War III by stimulating, developing and assaying weapons so awesome that the Soviet Union will lose what must be its temptation to attempt a saturation bombing of the U.S. and our bases overseas.

He tries to remain above the battle between the Democratic Congress and the Republican administration whose military spokesman is Defense Secretary Neil McElroy.

"I know it's serious," the big, crew-cut young scientist told me. "But it's not in my bailiwick. Of course, it's impossible not to form opinions or to ask questions in the light of testimony before Congress.

"For example, it seems to me that the important thing in this whole argument is not how many weapons we need now but how many would be left after, and if, we take the first blow. So we're concentrating on a retaliatory force made up of just about everything that can deliver a warhead. Where and how they'll be delivered, if they have to be delivered, is none of my business. My job is simply to provide them. The military takes over from that point.

"This office now has other

Anti-Missile Defense Year Away--McElroy

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy said Monday the time when the U.S. will have a defense against ballistic missiles is some years away.

Even then there is no assurance the defense can stop more than a modest number of ICBM's launched in a mass attack, he said.

McElroy was quizzed by the House Space Committee in the row over his turndown of an Army request to put into production the Army's Nike-Zeus, a missile-and-radar system timed at knocking down intercontinental missiles.

McElroy said the Nike-Zeus is getting the highest national priority in its development but his best scientific advice has been that the weapon is not ready for production.

Until there is a missile defense, McElroy said, the U.S. protection lies in its strike-back power — a deterrent aimed at discouraging a potential aggressor from starting a war in the first place.

U.S. Set For Fight On Berlin

We're Ready, McElroy Says

By Herald Wire Services

WASHINGTON — U.S. military forces are ready to back up President Eisenhower's avowed determination to stand fast on American rights in Berlin, Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy told Congress Monday.

"We think we have a definite offensive superiority over the Russians at this time," McElroy said in discussing the situation with the House Space Committee.

While voicing doubt the Russians want to start a war, the Pentagon chief told the congressmen "we are prepared to meet various stages of the Berlin situation as it develops." Then he added:

"We are prepared to make good on the statement of the President that we will not yield one inch on our rights in Berlin."

McElroy said there are no plans now to mobilize because of the deepening crisis over Russia's campaign to force the U.S. and other Allied powers out of Berlin, 110 miles inside Communist-held territory.

Mobilization steps have been suggested in Congress in recent days, and Rep. James Fulton (R., Pa.) raised the issue again Monday. He asked McElroy if this country has adequate protection for a firm position on Berlin and "if not, should we mobilize in whole or in part?"

"We don't regard that as being required at this time," McElroy replied.

Saying the German crisis has been studied by the Joint Chiefs of Staff and the State Department, McElroy said there may be some moves to strengthen the U.S. position. He did not go into detail.

McElroy also said during the course of his testimony that present U.S. policy is not to strike the first blow in a war, but "whether that always will be true is another matter." He did not say what conditions could lead to a first strike by the U.S.

The secretary said this country is ready for anything. He conceded Russia greater strength on the ground in Central Europe, but said it has been "clear for a long period of time that we will never fight the Russians on the ground."

Rep. Victor L. Anfuso (D., N.Y.) raised the possibility that Berlin could touch off a world conflict.

"Every time you resist aggression you have to consider that possibility," McElroy conceded.

To Anfuso's suggestion that Russia can defeat the U.S. by forcing it to bankrupt itself, McElroy said he doesn't think Russia cares how it defeats the U.S.

He said Russia "intends to stick right with it," until it defeats the U.S. "one way or another."

As McElroy testified, Russia sent new notes to the Western Allies proposing conditional Big Four negotiations on the Berlin crisis. Several key members of Congress interpreted the Russian proposal as a "thaw" in the cold war.

The White House and State Department deferred comment until the text of the note can be studied.

Sen. J. William Fulbright (D. Ark.) chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, was guardedly optimistic. He said, "I hope this justifies a more hopeful attitude" toward Berlin.

Sen. Theodore F. Green (D., R.I.), chairman emeritus of the committee, said, "It's like a breath of fresh air."

Senate Democratic Whip Mike Mansfield of Montana mailed the "thaw" and suggested that a foreign ministers' meeting be held in Washington so cancer-stricken Secretary of State John Foster Dulles can participate.

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D., Wash.) said Monday he had informed Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson that the Senate Interior and Insular Affairs Committee was expected to approve the Hawaiian statehood bill today.

Ministers Parley Is Accepted

By Herald Wire Services

MOSCOW — Russia reversed itself Monday and conditionally agreed to a foreign ministers' conference on the Berlin crisis in notes that warned that the German issue could cause war "a hundred times more serious" than all past conflicts.

Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev withdrew his rejection of the Western plan for a foreign ministers' meeting after pleas from visiting Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

Officials took it as a smashing victory for the British statesman who was officially reported "cheerful" after six glum days of icy negotiations.

The Soviet note handed to the ambassadors of the U.S., Britain, France and West Germany urged a summit conference as having "the greatest chance" of success.

But if the West "is not ready" for that, the Russians agreed to a ministerial-level parley on one condition: Inclusion of Poland and Czechoslovakia.

The Western proposal which Khrushchev rejected verbally last Tuesday called for a Big Four foreign ministers' meeting. Russia wants the two Communist nations included to give the Eastern bloc numerical balance. East and West Germany also would attend and have "active participation" in the talks.

The Soviets suggested a meeting of "not more than two or three months" which would begin next month at Geneva or Vienna. The West also has proposed such a time and choice of places.

Western diplomats said the proposal for two or three months of negotiation starting in April shows the Soviet Union has long since scrapped May 27 as an absolute deadline for settlement of the West Berlin question.

They pointed out that since Khrushchev set the original date, Soviet officials both here and abroad — including Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan in the U. S. — have reiterated that no deadline exists and that the proposal contains no ultimatum.

However, the note stressed again that Russia intends to hand over control of the Berlin lifelines to the East Germans by May 27.

It warned the West that any attempt to use "tanks or aviation" to force a path to West Berlin would bring war.

The White House maintained silence on Russia's note. (Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said a translation has not been received in Washington and therefore, there will be no comment at this time.)

Khrushchev expressed pleasure over his talks with Macmillan. As a result, he added, Britain and the Soviet Union are better prepared for an attempt to end the cold war.

Macmillan declared Britain is "well content with the talks we had here. We hope they will lead to clarifications in negotiations to come."

The two leaders made their statements at a lavish reception in St. George's Hall of the Kremlin. Macmillan and his party were guests of Khrushchev prior to their departure today for London.

Upstate Frost, 45 Due Here

Frost will hit the lowgrounds of North Florida early Tuesday — while South Florida temperatures will drop to 45, the weather bureau said.

But by late Tuesday, the thermometer is expected to be climbing again.

The weatherman said it'll be back in the mid-70s again in Greater Miami Tuesday afternoon.

Scattered frost is expected in the Suwannee and Gainesville districts, the upper east coast, Orlando and the Brooksville district.

But South Florida farmers won't have to fear temperatures of 44 to 50, the Frost Warning Service said.

Iran Abrogates Red Troop Pact

TEHRAN —(AP)— Iran has notified the Soviet Union it now regards as invalid the articles in a 1921 treaty allowing Soviet troops to enter Iran under certain conditions, Deputy Foreign Minister Javad Sadr announced Monday.

Articles five and six of the 38-year-old Soviet-Iranian agreement gave the Russians the right to send troops into Iran if the Soviet Union was threatened from bases on Iranian territory.

Soviet troops entered Northern Iran during World War II under this agreement.

The Iranian denunciation of the articles comes after a Soviet propaganda campaign against Iran that stems from the recent breakdown of Soviet-Iranian talks aimed at a new agreement.

Iranian officials have said the 1921 agreement applied specifically to a possible threat to the young Soviet state from White Russians and from an Armenian anti-Communist party called the Dashnaks. Neither of these threats could now apply, they said.

Sadr said the two articles refer specifically to possible attack against the Soviet revolution.

Iran is negotiating a military defense agreement with the U.S.

It May Take Time But Reds Find Out

TOKYO—Eric Johnston relays this story about Moscow:

Premier Khrushchev was having tea with some students when he suddenly turned to one of them and demanded:

"Who wrote 'Anna Karenina?' "

Stammered the terrified student: "I didn't write her, sir, honest I didn't."

The next day Khrushchev related this incident to Gen. Ivan Serov, recently deposed security boss. Later in the day Serov reported back to Khrushchev:

"You know that young man you were telling me about? Well, I have news for you. After questioning him for two-and-one-half hours I've gotten his written confession that he did write 'Anna Karenina!' "

AF Hints Discoverer May Have Hit Orbit

The Town Crier

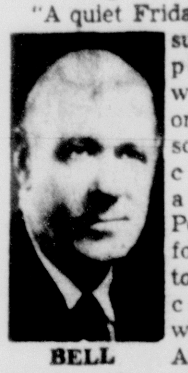
RICHARD PIERCE is a senior at Miami High School — a thinking senior. Listen:



BELL

"A quiet Friday morning: the sun shining, people going to work, children on the way to school, dogs and cats running and playing. People striving for a good life, to better their community, working for the American way: freedom of speech, religion.

"But serenity can be shattered. A school is blown up, a church threatened, people beaten. That's right, mister, don't let those Communists enforce the Constitution.

"It has been a long hot day. Go home. Greet the family. Have a beer. Call the boys. When is the meeting? Tonight, now! Get your cloak, your cloak of authority. And don't forget the mask. Pick up the bums, the mental defects. Get on to the meeting. Look at your leader . . . great man . . . knows how to hate . . . praise him for leading you. After all, you've no mind. Absorb it all: blind hatred. It's yours for the asking. When is the next bombing or beating? Get drunk with the rest of the animals. Go home; even the little ones must be taught to hate.

"Live long. Have a bast Spread hatred and corruption. Grow old — and die. You've been a good man — says you. Into the promised land you go."

Would-Be Birthday Turns Into Funeral

Little William Allen would have been two years old today. But instead of planning a celebration, his family will be planning his funeral.

William, the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Edwin Allen of 876 NW 12th St., Homestead, slipped away from his home at noon Monday, crossed a busy highway and somehow got into an apartment house pool.

Less than an hour later, his screaming grandmother, Mrs. Virgil Lott, of 422 NW Ninth St., Homestead, found his lifeless body floating in the deserted pool.

Two nurses who joined in the search tried to revive the boy with artificial respiration but he was pronounced dead a short time later at James Archer Smith Hospital.

It was not determined if any of the fenced pool's three gates were open at the time, but Air Force Sgt. Ronny Baker, who lives nearby, said another two-year-old often climbs over the fence.

William's father, an Airman First Class, lives across the street from the large apartment project where William drowned.

Other survivors include William's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Allen, Homestead, and a four-month-old brother David Edwin.

'Random' Signals Reported

INGLEWOOD, Calif. — (UPI) — The Air Force in a cautiously worded statement announced Monday that the "lost" 1,300-pound satellite Discoverer I is apparently circling the earth every 96 minutes in a polar orbit.

Preliminary studies indicated the 19-foot-long satellite's life would be in excess of one month, the Air Force said.

The satellite was blasted into the heavens Saturday afternoon at Vandenberg Air FForce Base to become the first satellite launched on the West Coast.

Its fate remained in doubt for nearly 32 hours because of an apparent radio failure before the Air Force's Ballistic Missile Division (BMD) here broke the suspense by releasing a guarded statement Sunday night reporting the reception of "random" radio signals.

A BMD spokesman explained the difficulty the Air Force was having in determining whether the Discoverer I actually achieved orbit.

"We are not saying that it definitely is in orbit, neither can we say that it is not, at this point," the spokesman said. "We don't feel that we will definitely know an orbit has been achieved until we have tracked it by radar, obtained a visual sighting or received more definite radio signals.

"Until that time, we can say only that information 'tends' to confirm, not definitely confirm, an orbit."

The Discoverer shot was the initial launching in "Project Discoverer," a program designed to lead eventually the way into space for man. Another shot in the project already was being readied for 30 days hence.

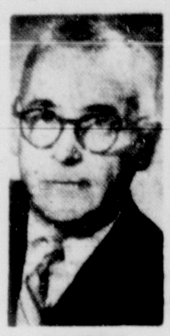
Annual Aid Howl Is Heard

Latin Slash Threatened

By EDWIN A. LAHEY
Chief Of Our Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — The regular annual revelations of stealing in the military assistance program have brought the regular annual congressional threat to curtail this program.



LAHEY

"We may cut the whole Latin American military assistance program out," said Rep. Barratt O'Hara (D., Ill.) member of a House Foreign Affairs subcommittee which began a critical examination of this phase of mutual security. O'Hara, as well as other members of the House Foreign Affairs group, was angry over revelations by another foreign affairs subcommittee that the theft of U.S. property was still a happy custom among our friends and allies abroad.

This subcommittee, headed by Rep. Thomas D. Morgan (D., Pa.) said that it had evidence of theft in the military assistance program, but that it would not give taxpayers the details, because the evidence has been classified as secret by the State Department and the Department of Defense.

"There must be some collusion somewhere," said O'Hara, "and when this subcommittee report comes before the full House Committee on Foreign Affairs, I intend to get some answers."

This year's regular annual report of stealing did not indicate in any way that larceny was found in the Latin American military assistance operation. But members of Congress are skeptical of this branch of the aid program for other reasons, one of which is the belief that military assistance in Latin America is a WPA project for colonels.

The Latin American military assistance program takes about 35 million dollars per year.

Twelve countries share in this aid. The country by country distribution is a secret, like so many other things about military assistance. But it is known that Brazil gets the greatest share of the Latin American military assistance.

The "extra serving" of military assistance to Brazil is the result of good bargaining by that republic when she granted a missile tracking station to the U.S. on the island of Fernando Noronha, about 200 miles out in the Atlantic from the Brazilian "bulge."

Lemuel C. Shepherd, chairman of the Inter-American Defense Board, was the first witness at a series of executive sessions at which the House Foreign Affairs Committee is taking a critical look at Latin American military assistance.

Headley's Days Numbered As Chief, Mayor High Says

By JUANITA GREENE
Herald Staff Writer

Walter Headley won't be Miami's police chief much longer, Mayor Robert King High predicted after Monday's surprise shakeup in city politics.

"There will be a lot of changes in the old brass at the police department," the youthful mayor said.

"As for Chief Headley himself," he added, "I would expect him to resign."

The police department has been the principal target of Mayor High. But until Monday he got no support in his demands for a cleanup from the other four commissioners.

High's sudden support from two commissioners from what was formerly a four-man majority on the commission is expected to have other significant repercussions.

Votes by High, Otis Shiver and George DuBreuil are expected to lead to:

THE TRANSFERENCE soon of all traffic cases from city courts to Metro courts.

THE FIRING, or resignation, of General Edward (Bo)Barber as a $9,000-a-year administrative assistant. He was hired by Evans as a "troubleshooter."

THE FIRING, transfer, or resignation of many other oldtimers in the police department and other city departments.

In uneasy positions are City Engineer Arthur Darlow, City Building Department Director Ellis Knox, and Slum Clearance Director Francis Kelly.

THE END of what Mayor High called "petty resistance to Metro auto inspection in the City of Miami."

High was emphatic in his predictions about changes in the police department.

"Since I've been in office (a year and a half)," he said, "Evans and Headley have ridiculed any efforts to clean up organized rackets."

"I predict," he said, "a new attitude among the high brass at the police department."

The mayor has been particularly critical of what he called "wide open bolita peddling." From time to time he has toured the city and bought bolita tickets, and confronted Evans and Headley with the evidence.

Until Monday, however, Shiver and DuBreuil have sided with Commissioners James High and B. E. Hearn in supporting Evans and his claim that there was nothing seriously wrong in the police department setup.

In forecasting other changes in personnel, High said he was sure Barber, an old Army friend of Evans', will not be around long.

"The days of the generals is over," he declared.

Evans Out As City's Manager

Municipalities campaign to curb Metro's powers by passage of a proposed "autonomy amendment" to the Metro charter. The City Commission, with the exception of Mayor High, offered no objection when Evans mobilized city employes and equipment to work in the "vote yes" campaign.

Still bitterly opposed to Metro, James High said in making his exit from the commission that it was led by "nitwit theorists with silly, power-grabbing moves."

The commissioner said he will devote his full time between now and the November city election "to making known to the people what has been done here."

"At the end of that time," he added, "I expect to be a candidate for reelection to this commission."

The firing came Monday afternoon when commissioners changed an informal session into an official meeting.

They took no action on High's resignation. Mayor High said it will come up at Wednesday's formal meeting.

Evans sat through the meeting calmly smoking a pipe, with one knee propped against his desk.

After the ouster vote there was an awkward silence. Evans finally broke it.

"I don't know why we are looking so glum," he commented. "Why don't we just smile?"

Before the official meeting was called, Mayor High complained he had been embarrassed earlier in the day when asked by a group of lawyers what Miami was going to do about transferring city traffic courts to Metro, as the court had ordered.

This Man Willard Is Metro's Friend

By DOM BONAFEDE
Herald Staff Writer

Miami's new city manager, Ira F. Willard promised close cooperation between the city and Metropolitan government in his first statement upon being named to the post.

"Metro is here to stay," Willard commented. "A close working agreement with the city and Metro is necessary to best serve the people."

He added he is not thinking of making any changes in department heads "at the present."

The annual salary of the new city manager was put at $18,200, compared to $25,000 received by his predessessor, E. A. Evans.

Willard disclosed that he was first approached about the job about two weeks ago by Mayor Robert King High.

"Mayor High asked if I'd be interested and I told him I would be if there was a vacancy.

"He called again last weekend to confirm it and I told him the same thing."

Willard, called "Dutch" by his acquaintances, was appointed city manager of Coral Gables in May, 1956, after having served in the same capacity at Alexandria, Va., for four years. Prior to that he was city manager of Hopewell, Va.

He resigned the Coral Gables post three months ago to accept an executive position as director of new business development with the Sottile banking group.

Unlike many city managers, who come from the ranks of academic engineers, Willard is a former practicing attorney.

He completed pre-law studies at the University of South Carolina in 1934 and obtained his law degree from Southeastern University, Washington, D.C., in 1938.

In 1941 he joined the U.S. Army as a lieutenant. He was honorably discharged as a lieutenant colonel in 1946.

Willard, 47, and his wife, Mary, have four children. They live at 902 Catalonia Ave., Coral Gables.

During his tenure at Coral Gables, Willard established a reputation as one of the most astute city managers in the country.

He was frequently mentioned as a candidate for the position of county manager.

Willard said Monday he had no hesitancy about accepting the Miami job.

"I'm very honored. I'll do my very best to be a success," he said.

He said he expects to start work at Dinner Key City Hall immediately.

Technicality Bars Action

House Stymies Bill On Orange Color

Growers Cannot Dye Fruit

WASHINGTON — Final congressional action on a bill to permit coloring of Florida and Texas oranges was held up in the House Monday by a technicality — and indirectly by an objection.

The bill was passed over without prejudice until the next consent calendar day, March 16, because the House Commerce Committee, along with its favorable report on the bill, sent to the House the original bill approved by a Senate committee rather than the bill actually passed by the Senate with amendments.

Chairman Oren Harris of the House Commerce Committee obtained approval for the measure to be recommitted to the committee so that the proper Senate bill could be attached to the House committee's favorable report.

Rep. James Delaney (D., N.Y.) had informed Rep. James Haley (D.,Fla.), the bill's sponsor, that he would object to it. This alone would have caused the bill to be passed over for two weeks.

The clerk of the House Commerce Committee told a reporter Harris probably would ask the House Rules Committee to send the bill to the House floor promptly, thus removing it from the consent calendar.

He said there is an urgency in getting action in this measure because a law permiting the coloring of oranges expired Feb. 28. This will prevent Florida and Texas growers from coloring oranges to be shipped to market until Congress acts.

As a result of Monday's House action, Florida and Texas growers cannot color oranges with dye.

Rep. Haley, conceding it is a legal question, said he believes growers could ship oranges now which were colored prior to the last day, but that no coloring could be done, beginning Monday, until the House passes the Senate bill and President Eisenhower signs it.

'Waste of Money' In Schools Rapped

TAMPA —(AP)— A former chairman of the State Board of Control said Monday that "twisted thinking" in the concept of public school education has brought waste of tax money.

Fred Kent, a Jacksonville attorney, said the action also has resulted in a lowering of academic standards in Florida.

"The solution," Kent said, "lies in the creation of a lay board as the regulatory body for all aspects of the state's elementary and secondary education . . ."

He said in an address to the Tampa Exchange Club that the failure of schools to maintain proper academic standards shows that "public education still is too important to leave to the educators alone."

He said, "money is being wasted . . . in teaching nonessential subjects and performing non-educational functions at such a ridiculous rate that taxes, if levied high enough to finance them as planned, would drive people out of Florida during the next 10 years faster than they have moved in during the past 10."

The use of funds on nonessentials, he said, has meant lowering pay scales to the point of the state losing fine teachers and "the lowering of academic standards to such a level that our public schools no longer are turning out properly educated graduates."

Kent said state and county spending for schools has increased 325 per cent during the past 12 years while the number of students has increased 105 per cent.

He said the chief function of nursery schools "obviously is to supply baby-sitters and entertainment," and he called for the repeal of statutes which authorize them.

Kent also was sharply critical of the adult education and summer school programs.

Deputy's Son Held As Robber

JACKSONVILLE — (AP) — The son of a Duval County officer and a leather goods salesman were held Monday for the $3,031 robbery of a payroll of the Ponte Vedra Inn.

The pair, Harry Leroy Sands, 29, and Milo R. Wiley, 33, both of Jacksonville, were named in warrants issued by Peace Justice Harley Giddens. Their bond was fixed at $20,000 each.

Sands is the son of Lt. H. L. Sands of the Duval County sheriff's office and a brother of a city policeman. He was arrested at Ocala by police and Marion County deputies.

Wiley surrendered to investigators here as they were preparing to arrest him. He came to the sheriff's office with an attorney shortly after Sands was booked in the county jail.

Collis Quarterman, long-time employe of the hotel, had just gotten the hotel payroll from a Jacksonville Beach bank. A man asked him outside for a ride to the inn.

Quarterman said he had seen the man earlier at the hotel and thought he was a guest. When he went into a dry cleaning plant to pick up some clothes, Quarterman left the money bag on the front seat of the car.

On his return, Quarterman said he was warned by his passenger to stand back. The man then sped away in the vehicle. It was found abandoned later on Atlantic Blvd.

The accused men became suspects Friday afternoon, when their car spun off Fort Caroline Rd. near here. Quarterman, taken to the scene, said he could not positively identify the robber. Later he told officers he was afraid at the time.

Police Chief C. H. Franks of Jacksonville Beach and J. C. Patrick, chief county criminal investigator, said Quarterman, a bell boy, and other employes of the hotel had identified Wiley and Sands as two men who were in the hotel lobby Friday.

One of the stolen bills turned up Saturday at a Jacksonville liquor store. The serial numbers had been recorded.

Governor Mulls Durden Case

TALLAHASSEE — (UPI) — William Durden, assistant to Gov. LeRoy Collins, said Monday it will probably be the end of the week before decision is made on whether Lake County Commissioner Jack Hooten will be suspended.

A copy of the Grand Jury indictment, charging Hooten with a misdemeanor, arrived in the governor's office Monday, but Collins will be out of town until Wednesday.

Hooten was charged with selling to the county land in which he had an interest.

College Fire Routs 82 Coeds

DAYTONA BEACH —(UPI) — A pre-dawn blaze broke out in a freshman dormitory of Bethune - Cookman College Monday, causing more than $50,000 damage and sending two firemen to the hospital.

But 82 Negro coeds and their counselor were ushered out of the building in night clothes while every available city fireman fought the blaze for more than five hours.

Most seriously injured was Fireman Jimmy Williams, about 24, who suffered a fractured pelvis. Edward Brogden, who was trapped in the building, was admitted to a local hospital with smoke poisoning.

Assistant Chief L. A. Odom said Brogden had to be pulled from the burning building after collapsing in the heavy smoke.

Frank DeBarr and John Clardy were overcome by smoke and Chief W. B. Terry was sent home with severe eye burns.

The students, occupants of Old Curtis Hall, were removed from the building in an orderly drill.

An appeal by City Manager Cletus Allen for clothing reportedly prompted "tremendous response."

Odom said the blaze broke out in a service center where students do washing and ironing but that cause of the fire was not known. Fire Marshal Frank M. Vial was conducting an investigation.

Screwworm Eradication Promising

ORLANDO—(AP)—R. L. Dressel, Miami dairyman, was elected vice chairman of the Florida Livestock Board Monday at its 36th annual meeting.

Carl Zellman of Earleton was elected vice chairman and Dr. C. L. Campbell of Tallahassee was re-elected state veterinarian.

Halley B. Lewis of Arcadia was named board attorney and Mose D. Tindall of Orlando was named supervisor of screw worm eradication.

Tindall, in his report, said there has been no new cases of screw worm in almost two weeks.

"With Florida having a very mild winter this year, it is a good test of our eradication methods," he said.

Other members at the meeting reported healthy cattle conditions around the state.

Port Proposal Finds Support

MARIANNA — (UPI) — A proposal to build a port on the Apalachicola River near Sneads got the backing Monday of the Jackson County Commission and legislative delegation.

The Chamber of Commerce also gave its full endorsement to the project. Legislation will be sought authorizing creation of the port.

Dinner on the Ground Flushed Them

Spirits in Pisgah's Pullpit!

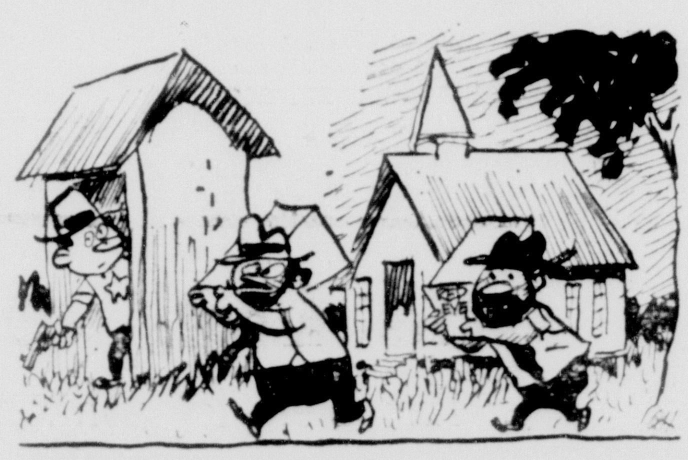
TALLAHASSEE — (AP) — "Build your church from a firm foundation" advised the speaker at services conducted at a little church in the wildwood.

But the speaker, Sam Teague Jr., said 200 gallons of moonshine whisky found later concealed beneath the pulpit of the old Pisgah Methodist Church wasn't what he had in mind.

The cache was uncovered Sunday when a small boy crawled beneath the building to locate some tables for the monthly dinner on the grounds.

Sheriff's deputies, summoned by Teague over his newly-installed automobile telephone, later nabbed two men who returned to the church and loaded part of the whisky.

The two, Jerry E. Reeves, 27, and Steve A. Edward Jr., 25, of Crawfordville, were charged with moving and concealing moonshine whisky.



The congregation of the church helped in the arrests. They disbanded after the discovery and the two deputies waited in an outdoor building four hours before making the arrests.

The church, located in an isolated area in the northern part of the county, is celebrating its 100th anniversary.

The Rev. James Farr reported that he had noted two strange men driving away when he arrived at the church grounds Sunday morning for services. But he said they appeared friendly and waved to him as they drove off.

At Exclusive Resort

They 'Peel' Safe And Get $100,000

Robbery Held Work Of 'Pros'

CLEARWATER — (AP) — Three armed men broke open the safe of an exclusive tourist resort Monday and escaped with a large trash can full of checks, cash and jewelry.

Sheriff Don Genung and Police Chief Claude Rigsby of nearby Safety Harbor placed the haul from the pre-dawn robbery at "more than $100,000."

John Marshall, manager of the Safety Harbor Spa health resort, said, "I couldn't even guess at the amount taken until we complete an inventory of the safe's contents."

Marshall said, however, that he thought the loss would run "somewhat less than $80,000." One source said the final figure might toal $200,000.

Pinellas County sheriff Donald Genung said he was seeking to tie up the robbery with a series of Tampa Bay safe crackings, all unsolved, in the past two months. In each case the safes, usually located in food or department stores, were "peeled."

The bandits, wearing yachting caps and jackets and armed with pistols, entered the office of the two-story Spa at 2:50 a.m. while 250 guests slept in the building.

One of them announced to Pierce Owens, 63, a night watchman, and Mrs. Helen Rowe, about 45, a telephone operator:

"This is a holdup. Be quiet and you won't be hurt."

Owens said later, "I thought it was a joke. As I lowered my hands, I struck the mask of one of the men."

The watchman said the bandit kicked him in the stomach, knocking him down. The bandits then placed handcuffs on Owens, tied Mrs. Rowe's wrists and put tape gags in their mouths and bound their legs with tape.

While one of the men stood guard at the door, the other knocked the combination off the safe and peeled off the door.

The men departed 20 minutes after they entered the building, carrying with them the contents of the safe in a trash can taken from the office.

Ownes was able to free himself and Mrs. Rowe about 10 minutes after the men left. He called the sheriff's office.

Genung said he and the police chief had "no suspects and nothing much to go on."

The bandits wore gloves. No description was available on the automobile they used.

An FBI agent from St. Petersburg said he had "been monitoring the case so we will be prepared if it is determined federal laws have been violated."

Only nine days ago, thieves peeled the safe at Maas Bros. department store at Sarasota, getting away with about $25,000. Other safe-peelings have occurred in Tampa, St. Petersburg, Radenton and Fort Myers.

Officers have reason to believe all were committed by the same gang, which they described as "professionals" in the art of safe-peeling, where the steeled in "peeled" from the door.

Florida's Finances Perking Up

TALLAHASSEE — (UPI) — Florida's up-and-down financial situation brightened a little Monday.

The comptroller's office reported it expects to be able to distribute state school funds on schedule for the first time in months.

Ray Higgins, general auditor for the comptroller, reported a cash general revenue balance March 1 of $10,000,000 —the largest in months.

He spent $4,000,000 of it Monday — sending the counties their share of the first proceeds of sales tax collections, and mailing out welfare checks.

He said the big school fund distribution to counties probably will be mailed out next week, in plenty of time to meet deadlines for payment of teacher salaries and other bills.

March is the month when florida is supposed to recoup and return to a healthy cash condition — after paying back $20,000,000 borrowed from trust funds last year to get by the lean revenue months.

Higgins said the loan will be repaid toward the end of the month, with big automobile license tag receipts which are beginning to flow into the treasury, and anticipated large sales tax collections.

Meanwhile, the financial outlook — a subject of varying degrees of optimism and pessimism — gets a thorough going over here Tuesday afternoon when the Legislative Council's Finance and Taxation Committee meets.

The council's research arm, the Legislative Reference Bureau, will present the lawmakers with a pile of figures to back up its estimate that present taxes will produce no more than $700,000,000 in the next biennium.

Based on this analysis, Chairman B. C. Pearce of Palatka said he does not see how the state can expect to finance the $725,000,000 general spending bill recommended by the cabinet.

The cabinet based its proposed budget on Budget Director Smith's optimistic forecast of revenue between $726,000,000 and $729,000,000.

Smith so far has not backed down on that estimate, despite conflicts with estimates of the reference bureau and Comptroller Ray E. Green.

Green started out with a prediction of $716,000,000, but said he now has revised this downward to $700,000,000, based on the fact that Florida's recovery from recession and last winter's freeze has not been as rapid as anticipated.

$14,157 Deficit

Deputy Indicted In Fund Shortage

TALLAHASSEE —(UPI)— An audit, not made public until Monday, disclosed that a deputy in the office of Taylor County Sheriff M. S. Linton was indicted by a Grand Jury Jan. 7 in connection with a shortage in official accounts.

State Auditor Bryan Willis said Office Deputy Elbert H. Parker was charged with four counts of grand larceny, embezzlement and forgery.

The audit, covering the period Sept. 1, 1955, to July 31, 1958, turned up a total deficit in the sheriff's office of $16,713.

Willis said part was refunded after the auditor told Linton he had overdrawn $2,556 in salaries and automobile depreciation, leaving the deficit at $14,157.

The audit blamed the deficit partially on "inaccurate, inadequate and incomplete records" and the sheriff's failure to deposit many official collections or otherwise account from them.

Willis noted $3,449 in fines, costs and defaulted bonds were unaccounted for, and said the sheriff owed the county another $2,780 from the same source.

"The lack of records and control over cash made possible this serious deficiency . . . without prompt detection," the audit said.

He said several receipt books were missing and could not be found, and records were deficient in "nearly every respect."

Willis said an audit of the official accounts of Taylor County Judge Byron Butler turned up an $803 deficit, but that it was apparently corrected after the audit period closed March 31, 1958.

The report said Butler kept no balanced cash records which resulted in incomplete control over cash. But Willis said records were installed after the audit period closed.

Phone Rate Ruling Due Next Week

TALLAHASSEE —(AP)— The Florida Railroad and Public Utilities Commission said Monday a decision likely would be handed down next week on the General Telephone Co.'s petition for a four million dollar rate hike.

The commission ended public hearings here Dec. 19. Since then its staff has been analyzing the company's financial records, put in evidence in support of the petition.

No further public hearings are planned.

Alan Boyd, chairman of the agency, said a public hearing on the rate increase attracted little attention in Tampa early in December.

The hearing was then recessed to Tallahassee on Dec. 18. Subsequently thousands of letters protesting the telephone service poured into the commission offices.

At the Tallahassee hearing, Boyd told a protesting group that, under Florida law and a State Supreme Court ruling, the commission could not consider the quality, or efficiency, of service in hearing the rate case. The matter would have to be the subject of a separate proceeding, he said.

Boyd also said the 26,000 protesting letters the delegation said it had could be placed in the commission's correspondence file. But he said they could not be considered in the rate case and wouldn't be answered.

Since Dec. 18 more letters of protest have come in, but these like the others have been placed in the files.

The company said its earnings must be higher in order to attract investment capital to carry out a 25-million-dollar expansion program.

Its service area includes the cities of Tampa, St. Petersburg, Winter Haven, Sarasota, Clearwater, Bartow, Bradenton, Auburndale, Lake Wales, Mulberry, Tarpon Springs, Springs, Plant City, New Port Richey, and Venice.

Dancer Disappears After Taxicab Ride

PITTSBURGH—(UPI)—Police searched Monday for Molly Ardrey, a 22-year-old night club entertainer of Bradenton, Fla., who disappeared after taking a cab from her motel to downtown Pittsburgh.

Miss Ardrey, a singer and dancer, failed to give her last performance Sunday night at the Holiday House in nearby Monroeville.

Her sister, Sally, who works with her and Billy Alberts of New York, said the last time she saw her sister was 5:30 a.m. Sunday when they went to bed at the Holiday House after the Saturday night show. She said she awoke between 6 and 7 a.m. and found her sister missing.

A cab driver said he had picked Miss Ardrey up near the motel and took her to the Carlton House Hotel in Pittsburgh. She did not check into the hotel.

Shapiro Throws Weight to Drive

By GENE MILLER
Herald Staff Writer

Tough Jimmy Hoffa personally took charge at a bar room rally Sunday afternoon to begin a drive to organize Dade's 25,000 city employes.

As 62 camera-shy city employes applauded, Hoffa promised he would fly back to Miami in six weeks for a giant mass meeting.

On the spot the Teamsters signed up a score of members, deputized them stewards, and told them to start passing out union literature this week.

At Hoffa's elbow was his smiling Miami Beach lawyer, ex-Mayor and Councilman Harold Shapiro.

The union will use Shapiro's Lincoln Road law offices as organization headquarters.

Shapiro said he saw no conflict of interests by having a councilman representing the union which wants to take over Dade. A few public officials disagreed Sunday night.

Sunday night, Beach Councilman Mel Richard, a long and vocal foe of racketeering; said:

"I feel like the governor. We don't want Hoffa here. The Teamsters have made no major contributions to the people."

Richard also questioned Shapiro's position. "It is very peculiar. He has to decide his own ethics. I personally wouldn't accept such a position.

Attorney General Richard Ervin said he thought Shapiro may be acting against city interests. Any element of conflict would be improper, he said.

Shapiro said, "I am doing nothing illegal or unethical." He said he had not taken a cent from the Teamsters yet and his fee would be decided later.

Shapiro said he definitely thinks it would be a good thing for Dade's 25,000 employes to belong to the Teamsters. He is running for reelection next June.

Beach Mayor Kenneth Oka said, "I am definitely opposed to the Teamsters." Shapiro, he said, may be facing some personal problems.

"His is an ethical, not legal, problem," Oka said. "No one can serve two masters at the same time."

The rally was in the Irish House Bar at 1432 Alton Rd., Miami Beach — with a few drinks on the house.

When Hoffa spotted a photographer he said, "no photographs of this group! These men may be subjected to severe disciplinary reprisals."

His listeners, more than half of them Negro, said in a chorus, "Right! Right! Right!"

But Hoffa changed his mind for a back-of-the-head shot.

Clenching his fist and talking in a loud voice, Hoffa said he was astonished to learn some city employes work 54 hours a week, that some employes were paid less than a dollar an hour.

Hoffa wants a flat $500 a year increase for all county and municipal workers. That would amount to a $12,500,000 budget (and tax) increase.

Shouted Henry Feinstein, president of the Public Employes Local 237 of New York: "We will march to the County Commission 25,000 strong. And we will all shout together, "We want more money! And they'll hear us!"

Feinstein warned that the cities in Dade will try to put "spies in our midst." He said the union will soon ask the cities to make regular payroll dues deductions for the Teamsters.

He said 12 cities were represented at the Sunday rally, including Miami, Miami Beach, Hialeah, Coral Gables and North Miami Beach.

Drippy Day Gives Art That Washed-Out Look

By TOM LOWNES
Herald Staff Writer

An all-day rain washed most of the color out of Vizcaya's "Artists' Day" painting spree Sunday but some 400 nature-and-art lovers sloshed their way through Dade's prettiest park just the same.

Depressed Miami Art Leaguers turned their eyes skyward through drizzle and downpour and decided to reschedule the arty affair for next Sunday.

The big paint party—which also marked the first day of Vizcaya's 25-cent (instead of $1.75) grounds fee — was to have attracted thousands of visitors and nearly 500 working artists.

But as the gray day dripped away, only ninety-odd painters and sketchers took advantage of their free invitations — and most of them gave up in disgust.

"I never got past the sketching stage," said Mrs. Carol Close of 1893 NW 82nd St. as she tossed her rain-spattered paint box into her car after a long trudge back to Vizcaya's old parking lot.

The parking lot problem also dampened painters' spirits: A new lot, planned to eliminate the long walk through the elements, was still not completed.

"We're giving everybody a rain check to come back next Sunday and we're postponing the Clothes Line Exhibition until March 15," said Mrs. Miriam Jones, artist-in-charge.

Not all the painters minded the pitter-patter on their palettes. In fact, the rain seemed to bring out a special brand of foul-weather artists.

"I've discovered a completely waterproof system," beamed Mrs. Dorothie Kutella of 2400 SW 60th St., from under her blue and yellow umbrella-hat.

"I use prima-color pencils on oil board and it can get soaked wet without running at all — then after it dries I go over it in oil," she added as a concerned companion yanked her out of the rain.

Under Vizcaya's many coral arches, less-hearty younger artists set up their easels in comparative dryness.

But Mrs. Allee Gerard, a professional landscape painter from Warsaw, Ind., and Miami, chose to sit right out in the open, protecting her sketch pad with a shaggy straw hat.

"I often stand out in the snow in ski paints — you get kind of tough being a landscape painter," she said just as a friend, Mrs. Eada Blacker of Hallandale, offered a sheltering umbrella.

One young artist even welcomed the rain. "Rain drawing is a technique," said 14-year-old John Hancock of 4160 Ingraham Highway as he worked his pastel crayon over a sketch of Vizcaya Palace.

"You see how the rain sort of makes it like an impression — kind of blurry?" he sniffled as he stood in the light drizzle.

A moment later, the black clouds let loose a new downpour, washing away almost all of John's blurry impression.

Never Mind Name, It's Same Airport

By JAMES BUCHANAN
Herald Staff Writer

"You wanna go to Wilcox Field? Hop in, buddy, and I'll take you."

The cabby parked in front of Miami's new International Air Terminal had to ask another driver, "Where's Wilcox, pal?"

"Well, uh, it's a new one, ya know. I'll find it."

He was standing right in front of it while he talked.

For Miami International and Wilcox Field are one and the same.

And his confusion was no greater than hundreds of other Miamians and visitors who get tangled up in the dual-naming of Dade County's biggest air facility.

Known all over the world as "Miami International," the airport is on airline schedules under the same name.

But arriving passengers, glancing at the front of the terminal, often are confused by a pair of signs reading "Wilcox Field."

Returning to the airport for homeward bound planes they often ask cab and limousine drivers for "Wilcox."

Only the "old timers" in Miami (who were here before 1956) recognize the name Wilcox as belonging to the late J. Mark Wilcox, Florida representative in Congress and 11-year attorney for the Port Authority.

The County Commission, which also is the Port Authority, decided on the name "Wilcox Field" late in 1956, seven months after Wilcox's death.

The commission ordered a special room in the still-to-be-built International Terminal, and a special plaque for the room.

The next commission tossed out the Wilcox designation, and the room, but said it would let the plaque hang.

Late last fall, at the urging of Circuit Judge Ray Pearson, the commission reversed itself and agreed to designate the airport as "Wilcox Field."

Bill to Allow Coloring of Oranges Blocked

Measure Held Up In House

Action Delayed Until March 16

More State News P. 1B, 2B

WASHINGTON — Final congressional action on a bill to permit coloring of Florida and Texas oranges was held up in the House Monday by a technicality — and indirectly by an objection.

The bill was passed over without prejudice until the next consent calendar day, March 16, because the House Commerce Committee, along with its favorable report on the bill, sent to the House the original bill approved by a Senate committee rather than the bill actually passed by the Senate with amendments.

Chairman Oren Harris of the House Commerce Committee obtained approval for the measure to be recommitted to the committee so that the proper Senate bill could be attached to the House committee's favorable report.

Rep. James Delaney (D., N.Y.) had informed Rep. James Haley (D., Fla.), the bill's sponsor, that he would object to it. This alone would have caused the bill to be passed over for two weeks.

The clerk of the House Commerce Committee told a reporter Harris probably would ask the House Rules Committee to send the bill to the House floor promptly, thus removing it from the consent calendar.

He said there is an urgency in getting action on this measure because a law permitting the coloring of oranges expired Feb. 28. This will make Florida and Texas growers wait until Congress acts before they can color oranges to be shipped to market.

As a result of Monday's House action, Florida and Texas growers cannot color oranges with dye.

Rep. Haley, conceding it is a legal question, said he believes growers could ship oranges now which were colored prior to the last day, but that no coloring could be done, beginning Monday, until the House passes the Senate bill and President Eisenhower signs it.

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D., Wash.) said Monday he had informed Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson that the Senate Interior and Insular Affairs Committee was expected to approve the Hawaiian statehood bill today.

Mayor High, left, Evans Are Close But Oh-So-Distant
. . . on way out after commission meeting was adjourned

Evans Is Bounced Out Of City Manager Job

By JOHN MORTON
Herald Staff Writer

E. A. Evans was fired as Miami City Manager Monday by a new majority that developed suddenly on the City Commission.

He was replaced immediately by Ira (Dutch) Willard, former city manager of Coral Gables, who recently entered the banking business.

Voting to remove Evans "as of today" were Otis Shiver, George W. DuBreuil and Mayor Robert King High.

Commissioner James W. High angrily protested the surprise action and announced his immediate resignation from the commission.

Failure to cooperate with Dade's new Metropolitan government was given by Shiver as the reason for Evans' ouster. Shiver made the motion for the firing.

Also asked to leave the city's employ immediately was Assistant City Manager Ray Williams. The veteran employe said he will retire.

Evans took the sudden loss of his $25,000-a-year job calmly.

"I have no hard feelings," he said. "I knew some day this would happen."

Willard immediately accepted the job after he was told of the offer by telephone. He will go to City Hall this morning to take over his new office. His salary will be $18,200 a year.

He said the job was first offered to him two weeks ago. He said he told the commissioners then that he would take it.

Ira Willard
. . . and he's in

The firing came as a surprise, however, even to many City Hall insiders. Up to now Shiver and DuBreuil have voted with a four man majority that included James High and B. E. Hearn.

Like James High, Hearn continued loyal to Evans.

He challenged Shiver's complaint that Evans has been ignoring the wishes of the commission and pursuing his own policies.

"I believe the city manager in every instance," said Hearn, "has carried out the will of this commission."

Shiver charged that Evans was "standing in the way of an orderly transfer of Miami functions to Metro, and that means standing in the way of the wishes of the people."

Last summer Evans was a leader in the Dade League of Municipalities campaign to curb Metro's powers by passage of a proposed "autonomy amendment" to the Metro charter. The City Commission, with the exception of Mayor High, offered no objection when Evans mobilized city employes and equipment to work in the "vote yes" campaign.

Still bitterly opposed to Metro, James High said in making his exit from the commission that it was led by "nitwit theorists with silly, power-grabbing moves."

The commissioner said he will devote his full time between now and the November city election "to making known to the people what has been done here."

"At the end of that time," he added, "I expect to be a candidate for reelection to this commission."

The firing came Monday afternoon when commissioners changed an informal session into an official meeting.

They took no action on High's resignation. Mayor High said it will come up at Wednesday's formal meeting.

Evans sat through the meeting calmly smoking a pipe, with one knee propped against his desk.

After the ouster vote there was an awkward silence. Evans finally broke it.

"I don't know why we are looking so glum," he commented. "Why don't we just smile?"

Before the official meeting was called, Mayor High complained he had been embarrassed earlier in the day when asked by a group of lawyers what Miami was going to do about transferring city traffic courts to Metro, as the court had ordered.

Civilian Heads on Pan in Missile Race

Who decides what missiles research the U.S. will pour its billions into? In today's installment of his series on the great defense debate famed Reporter Bob Considine puts the spotlight on a little-known but powerful official in weapons development.

By BOB CONSIDINE
Herald Columnist

The position of the U.S. at this time has been likened to that of a man crossing a rocky ford in a stream, daring not to take his weight entirely off one foot until he is sure that the other foot is on solid ground.

We are in some cases haltingly and other cases feverishly changing our military retaliation reliance from manned bombers to missiles. Articulate members of the Democratic Congress believe that many aspects of the Eisenhower administration's defense problem are being bungled now or have been in the past.

But no other segment has come under more fire than that part of the setup which must compete with the Soviet Union's unquestionably brilliant rocket developers. We were caught with our Sputniks down on Oct. 4, 1957, and despite a tremendous awakening to Russia's scientific and engineering prowess we have yet to catch up.

The task of getting the U.S. abreast of or preferably ahead of Russian missile wizardry was complicated until the 1958 Reorganization Act. There were conflicting and competing groups, not to mention jealousies and the fanning of the dead embers of old interservice rivalries.

As outlined by Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy before the House Armed Services Committee last Feb. 2, here is where the breath-taking authority rests:

Dr. Herbert York
. . . directs research

"A Director of Defense Research and Engineering, Dr. Herbert York, has been appointed with the mission to assure that all scientific and technological resources of the Department of Defense are put to the best possible use.

"The Director of Defense Research and Engineering will supervise and coordinate all Department of Defense research and engineering programs. He will be responsible for providing effective leadership, eliminating unnecessary duplication, encouraging basic research, and developing an integrated research and development program covering all operational needs."

Answerable to Dr. York is all the work and thinking of the Advance Research Projects Agency, headed by Roy Johnson. Dr. York has veto power over ARPA's spatial brain-children. The same is true of his office's control over William Holaday's Guided Missiles Operation, and missiles heads of each service.

U.S. Set For Fight On Berlin

We're Ready, McElroy Says

By Herald Wire Services

WASHINGTON — U.S. military forces are ready to back up President Eisenhower's avowed determination to stand fast on American rights in Berlin, Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy told Congress Monday.

"We think we have a definite offensive superiority over the Russians at this time," McElroy said in discussing the situation with the House Space Committee.

While voicing doubt the Russians want to start a war, the Pentagon chief told the congressmen "we are prepared to meet various stages of the Berlin situation as it develops." Then he added:

"We are prepared to make good on the statement of the President that we will not yield one inch on our rights in Berlin."

McElroy said there are no plans now to mobilize because of the deepening crisis over Russia's campaign to force the U.S. and other Allied powers out of Berlin, 110 miles inside Communist-held territory.

Mobilization steps have been suggested in Congress in recent days, and Rep. James Fulton (R., Pa.) raised the issue again Monday. He asked McElroy if this country has adequate protection for a firm position on Berlin and "if not, should we mobilize in whole or in part?"

"We don't regard that as being required at this time," McElroy replied.

Saying the German crisis has been studied by the Joint Chiefs of Staff and the State Department, McElroy said there may be some moves to strengthen the U.S. position. He did not go into detail.

McElroy also said during the course of his testimony that present U.S. policy is not to strike the first blow in a war, but "whether that always will be true is another matter." He did not say what conditions could lead to a first strike by the U.S.

The secretary said this country is ready for anything. He conceded Russia greater strength on the ground in Central Europe, but said it has been "clear for a long period of time that we will never fight the Russians on the ground."

Rep. Victor L. Anfuso (D., N.Y.) raised the possibility that Berlin could touch off a world conflict.

"Every time you resist aggression you have to consider that possibility," McElroy conceded.

To Anfuso's suggestion that Russia can defeat the U.S. by forcing it to bankrupt itself, McElroy said he doesn't think Russia cares how it defeats the U.S.

He said Russia "intends to stick right with it," until it defeats the U.S. "one way or another."

As McElroy testified, Russia sent new notes to the Western Allies proposing conditional Big Four negotiations on the Berlin crisis. Several key members of Congress interpreted the Russian proposal as a "thaw" in the cold war.

The White House and State Department deferred comment until the text of the note can be studied.

Sen. J. William Fulbright (D. Ark.) chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, was guardedly optimistic. He said, "I hope this justifies a more hopeful attitude" toward Berlin.

But No Damage Done

Minute-Long Quake Hits San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO — (UPI) — A long, rolling earthquake which alternately swelled and diminished for more than a minute, struck earthquake-conscious San Francisco late Monday.

The temblor hit the city and surrounding areas at 6:29 p.m. Miami time. The University of California seismographic office at Berkeley, Calif., said the quake registered a magnitude of 5.5 on the Richter scale.

The quake, it said, was centered 65 miles northwest of Berkeley, which would put it near Santa Rosa, but residents of that area said they barely felt the shock. There were no immediate reports of damage.

In southern California, the California Institute of Technology at Pasadena reported the temblor registered 4.5 on the Richter scale, a full point lower than what was registered at Berkeley. There was no immediate explanation for the discrepancy in the readings.

Telephone service was sporadically disrupted throughout the Bay area by overloading calls from anxious residents calling schools — where their children were still in class—relatives, and the police department.

Reports of the temblor came from as far south as Salinas, Calif., some 100 miles from San Francisco, and from San Rafael, a suburb 20 miles to the north.

A San Rafael housewife said the quake sounded like "truck gears" engaging.

A passenger in a downtown office building elevator said the car "banged against the shaft walls" and the lifting cables slapped to and fro as the shock hit the building.

The quake was felt "strongly" in the east Bay where residents called police in San Leandro, Oakland and Berkeley.

However, residents in Daly City, just south of San Francisco, said they felt nothing, although their city sits smack on top of the San Andreas Fault, which has caused most of San Francisco's major quakes.

Oakland police said they had some 1,500 calls within a few minutes. San Francisco's police switchboard was so jammed with calls it was impossible to reach city officials immediately by phone.

The quake struck at 3:29 with a strong swaying motion, then diminished and swelled with a sharper, stronger tremor some 30 seconds later. Intensity of the quake compared with the one which caused millions of dollars in damage on March 22, 1957. That quake also had a magnitude of 5.5.

Ministers' Parley Is Accepted

Nikita Recants On Berlin Talks

By Herald Wire Services

MOSCOW — Russia reversed itself Monday and conditionally agreed to a foreign ministers' conference on the Berlin crisis in notes that warned that the German issue could cause war "a hundred times more serious" than all past conflicts.

Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev withdrew his rejection of the Western plan for a foreign ministers' meeting after pleas from Britain's visiting Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

The Soviet note handed to the ambassadors of the U.S., Britain, France and West Germany urged a summit conference as having "the greatest chance" of success.

But if the West "is not ready" for that, the Russians agreed to a ministerial-level parley on one condition: Inclusion of Poland and Czechoslovakia.

The Western proposal which Khrushchev rejected verbally last Tuesday called for a Big Four foreign ministers' meeting. Russia wants the two Communist nations included to give the Eastern bloc numerical balance. East and West Germany also would attend and have "active" participation" in the talks.

(In Bonn, West German official sources said the government will oppose the presence of Poland and Czechoslovakia at a conference.)

The Soviets suggested a meeting of "not more than two or three months" which would begin next month at Geneva or Vienna. The West also has proposed such a time and choice of places.

Western diplomats said the proposal for two or three months of negotiation starting in April shows the Soviet Union has long since scrapped May 27 as an absolute deadline for settlement of the West Berlin question.

They pointed out that since Khrushchev set the original date, Soviet officials both here and abroad — including Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan in the U. S. — have reiterated that no deadline exists and that the proposal contains no ultimatum.

However, the note stressed again that Russia intends to hand over control of the Berlin lifelines to the East Germans by May 27.

It warned the West that any attempt to use "tanks or avia-

Premier Khrushchev was having tea with some students when he suddenly turned to one of them and demanded:

"Who wrote 'Anna Karenina?'"

Stammered the terrified student: "I didn't write her, sir, honest I didn't."

The next day Khrushchev related this incident to Gen. Ivan Serov, recently deposed security boss. Later in the day Serov reported back to Khrushchev:

"You know that young man you were telling me about? Well, I have news for you. After questioning him for two-and-one-half hours I've gotten his written confession that he did write 'Anna Karenina!'"

"A quiet Friday morning: the sun shining, people going to work, children on the way to school, dogs and cats running and playing. People striving for a good life, to better their community, working for the American way: freedom of speech, religion.

"But serenity can be shattered. A school is blown up, a church threatened, people beaten. That's right, mister, don't let those Communists enforce the Constitution.

"It has been a long hot day. Go home. Greet the family. Have a beer. Call the boys. When is the meeting? Tonight, now! Get your cloak, your cloak of authority. And don't forget the mask. Pick up the bums, the mental defects. Get on to the meeting. Look at your leader . . . great man . . . knows how to hate . . . praise him for leading you. After all, you've no mind. Absorb it all: blind hatred. It's yours for the asking. When is the next bombing or beating? Get drunk with the rest of the animals. Go home; even the little ones must be taught to hate.

"Live long. Have a blast. Spread hatred and corruption. Grow old — and die. You've been a good man — says you. Into the promised land you go."

Anti-Missile Defense Year Away--McElroy

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy said Monday the time when the U.S. will have a defense against ballistic missiles is some years away.

Even then there is no assurance the defense can stop more than a modest number of ICBM's launched in a mass attack, he said.

McElroy was quizzed by the House Space Committee in the row over his turndown of an Army request to put into production the Army's Nike-Zeus, a missile-and-radar system designed to knock down intercontinental missiles.

McElroy said the Nike-Zeus is getting the highest national priority in its development but his best scientific advice has been that the weapon is not ready for production.

Until there is a missile defense, McElroy said, the U.S. protection lies in its strike-back power — a deterrent aimed at discouraging a potential aggressor from starting a war in the first place.

'Random' Signals Reported

INGLEWOOD, Calif. — (UPI) — The Air Force in a cautiously worded statement announced Monday that the "lost" 1,300-pound satellite Discoverer I is apparently circling the earth every 96 minutes in a polar orbit.

Preliminary studies indicated the 19-foot-long satellite's life would be in excess of one month, the Air Force said.

The satellite was blasted into the heavens Saturday afternoon at Vandenberg Air Force Base to become the first satellite launched on the West Coast.

Its fate remained in doubt for nearly 32 hours because of an apparent radio failure before the Air Force's Ballistic Missile Division (BMD) here broke the suspense by releasing a guarded statement Sunday night reporting the reception of "random" radio signals.

A BMD spokesman explained the difficulty the Air Force was having in determining whether the Discoverer I actually achieved orbit.

"We are not saying that it definitely is in orbit, neither can we say that it is not, at this point," the spokesman said. "We don't feel that we will definitely know an orbit has been achieved until we have tracked it by radar, obtained a visual sighting or received more definite radio signals.

"Until that time, we can say only that information 'tends' to confirm, not definitely confirm, an orbit."

The Discoverer shot was the initial launching in "Project Discoverer," a program designed to lead eventually the way into space for man. Another shot in the project already was being readied for 30 days hence.

Western Refusal Is Seen

Red Proposal Has 2 Flaws

See Story, P. 1A

By WILLIAM J. JORDEN
The New York Times Service

WASHINGTON — Western diplomats found little in the latest Soviets notes on the German problem to encourage hope for any easy, quick solution.

The only encouragement they could find in their first reading of the long messages from Moscow was that the Russians had kept the door open for possible negotiations.

Diplomatic sources here indicated the West almost certainly will reject the proposal for the kind of conference of foreign ministers that Moscow advanced Monday. It was assumed that rejection would be the diplomatic initiative to the Kremlin.

Diplomats here found two fundamental objections to the Soviet position:

First, they noted, the Russians have indicated a willingness to discuss only those problems Moscow deems important — making West Berlin a "free city" and arranging a peace treaty with a divided Germany.

Second, Moscow wants to add two Communist states, Poland and Czechoslovakia, to the roster of conference participants. The Western position is that only nations with an internationally recognized "special interest" in Germany — the Soviet Union, Great Britain, France and the U.S. — should make basic decisions on Germany, with the advice of the Germans themselves, both Communist and non-Communist.

Western counter-proposals can be expected to concentrate on these points. The West can be expected to argue that if they are willing to discuss problems raised by the Russians, the latter cannot expect to rule out matters the Western allies consider important.

On the question of participation, experts here doubt the West will rule out the presence of other states. It would argue, however, that expansion of a conference should not be confined to Communist countries Moscow wants in, while ignoring others, and that to include all nations with an interest in Germany would make a conference unwieldy and unnecessarily complicated.

Headley's Days Numbered As Chief, Mayor High Says

By JUANITA GREENE
Herald Staff Writer

Walter Headley won't be Miami's police chief much longer, Mayor Robert King High predicted after Monday's surprise shakeup in city politics.

"There will be a lot of changes in the old brass at the police department," the youthful mayor said.

"As for Chief Headley himself," he added, "I would expect him to resign."

The police department has been the principal target of Mayor High. But until Monday he got no support in his demands for a cleanup from the other four commissioners.

High's sudden support from two commissioners from what was formerly a four-man majority on the commission is expected to have other significant repercussions.

Votes by High, Otis Shiver and George DuBreuil are expected to lead to:

THE TRANSFERENCE soon of all traffic cases from city courts to Metro courts.

THE FIRING, or resignation, of General Edward (Bo)Barber as a $9,000-a-year administrative assistant. He was hired by Evans as a "troubleshooter."

THE FIRING, transfer, or resignation of many other oldtimers in the police department and other city departments.

In uneasy positions are City Engineer Arthur Darlow, City Building Department Director Ellis Knox, and Slum Clearance Director Francis Kelly.

THE END of what Mayor High called "petty resistance to Metro auto inspection in the City of Miami."

High was emphatic in his predictions about changes in the police department.

"Since I've been in office (a year and a half)," he said, "Evans and Headley have ridiculed any efforts to clean up organized rackets."

"I predict," he said, "a new attitude among the high brass at the police department."

The mayor has been particularly critical of what he called "wide open bolita peddling." From time to time he has toured the city and bought bolita tickets, and confronted Evans and Headley with the evidence.

Until Monday, however, Shiver and DuBreuil have sided with Commissioners James High and B. E. Hearn in supporting Evans and his claim that there was nothing seriously wrong in the police department setup.

In forecasting other changes in personnel, High said he was sure Barber, an old Army friend of Evans', will not be around long.

"The days of the generals are over," he declared.

This Man Willard Is Metro's Friend

By DOM BONAFEDE
Herald Staff Writer

Miami's new city manager, Ira F. Willard promised close cooperation between the city and Metropolitan government in his first statement upon being named to the post.

"Metro is here to stay," Willard commented. "A close working agreement with the city and Metro is necessary to best serve the people."

He added he is not thinking of making any changes in department heads "at the present."

The annual salary of the new city manager was put at $18,200, compared to $25,000 received by his predecessor, E. A. Evans.

Willard disclosed that he was first approached about the job about two weeks ago by Mayor Robert King High.

"Mayor High asked if I'd be interested and I told him I would be if there was a vacancy.

"He called again last weekend to confirm it and I told him the same thing."

Willard, called "Dutch" by his acquaintances, was appointed city manager of Coral Gables in May, 1956, after having served in the same capacity at Alexandria, Va., for four years. Prior to that he was city manager of Hopewell, Va.

He resigned the Coral Gables post three months ago to accept an executive position as director of new business development with the Sottile banking group.

Unlike many city managers, who come from the ranks of academic engineers, Willard is a former practicing attorney. He completed pre-law studies at the University of South Carolina in 1934 and obtained his law degree from Southeastern University, Washington, D.C., in 1938.

In 1941 he joined the U.S. Army as a lieutenant. He was honorably discharged as a lieutenant colonel in 1946.

Willard, 47, and his wife, Mary, have four children. They live at 902 Catalonia Ave., Coral Gables.

During his tenure at Coral Gables, Willard established a reputation as one of the most astute city managers in the country.

He was frequently mentioned as a candidate for the position of county manager.

Willard said Monday he had no hesitancy about accepting the Miami job.

"I'm very honored. I'll do my very best to be a success," he said.

He said he expects to start work at Dinner Key City Hall immediately.

Malaya Anthem Disc 'Scratched'

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaya—(UPI)—Juke box operators scratched a candidate for the hit parade Monday under government pressure.

The government advised them it was in poor taste to have the Negara Ku— The Malayan National Anthem—listed under "hit tunes."

The record, played by a police band, was getting a good whirl by non-rock 'n' roll enthusiasts.

County Is Using Pushbutton Tactics

St. Lucie Steps Up Its War on Mosquitoes

By DOUG SILVER
Herald Correspondent

FORT PIERCE — Pushbutton warfare now even extends to mosquito fighting.

The battleground is St. Lucie County. Waging the warfare is the county's Sanitary District.

It is charged with the responsibility of getting rid of what the State Board of Health refers to as "arthropods" — but what are known to you and me as just plain bugs. District Chairman is County Commissioner Joe Nelson.

Chief button pusher is Frederick W. Harden, young entomologist (bug expert) who takes care of the county's ceaseless campaign against mosquitoes and sandflies.

He's figured out a system whereby the drivers of the jeeps and trucks that carry the fogging machines around the county can now control the action of the foggers mounted on the rear without getting out of the cabs of their vehicles.

This saves much valuable time that was formerly lost in making adjustments to the fogging apparatus — starting it up, turning the flow of chemicals on and off and changing the direction of the nozzle.

The drivers usually work two hours a night — and if an hour that was formerly lost in tinkering can be saved — it means an extra 200 acres can be fogged.

Many other things have changed during the 32 years St. Lucie County has been fighting insects. The budget, for one thing.

It's now running around $150,000 a year which is a lot more than the county spent for the ten-year period between '27 and '37.

Beliefs as to the best way of killing pests are much different than even a few years ago. Used to be that DDT was considered the most lethal method.

Nowadays, in this county at least, the fogging is done with a mixture of malathion and lethane — because the bugs were getting used to DDT and building immunity.

Conceptions of permanent control, as distinguished from temporary methods via chemicals, have also been altered.

The modern system is based on the fact that the salt marsh mosquito must have moist soil on which to lay eggs.

If the marsh is flooded and the water kept impounded with a series of dikes — the mosquito can't lay her eggs. About one fourth of St. Lucie County's 5,000 acres of salt marsh are now impounded — with more scheduled each year.

Harden says one thing which hasn't changed much in man's ceaseless bug battle around here is the method of learning where the most mosquitos hang out.

"It's pretty simple," he pointed out, "just have a man with light khaki trousers stand still and then count the mosquitoes that land on the front of his pants. We take counts all over the county all the time like that — and the fog program is based on the mosquito count.

"A landing rate of 100 a minute is not unusual in summer — but it shows an area that needs treatment. The year 1958 was a real freak year — the lightest mosquito year anybody can remember. We took 5,000 counts and the average landing rate per minute per pants leg was only 1.4. In 1957 it was 10.07."

"Nobody really knows," he went on," why last year was so much better than the year before. We believe our ditching and diking program had something to do with it, but it isn't the whole story. The best answer is that in 1957 natural conditions — rainfall, tides other natural phenomena, were conducive to mosquito breeding, and in 1958 weather and tide changes hurt the bugs and helped the people.

He wouldn't issue any cast iron prediction for this season — beyond saying it would probably be tougher than last year.

Then There Was the Time A Ball Game Was Fogged Up

Herald Service

FORT PIERCE — St. Lucie County's war against insects is a serious job.

But the battle has some offbeat moments — some humorous, some embarrasing — that keep the day-to-day routine from getting too dull.

Frederick W. Harden, who heads up the county's campaign against mosquitoes, and his chief assistant Roy Carlile who has jockeyed bug wagons many thousands of miles, recalled some of these incidents.

Annually they can count on some excited tourist seeing what he believes to be smoke coming from houses and turning in a fire alarm.

Long before the fire department gets on the scene the "smoke" from the fogging machine has disappeared — and so has the tourist.

Then there was the time last summer when an over-zealous fogging machine operator nearly broke up a ball game.

It was the most important ball game in the state — when the Key West Conchs were playing the West Palm Beach Wildcats for the high school championship at Jaycee Field in Fort Pierce.

A lot of out-of-town visitors were on hand and the county farmers didn't want to take any chances of anyone being mosquito bit.

A bug wagon was stationed near the outfield, to windward of a wire fence marking the right hand boundary of the field.

It was the ninth inning, tie score and the count three and two. The West Palm Beach pitcher walked to the plate for a conference. The he started back towards the mound.

At that moment the fogging machine started up and slowly charted a course towards the stands, parallel to the fight field foul line.

In a few seconds the whole infield was covered with fog and it was eight minutes before the pitcher could see the batter.

Usually the taxpayers kick about not getting enough service from the Sanitary Department — that night the squawks went the other way.

Extra service requests have long been the bane of the department — people who want the truck to make a private run out to their house for weddings, bridge parties, or other special occasions. Much tact is required by Fred Harden and his men.

Old timers in the insect fighting business like to tell the story of John Hull, one of the first entomologists hired by the county years ago.

The staff was small and he used to run the one fogging truck himself. In those days people weren't as used to the program as they are now, and there was considerable suspicion and even resentment.

One evening around supper time John Hull and his fogging machine were proceeding down a street in a fairly tough neighborhood, the truck billowing forth clouds of DDT.

A householder, well known for a mean disposition, jumped out in the middle of the road and waved his arms. The truck stopped. So did the smoke. Hull was wary, ready for trouble.

"Hey" yelled the arm waver, "Will that stuff kill bedbugs?"

Hull, relieved, allowed that it probably would.

"Then back it up to my door and shoot the whole house full of it."

The entomologist obliged and later heard that it worked. It was the beginning of a beautiful friendship.

Vero Beach Council Meeting

Street Project on Agenda

Herald Correspondent

VERO BEACH — A discussion of the possible widening of 13th Avenue between 20th and 21st Streets is on the agenda for revival at the Vero Beach City Council meeting at 7:30 p.m. today.

It was proposed several months ago by J. J. Schumann, who owns some of the store buildings on the west side of 13th Avenue that the street be widened to permit parking on the east as well as the west side.

At that time the councilmen decided not to widen the street because the city parking lot is on the east side of 13th Avenue and it usually was not full.

Schumann has requested that the street-widening be reconsidered, City Manager Eugene Lyon said Monday.

A request for a beer and wine license for Pete's Meats and Groceries on 20th Street also is on the agenda.

There has been some question about it because of the nearness of the store to a church.

'Big Fair' Plans Mapped at Vero

FAA Puts Woman In Vero

VERO BEACH — The first woman operations specialist at Vero Beach for the Federal Aviation Agency has begun work at the air base here.

She is Miss Vera Self who came here from Daytona Beach. She was employed by the FAA and its predecessor, the Civil Aeronautics Administration, for 16 years.

William Garrision, head of the FAA here, said the last woman CAA operations specialist employed here was in 1950.

Miss Self will be one of those maintaining contact with aircraft in this vicinity, giving weather and landing information, receiving and transmitting flight plans, etc.

She is replacing Alden B. Davis who is being transferred to the Tampa FAA station.

PB Gives Pledge To Martin

Herald Bureau

WEST PALM BEACH — Palm Beach County commissioners took the first step toward mapping out a county road program Monday, and in other business agreed to cooperate with Martin County in extending Pratt and Whitney Rd.

Commissioner Kenneth Foster called for a study to determine how the county can finance a program to improve and build county roads.

The county now has on tap a 20-year program for primary and secondary roads.

Commissioners agreed to the study. They also agreed to extend Pratt and Whitney Rd. one mile to the Martin County line. The construction will be financed out of District 1 road funds.

Martin County commissioners appearing in person said they will obtain the right-of-way if Palm Beach County builds the one-mile link.

The road now terminates at Indiantown Rd. Martin County officials called the extension of the road "vital to our economy."

VERO BEACH — An accident review board Monday morning found that the death of Charles Leon Orrison, Vero Beach lineman, from contact with a 4,160-volt line Friday was due to his failure to wear protective rubber gloves.

Fellsmere High

School's Secret: 'Flexible Faculty'

Herald Correspondent

VERO BEACH — With an average of only about 10 students in the seventh through twelfth grades the Fellsmere High School offers most subjects taught at other accredited high schools.

The exceptions are speech and foreign languages because the school has no teachers qualified for them and agriculture because there are no facilities for it.

In a report to the Indian River County School Board, D. G. Frisby, principal of the Fellsmere School, told how he manages to keep the scootl on the accredited list and offer the same courses as the larger high schools.

This despite the fact the school has only five fulltime and two "itinerant teachers" of music and physical education shared with other schools.

"He has done a fine job with the limited facilities he must have," School Superintendent J. A. Thompson said of Frisby to the board. He cited the general flexibility of the Fellsmere faculty.

Before employing a teacher the principal makes it clear that he or she may be required to teach more than one subject. Because of the state minimum of ten students in a class some subjects are taught only every other year.

Sometimes it is as late as the first day of school before Frisby is certain which subjects will be taught that year because some courses are provided only if there is a demand for them.

No Fellsmere graduates have had any trouble getting into college. "In 13 years we have lost only one child from college," Frisby said.

The school serves as the leading center of social life at Fellsmere. "If you put on a high school play it's hard to get a seat," he said.

The first through sixth grades at Fellsmere also average about 100 students, with four fulltime teachers.

None of the students are permitted to leave the school at lunchtime without special permission unless they go home to eat.

A lunch consisting of meat, two vegetables, salad, milk and dessert is served at the school for 25 cents. Some help is obtained from federal school lunch funds.

The predicted development of Vero Lake Estates southeast of Fellsmere could add quickly to the population of his school, Frisby said.

Rains Fall On Citrus

FORT PIERCE — The first rains in a month drenched this area Saturday and Sunday. Over an inch of rain came down over the weekend.

St. Lucie County agent Challes D. Kime said the tomato fields have received the rain, but he had heard no reports of damage, and it may have been beneficial.

The area citrus definitely needed the welcome downpour.

The city savanna water level was about 14½ feet above sea level, rising after the rain.

It is still lower than it has been for nearly two years, but officials say there is plenty of water for the city.

Expansion Of 1960 Event Eyed

By THELMA FROSCHER
Herald Correspondent

VERO BEACH — Hopes for a "real county fair" possibily by next year have been expressed by officials of the Vero Beach American Legion Fair Association.

Officials made the announcement following the closing of the 1959 fair which ended its six-day run Saturday.

Walter Benjamin, president of the fair association and voice commander of Felix Poppell Legion Post No. 39, said the fair corporation obtained its charter in 1951.

Funds realized from the annual fairs are being saved for a down payment on an adequate fair grounds.

The fair site at US 1 and 12th St. has been rented.

With its own grounds the association plans to construct permanent buildings where farmers would be willing to show their prize livestock and women would be willing to leave their masterpieces in handicrafts or cooking.

"You can't blame them for not wanting to put them in our tent that would blow down in half of a good windstorm," Benjamin said.

It was noted that a page-long, two column list of premium entries was advertized in the local newspapers on Jan. 22 and Feb. 12.

Asked what they would have done if anyone had appeared with livestock entries, he said they would have done the best they could.

Fortunately for the committee, the total livestock in the fair consisted of a rooster and two hens in a commercial egg-ranch exhibit.

In a second agreement with the same company, Geenral Development received an option to purchase five acres at $26,250.

In a third agreement, General Development paid $25,000 to W. M. Kiplinger for option to purchase around 285 acres including Creed front property at $1,136 per acre. All three agreements extend through Aug. 15, 1959. All property is in the south part of the county in the area of the Port St. Lucie development.

State Finances Perk Up,' School Funds OK

TALLAHASSEE — (UPI) — Florida's up-and-down financial situation brightened a little Monday.

The comptroller's office reported it expects to be able to distribute state school funds on schedule for the first time in months.

Ray Higgins, general auditor for the comptroller, reported a cash general revenue balance March 1 of $10,000,000 —the largest in months.

He spent $4,000,000 of it Monday — sending the counties their share of the first proceeds of sales tax collections, and mailing out welfare checks.

He said the big school fund distribution to counties probably will be mailed out next week, in plenty of time to meet deadlines for payment of teacher salaries and other bills.

March is the month when Florida is supposed to recoup and return to a healthy cash condition — after paying back $20,000,000 borrowed from trust funds last year to get by the lean revenue months.

Higgins said the loan will be repaid toward the end of the month, with big automobile license tag receipts which are beginning to flow into the treasury, and anticipated large sales tax collections.

Meanwhile, the financial outlook — a subject of varying degrees of optimism and pessimism — gets a thorough going over here Tuesday afternoon when the Legislative Council's Finance and Taxation Committee meets.

The council's research arm, the Legislative Reference Bureau, will present the lawmakers with a pile of figures to back up its estimate that present taxes will produce no more than $700,000,000 in the next biennium.

Based on this analysis, Chairman B. C. Pearce of Palatka said he does not see how the state can expect to finance the $725,000,000 general spending bill recommended by the cabinet.

The cabinet based its proposed budget on Budget Director Smith's optimistic forecast of revenue between $726,000,000 and $729,000,000.

Smith so far has not backed down on that estimate, despite conflicts with estimates of the reference bureau and Comptroller Ray E. Green.

Green started out with a prediction of $716,000,000, but said he now has revised this downward to $700,000,000, based on the fact that Florida's recovery from recession and last winter's freeze has not been as rapid as anticipated.

No Relief Forecast

Chill Lingers On -In Orange Prices

By ERWIN POTTS
Herald Staff Writer

HOLLYWOOD — There's no relief in sight for the housewife who's finding the soaring price of oranges upsetting her grocery budget.

While citrus fruit orchards are well thawed out from last year's freeze, citrus prices are still feeling the chill.

Though the Department of Agriculture predicted lower citrus prices during the first half of this year, local growers and retailers shiver at the thought.

"Prices of oranges are up from about $3.00 a box to $3.25 and $3.50 a box off the tree," said William Wood, general manager of Flamingo Groves in nearby Davie.

"And they'll probably go even higher," he added.

Wood said the increase in the wholesale price will mean a rise of about 20 per cent for the housewife who buys a bag of oranges at the grocery store.

But a wholesale buyer for a local supermarket presented an even more dismal picture.

"We're getting 59 cents for a dozen oranges today. Five or six weeks ago it was 39 cents a dozen," he said.

"Grapefruit is up from 10 for 29 cents five weeks ago, to 10 for 49 cents today."

Citrus people attribute the rising prices to the 1957-58 freeze, which put the industry in a hole it hasn't been able to climb out of.

"Florida will produce 80 million boxes of oranges this year," said one grower. "But that's about 45 million short of the demand.

"I don't expect they'll catch up with the demand for a couple of years."

He explained that, while Davie growers were not hard hit by the freeze, the citrus industry as a whole was, and the higher prices are a result of the statewide demand.

Florida Citrus Mutual, a growers co-op in Lakeland, issued a statement claiming "right now all citrus prices are higher than the average for the past 10 years."

2 Vero Men Set To Detect Fallout

VERO BEACH — In the event of an atomic attack Vero Beach now has two men trained and qualified to detect the presence and amount of radioactive fallout, it was announced Monday by L. C. Elliott, Region Two Administrator of the new Federal Aviation Agency (FAA).

Robert A. White and Fred L. King, FAA Airways Operations Specialists in the Air Traffic Communications Station at Vero Beach Municipal Airport have completed an intensive training course at Thomasville, Ga.

The course dealt with the effects of nuclear blasts and how to detect the presence of radioactive fallout with delicate detection instruments.

White and King's training was not only practical, but realistic since as a vital part of the course, highly radioactive isotopes of Cobalt 60 were scattered over a wide area and White and King were required to search for them with a geiger counter.

When White or King discovered the radioactive capsules, they were required to use long tongs to place them in special 250-pound lead shielding containers.

Victor Gardner, Radiological Defense Officer of the Federal Aviation Agency's Region Two, said at the Regional Headquarters in Fort Worth, "White and King proved their ability at radioactive fallout detection and have qualified for a special license issued by the Atomic Energy Commission.

Now that White and King are trained they will help form the hard core of the FAA's Region Two organization of trained experts in the detection of fallout.

Gardner emphasized, "Because FAA people, during an enemy attack, are committed to remain at their stations to furnish traffic control to military planes, the Federal Aviation Agency plans to have trained radiological monitors in every air traffic control facility in the southern United States and the Caribbean by July 1, 1959."

White lives at 2234 18th Avenue and King lives on 44th Avenue.

Peel-Bait Experiment To be Tried

LAKELAND —(UPI)— The Florida citrus industry, seeking new uses for its products, is going to try out orange peel as fish bait.

Florida Citrus Mutual said that its president, Vernon Conner, and General Manager Robert W. Rutledge, will take a fishing trip in Tampa Bay, using orange peel for bait.

If it works at trolling, the bait will be tried out in other forms of fishing, including fresh water.

Mutual noted that the U.S. sport fishing industry turns over a billion dollars annually and that a good part of that is spent for bait and lures.

Retail Men To Explore Schedules

Herald Service

VERO BEACH — Store hours, a holiday schedule and special sales events will be included in the discussion when the Retail Division of the Vero Beach Chamber of Commerce meets at 8 p.m. today at the chamber building.

All Chamber of Commerce members engaged in retail business are invited by George Loy Jr., division chairman, to attend and take part in the discussion.

"It is realized that the retail field is widely diversified, so that patterns of practice must be adapted to meet the varying business requirements," Loy said. Locations such as the Beach and outlying areas also need special consideration.

"However, it is the hope of the committee that it may be possible for a major number of merchants, at least in the central business area, to agree upon some basic policies."

Taxes Are League Topic

WEST PALM BEACH — "Taxes—How They Are Raised and How the Money Is Spent," was the topic at three unit meetings of the League of Women Voters here Tuesday.

The organization announced the study of taxes would be one of its primary objectives for the next two years.

Chevalier Wows All With Imitations

PALM BEACH—Still the playboy of Paris, Maurice (The Magnificent) is also good will ambassdaor from La Belle, France to Palm Beach, Miami, or wherehaveyou.

Mary Howes brought the famous comedian to Palm Beach Sunday night as the second in her Sunday evening series of great players. An audience that overflowed the Four Arts Auditorium gave him a tumultuous welcome.

From the same stage where great thinkers have often thrown out banners of words settling world problems, Maurice Chevalier tossed his gay, bright hued confetti.

Wearing an electric blue suit and black bow tie, he sang and danced to excellent piano accompaniment, told jokes, and, what came as the biggest surprise, he gave hilarious imitations and impressions. His pantomime was perfect. He can shade his voice and twist his face in the most delightful fashion.

In one original sketch called accents politiques, he gave his impressions of statesmen of varying nationalities speaking over TV to their countrymen.

In his caricature of President Eisenhower he even managed to look like his model and sound like him too. His takeoff on a German and a Chinese statesmen were also classics. In all these spoofs he never spoke an intelligible word — just wonderful abracadabra. His message was clearly understood.

He sang "Thank Heaven for Little Girls," and in singing "Fascination," from "Love in the Afternoon," he explained that it had been a well loved melody in France at the turn of the century.

"And I played the onkle of Oudray Hepburn, not the loafer," he moaned. "The loafer was Gary Cooper. Oh well - -" and a French shrug shrugged off the matter of passing years.

Next on Mary Howes' series is Katharine Cornell and Brian Aherne in "Dear Liar," based on the intimate correspondence of Mrs. Patrick Campbell and Bernard Shaw. That's coming March 14-16.

City Sets Deal For Water

Herald Bureau

STUART—Water for Hutchinson Island came a bit nearer reality recently when the Stuart city commission agreed to enter into negotiations with the Florida Water and Utilities Co. to sell water at wholesale.

The commission, within 45 days, will present a proposal to the water company setting forth minimum and maximum costs of wholesale water and other conditions.

Black & Associates of Gainesville are working with the commission on the proposal. The city was granted a water franchise from the county several years ago.

At the time the new bridges were constructed water pipe hangers were placed on the bridge.

A new subdivision regulations and plat law was finally passed by the commission, after years of study and requests that such an ordinance be passed.

The commission repealed all setback regulations in commercial one and two zoning areas, and adopted one ordinance covering C-1 and C-2.

The commission will also continue negotiations with Kenneth Harris, owner of the Commodore Hotel, to purchase a lot for offstreet parking.

UPPER KEYS

February Was Very Crowded

UPPER KEYS — The short month of February will be remembered for many social activities, bulging hotels, busy restaurants and prize catches of fish. The weather, which couldn't have been better, added to smiles of both residents and visitors. Reports say reservations through March are heavy.

Saturday was packed with dates. We were sorry to have missed Peggy and Ralph Smith's al fresco party at their Key Largo Beach lighthouse area. We hear the barbecue, libations and good company were perfect in the beautiful ocean setting.

Following the selllout barbecue at Tavernier Fire House, requests were made for another in March. So far a date has not been set.

There will be one of those special barbecues, however, at this same fire house and it is a St. Patrick's Day dinner by the San Pedro Altar Society. No corned beef and cabbage this year. The gals will serve the popular Keys ribs and chicken on March 14 from 5-8 p.m. Peggy Frins, secretary of the society, says she hopes you'll remember the date.

The work of Yvonne Backus, noted sculptor, they are a part of the two-man show now on exhibition. The other artist, Keith Martin, paints in oil, watercolor, gouache, and collage.

Mrs. Backus' tiny figurines are generally of female dancers in lively and rythmic poses which show extraordinary vitality. Keith Martin's work presents a dazzling array of collages and watercolors in the romantic tradition. The exhibit will close on March 15.

Bill to Allow Coloring of Oranges Blocked

Measure Held Up In House

Action Delayed Until March 16

More State News P. 1B, 2B

WASHINGTON — Final congressional action on a bill to permit coloring of Florida and Texas oranges was held up in the House Monday by a technicality — and indirectly by an objection.

The bill was passed over without prejudice until the next consent calendar day, March 16, because the House Commerce Committee, along with its favorable report on the bill, sent to the House the original bill approved by a Senate committee rather than the bill actually passed by the Senate with amendments.

Chairman Oren Harris of the House Commerce Committee obtained approval for the measure to be recommitted to the committee so that the proper Senate bill could be attached to the House committee's favorable report.

Rep. James Delaney (D., N.Y.) had informed Rep. James Haley (D., Fla.), the bill's sponsor, that he would object to it. This alone would have caused the bill to be passed over for two weeks.

The clerk of the House Commerce Committee told a reporter Harris probably would ask the House Rules Committee to send the bill to the House floor promptly, thus removing it from the consent calendar.

He said there is an urgency in getting action on this measure because a law permitting the coloring of oranges expired Feb. 28. This will make Florida and Texas growers wait until Congress acts before they can color oranges to be shipped to market.

As a result of Monday's House action, Florida and Texas growers cannot color oranges with dye.

Rep. Haley, conceding it is a legal question, said he believes growers could ship oranges now which were colored prior to the last day, but that no coloring could be done, beginning Monday, until the House passes the Senate bill and President Eisenhower signs it.

Early OK Due

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D., Wash.) said Monday he had informed Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson that the Senate Interior and Insular Affairs Committee was expected to approve the Hawaiian statehood bill today.

Mayor High, left, Evans Are Close But Oh-So-Distant

Evans Is Bounced Out Of City Manager Job

Willard, His Views 2A
Evans Set Record 7A

By JOHN MORTON
Herald Staff Writer

E. A. Evans was fired as Miami City Manager Monday by a new majority that developed suddenly on the City Commission.

He was replaced immediately by Ira (Dutch) Willard, former city manager of Coral Gables, who recently entered the banking business.

Voting to remove Evans "as of today" were Otis Shiver, George W. DuBreuil and Mayor Robert King High.

Commissioner James W. High angrily protested the surprise action and announced his immediate resignation from the commission.

Failure to cooperate with Dade's new Metropolitan government was given by Shiver as the reason for Evans' ouster. Shiver made the motion for the firing.

Also asked to leave the city's employ immediately was Assistant City Manager Ray Williams. The veteran employe said he will retire.

Evans took the sudden loss of his $25,000-a-year job calmly.

"I have no hard feelings," he said. "I knew some day this would happen."

Willard immediately accepted the job after he was told of the offer by telephone. He will go to City Hall this morning to take over his new office. His salary will be $18,200 a year.

He said the job was first offered to him two weeks ago. He said he told the commissioners then that he would take it.

Ira Willard

. . . and he's in

The firing came as a surprise, however, even to many City Hall insiders. Up to now Shiver and DuBreuil have voted with a four man majority that included James High and B. E. Hearn.

Like James High, Hearn continued loyal to Evans.

He challenged Shiver's complaint that Evans has been ignoring the wishes of the commission and pursuing his own policies.

"I believe the city manager in every instance," said Hearn, "has carried out the will of this commission."

Shiver charged that Evans was "standing in the way of an orderly transfer of Miami functions to Metro, and that means standing in the way of the wishes of the people."

Last summer Evans was a leader in the Dade League of Municipalities campaign to curb Metro's powers by passage of a proposed "autonomy amendment" to the Metro charter. The City Commission, with the exception of Mayor High, offered no objection when Evans mobilized city employes and equipment to work in the "vote yes" campaign.

Still bitterly opposed to Metro, James High said in making his exit from the commission that it was led by "nitwit theorists with silly, power-grabbing moves."

The commissioner said he will devote his full time between now and the November city election "to making known to the people what has been done here."

"At the end of that time," he added, "I expect to be a candidate for reelection to this commission."

The firing came Monday afternoon when commissioners changed an informal session into an official meeting.

They took no action on High's resignation. Mayor High said it will come up at Wednesday's formal meeting.

Evans sat through the meeting calmly smoking a pipe, with one knee propped against his desk.

After the ouster vote there was an awkward silence. Evans finally broke it.

"I don't know why we are looking so glum," he commented. "Why don't we just smile?"

Before the official meeting was called, Mayor High complained he had been embarrassed earlier in the day when asked by a group of lawyers what Miami was going to do about transferring city traffic courts to Metro, as the court had ordered.

Civilian Heads on Pan in Missile Race

Who decides what missiles research the U.S. will pour its billions into? In today's installment of his series on the great defense debate famed Reporter Bob Considine puts the spotlight on a little-known but powerful official in weapons development.

By BOB CONSIDINE
Herald Columnist

The position of the U.S. at this time has been likened to that of a man crossing a rocky ford in a stream, daring not to take his weight entirely off one foot until he is sure that the other foot is on solid ground.

We are in some cases haltingly and other cases feverishly changing our military retaliation reliance from manned bombers to missiles. Articulate members of the Democratic Congress believe that many aspects of the Eisenhower administration's defense problem are being bungled now or have been in the past.

But no other segment has come under more fire than that part of the setup which must compete with the Soviet Union's unquestionably brilliant rocket developers. We were caught with our Sputniks down on Oct. 4, 1957, and despite a tremendous awakening to Russia's scientific and engineering prowess we have yet to catch up.

The task of getting the U.S. abreast of or preferably ahead of Russian missile wizardry was complicated until the 1958 Reorganization Act. There were conflicting and competing groups, not to mention jealousies and the fanning of the dead embers of old interservice rivalries.

As outlined by Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy before the House Armed Services Committee last Feb. 2, here is where the breath-taking authority rests:

Dr. Herbert York

. . . directs research

"A Director of Defense Research and Engineering, Dr. Herbert York, has been appointed with the mission to assure that all scientific and technological resources of the Department of Defense are put to the best possible use.

"The Director of Defense Research and Engineering will supervise and coordinate all Department of Defense research and engineering programs. He will be responsible for providing effective leadership, eliminating unnecessary duplication, encouraging basic research, and developing an integrated research and development program covering all operational needs."

Answerable to Dr. York is all the work and thinking of the Advance Research Projects Agency, headed by Roy Johnson. Dr. York has veto power over ARPA's spatial brain-children. The same is true of his office's control over William Holaday's Guided Missiles Operation, and missiles heads of each service.

U.S. Set For Fight On Berlin

We're Ready, McElroy Says

By Herald Wire Services

WASHINGTON — U.S. military forces are ready to back up President Eisenhower's avowed determination to stand fast on American rights in Berlin, Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy told Congress Monday.

"We think we have a definite offensive superiority over the Russians at this time," McElroy said in discussing the situation with the House Space Committee.

While voicing doubt the Russians want to start a war, the Pentagon chief told the congressmen "we are prepared to meet various stages of the Berlin situation as it develops." Then he added:

"We are prepared to make good on the statement of the President that we will not yield one inch on our rights in Berlin."

McElroy said there are no plans now to mobilize because of the deepening crisis over Russia's campaign to force the U.S. and other Allied powers out of Berlin, 110 miles inside Communist-held territory.

Mobilization steps have been suggested in Congress in recent days, and Rep. James Fulton (R., Pa.) raised the issue again Monday. He asked McElroy if this country has adequate protection for a firm position on Berlin and "if not, should we mobilize in whole or in part?"

"We don't regard that as being required at this time," McElroy replied.

Saying the German crisis has been studied by the Joint Chiefs of Staff and the State Department, McElroy said there may be some moves to strengthen the U.S. position. He did not go into detail.

McElroy also said during the course of his testimony that present U.S. policy is not to strike the first blow in a war, but "whether that always will be true is another matter." He did not say what conditions could lead to a first strike by the U.S.

The secretary said this country is ready for anything. He conceded Russia greater strength on the ground in Central Europe, but said it has been "clear for a long period of time that we will never fight the Russians on the ground."

Rep. Victor L. Anfuso (D., N.Y.) raised the possibility that Berlin could touch off a world conflict.

"Every time you resist aggression you have to consider that possibility," McElroy conceded.

To Anfuso's suggestion that Russia can defeat the U.S. by forcing it to bankrupt itself, McElroy said he doesn't think Russia cares how it defeats the U.S.

He said Russia "intends to stick right with it," until it defeats the U.S. "one way or another."

As McElroy testified, Russia sent new notes to the Western Allies proposing conditional Big Four negotiations on the Berlin crisis. Several key members of Congress interpreted the Russian proposal as a "thaw" in the cold war.

The White House and State Department deferred comment until the text of the note can be studied.

Sen. J. William Fulbright (D. Ark.) chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, was guardedly optimistic. He said, "I hope this justifies a more hopeful attitude" toward Berlin.

Minute-Long Quake Hits San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO — (UPI) — A long, rolling earthquake which alternately swelled and diminished for more than a minute, struck earthquake-conscious San Francisco late Monday.

The temblor hit the city and surrounding areas at 6:29 p.m. Miami time. The University of California seismographic office at Berkeley, Calif., said the quake registered a magnitude of 5.5 on the Richter scale.

The quake, it said, was centered 65 miles northwest of Berkeley, which would put it near Santa Rosa, but residents of that area said they barely felt the shock. There were no immediate reports of damage.

In southern California, the California Institute of Technology at Pasadena reported the temblor registered 4.5 on the Richter scale, a full point lower than what was registered at Berkeley. There was no immediate explanation for the discrepancy in the readings.

Telephone service was sporadically disrupted throughout the Bay area by overloading calls from anxious residents calling schools — where their children were still in class—relatives, and the police department.

Reports of the temblor came from as far south as Salinas, Calif., some 100 miles from San Francisco, and from San Rafael, a suburb 20 miles to the north.

A San Rafael housewife said the quake sounded like "truck gears" engaging.

A passenger in a downtown office building elevator said the car "banged against the shaft walls" and the lifting cables slapped to and fro as the shock hit the building.

The quake was felt "strongly" in the east Bay where residents called police in San Leandro, Oakland and Berkeley.

However, residents in Daly City, just south of San Francisco, said they felt nothing, although their city sits smack on top of the San Andreas Fault, which has caused most of San Francisco's major quakes.

Oakland police said they had some 1,500 calls within a few minutes. San Francisco's police switchboard was so jammed with calls it was impossible to reach city officials immediately by phone.

The quake struck at 3:29 with a strong swaying motion, then diminished and swelled with a sharper, stronger tremor some 30 seconds later. Intensity of the quake compared with the one which caused millions of dollars in damage on March 22, 1957. That quake also had a magnitude of 5.5.

Frost to Hit N. Florida

Frost will hit the lowgrounds of North Florida early today — while South Florida temperatures will drop to 45, the weather bureau said.

But by late today, the thermometer is expected to be climbing again.

The weatherman said it'll be back in the mid-70s again in Greater Miami this afternoon.

Scattered frost is expected in the Suwannee and Gainesville districts, the upper east coast, Orlando and the Brooksville district.

But South Florida farmers won't have to fear temperatures of 44 to 50, the Frost Warning Service said.

Ministers' Parley Is Accepted

Nikita Recants On Berlin Talks

By Herald Wire Services

MOSCOW — Russia reversed itself Monday and conditionally agreed to a foreign ministers' conference on the Berlin crisis in notes that warned that the German issue could cause war "a hundred times more serious" than all past conflicts.

Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev withdrew his rejection of the Western plan for a foreign ministers' meeting after pleas from Britain's visiting Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

The Soviet note handed to the ambassadors of the U.S., Britain, France and West Germany urged a summit conference as having "the greatest chance" of success.

But if the West "is not ready" for that, the Russians agreed to a ministerial-level parley on one condition: Inclusion of Poland and Czechoslovakia.

The Western proposal which Khrushchev rejected verbally last Tuesday called for a Big Four foreign ministers' meeting. Russia wants the two Communist nations included to give the Eastern bloc numerical balance. East and West Germany also would attend and have "active participation" in the talks.

(In Bonn, West German official sources said the government will oppose the presence of Poland and Czechoslovakia at a conference.)

The Soviets suggested a meeting of "not more than two or three months" which would begin next month at Geneva or Vienna. The West also has proposed such a time and choice of places.

Western diplomats said the proposal for two or three months of negotiation starting in April shows the Soviet Union has long since scrapped May 27 as an absolute deadline for settlement of the West Berlin question.

They pointed out that since Khrushchev set the original date, Soviet officials both here and abroad — including Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan in the U. S. — have reiterated that no deadline exists and that the proposal contains no ultimatum.

However, the note stressed again that Russia intends to hand over control of the Berlin lifelines to the East Germans by May 27.

It warned the West that any attempt to use "tanks or avia-

TOKYO—Eric Johnston relays this story about Moscow:

Premier Khrushchev was having tea with some students when he suddenly turned to one of them and demanded:

"Who wrote 'Anna Karenina?' "

Stammered the terrified student: "I didn't write her, sir, honest I didn't."

The next day Khrushchev related this incident to Gen. Ivan Serov, recently deposed security boss. Later in the day Serov reported back to Khrushchev:

"You know that young man you were telling me about? Well, I have news for you. After questioning him for two-and-one-half hours I've gotten his written confession that he did write 'Anna Karenina!' "

AF Hints Discoverer May Have Hit Orbit

'Random' Signals Reported

INGLEWOOD, Calif. — (UPI) — The Air Force in a cautiously worded statement announced Monday that the "lost" 1,300-pound satellite Discoverer I is apparently circling the earth every 96 minutes in a polar orbit.

Preliminary studies indicated the 19-foot-long satellite's life would be in excess of one month, the Air Force said.

The satellite was blasted into the heavens Saturday afternoon at Vandenberg Air Force Base to become the first satellite launched on the West Coast.

Its fate remained in doubt for nearly 32 hours because of an apparent radio failure before the Air Force's Ballistic Missile Division (BMD) here broke the suspense by releasing a guarded statement Sunday night reporting the reception of "random" radio signals.

A BMD spokesman explained the difficulty the Air Force was having in determining whether the Discoverer I actually achieved orbit.

"We are not saying that it definitely is in orbit, neither can we say that it is not, at this point," the spokesman said. "We don't feel that we will definitely know an orbit has been achieved until we have tracked it by radar, obtained a visual sighting or received more definite radio signals.

"Until that time, we can say only that information 'tends' to confirm, not definitely confirm, an orbit."

The Discoverer shot was the initial launching in "Project Discoverer," a program designed to lead eventually the way into space for man. Another shot in the project already was being readied for 30 days hence.

"A quiet Friday morning: the sun shining, people going to work, children on the way to school, dogs and cats running and playing. People striving for a good life, to better their community, working for the American way: freedom of speech, religion.

"But serenity can be shattered. A school is blown up, a church threatened, people beaten. That's right, mister, don't let those Communists enforce the Constitution.

"It has been a long hot day. Go home. Greet the family. Have a beer. Call the boys. When is the meeting? Tonight, now! Get your cloak, your cloak of authority. And don't forget the mask. Pick up the bums, the mental defects. Get on to the meeting. Look at your leader . . . great man . . . knows how to hate . . . praise him for leading you. After all, you've no mind. Absorb it all: blind hatred. It's yours for the asking. When is the next bombing or beating? Get drunk with the rest of the animals. Go home; even the little ones must be taught to hate.

"Live long. Have a blast. Spread hatred and corruption. Grow old — and die. You've been a good man — says you. Into the promised land you go."

Anti-Missile Defense Year Away--McElroy

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy said Monday the time when the U.S. will have a defense against ballistic missiles is some years away.

Even then there is no assurance the defense can stop more than a modest number of ICBM's launched in a mass attack, he said.

McElroy was quizzed by the House Space Committee in the row over his turndown of an Army request to put into production the Army's Nike-Zeus, a missile-and-radar system designed to knock down intercontinental missiles.

McElroy said the Nike-Zeus is getting the highest national priority in its development but his best scientific advice has been that the weapon is not ready for production.

Until there is a missile defense, McElroy said, the U.S. protection lies in its strike-back power — a deterrent aimed at discouraging a potential aggressor from starting a war in the first place.

Western Refusal Is Seen

Red Proposal Has 2 Flaws

See Story, P. 1A

By WILLIAM J. JORDEN
The New York Times Service

WASHINGTON — Western diplomats found little in the latest Soviets notes on the German problem to encourage hope for any easy, quick solution.

The only encouragement they could find in their first reading of the long messages from Moscow was that the Russians had kept the door open for possible negotiations.

Diplomatic sources here indicated the West almost certainly will reject the proposal for the kind of conference of foreign ministers that Moscow advanced Monday. It was assumed that rejection would be the diplomatic initiative to the Kremlin.

Diplomats here found two fundamental objections to the Soviet position:

First, they noted, the Russians have indicated a willingness to discuss only those problems Moscow deems important — making West Berlin a "free city" and arranging a peace treaty with a divided Germany.

Second, Moscow wants to add two Communist states, Poland and Czechoslovakia, to the roster of conference participants. The Western position is that only nations with an internationally recognized "special interest" in Germany — the Soviet Union, Great Britain, France and the U.S. — should make basic decisions on Germany, with the advice of the Germans themselves, both Communist and non-Communist.

Western counter-proposals can be expected to concentrate on these points. The West can be expected to argue that if they are willing to discuss problems raised by the Russians, the latter cannot expect to rule out matters the Western allies consider important.

On the question of participation, experts here doubt the West will rule out the presence of other states. It would argue, however, that expansion of a conference should not be confined to Communist countries Moscow wants in, while ignoring others, and that to include all nations with an interest in Germany would make a conference unwieldy and unnecessarily complicated.

Headley's Days Numbered As Chief, Mayor High Says

By JUANITA GREENE
Herald Staff Writer

Walter Headley won't be Miami's police chief much longer, Mayor Robert King High predicted after Monday's surprise shakeup in city politics.

"There will be a lot of changes in the old brass at the police department," the youthful mayor said.

"As for Chief Headley himself," he added, "I would expect him to resign."

The police department has been the principal target of Mayor High. But until Monday he got no support in his demands for a cleanup from the other four commissioners.

High's sudden support from two commissioners from what was formerly a four-man majority on the commission is expected to have other significant repercussions.

Votes by High, Otis Shiver and George DuBreuil are expected to lead to:

THE TRANSFERENCE soon of all traffic cases from city courts to Metro courts.

THE FIRING, or resignation, of General Edward (Bo) Barber as a $9,000-a-year administrative assistant. He was hired by Evans as a "troubleshooter."

THE FIRING, transfer, or resignation of many other oldtimers in the police department and other city departments.

In uneasy positions are City Engineer Arthur Darlow, City Building Department Director Ellis Knox, and Slum Clearance Director Francis Kelly.

THE END of what Mayor High called "petty resistance to Metro auto inspection in the City of Miami."

High was emphatic in his predictions about changes in the police department.

"Since I've been in office (a year and a half)," he said, "Evans and Headley have ridiculed any efforts to clean up organized rackets."

"I predict," he said, "a new attitude among the high brass at the police department."

The mayor has been particularly critical of what he called "wide open bolita peddling." From time to time he has toured the city and bought bolita tickets, and confronted Evans and Headley with the evidence.

Until Monday, however, Shiver and DuBreuil have sided with Commissioners James High and B. E. Hearn in supporting Evans and his claim that there was nothing seriously wrong in the police department setup.

In forecasting other changes in personnel, High said he was sure Barber, an old Army friend of Evans', will not be around long.

"The days of the generals are over," he declared.

This Man Willard Is Metro's Friend

By DOM BONAFEDE
Herald Staff Writer

Miami's new city manager, Ira F. Willard promised close cooperation between the city and Metropolitan government in his first statement upon being named to the post.

"Metro is here to stay," Willard commented. "A close working agreement with the city and Metro is necessary to best serve the people."

He added he is not thinking of making any changes in department heads "at the present."

The annual salary of the new city manager was put at $18,200, compared to $25,000 received by his predecessor, E. A. Evans.

Willard disclosed that he was first approached about the job about two weeks ago by Mayor Robert King High.

"Mayor High asked if I'd be interested and I told him I would be if there was a vacancy.

"He called again last weekend to confirm it and I told him the same thing."

Willard, called "Dutch" by his acquaintances, was appointed city manager of Coral Gables in May, 1956, after having served in the same capacity at Alexandria, Va., for four years. Prior to that he was city manager of Hopewell, Va.

He resigned the Coral Gables post three months ago to accept an executive position as director of new business development with the Sottile banking group.

Unlike many city managers, who come from the ranks of academic engineers, Willard is a former practicing attorney.

He completed pre-law studies at the University of South Carolina in 1934 and obtained his law degree from Southeastern University, Washington, D.C., in 1938.

In 1941 he joined the U.S. Army as a lieutenant. He was honorably discharged as a lieutenant colonel in 1946.

Willard, 47, and his wife, Mary, have four children. They live at 902 Catalonia Ave., Coral Gables.

During his tenure at Coral Gables, Willard established a reputation as one of the most astute city managers in the country.

He was frequently mentioned as a candidate for the position of county manager.

Willard said Monday he had no hesitancy about accepting the Miami job.

"I'm very honored. I'll do my very best to be a success," he said.

He said he expects to start work at Dinner Key City Hall immediately.

Repeal of Key West Levy Proposed

Bill to Fix Referendum On City's Utility Tax

Rep. Cunningham Cites Petitioning; Papy 'In Accord'

By HARRY CAICEDO
Key West Bureau Chief

KEY WEST — Rep. Ralph Cunningham Jr. will seek to have a special bill passed at this year's State Legislature requiring a referendum for final passage of any future utility taxes in Key West.

Cunningham, Marathon attorney elected to his first term as a representative in November, will also introduce a bill with Bernie C. Papy, the other Monroe representative, calling for a repeal of the utilities tax enacted by the city last November.

Cunningham told The Herald his poroposed special bill, limited to Key West, would require that no utility tax be imposed without first putting it to a vote of the people.

"I believe the people have certainly indicated their desire for such a law with the petition in connection with the present utility tax," Cunningham said. He was referring to a petition requesting the Key West commission to repeal the 10 per cent city utility tax now in force.

A decision on the petitions validity is still pending in Circuit Court.

Contacted at his home, Papy would not commit himself regarding the proposed referendum - requiring bill. He would only acknowledge his concurrance with a public notice published here Monday.

Cunningham

The notice, as required by law for special bills, announced that Cunningham and Papy would make application during the 1959 repealing Ordinance 702." This is the Key West ordinance imposing the utility tax.

Bulletin

Herald Bureau

KEY WEST — The city commission Monday night unanimously repealed the 10 per cent utility tax and the bonding ordinance for a $2,750,000 bond issue on a conditional basis on its first reading.

The commissioners reserved the right to change their vote at the second and final reading, depending upon the outcome of talks with interested groups to find a possible solution to retain the proposed capital improvement program which would have been financed by these two ordinances.

Before reaching its decision the commission vacillated for two hours between taking the repeal action or taking the utility tax ordinance to the people for a referendum vote, as proposed originally when the tax program first came up last November.

FORT PIERCE — Options to purchase nearly 2,000 acres of land were filed here Monday by the Mackle Brothers' General Development Co.

In a second agreement with the same company, Geenral Development received an option to purchase five acres at $26,250.

In a third agreement, General Development paid $25,000 to W. M. Kiplinger for option to purchase around 285 acres including Creed front property at $1,136 per acre. Rains Fall On Citrus

FORT PIERCE — The first rains in a month drenched this area Saturday and Sunday. Over an inch of rain came down over the weekend.

St. Lucie County agent Challes D. Kime said the tomato fields have received the rain, but he had heard no reports of damage, and it may have been beneficial.

The area citrus definitely needed the welcome downpour.

The city savanna water level was about 14½ feet above sea level, rising after the rain.

It is still lower than it has been for nearly two years, but officials say there is plenty of water for the city.

Missing Beauty Is Safe

Arrives Home 'Overworked'

BRADENTON —(UPI)— A night club entertainer and former Florida beauty queen, reported missing in Pittsburgh, arrived at her home here Monday and said she was suffering from overwork.

Molly Ardrey, 22, arrived here late Monday after a train trip from Pittsburgh, where she left unexpectedly Sunday without telling her sister and dance partner, Sally, where she was going.

Police in Pittsburgh looked for her all day.

Mrs. R. G. Ardrey, Mollys mother, said her daughter arrived on the train Monday afternoon and immediately went to bed.

"She was overworked," Mrs. Ardrey said, and could not face a scheduled Canadian tour that was scheduled to begin Monday.

"Molly just got up and left," Mrs. Ardrey said.

She added that when Molly telephoned from Tampa Monday, she immediately called Sally in Pittsburgh. "Sally is coming south, too," she said.

"They won't be appearing for awhile — not until Molly is in better physical condition."

She described Molly as "crying and distaught" when she arrived.

Molly was reported missing when she failed to give her last performance in a two-week engagement Sunday night at the Holiday House in Monroeville, near Pittsburgh. She was the 1958 Watermelon Queen.

Sally told police it was the first time Molly had missed a performance in three years of showbusiness.

The girls formerly worked as aquamaid water-skiiers at Cypress Gardens. Dick Pope Sr., owner of the central Florida tourist attraction, said both girls had won various Florida beauty contests.

He said the girls called him from Pittsburgh about 10 days ago and told him they wanted to take a month off and rest at Cypress Gardens. Pope said the girls were overworked and suffering from the cold winter.

"They are Florida girls and not used to those low temperatures," Pope said. "That's why Molly just couldn't go on that Canadian tour."

Other groups taking part are Blinded Veterans Assoc., Naples Welfare, Girl and Boy Scouts, Future Citizens, Red Cross, Salvation Army, USO, Mental Health Association, Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation, Children's Home Society, and Travelers' Aid.

Earthquakes, Too

Parching Period In Store for Us

By ROSE ALLEGATO
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE WORTH — It might sound kind of cloudy to you. But give Ed Pintar 10 minutes of your time and a pencil, and he'll explain.

Pintar, that self-fashioned weatherman who called the turn on last year's cold wave, is at it again.

This time the retired Michigan man, who winters in Lake Worth, predicts that when June starts busting out all over it'll bring the first signs of a three-year drought.

He bases his forecasts on "astro magnetic principles," and his weather bulletin covers every day in the year — in advance. His advance predictions for a whole year makes the weather bureau look like a piker with only a five-day forecast.

But don't get Pintar started on the weather bureau.

"They're all wet," he says. Back to the drought.

Saturn will be moving across the U.S., and as it moves, it will bring a drought to areas east of the Mississippi., Pintar explains, pencil in hand. ("I can't talk without a pencil.") He says the entire U.S. will feel the impact of this dry spell.

He also has something to say about earthquakes. And in barely a week, we will know whether he's right or wrong.

He predicts that at noon, March 9, earthquakes will rock an area near the Aleutian Islands, parts of Central Africa, Honduras, Nicaragua, and parts of South America.

It's his first attempt at forecasting quakes — something the weather bureau doesn't do at all. So far he has only doped out those for new and full moon periods.

The "astro magnetic" principles Pintar uses for his forecasting are, he says, the type of "magnetic impulses emanating from the sun and moon" which cause tide changes.

In Pintar's system, whenever Mars, or heavy planets, are in opposition, or in conjunction, with the new moon or full moon, there's weather trouble afoot. You don't understand? Don't let it bother you.

Pintar says, "it's very complicated."

Late March will also bring earthquakes off Alaska near the Russian Coast. In April, Chile, Columbia and Nova Scotia are in for some earth trembles. All, of course, according to Pintar's forecast.

Pintar has been at his weather forecasting for three years now — ever since he retired from the merchandising field.

Oh, yes, in case you're interested, it'll be a white Christmas in 1959 in most sections of the U.S. except, of course, the Deep South.

Dinner on the Ground Flushed Them

Spirits in Pisgah's Pulpit!

TALLAHASSEE — (AP) — "Build your church from a firm foundation" advised the speaker at services conducted at a little church in the wildwood.

But the speaker, Sam Teague Jr., said 200 gallons of moonshine whisky found later concealed beneath the pulpit of the old Pisgah Methodist Church wasn't what he had in mind.

The cache was uncovered Sunday when a small boy crawled beneath the building to locate some tables for the monthly dinner on the grounds.

Sheriff's deputies, summoned by Teague over his newly-installed automobile telephone, later nabbed two men who returned to the church and loaded part of the whisky.

The two, Jerry E. Reeves, 27, and Steve A. Edward Jr., 25, of Crawfordville, were charged with moving and concealing moonshine whisky.

The congregation of the church helped in the arrests. They disbanded after the discovery and the two deputies waited in an outdoor building four hours before making the arrests.

The church, located in an isolated area in the northern part of the county, is celebrating its 100th anniversary.

The Rev. James Farr reported that he had noted two strange men driving away when he arrived at the church grounds Sunday morning for services. But he said they appeared friendly and waved to him as they drove off.

State Finances Perk Up,' School Funds OK

TALLAHASSEE — (UPI) — Florida's up-and-down financial situation brightened a little Monday.

The comptroller's office reported it expects to be able to distribute state school funds on schedule for the first time in months.

Ray Higgins, general auditor for the comptroller, reported a cash general revenue balance March 1 of $10,000,000 —the largest in months.

He spent $4,000,000 of it Monday — sending the counties their share of the first proceeds of sales tax collections, and mailing out welfare checks.

He said the big school fund distribution to counties probably will be mailed out next week, in plenty of time to meet deadlines for payment of teacher salaries and other bills.

March is the month when Florida is supposed to recoup and return to a healthy cash condition — after paying back $20,000,000 borrowed from trust funds last year to get by the lean revenue months.

Higgins said the loan will be repaid toward the end of the month, with big automobile license tag receipts which are beginning to flow into the treasury, and anticipated large sales tax collections.

Meanwhile, the financial outlook — a subject of varying degrees of optimism and pessimism — gets a thorough going over here Tuesday afternoon when the Legislative Council's Finance and Taxation Committee meets.

The council's research arm, the Legislative Reference Bureau, will present the lawmakers with a pile of figures to back up its estimate that present taxes will produce no more than $700,000,000 in the next biennium.

Based on this analysis, Chairman B. C. Pearce of Palatka said he does not see how the state can expect to finance the $725,000,000 general spending bill recommended by the cabinet.

The cabinet based its proposed budget on Budget Director Smith's optimistic forecast of revenue between $726,000,000 and $729,000,000.

Smith so far has not backed down on that estimate, despite conflicts with estimates of the reference bureau and Comptroller Ray E. Green.

Green started out with a prediction of $716,000,000, but said he now has revised this downward to $700,000,000, based on the fact that Florida's recovery from recession and last winter's freeze has not been as rapid as anticipated.

No Relief Forecast

Chill Lingers On -In Orange Prices

By ERWIN POTTS
Herald Staff Writer

HOLLYWOOD — There's no relief in sight for the housewife who's finding the soaring price of oranges upsetting her grocery budget.

While citrus fruit orchards are well thawed out from last year's freeze, citrus prices are still feeling the chill.

Though the Department of Agriculture predicted lower citrus prices during the first half of this year, local growers and retailers shiver at the thought.

"Prices of oranges are up from about $3.00 a box to $3.25 and $3.50 a box off the tree," said William Wood, general manager of Flamingo Groves in nearby Davie.

"And they'll probably go even higher," he added.

Wood said the increase in the wholesale price will mean a rise of about 20 per cent for the housewife who buys a bag of oranges at the grocery store.

But a wholesale buyer for a local supermarket presented an even more dismal picture.

"We're getting 59 cents for a dozen oranges today. Five or six weeks ago it was 39 cents a dozen," he said.

"Grapefruit is up from 10 for 29 cents five weeks ago, to 10 for 49 cents today."

Citrus people attribute the rising prices to the 1957-58 freeze, which put the industry in a hole it hasn't been able to climb out of.

"Florida will produce 80 million boxes of oranges this year," said one grower. "But that's about 45 million short of the demand.

"I don't expect they'll catch up with the demand for a couple of years."

He explained that, while Davie growers were not hard hit by the freeze, the citrus industry as a whole was, and the higher prices are a result of the statewide demand.

Florida Citrus Mutual, a growers co-op in Lakeland, issued a statement claiming "right now all citrus prices are higher than the average for the past 10 years."

Retail Men To Explore Schedules

Herald Service

VERO BEACH — Store hours, a holiday schedule and special sales events will be included in the discussion when the Retail Division of the Vero Beach Chamber of Commerce meets at 8 p.m. today at the chamber building.

All Chamber of Commerce members engaged in retail business are invited by George Loy Jr., division chairman, to attend and take part in the discussion.

"It is realized that the retail field is widely diversified, so that patterns of practice must be adapted to meet the varying business requirements," Loy said. Locations such as the Beach and outlying areas also need special consideration.

"However, it is the hope of the committee that it may be possible for a major number of merchants, at least in the central business area, to agree upon some basic policies."

2 Vero Men Set To Detect Fallout

VERO BEACH — In the event of an atomic attack Vero Beach now has two men trained and qualified to detect the presence and amount of radioactive fallout, it was announced Monday by L. C. Elliott, Region Two Administrator of the new Federal Aviation Agency (FAA).

Robert A. White and Fred L. King, FAA Airways Operations Specialists in the Air Traffic Communications Station at Vero Beach Municipal Airport have completed an intensive training course at Thomasville, Ga.

The course dealt with the effects of nuclear blasts and how to detect the presence of radioactive fallout with delicate detection instruments.

White and King's training was not only practical, but realistic since as a vital part of the course, highly radioactive isotopes of Cobalt 60 were scattered over a wide area and White and King were required to search for them with a geiger counter.

When White or King discovered the radioactive capsules, they were required to use long tongs to place them in special 250-pound lead shielding containers.

Victor Gardner, Radiological Defense Officer of the Federal Aviation Agency's Region Two, said at the Regional Headquarters in Fort Worth, "White and King proved their ability at radioactive fallout detection and have qualified for a special license issued by the Atomic Energy Commission.

Now that White and King are trained they will help form the hard core of the FAA's Region Two organization of trained experts in the detection of fallout.

Gardner emphasized, "Because FAA people, during an enemy attack, are committed to remain at their stations to furnish traffic control to military planes, the Federal Aviation Agency plans to have trained radiological monitors in every air traffic control facility in the southern United States and the Caribbean by July 1, 1959."

White lives at 2234 18th Avenue and King lives on 44th Avenue.

Peel-Bait Experiment To be Tried

LAKELAND —(UPI)— The Florida citrus industry, seeking new uses for its products, is going to try out orange peel as fish bait.

Florida Citrus Mutual said that its president, Vernon Conner, and General Manager Robert W. Rutledge, will take a fishing trip in Tampa Bay, using orange peel for bait.

If it works at trolling, the bait will be tried out in other forms of fishing, including fresh water.

Mutual noted that the U.S. sport fishing industry turns over a billion dollars annually and that a good part of that is spent for bait and lures.

Chevalier Wows All With Imitations

PALM BEACH—Still the playboy of Paris, Maurice (The Magnificent) is also good will ambassdaor from La Belle, France to Palm Beach, Miami, or wherehaveyou.

Mary Howes brought the famous comedian to Palm Beach Sunday night as the second in her Sunday evening series of great players. An audience that overflowed the Four Arts Auditorium gave him a tumultuous welcome.

From the same stage where great thinkers have often thrown out banners of words settling world problems, Maurice Chevalier tossed his gay, bright hued confetti.

Wearing an electric blue suit and black bow tie, he sang and danced to excellent piano accompaniment, told jokes, and, what came as the biggest surprise, he gave hilarious imitations and impressions. His pantomime was perfect. He can shade his voice and twist his face in the most delightful fashion.

In one original sketch called accents politiques, he gave his impressions of statesmen of varying nationalities speaking over TV to their countrymen.

In his caricature of President Eisenhower he even managed to look like his model and sound like him too. His takeoff on a German and a Chinese statesmen were also classics. In all these spoofs he never spoke an intelligible word — just wonderful abracadabra. His message was clearly understood.

He sang "Thank Heaven for Little Girls," and in singing "Fascination," from "Love in the Afternoon," he explained that it had been a well loved melody in France at the turn of the century.

"And I played the onkle of Oudray Hepburn, not the loafer," he moaned. "The loafer was Gary Cooper. Oh well - -" and a French shrug shrugged off the matter of passing years.

Next on Mary Howes' series is Katharine Cornell and Brian Aherne in "Dear Liar," based on the intimate correspondence of Mrs. Patrick Campbell and Bernard Shaw. That's coming March 14-16.

City Sets Deal For Water

Herald Bureau

STUART—Water for Hutchinson Island came a bit nearer reality recently when the Stuart city commission agreed to enter into negotiations with the Florida Water and Utilities Co. to sell water at wholesale.

The commission, within 45 days, will present a proposal to the water company setting forth minimum and maximum costs of wholesale water and other conditions.

Black & Associates of Gainesville are working with the commission on the proposal. The city was granted a water franchise from the county several years ago.

At the time the new bridges were constructed water pipe hangers were placed on the bridge.

A new subdivision regulations and plat law was finally passed by the commission, after years of study and requests that such an ordinance be passed.

The commission repealed all setback regulations in commercial one and two zoning areas, and adopted one ordinance covering C-1 and C-2.

The commission will also continue negotiations with Kenneth Harris, owner of the Commodore Hotel, to purchase a lot for offstreet parking.

Saturday was packed with dates. We were sorry to have missed Peggy and Ralph Smith's al fresco party at their Key Largo Beach lighthouse area. We hear the barbecue, libations and good company were perfect in the beautiful ocean setting.

Following the selllout barbecue at Tavernier Fire House, requests were made for another in March. So far a date has not been set.

There will be one of those special barbecues, however, at this same fire house and it is a St. Patrick's Day dinner by the San Pedro Altar Society. No corned beef and cabbage this year. The gals will serve the popular Keys ribs and chicken on March 14 from 5-8 p.m. Peggy Frins, secretary of the society, says she hopes you'll remember the date.

Beauty in Bronze On Exhibit Now By Mrs. Backus

By FLORENCE RABON
Herald Correspondent

KEY WEST—Beauty in Bronze best describes the tiny, graceful figures which are on display at the East Martello Gallery and Museum. The work of Yvonne Backus, noted sculptor, they are a part of the two-man show now on exhibition. The other artist, Keith Martin, paints in oil, watercolor, gouache, and collage.

MRS. RABON

Mrs. Backus' tiny figurines are generally of female dancers in lively and rythmic poses which show extraordinary vitality. Keith Martin's work presents a dazzling array of collages and watercolors in the romantic tradition. The exhibit will close on March 15.

Local art lovers and many out of town guests attended the formal reception which opened the show. There to greet them and introduce Mrs. Backus were Mrs. J. Edgar Willing, Mrs. Louise White, and Mrs. G. R. Smiley.

Mrs. Arnold McManus presided at the punch bowl and refreshment table.

Seen in the crowd was Mrs. P. J. Ross. With her was Mrs. P. G. Lincoln, a winter resident from St. Louis. Mrs. Karl Fischer was introducing June Cobb down from New York for a visit. Karl was also in the crowd. From El Paso, Tex., were Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Ball.

Ike Approves Havana-Lauderdale Flights

Cuban Line to Set Date

Pledges Daily Runs Soon

FORT LAUDERDALE — President Eisenhower Monday authorized daily flights by a Cuban airline between Havana and Fort Lauderdale.

Robert Chomat, Florida representative for Aerovias Q Airways, said service will start in the "immediate future" and that a definite date may be announced today.

"We want to start right away," Chomat said.

"We'll start with a daily flight, but will increase the service if traffic warrants."

The airline will be the second to offer direct service between Havana and Broward International Airport.

Mackey Airlines inaugurated a daily flight two years ago.

Chomat said Aerovias, founded 13 years ago, will continue its flights between the Cuban capital and West Palm Beach and Key West.

The airline uses 60-passenger DC4 planes.

Richard Niedenthal, assistant manager at Broward International, said Aerovias will share passenger facilities in the new terminal which opened this week.

Nothing new has developed with plans of National and Eastern Airlines to operate at the field, he added.

"They're both interested but have no definite plans," Niedenthal said.

He pointed out that a recent CAB ruling gives National and Eastern the same privileges granted Northeast airlines which inaugurated daily flights to northern cities last December.

Negro Page Boy Begins Classes

WASHINGTON —(P)— A 14-year-old Chicago Negro boy's dream of entering the congressional page school came true Monday.

James A. Johnson Jr. rose at 4:30 a.m. to make his first class at 6:30, then left the school at 10:30 to report to the office of Rep. Quentin Burdick (D., N.D.).

Burdick is one of five House members who came to young Johnson's aid after a widely publicized mixup earlier this year involving Johnson's reported appointment as a House page boy.

Mayor High, left, Evans Are Close But Oh-So-Distant
... on way out after commission meeting was adjourned

Evans Is Bounced Out Of City Manager Job

Willard, His Views 2A
Evans Set Record 7A

By JOHN MORTON
Herald Staff Writer

E. A. Evans was fired as Miami City Manager Monday by a new majority that developed suddenly on the City Commission.

He was replaced immediately by Ira (Dutch) Willard, former city manager of Coral Gables, who recently entered the banking business.

Voting to remove Evans "as of today" were Otis Shiver, George W. DuBreuil and Mayor Robert King High.

Commissioner James W. High angrily protested the surprise action and announced his immediate resignation from the commission.

Failure to cooperate with Dade's new Metropolitan government was given by Shiver as the reason for Evans' ouster. Shiver made the motion for the firing.

Also asked to leave the city's employ immediately was Assistant City Manager Ray Williams. The veteran employe said he will retire.

Evans took the sudden loss of his $25,000-a-year job calmly.

"I have no hard feelings," he said. "I knew some day this would happen."

Willard immediately accepted the job after he was told of the offer by telephone. He will go to City Hall this morning to take over his new office. His salary will be $18,200 a year.

He said the job was first offered to him two weeks ago. He said he told the commissioners then that he would take it.

Ira Willard
... and he's in

The firing came as a surprise, however, even to many City Hall insiders. Up to now Shiver and DuBreuil have voted with a four man majority that included James High and B. E. Hearn.

Like James High, Hearn continued loyal to Evans.

He challenged Shiver's complaint that Evans has been ignoring the wishes of the commission and pursuing his own policies.

"I believe the city manager in every instance," said Hearn, "has carried out the will of this commission."

Shiver charged that Evans was "standing in the way of an orderly transfer of Miami functions to Metro, and that means standing in the way of the wishes of the people."

Last summer Evans was a leader in the Dade League of Municipalities campaign to curb Metro's powers by passage of a proposed "autonomy amendment" to the Metro charter. The City Commission, with the exception of Mayor High, offered no objection when Evans mobilized city employes and equipment to work in the "vote yes" campaign.

Still bitterly opposed to Metro, James High said in making his exit from the commission that it was led by "nitwit theorists with silly, power-grabbing moves."

The commissioner said he will devote his full time between now and the November city election "to making known to the people what has been done here."

"At the end of that time," he added, "I expect to be a candidate for reelection to this commission."

The firing came Monday afternoon when commissioners changed an informal session into an official meeting.

They took no action on High's resignation. Mayor High said it will come up at Wednesday's formal meeting.

Evans sat through the meeting calmly smoking a pipe, with one knee propped against his desk.

After the ouster vote there was an awkward silence. Evans finally broke it.

"I don't know why we are looking so glum," he commented. "Why don't we just smile?"

Before the official meeting was called, Mayor High complained he had been embarrassed earlier in the day when asked by a group of lawyers what Miami was going to do about transferring city traffic courts to Metro, as the court had ordered.

Civilian Heads on Pan in Missile Race

Who decides what missiles research the U.S. will pour its billions into? In today's installment of his series on the great defense debate famed Reporter Bob Considine puts the spotlight on a little-known but powerful official in weapons development.

By BOB CONSIDINE
Herald Columnist

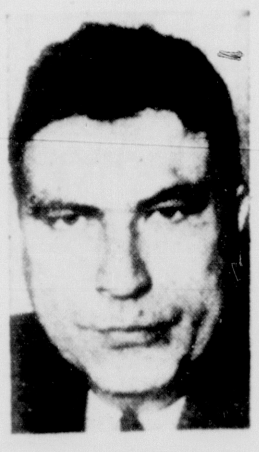
The position of the U.S. at this time has been likened to that of a man crossing a rocky ford in a stream, daring not to take his weight entirely off one foot until he is sure that the other foot is on solid ground.

We are in some cases haltingly and other cases feverishly changing our military retaliation reliance from manned bombers to missiles. Articulate members of the Democratic Congress believe that many aspects of the Eisenhower administration's defense problem are being bungled now or have been in the past.

But no other segment has come under more fire than that part of the setup which must compete with the Soviet Union's unquestionably brilliant rocket developers. We were caught with our Sputniks down on Oct. 4, 1957, and despite a tremendous awakening to Russia's scientific and engineering prowess we have yet to catch up.

The task of getting the U.S. abreast of or preferably ahead of Russian missile wizardry was complicated until the 1958 Reorganization Act. There were conflicting and competing groups, not to mention jealousies and the fanning of the dead embers of old interservice rivalries.

As outlined by Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy before the House Armed Services Committee last Feb. 2, here is where the breath-taking authority rests:



Dr. Herbert York
... directs research

"A Director of Defense Research and Engineering, Dr. Herbert York, has been appointed with the mission to assure that all scientific and technological resources of the Department of Defense are put to the best possible use.

"The Director of Defense Research and Engineering will supervise and coordinate all Department of Defense research and engineering programs. He will be responsible for providing effective leadership, eliminating unnecessary duplication, encouraging basic research, and developing an integrated research and development program covering all operational needs."

Answerable to Dr. York is all the work and thinking of the Advance Research Projects Agency, headed by Roy Johnson. Dr. York has veto power over ARPA's spatial brain-children. The same is true of his office's control over William Holaday's Guided Missiles Operation, and missiles heads of each service.

U.S. Set For Fight On Berlin

We're Ready, McElroy Says

By Herald Wire Services

WASHINGTON — U.S. military forces are ready to back up President Eisenhower's avowed determination to stand fast on American rights in Berlin, Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy told Congress Monday.

"We think we have a definite offensive superiority over the Russians at this time," McElroy said in discussing the situation with the House Space Committee.

While voicing doubt the Russians want to start a war, the Pentagon chief told the congressmen "we are prepared to meet various stages of the Berlin situation as it develops." Then he added:

"We are prepared to make good on the statement of the President that we will not yield one inch on our rights in Berlin."

McElroy said there are no plans now to mobilize because of the deepening crisis over Russia's campaign to force the U.S. and other Allied powers out of Berlin, 110 miles inside Communist-held territory.

Mobilization steps have been suggested in Congress in recent days, and Rep. James Fulton (R., Pa.) raised the issue again Monday. He asked McElroy if this country has adequate protection for a firm position on Berlin and "if not, should we mobilize in whole or in part?"

"We don't regard that as being required at this time," McElroy replied.

Boca Raton Commission Picks Mayor

BOCA RATON — Joseph De Long was elected mayor by fellow city commissioners Monday. William Herbold was elected first vice mayor and Al Rueb second vice mayor.

De Long, a 54-year-old former secretary of the Civil Service Commission, paced the field in the Feb. 17 general election. Herbold and Rueb ran two-three in the balloting for three commsision seats.

Following the swearing-in ceremonies and election, the newly constituted commission re-appointed Leon F. Weaver as city attorney and P. J. Brannen Jr. as municipal judge.

Also appointed were Jacob Heidt as city clerk and treasurer and James Gibson as tax assessor-collector. Herbert Kennedy received appointment as finance officer.

With the appointment of Heidt and Gibson, City Manager William Lamb got rid of four of his many jobs, but retained his post as budget officer. Heidt had been serving as acting clerk and Gibson as deputy assessor.

The retiring commission wound up its business at a biref session, preceeding the organizational meeting. Harold Dane and John Flancher stepped down as mayor and vice mayor to take their places as commissioners on the five-member board.

Bowing out completely were John L. Shores, Paul Debout Jr. and Harold Turner.

But No Damage Done

Minute-Long Quake Hits San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO — (UPI) — A long, rolling earthquake which alternately swelled and diminished for more than a minute, struck earthquake-conscious San Francisco late Monday.

The temblor hit the city and surrounding areas at 6:29 p.m. Miami time. The University of California seismographic office at Berkeley, Calif., said the quake registered a magnitude of 5.5 on the Richter scale.

The quake, it said, was centered 65 miles northwest of Berkeley, which would put it near Santa Rosa, but residents of that area said they barely felt the shock. There were no immediate reports of damage.

In southern California, the California Institute of Technology at Pasadena reported the temblor registered 4.5 on the Richter scale, a full point lower than what was registered at Berkeley. There was no immediate explanation for the discrepancy in the readings.

Telephone service was sporadically disrupted throughout the Bay area by overloading calls from anxious residents calling schools — where their children were still in class—relatives, and the police department.

Reports of the temblor came from as far south as Salinas, Calif., some 100 miles from San Francisco, and from San Rafael, a suburb 20 miles to the north.

A San Rafael housewife said the quake sounded like "truck gears" engaging.

A passenger in a downtown office building elevator said the car "banged against the shaft walls" and the lifting cables slapped to and fro as the shock hit the building.

The quake was felt "strongly" in the east Bay where residents called police in San Leandro, Oakland and Berkeley.

However, residents in Daly City, just south of San Francisco, said they felt nothing, although their city sits smack on top of the San Andreas Fault, which has caused most of San Francisco's major quakes.

Oakland police said they had some 1,500 calls within a few minutes. San Francisco's police switchboard was so jammed with calls it was impossible to reach city officials immediately by phone.

The quake struck at 3:29 with a strong swaying motion, then diminished and swelled with a sharper, stronger tremor some 30 seconds later. Intensity of the quake compared with the one which caused millions of dollars in damage on March 22, 1957. That quake also had a magnitude of 5.5.

Frost to Hit N. Florida

Frost will hit the lowgrounds of North Florida early today — while South Florida temperatures will drop to 45, the weather bureau said.

But by late today, the thermometer is expected to be climbing again.

The weatherman said it'll be back in the mid-70s again in Greater Miami this afternoon.

Scattered frost is expected in the Suwannee and Gainesville districts, the upper east coast, Orlando and the Brooksville district.

But South Florida farmers won't have to fear temperatures of 44 to 50, the Frost Warning Service said.

Ministers' Parley Is Accepted

Nikita Recants On Berlin Talks

By Herald Wire Services

MOSCOW — Russia reversed itself Monday and conditionally agreed to a foreign ministers' conference on the Berlin crisis in notes that warned that the German issue could cause war "a hundred times more serious" than all past conflicts.

Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev withdrew his rejection of the Western plan for a foreign ministers' meeting after pleas from Britain's visiting Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

The Soviet note handed to the ambassadors of the U.S., Britain, France and West Germany urged a summit conference as having "the greatest chance" of success.

But if the West "is not ready" for that, the Russians agreed to a ministerial-level parley on one condition: Inclusion of Poland and Czechoslovakia.

The Western proposal which Khrushchev rejected verbally last Tuesday called for a Big Four foreign ministers' meeting. Russia wants the two Communist nations included to give the Eastern bloc numerical balance. East and West Germany also would attend and have "active participation" in the talks.

(In Bonn, West German official sources said the government will oppose the presence of Poland and Czechoslovakia at a conference.)

The Soviets suggested a meeting of "not more than two or three months" which would begin next month at Geneva or Vienna. The West also has proposed such a time and choice of places.

Western diplomats said the proposal for two or three months of negotiation starting in April shows the Soviet Union has long since scrapped May 27 as an absolute deadline for settlement of the West Berlin question.

They pointed out that since Khrushchev set the original date, Soviet officials both here and abroad — including Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan in the U. S. — have reiterated that no deadline exists and that the proposal contains no ultimatum.

However, the note stressed again that Russia intends to hand over control of the Berlin lifelines to the East Germans by May 27.

It warned the West that any attempt to use "tanks or avia-

TOKYO—Eric Johnston relays this story about Moscow:

Premier Khrushchev was having tea with some students when he suddenly turned to one of them and demanded:

"Who wrote 'Anna Karenina?' "

Stammered the terrified student: "I didn't write her, sir, honest I didn't."

The next day Khrushchev related this incident to Gen. Ivan Serov, recently deposed security boss. Later in the day Serov reported back to Khrushchev:

"You know that young man you were telling me about? Well, I have news for you. After questioning him for two-and-one-half hours I've gotten his written confession that he did write 'Anna Karenina!' "

"A quiet Friday morning: the sun shining, people going to work, children on the way to school, dogs and cats running and playing. People striving for a good life, to better their community, working for the American way: freedom of speech, religion.

"But serenity can be shattered. A school is blown up, a church threatened, people beaten. That's right, mister, don't let those Communists enforce the Constitution.

"It has been a long hot day. Go home. Greet the family. Have a beer. Call the boys. When is the meeting? Tonight, now! Get your cloak, your cloak of authority. And don't forget the mask. Pick up the bums, the mental defects. Get on to the meeting. Look at your leader . . . great man . . . knows how to hate . . . praise him for leading you. After all, you've no mind. Absorb it all: blind hatred. It's yours for the asking. When is the next bombing or beating? Get drunk with the rest of the animals. Go home; even the little ones must be taught to hate.

"Live long. Have a blast. Spread hatred and corruption. Grow old — and die. You've been a good man — says you. Into the promised land you go."

Anti-Missile Defense Years Away--McElroy

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy said Monday the time when the U.S. will have a defense against ballistic missiles is some years away.

Even then there is no assurance the defense can stop more than a modest number of ICBM's launched in a mass attack, he said.

McElroy was quizzed by the House Space Committee in the row over his turndown of an Army request to put into production the Army's Nike-Zeus, a missile-and-radar system designed to knock down intercontinental missiles.

McElroy said the Nike-Zeus is getting the highest national priority in its development but his best scientific advice has been that the weapon is not ready for production.

Until there is a missile defense, McElroy said, the U.S. protection lies in its strike-back power — a deterrent aimed at discouraging a potential aggressor from starting a war in the first place.

Even Police Tell Them

NORTH BAY, Ont. — (AP) — Two police officers, Gordon Nuttley and Al Pike, swear by this fish story:

They said they were ice fishing near here from holes 40 feet apart. They propped their rods in the snow. One began to bob and Nuttley made a dash for it. He was too late. The rod disappeared under the ice.

Moments later the other rod began to bob. When the end of the line was hauled to the surface it was hooked to the lost rod and a seven-pound pike.

The show, to be telecast nationally by NBC-TV, will feature 105 top Hollywood stars.

'Random' Signals Reported

INGLEWOOD, Calif. — (UPI) — The Air Force in a cautiously worded statement announced Monday that the "lost" 1,300-pound satellite Discoverer I is apparently circling the earth every 96 minutes in a polar orbit.

Preliminary studies indicated the 19-foot-long satellite's life would be in excess of one month, the Air Force said.

The satellite was blasted into the heavens Saturday afternoon at Vandenberg Air Force Base to become the first satellite launched on the West Coast.

Its fate remained in doubt for nearly 32 hours because of an apparent radio failure before the Air Force's Ballistic Missile Division (BMD) here broke the suspense by releasing a guarded statement Sunday night reporting the reception of "random" radio signals.

A BMD spokesman explained the difficulty the Air Force was having in determining whether the Discoverer I actually achieved orbit.

"We are not saying that it definitely is in orbit, neither can we say that it is not, at this point," the spokesman said. "We don't feel that we will definitely know an orbit has been achieved until we have tracked it by radar, obtained a visual sighting or received more definite radio signals.

"Until that time, we can say only that information 'tends' to confirm, not definitely confirm, an orbit."

The Discoverer shot was the initial launching in "Project Discoverer," a program designed to lead eventually the way into space for man. Another shot in the project already was being readied for 30 days hence.

Western Refusal Is Seen

Red Proposal Has 2 Flaws

See Story, P. 1A

By WILLIAM J. JORDEN
The New York Times Service

WASHINGTON — Western diplomats found little in the latest Soviets notes on the German problem to encourage hope for any easy, quick solution.

The only encouragement they could find in their first reading of the long messages from Moscow was that the Russians had kept the door open for possible negotiations.

Diplomatic sources here indicated the West almost certainly will reject the proposal for the kind of conference of foreign ministers that Moscow advanced Monday. It was assumed that rejection would be the diplomatic initiative to the Kremlin.

Diplomats here found two fundamental objections to the Soviet position:

First, they noted, the Russians have indicated a willingness to discuss only those problems Moscow deems important — making West Berlin a "free city" and arranging a peace treaty with a divided Germany.

Second, Moscow wants to add two Communist states, Poland and Czechoslovakia, to the roster of conference participants. The Western position is that only nations with an internationally recognized "special interest" in Germany — the Soviet Union, Great Britain, France and the U.S. — should make basic decisions on Germany, with the advice of the Germans themselves, both Communist and non-Communist.

Western counter-proposals can be expected to concentrate on these points. The West can be expected to argue that if they are willing to discuss problems raised by the Russians, the latter cannot expect to rule out matters [illegible] Western allies consider important.

On the question of participation, experts here doubt the West will rule out the presence of other states. It would argue, however, that expansion of a conference should not be confined to Communist countries Moscow wants in, while ignoring others, and that to include all nations with an interest in Germany would make a conference unwieldy and unnecessarily complicated.

Headley's Days Numbered As Chief, Mayor High Says

By JUANITA GREENE
Herald Staff Writer

Walter Headley won't be Miami's police chief much longer, Mayor Robert King High predicted after Monday's surprise shakeup in city politics.

"There will be a lot of changes in the old brass at the police department," the youthful mayor said.

"As for Chief Headley himself," he added, "I would expect him to resign."

The police department has been the principal target of Mayor High. But until Monday he got no support in his demands for a cleanup from the other four commissioners.

High's sudden support from two commissioners from what was formerly a four-man majority on the commission is expected to have other significant repercussions.

Votes by High, Otis Shiver and George DuBreuil are expected to lead to:

THE TRANSFERENCE soon of all traffic cases from city courts to Metro courts.

THE FIRING, or resignation, of General Edward (Bo)Barber as a $9,000-a-year administrative assistant. He was hired by Evans as a "troubleshooter."

THE FIRING, transfer, or resignation of many other oldtimers in the police department and other city departments.

In uneasy positions are City Engineer Arthur Darlow, City Building Department Director Ellis Knox, and Slum Clearance Director Francis Kelly.

THE END of what Mayor High called "petty resistance to Metro auto inspection in the City of Miami."

High was emphatic in his predictions about changes in the police department.

"Since I've been in office (a year and a half)," he said, "Evans and Headley have ridiculed any efforts to clean up organized rackets."

"I predict," he said, "a new attitude among the high brass at the police department."

The mayor has been particularly critical of what he called "wide open bolita peddling." From time to time he has toured the city and bought bolita tickets, and confronted Evans and Headley with the evidence.

Until Monday, however, Shiver and DuBreuil have sided with Commissioners James High and B. E. Hearn in supporting Evans and his claim that there was nothing seriously wrong in the police department setup.

In forecasting other changes in personnel, High said he was sure Barber, an old Army friend of Evans', will not be around long.

"The days of the generals are over," he declared.

This Man Willard Is Metro's Friend

By DOM BONAFEDE
Herald Staff Writer

Miami's new city manager, Ira F. Willard promised close cooperation between the city and Metropolitan government in his first statement upon being named to the post.

"Metro is here to stay," Willard commented. "A close working agreement with the city and Metro is necessary to best serve the people."

He added he is not thinking of making any changes in department heads "at the present."

The annual salary of the new city manager was put at $18,200, compared to $25,000 received by his predecessor, E. A. Evans.

Willard disclosed that he was first approached about the job about two weeks ago by Mayor Robert King High.

"Mayor High asked if I'd be interested and I told him I would be if there was a vacancy.

"He called again last weekend to confirm it and I told him the same thing."

Willard, called "Dutch" by his acquaintances, was appointed city manager of Coral Gables in May, 1956, after having served in the same capacity at Alexandria, Va., for four years. Prior to that he was city manager of Hopewell, Va.

He resigned the Coral Gables post three months ago to accept an executive position as director of new business development with the Sottile banking group.

Unlike many city managers, who come from the ranks of academic engineers, Willard is a former practicing attorney.

He completed pre-law studies at the University of South Carolina in 1934 and obtained his law degree from Southeastern University, Washington, D.C., in 1938.

In 1941 he joined the U.S. Army as a lieutenant. He was honorably discharged as a lieutenant colonel in 1946.

Willard, 47, and his wife, Mary, have four children. They live at 902 Catalonia Ave., Coral Gables.

During his tenure at Coral Gables, Willard established a reputation as one of the most astute city managers in the country.

He was frequently mentioned as a candidate for the position of county manager.

Willard said Monday he had no hesitancy about accepting the Miami job.

"I'm very honored. I'll do my very best to be a success," he said.

He said he expects to start work at Dinner Key City Hall immediately.

Chill Is Gone, But Orange Prices Stay Up

By ERWIN POTTS
Herald Staff Writer

HOLLYWOOD — There's no relief in sight for the housewife who's finding the soaring price of oranges upsetting her grocery budget.

While citrus fruit orchards are well thawed out from last year's freeze, citrus prices are still feeling the chill.

Though the Department of Agriculture predicted lower citrus prices during the first half of this year, local growers and retailers shiver at the thought.

"Prices of oranges are up from about $3.00 a box to $3.25 and $3.50 a box off the tree," said William Wood, general manager of Flamingo Groves in nearby Davie.

"And they'll probably go even higher," he added.

Wood said the increase in the wholesale price will mean a rise of about 20 per cent for the housewife who buys a bag of oranges at the grocery store.

But a wholesale buyer for a local supermarket presented an even more dismal picture.

"We're getting 59 cents for a dozen oranges today. Five or six weeks ago it was 39 cents a dozen," he said.

"Grapefruit is up from 10 for 29 cents five weeks ago, to 10 for 49 cents today."

Citrus people attribute the rising prices to the 1957-58 freeze, which put the industry in a hole it hasn't been able to climb out of.

"Florida will produce 80 million boxes of oranges this year," said one grower. "But that's about 45 million short of the demand.

"I don't expect they'll catch up with the demand for a couple of years."

He explained that, while Davie growers were not hard hit by the freeze, the citrus industry as a whole was, and the higher prices are a result of the statewide demand.

Florida Citrus Mutual, a growers co-op in Lakeland, issued a statement claiming "right now all citrus prices are higher than the average for the past 10 years."

12-Month School Year A'Coming

MILLIONS OF DOLLARS worth of Broward County school equipment stands idle for one-fourth of the year and for several potentially useful hours during the day, Mrs. Francis Sheldon observes in commenting on the talk of another county school bond issue. Why shouldn't it be used all year and for a lengthened day?

Mrs. Sheldon is another who has concluded that a 12-months school year now has become extremely logical, and she's in some good company. Former U.S. Commissioner of Education John Studebaker was in favor of it. Sentiment in behalf of it seems to be gaining strength as more and more communities find themselves faced with huge school construction programs.

In this county, the number of pupils now in school simultaneously would be cut, presumably, from 52,000 to 39,000, all of them getting a full day's education. The number of classrooms we have to build every year to meet the enrollment increase would be cut by about one-fourth.

Some day it will come about . . .

Conductor from a Singing Family

THE CURRENT GUEST CONDUCTOR of the Fort Lauderdale Symphony Orchestra, Mario di Bonaventure, delights in telling how his serious musical education began.

He is one of four children of an Italian barber. They grew up in Follansbee, W. Va., where his father owned a movie house as well as a barber shop, and played in concert halls around the area as a family group. One day their father decided he would find out whether they were as good as he thought they were.

He took all children to a New York music school for testing. The first reaction among school officials was ill-concealed doubt that all four offspring of a West Virginia barber could have much musical talent, but the tests caused eyes to pop. All four were given scholarships . . .

Collins' Gambling Stand Firm

ANYONE WHO MISSED reading Gov. LeRoy Collins' determined stand against legalized gambling in The Herald's Parade Magazine Sunday ought to dig it out and keep it on hand as a reply to people who occasionally come out in favor of such gambling. It should be required reading, moreover, for all of Florida's public officials.

His closing lines, retorting to those who contend that the state would receive big revenues from legal betting, are particularly memorable: "What we lose in income, we shall gain in integrity. And integrity, and the moral strength of a community, are irreplaceable treasures no amount of money can buy" . . .

Another Slant on Lien Laws

AS WITH ALL THINGS, there are many sides to the argument over the mechanic's lien laws.

A Pompano Beach reader tells of a builder who borrowed $14,000 from a mortgage company to put up a building. The company neglected to get releases of lien from him. The builder abandoned the building before it was finished and didn't pay all his bills. Now the people who invested with the mortgage company are forced to foreclose in order to get their money back, but the sale of the building will fall about $4,000 short of paying everyone off.

The mortgage company loaned more money on the enterprise than it should have and was lax in not obtaining releases, this observer says. He suggests that everyone would be protected if the law controlled the amount and manner of disbursing construction loans . . .

Airman Held in Kidnap

Abducts Victim After Holdup

By TOM VINCIGUERRA
Herald Staff Writer

DANIA — An AWOL airman from Homestead Air Force Base, who police said confessed the robbery-kidnap of a local gas station attendant, was returned here from Titusville Monday night and turned over to the Sheriff's Department.

Police Chief George Williams said Airman 1-C William J. Slone, 27, faces charges of armed robbery and kidnaping.

Slone, reported AWOL by Homestead base officials, told authorities he held up Paul Newberry, 48-year-old attendant at the Kayo station, 1210 S. Federal Highway, at 2:15 a.m. and forced him at gunpoint to drive upstate.

Newberry, who described his experience as "terrifying," told police Slone ordered him out of the car near Eau Gallie. Newberry said he hitchhiked a ride and notified authorities. Slone was picked up an hour later in Titusville.

The airman was driving a stolen car from the air base, and had in his possession two revolvers and $54 taken from Newberry at the station, police said.

Newberry, former Knoxville, Tenn., policeman who lives at 209A SW 12th St., was reported missing by a friend, J. M. Padgett, swing shift lineman for Florida Power and Light Co.

Padgett, who arrived at the station about 15 minutes after the holdup, told police he usually stops to talk with Newberry, but Monday morning found the station unattended.

The station manager, Naral Jones, called in by police, noted Newberry's eye glasses still on his desk by a partially filled-out work report, and announced his employe had been kidnaped.

Titusville authorities said Slone was taken into custody without trouble. Air base officials said Slone had been absent without leave and was to be listed officially AWOL today.

Still Oppose Affiliated Contract

Legislators to Spurn Garbage Bill Request

Issue Left Up To County

By PETER LAINE
Herald Staff Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE — Nobody's formally asked the legislators yet, but when the County Commission throws them a request for a bill on the hot - potato garbage contract, they'll throw it right back.

George Peterson, County Commission chairman, said Monday the request won't be made until the legislators are in session in Tallahassee.

The legislators made it clear Monday, as they did back during the November elections, they unanimously oppose the contract.

Rep. A. J. Ryan Jr., who was retained by the disenfranchised former collectors to fight the award, said flatly: "I'm not going to introduce it."

Sen. George Tedder said: "I'm committed against it. I'm opposed to certain parts of the contract."

Rep. Emerson Allsworth noted: "My tendency would be not to go along with it because the public seems against it."

Petersen said later: "It's up to them, if they don't see fit to save the taxpayers money. We've made our position clear.

"They will deprive the county of an incinerator," he added.

Extension of the contract would automatically obligate Affiliated Services Inc. to provide incinerator garbage disposal.

Commissioner Herbert Burke, who was chairman when the contract passed, said Monday an incinerator has to be built.

"It may have to come from taxation if the contract isn't extended," he said.

Burke pointed out that the extension could still be introduced at the 1961 or 1963 sessions, although this would delay construction of the incinerator.

The contract was effective Oct. 1. It became a bitter political issue surrounded by litigation. A ruling on the independent collectors' appeal to the district court is still pending.

If the contract is not extended, Affiliated will continue to use the sanitary landfill disposal method.

The delegation listened Monday to requests for legislation to allow package stores to sell cocktail ingredients; to clarify the Pembroke town charter; to extend the lease on property rented by the Broadview Park Civic Association; to transfer the City of Plantation's voting registration to the county; and to tighten the building lien laws. More hearings will be held Wednesday.

Pembroke Pines Has City Officials, But Is It a City?

By FRAN LASLIE
Herald Staff Writer

PEMBROKE PINES—A Town Council and mayor were sworn into office Monday amid charges that a vote Saturday to incorporate this predominately residential community failed.

"The anti-incorporation committee feels sure that there isn't any city," said Bob Fegers, an attorney and committee spokesman.

Three hours earlier, Dr. Walter Seth Kipnis, elected mayor during the balloting, had taken his oath from Circuit Judge Richard Sauls.

Kipnis inducted the seven new aldermen and set the first council meeting for Tuesday night.

The factions are split on the total number of freeholders here. By state law, incorporation is impossible without a favorable vote from two-thirds of the freeholders.

Fegers' group contends there are at least 285 freeholders and less than two-thirds voted in favor of incorporation.

Incorporationists claim there are only 263 freeholders, according to a certified list from the county registrar's office, and there were more than enough votes favoring incorporation Saturday.

Meanwhile, in a move to settle the squabble amicably, Fegers proposed a meeting with the incorporation faction.

"I think we can resolve this among ourselves," he said.

The council agreed to take up the proposal at Tuesday's session.

"If I'm correct," Fegers said, "the election failed by six votes." He believes incorporation required 190 favorable votes.

Dr. Kipnis maintains incorporation passed — with nine more votes than the 175 he believes were needed.

In Saturday's balloting, 184 persons cast "yes" votes, with 72 opposing.

Neil Broderson, Anthony Di Pietro, James K. Kier, Roland Mars, William D. Murphy, Frank J. Quinn and Clarence Smith Jr. were named aldermen. City clerk is Ruth Pearce and the town marshal post went to Earl E. Doxee.

Tot's Walk Crosses Tracks

FORT LAUDERDALE—A 3-year-old boy who "took a walk" at the supper hour Monday was found three hours later and four blocks from home.

Police said Steven Maul, 1131 NE 16th St., had to cross the Florida East Coast Railroad to get where he was found.

Mrs. Robert Numan, 1503 NE 15th Ave., notified police when the youth stopped at her home at 6:30 p.m.

"I didn't know him and he couldn't tell me where he lived" she told police.

Mrs. Numan said the boy was barefooted and had a head cold.

An hour later the boy's sister called police and reported her brother missing.

"I turned my back and he was gone," said Sandra Maul, a high school student who was baby sitting for her mother.

Stevie's explanation: "I took a walk."

Hollywood Convicts 6 After Gambling Raid

By RICK TUTTLE
Hollywood Bureau Chief

HOLLYWOOD — Six Liberia residents and a Dania man who runs a pool hall here were convicted of gambling charges Monday in Municipal Court.

They were arrested Sunday in a raid that stemmed from a tip by an anonymous telephone caller, police said.

The Dania man, Herbert Penn, 56, of 704 SW Seventh St., owner of Penn's Pool Room, 2902 N. 22nd Ave., was found guilty of operating a gambling house. He was fined $50 and given a 30-day suspended sentence by Judge Richard Cobourn.

Uniformed officers and detectives arrested the men in the middle of a dice game, which was being held in a small room that opens into the main pool hall. They confiscated $18.95.

Convicted on the charges were David Lee Cobb, 19, of 2607 N. 22nd Ave.; Collie Albert, 24, of 2214 Forrest St.; William Henry Phillips, 33, of 2246 Simms St.; Willie Albert Hall, 24, of 2317 Raleigh St.; R. C. Armstrong, 31, of 232 Ferguson St., and Dillard Francis Hudson, 18, of 2221 Douglas St.

Hudson and Armstrong were also charged with carrying concealed weapons. Hudson was found not guilty. Armstrong was fined $50 and given a 90-day suspended sentence.

The rest were fined $15 and court costs.

Dinner on the Ground Flushed Them

Spirits in Pisgah's Pulpit!

TALLAHASSEE — (UP) — "Build your church from a firm foundation" advised the speaker at services conducted at a little church in the wildwood.

But the speaker, Sam Teague Jr., said 200 gallons of moonshine whisky found later concealed beneath the pulpit of the old Pisgah Methodist Church wasn't what he had in mind.

The cache was uncovered Sunday when a small boy crawled beneath the building to locate some tables for the monthly dinner on the grounds.

Sheriff's deputies, summoned by Teague over his newly-installed automobile telephone, later nabbed two men who returned to the church and loaded part of the whisky.

The two, Jerry E. Reeves, 27, and Steve A. Edward Jr., 25, of Crawfordville, were charged with moving and concealing moonshine whisky.

The congregation of the church helped in the arrests. They disbanded after the discovery and the two deputies waited in an outdoor building four hours before making the arrests.

The church, located in an isolated area in the northern part of the county, is celebrating its 100th anniversary.

The Rev. James Farr reported that he had noted two strange men driving away when he arrived at the church grounds Sunday morning for services. But he said they appeared friendly and waved to him as they drove off.

Poor Attendance Blamed

Fair at Hallandale Flops for $4,500

By TOM VINCIGUERRA
Herald Staff Writer

HALLANDALE — The Chamber of Commerce-sponsored Industrial and Agricultural Fair flopped to the tune of $4,500, Chamber President S. Lee Crouch reported Monday.

The chamber, which was to receive 25 per cent of the net profits, isn't out a penny, Crouch said. Prell Shows, which had a 50 per cent stake in the profits, took the loss, said Crouch.

Two individual investors were to receive 25 per cent. Crouch said they lost money also.

Crouch listed expenses at $22,000 and revenues at $17,500.

Fact is, Crouch said, the chamber may come out $1,000 ahead if the state returns about $700 in license fees paid by the fair.

"Where a loss is suffered by an event such as this and sponsored by a non profit organization like the chamber, the state usually returns the license fees," said Crouch.

Another $200 or more is due the chamber from commissions and contributions derived in connection with the fair, Crouch said.

He attributed the fair's financial downfall to "poor attendance and not enough spending." Less than half of the expected 40,000 attendance materialized, said Crouch.

An official report of the fair's finances will be made to the chamber board, which will decide whether the fair will become an annual event, Crouch said.

"The fair is a potential money maker," he added.

House Stymies Bill On Orange Color

Growers Cannot Dye Fruit

WASHINGTON — Final congressional action on a bill to permit coloring of Florida and Texas oranges was held up in the House Monday by a technicality — and indirectly by an objection.

The bill was passed over without prejudice until the next consent calendar day, March 16, because the House Commerce Committee, along with its favorable report on the bill, sent to the House the original bill approved by a Senate committee rather than the bill actually passed by the Senate with amendments.

Chairman Oren Harris of the House Commerce Committee obtained approval for the measure to be recommitted to the committee so that the proper Senate bill could be attached to the House committee's favorable report.

Rep. James Delaney (D., N.Y.) had informed Rep. James Haley (D., Fla.), the bill's sponsor, that he would object to it. This alone would have caused the bill to be passed over for two weeks.

The clerk of the House Commerce Committee told a reporter Harris probably would ask the House Rules Committee to send the bill to the House floor promptly, thus removing it from the consent calendar.

He said there is an urgency in getting action on this measure because a law permitting the coloring of oranges expired Feb. 28. This will make Florida and Texas growers wait until Congress acts before they can color oranges to be shipped to market.

As a result of Monday's House action, Florida and Texas growers cannot color oranges with dye.

Rep. Haley, conceding it is a legal question, said he believes growers could ship oranges now which were colored prior to the last day, but that no coloring could be done, beginning Monday, until the House passes the Senate bill and President Eisenhower signs it.

Margate Man Cleared Of Robbery

Herald Bureau

FORT LAUDERDALE — Margate Resident Thomas Dell, 27, was acquitted Monday of robbing the Black Rabbit Bar on State Rd. 7 Dec. 3 by Criminal Court Judge Louis Weissing. It was a non-jury trial.

Owner Harold Stoneburner, 35, told the court that Dell threatened to kill him, then took $54.15 out of the cash register.

"I am physically afraid of Dell," Stoneburner testified.

Defense Attorney Steadman Stahl implied that Dell was collecting a gambling debt. Stoneburner denied this.

Prosecutor Wallace Allbritton produced two witnesses to the incident — Charles Barnes and Joseph Coyne. Stoneburner could have stopped Dell taking the money, Coyne said.

All the witnesses agreed that Dell purposely left Stoneburner money in the till to operate on.

Another customer, Al Zurovsky, was sentenced in Miami to a year in jail last week for asking $2,000 from Dell in exchange for favorable testimony. Dell handed Zurovsky $37 in an envelope as Stahl and police watched the transaction.

Margate Is Almost a City

MARGATE — This town is only 34 registered voters away from becoming a city.

Voter registration books for the March 17 municipal election closed Monday with 266 voters on file.

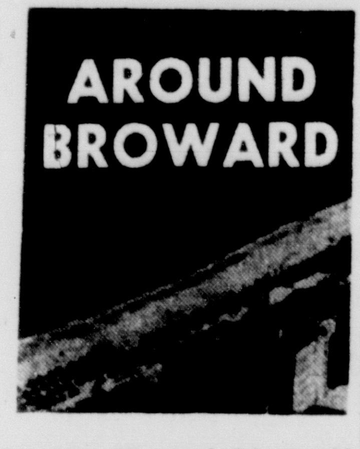
Florida statutes define a city as an incorporated community having not less than 300 registered voters.

The voter total represents a 54 per cent increase over last November, when the town held a referendum on a civil service plan. There were 173 voters registered then.

Unofficial estimates place this community's population at 2,100 persons. But the majority of them are new arrivals, and cannot meet the minimum residence requirements to qualify as voters.

Ruling Expected Today

Shargaa Appeal Heard by Court



FORT LAUDERDALE — The case of oft-convicted but seldom jailed Babe Shargaa went before the State Supreme Coure Monday.

Shargaa has been at odds with the law for years, mostly on charges of embezzlement, mortgage frauds and bad checks. His attorney, Ray Sandstrom, argued for a writ of habeas corpus Monday, in appealing Shargaa's conviction of second offender worthless check charges.

Sandstrom's arguments were based on contentions that certain statutes are unconstitutional and that a lower court exceeded its jurisdiction. A ruling is expected today.

Shargaa's extensive use of the legal loophole to avoid confinement has become almost legendary here in recent years.

Patrolman Warren Wheeler said Moehringer's body was found at 10:45 a.m. by Lewis Bill, 38, of 2501 NW 21st St., a sanitation department employe. Wheeler said Bill had seen Moehringer drive into the dump 45 minutes before his body was found slumped over the front seat of his car.

Professor Asserts:

'Bad Marriage Can't Be Cured By Tranquilizer'

By PAT MANGAN
Herald Staff Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE — "There's no tranquilizer to cure a bad marriage."

The words are those of Dr. Donald W. Hastings, professor of psychiatry at the University of Minnesota.

He was explaining that tranquilizers are a great advance in the field of relieving tension, but are not the answer to problems.

"The good physician will explore the areas causing tension as well as prescribe for its relief," he said.

Dr. Hastings is part of the faculty of Mediclinics of Minnesota which today begins a 10-day postgraduate medical refresher course for general practitioners at the Governors' Club Hotel. Sponsors are the Florida Academy of General Practice and Broward General Hospital.

"We will see much more effective tranquilizing agents within the next 25 or 50 years," he said.

Mild tranquilizers, such as Miltown and Equinil, are valuable to "knock the top off tension," he said, but may produce a certain amount of physiological addiction.

But he said the addiction is less than that produced by cigarets.

Dr. Hastings is one of the 12 University of Minnesota staff members who will teach the mediclinics course. Director of it is Dr. Arthur C. Kerkhof, clinic associate professor of medicine.

Dr. Kerkhof's course topics include treatment of hypertension, or high blood pressure.

His advice for those who suffer from it is to remember "high blood pressure never killed anybody."

Its danger lies in that it may lead to arteriosclerosis, he said. Modern treatment of hypertension depends mostly on medicines and seldom on surgery, Dr. Kerkhof said.

Tranquilizers are sometimes employed for patients whose tension is the result of nervous influence, he added.

Both doctors smoked steadily while interviewed.

"It's addiction," admitted Dr. Hastings. "You'd think every doctor would stop smoking if there were the slightest danger of it causing lung cancer, wouldn't you?"

Chevalier Wows All With Imitations

PALM BEACH—Still the playboy of Paris, Maurice (The Magnificent) is also good will ambassdaor from La Belle, France to Palm Beach, Miami, or wherehaveyou.

Mary Howes brought the famous comedian to Palm Beach Sunday night as the second in her Sunday evening series of great players. An audience that overflowed the Four Arts Auditorium gave him a tumultuous welcome.

From the same stage where great thinkers have often thrown out banners of words settling world problems, Maurice Chevalier tossed his gay, bright hued confetti.

Wearing an electric blue suit and black bow tie, he sang and danced to excellent piano accompaniment, told jokes, and, what came as the biggest surprise, he gave hilarious imitations and impressions. His pantomime was perfect. He can shade his voice and twist his face in the most delightful fashion.

In one original sketch called accents politiques, he gave his impressions of statesmen of varying nationalities speaking over TV to their countrymen.

In his caricature of President Eisenhower he even managed to look like his model and sound like him too. His takeoff on a German and a Chinese statesmen were also classics. In all these spoofs he never spoke an intelligible word — just wonderful abracadabra. His message was clearly understood.

He sang "Thank Heaven for Little Girls," and in singing "Fascination," from "Love in the Afternoon," he explained that it had been a well loved melody in France at the turn of the century.

"And I played the onkle of Oudray Hepburn, not the loafer," he moaned. "The loafer was Gary Cooper. Oh well - -" and a French shrug shrugged off the matter of passing years.

Next on Mary Howes' series is Katharine Cornell and Brian Aherne in "Dear Liar," based on the intimate correspondence of Mrs. Patrick Campbell and Bernard Shaw. That's coming March 14-16.

No-Fatals On Record

FORT LAUDERDALE — This city and neighboring Hollywood were among 506 U.S. cities which recorded no traffic fatalities during January, the National Safety Council reported.

Fort Lauderdale led in the 50,000-100,000 population group without a fatality with Orlando and Pontiac, Mich. Hollywood was matched by Boulder, Colo., and Santa Cruz, Calif., in the 10,000-25,000 population group.

But the month showed 110 more traffic deaths nationally than January 1957 and about 100,000 disabling injuries occured, the Council estimated. It was the third month in the last 26 months when the total of traffic deaths reported nationally was more than in the corresponding month of the previous year.

State Finances Perk Up,' School Funds OK

TALLAHASSEE — (UPI) — Florida's up-and-down financial situation brightened a little Monday.

The comptroller's office reported it expects to be able to distribute state school funds on schedule for the first time in months.

Ray Higgins, general auditor for the comptroller, reported a cash general revenue balance March 1 of $10,000,000 —the largest in months.

He spent $4,000,000 of it Monday — sending the counties their share of the first proceeds of sales tax collections, and mailing out welfare checks.

He said the big school fund distribution to counties probably will be mailed out next week, in plenty of time to meet deadlines for payment of teacher salaries and other bills.

March is the month when Florida is supposed to recoup and return to a healthy cash condition — after paying back $20,000,000 borrowed from trust funds last year to get by the lean revenue months.

Higgins said the loan will be repaid toward the end of the month, with big automobile license tag receipts which are beginning to flow into the treasury, and anticipated large sales tax collections.

Meanwhile, the financial outlook — a subject of varying degrees of optimism and pessimism — gets a thorough going over here Tuesday afternoon when the Legislative Council's Finance and Taxation Committee meets.

The council's research arm, the Legislative Reference Bureau, will present the lawmakers with a pile of figures to back up its estimate that present taxes will produce no more than $700,000,000 in the next biennium.

Based on this analysis, Chairman B. C. Pearce of Palatka said he does not see how the state can expect to finance the $725,000,000 general spending bill recommended by the cabinet.

The cabinet based its proposed budget on Budget Director Smith's optimistic forecast of revenue between $726,000,000 and $729,000,000.

Smith so far has not backed down on that estimate, despite conflicts with estimates of the reference bureau and Comptroller Ray E. Green.

Green started out with a prediction of $716,000,000, but said he now has revised this downward to $700,000,000, based on the fact that Florida's recovery from recession and last winter's freeze has not been as rapid as anticipated.

Pompano Market Lists Best Month

By CLARENCE ZAITZ
N. Broward Bureau

POMPANO BEACH — Produce sold on the Pompano Beach State Farmers Market in February brought in $3,514,414 — the greatest dollar volume for any month since the start of the season.

Farmers sold 1,078,610 bushels of vegetables for an average price of $3.26 per bushel. That represented a nine-cent increase in the average price per bushel over what the farmers were getting in January.

But the unit price, though highest of the season at $3.26, was still far below the $6.19 average price per bushel paid for produce in February, 1958, when vegetables were scarce because of disastrous weather conditions.

Here's what the vegetable activity was last month:

Beans, 235,964 bushels at an average price of $3.72; peppers, 371,703 bushels, $3.36; cucumbers, 79,058 bushels, $6.99; eggplant, 39,518 bushels, $3.49; squash, 37,854 bushels, $6.12; corn, 32,838 crates, $2.94; tomatoes, 253,313 cartons, $1.15.

2 Vero Men Set To Detect Fallout

VERO BEACH — In the event of an atomic attack Vero Beach now has two men trained and qualified to detect the presence and amount of radioactive fallout, it was announced Monday by L. C. Elliott, Region Two Administrator of the new Federal Aviation Agency (FAA).

Robert A. White and Fred L. King, FAA Airways Operations Specialists in the Air Traffic Communications Station at Vero Beach Municipal Airport have completed an intensive training course at Thomasville, Ga.

The course dealt with the effects of nuclear blasts and how to detect the presence of radioactive fallout with delicate detection instruments.

White and King's training was not only practical, but realistic since as a vital part of the course, highly radioactive isotopes of Cobalt 60 were scattered over a wide area and White and King were required to search for them with a geiger counter.

When White or King discovered the radioactive capsules, they were required to use long tongs to place them in special 250-pound lead shielding containers.

Victor Gardner, Radiological Defense Officer of the Federal Aviation Agency's Region Two, said at the Regional Headquarters in Fort Worth, "White and King proved their ability at radioactive fallout detection and have qualified for a special license issued by the Atomic Energy Commission.

Now that White and King are trained they will help form the hard core of the FAA's Region Two organization of trained experts in the detection of fallout.

Gardner emphasized, "Because FAA people, during an enemy attack, are committed to remain at their stations to furnish traffic control to military planes, the Federal Aviation Agency plans to have trained radiological monitors in every air traffic control facility in the southern United States and the Caribbean by July 1, 1959."

White lives at 2234 18th Avenue and King lives on 44th Avenue.

Peel-Bait Experiment To be Tried

LAKELAND —(UPI)— The Florida citrus industry, seeking new uses for its products, is going to try out orange peel as fish bait.

Florida Citrus Mutual said that its president, Vernon Conner, and General Manager Robert W. Rutledge, will take a fishing trip in Tampa Bay, using orange peel for bait.

If it works at trolling, the bait will be tried out in other forms of fishing, including fresh water.

Mutual noted that the U.S. sport fishing industry turns over a billion dollars annually and that a good part of that is spent for bait and lures.

Retail Men To Explore Schedules

"However, it is the hope of the committee that it may be possible for a major number of merchants, at least in the central business area, to agree upon some basic policies."

FORT LAUDERDALE — President Eisenhower Monday authorized daily flights by a Cuban airline between Havana and Fort Lauderdale.

Robert Chomat, Florida representative for Aerovias Q Airways, said service will start in the "immediate future" and that a definite date may be announced today.

"We want to start right away," Chomat said.

"We'll start with a daily flight, but will increase the service if traffic warrants."

The airline will be the second to offer direct service between Havana and Broward International Airport.

Mackey Airlines inaugurated a daily flight two years ago.

Chomat said Aerovias, founded 13 years ago, will continue its flights between the Cuban capital and West Palm Beach and Key West.

The airline uses 60-passenger DC4 planes.

Richard Niedenthal, assistant manager at Broward International, said Aerovias will share passenger facilities in the new terminal which opened this week.

Nothing new has developed with plans of National and Eastern Airlines to operate at the field, he added.

"They're both interested but have no definite plans," Niedenthal said.

He pointed out that a recent CAB ruling gives National and Eastern the same privileges granted Northeast airlines which inaugurated daily flights to northern cities last December.

Negro Page Boy Begins Classes

WASHINGTON —(AP)— A 14-year-old Chicago Negro boy's dream of entering the congressional page school came true Monday.

James A. Johnson Jr. rose at 4:30 a.m. to make his first class at 6:30, then left the school at 10:30 to report to the office of Rep. Quentin Burdick (D., N.D.).

Burdick is one of five House members who came to young Johnson's aid after a widely publicized mixup earlier this year involving Johnson's reported appointment as a House page boy.

Evans Is Bounced Out Of City Manager Job

E. A. Evans was fired as Miami City Manager Monday by a new majority that developed suddenly on the City Commission.

He was replaced immediately by Ira (Dutch) Willard, former city manager of Coral Gables, who recently entered the banking business.

Voting to remove Evans "as of today" were Otis Shiver, George W. DuBreuil and Mayor Robert King High.

Commissioner James W. High angrily protested the surprise action and announced his immediate resignation from the commission.

Failure to cooperate with Dade's new Metropolitan government was given by Shiver as the reason for Evans' ouster. Shiver made the motion for the firing.

Also asked to leave the city's employ immediately was Assistant City Manager Ray Williams. The veteran employe said he will retire.

Evans took the sudden loss of his $25,000-a-year job calmly.

"I have no hard feelings," he said. "I knew some day this would happen."

Willard immediately accepted the job after he was told of the offer by telephone. He will go to City Hall this morning to take over his new office. His salary will be $18,200 a year.

He said the job was first offered to him two weeks ago. He said he told the commissioners then that he would take it.

Ira Willard
. . . and he's in

The firing came as a surprise, however, even to many City Hall insiders. Up to now Shiver and DuBreuil have voted with a four man majority that included James High and B. E. Hearn.

Like James High, Hearn continued loyal to Evans.

He challenged Shiver's complaint that Evans has been ignoring the wishes of the commission and pursuing his own policies.

"I believe the city manager in every instance," said Hearn, "has carried out the will of this commission."

Shiver charged that Evans was "standing in the way of an orderly transfer of Miami functions to Metro, and that means standing in the way of the wishes of the people."

Last summer Evans was a leader in the Dade League of Municipalities campaign to curb Metro's powers by passage of a proposed "autonomy amendment" to the Metro charter. The City Commission, with the exception of Mayor High, offered no objection when Evans mobilized city employes and equipment to work in the "vote yes" campaign.

Still bitterly opposed to Metro, James High said in making his exit from the commission that it was led by "nitwit theorists with silly, power-grabbing moves."

The commissioner said he will devote his full time between now and the November city election "to making known to the people what has been done here."

"At the end of that time," he added, "I expect to be a candidate for reelection to this commission."

The firing came Monday afternoon when commissioners changed an informal session into an official meeting.

They took no action on High's resignation. Mayor High said it will come up at Wednesday's formal meeting.

Evans sat through the meeting calmly smoking a pipe, with one knee propped against his desk.

After the ouster vote there was an awkward silence. Evans finally broke it.

"I don't know why we are looking so glum," he commented. "Why don't we just smile?"

Before the official meeting was called, Mayor High complained he had been embarrassed earlier in the day when asked by a group of lawyers what Miami was going to do about transferring city traffic courts to Metro, as the court had ordered.

Civilian Heads on Pan in Missile Race

Who decides what missiles research the U.S. will pour its billions into? In today's installment of his series on the great defense debate famed Reporter Bob Considine puts the spotlight on a little-known but powerful official in weapons development.

By BOB CONSIDINE
Herald Columnist

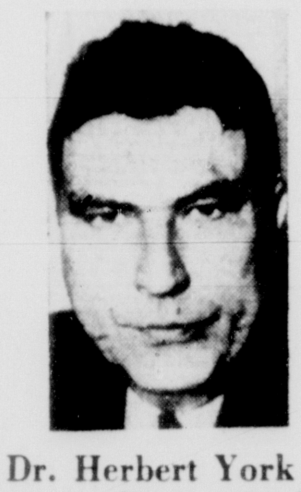
The position of the U.S. at this time has been likened to that of a man crossing a rocky ford in a stream, daring not to take his weight entirely off one foot until he is sure that the other foot is on solid ground.

We are in some cases haltingly and other cases feverishly changing our military retaliation reliance from manned bombers to missiles. Articulate members of the Democratic Congress believe that many aspects of the Eisenhower administration's defense problem are being bungled now or have been in the past.

But no other segment has come under more fire than that part of the setup which must compete with the Soviet Union's unquestionably brilliant rocket developers. We were caught with our Sputniks down on Oct. 4, 1957, and despite a tremendous awakening to Russia's scientific and engineering prowess we have yet to catch up.

The task of getting the U.S. abreast of or preferably ahead of Russian missile wizardry was complicated until the 1958 Reorganization Act. There were conflicting and competing groups, not to mention jealousies and the fanning of the dead embers of old inter-service rivalries.

As outlined by Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy before the House Armed Services Committee last Feb. 2, here is where the breath-taking authority rests:



Dr. Herbert York
. . . directs research

"A Director of Defense Research and Engineering, Dr. Herbert York, has been appointed with the mission to assure that all scientific and technological resources of the Department of Defense are put to the best possible use.

"The Director of Defense Research and Engineering will supervise and coordinate all Department of Defense research and engineering programs. He will be responsible for providing effective leadership, eliminating unnecessary duplication, encouraging basic research, and developing an integrated research and development program covering all operational needs."

Answerable to Dr. York is all the work and thinking of the Advance Research Projects Agency, headed by Roy Johnson. Dr. York has veto power over ARPA's spatial brain-children. The same is true of his office's control over William Holaday's Guided Missiles Operation, and missiles heads of each service.

U.S. Set For Fight On Berlin

We're Ready, McElroy Says

By Herald Wire Services

WASHINGTON — U.S. military forces are ready to back up President Eisenhower's avowed determination to stand fast on American rights in Berlin, Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy told Congress Monday.

"We think we have a definite offensive superiority over the Russians at this time," McElroy said in discussing the situation with the House Space Committee.

While voicing doubt the Russians want to start a war, the Pentagon chief told the congressmen "we are prepared to meet various stages of the Berlin situation as it develops." Then he added:

"We are prepared to make good on the statement of the President that we will not yield one inch on our rights in Berlin."

McElroy said there are no plans now to mobilize because of the deepening crisis over Russia's campaign to force the U.S. and other Allied powers out of Berlin, 110 miles inside Communist-held territory.

Mobilization steps have been suggested in Congress in recent days, and Rep. James Fulton (R., Pa.) raised the issue again Monday. He asked McElroy if this country has adequate protection for a firm position on Berlin and "if not, should we mobilize in whole or in part?"

"We don't regard that as being required at this time," McElroy replied.

BOCA RATON — Joseph De Long was elected mayor by fellow city commissioners Monday. William Herbold was elected first vice mayor and Al Rueb second vice mayor.

De Long, a 54-year-old former secretary of the Civil Service Commission, paced the field in the Feb. 17 general election. Herbold and Rueb ran two-three in the balloting for three commsision seats.

Following the swearing-in ceremonies and election, the newly constituted commission re-appointed Leon F. Weaver as city attorney and P. J. Brannen Jr. as municipal judge.

Also appointed were Jacob Heidt as city clerk and treasurer and James Gibson as tax assessor-collector. Herbert Kennedy received appointment as finance officer.

With the appointment of Heidt and Gibson, City Manager William Lamb got rid of four of his many jobs, but retained his post as budget officer. Heidt had been serving as acting clerk and Gibson as deputy assessor.

The retiring commission wound up its business at a biref session, preceeding the organizational meeting. Harold Dane and John Flancher stepped down as mayor and vice mayor to take their places as commissioners on the five-member board.

Bowing out completely were John L. Shores, Paul Debout Jr. and Harold Turner.

But No Damage Done

Minute-Long Quake Hits San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO — (UPI) — A long, rolling earthquake which alternately swelled and diminished for more than a minute, struck earthquake-conscious San Francisco late Monday.

The temblor hit the city and surrounding areas at 6:29 p.m. Miami time. The University of California seismographic office at Berkeley, Calif., said the quake registered a magnitude of 5.5 on the Richter scale.

The quake, it said, was centered 65 miles northwest of Berkeley, which would put it near Santa Rosa, but residents of that area said they barely felt the shock. There were no immediate reports of damage.

In southern California, the California Institute of Technology at Pasadena reported the temblor registered 4.5 on the Richter scale, a full point lower than what was registered at Berkeley. There was no immediate explanation for the discrepancy in the readings.

Telephone service was sporadically disrupted throughout the Bay area by overloading calls from anxious residents calling schools — where their children were still in class—relatives, and the police department.

Reports of the temblor came from as far south as Salinas, Calif., some 100 miles from San Francisco, and from San Rafael, a suburb 20 miles to the north.

A San Rafael housewife said the quake sounded like "truck gears" engaging.

A passenger in a downtown office building elevator said the car "banged against the shaft walls" and the lifting cables slapped to and fro as the shock hit the building.

The quake was felt "strongly" in the east Bay where residents called police in San Leandro, Oakland and Berkeley.

However, residents in Daly City, just south of San Francisco, said they felt nothing, although their city sits smack on top of the San Andreas Fault, which has caused most of San Francisco's major quakes.

Oakland police said they had some 1,500 calls within a few minutes. San Francisco's police switchboard was so jammed with calls it was impossible to reach city officials immediately by phone.

The quake struck at 3:29 with a strong swaying motion, then diminished and swelled with a sharper, stronger tremor some 30 seconds later. Intensity of the quake compared with the one which caused millions of dollars in damage on March 22, 1957. That quake also had a magnitude of 5.5.

Ministers' Parley Is Accepted

Nikita Recants On Berlin Talks

By Herald Wire Services

MOSCOW — Russia reversed itself Monday and conditionally agreed to a foreign ministers' conference on the Berlin crisis in notes that warned that the German issue could cause war "a hundred times more serious" than all past conflicts.

Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev withdrew his rejection of the Western plan for a foreign ministers' meeting after pleas from Britain's visiting Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

The Soviet note handed to the ambassadors of the U.S., Britain, France and West Germany urged a summit conference as having "the greatest chance" of success.

But if the West "is not ready" for that, the Russians agreed to a ministerial-level parley on one condition: Inclusion of Poland and Czechoslovakia.

The Western proposal which Khrushchev rejected verbally last Tuesday called for a Big Four foreign ministers' meeting. Russia wants the two Communist nations included to give the Eastern bloc numerical balance. East and West Germany also would attend and have "active participation" in the talks.

(In Bonn, West German official sources said the government will oppose the presence of Poland and Czechoslovakia at a conference.)

The Soviets suggested a meeting of "not more than two or three months" which would begin next month at Geneva or Vienna. The West also has proposed such a time and choice of places.

Western diplomats said the proposal for two or three months of negotiation starting in April shows the Soviet Union has long since scrapped May 27 as an absolute deadline for settlement of the West Berlin question.

They pointed out that since Khrushchev set the original date, Soviet officials both here and abroad — including Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan in the U. S. — have reiterated that no deadline exists and that the proposal contains no ultimatum.

However, the note stressed again that Russia intends to hand over control of the Berlin lifelines to the East Germans by May 27.

It warned the West that any attempt to use "tanks or avia-

Premier Khrushchev was having tea with some students when he suddenly turned to one of them and demanded:

"Who wrote 'Anna Karenina?' "

Stammered the terrified student: "I didn't write her, sir, honest I didn't."

The next day Khrushchev related this incident to Gen. Ivan Serov, recently deposed security boss. Later in the day Serov reported back to Khrushchev:

"You know that young man you were telling me about? Well, I have news for you. After questioning him for two-and-one-half hours I've gotten his written confession that he did write 'Anna Karenina!' "

AF Hints Discoverer May Have Hit Orbit

'Random' Signals Reported

INGLEWOOD, Calif. — (UPI) — The Air Force in a cautiously worded statement announced Monday that the "lost" 1,300-pound satellite Discoverer I is apparently circling the earth every 96 minutes in a polar orbit.

Preliminary studies indicated the 19-foot-long satellite's life would be in excess of one month, the Air Force said.

The satellite was blasted into the heavens Saturday afternoon at Vandenberg Air Force Base to become the first satellite launched on the West Coast.

Its fate remained in doubt for nearly 32 hours because of an apparent radio failure before the Air Force's Ballistic Missile Division (BMD) here broke the suspense by releasing a guarded statement Sunday night reporting the reception of "random" radio signals.

A BMD spokesman explained the difficulty the Air Force was having in determining whether the Discoverer I actually achieved orbit.

"We are not saying that it definitely is in orbit, neither can we say that it is not, at this point," the spokesman said. "We don't feel that we will definitely know an orbit has been achieved until we have tracked it by radar, obtained a visual sighting or received more definite radio signals.

"Until that time, we can say only that information 'tends' to confirm, not definitely confirm, an orbit."

The Discoverer shot was the initial launching in "Project Discoverer," a program designed to lead eventually the way into space for man. Another shot in the project already was being readied for 30 days hence.

Anti-Missile Defense Years Away--McElroy

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy said Monday the time when the U.S. will have a defense against ballistic missiles is some years away.

Even then there is no assurance the defense can stop more than a modest number of ICBM's launched in a mass attack, he said.

McElroy was quizzed by the House Space Committee in the row over his turndown of an Army request to put into production the Army's Nike-Zeus, a missile-and-radar system designed to knock down intercontinental missiles.

McElroy said the Nike-Zeus is getting the highest national priority in its development but his best scientific advice has been that the weapon is not ready for production.

Until there is a missile defense, McElroy said, the U.S. protection lies in its strike-back power — a deterrent aimed at discouraging a potential aggressor from starting a war in the first place.

Western Refusal Is Seen

Red Proposal Has 2 Flaws

See Story, P. 1A

By WILLIAM J. JORDEN
The New York Times Service

WASHINGTON — Western diplomats found little in the latest Soviets notes on the German problem to encourage hope for any easy, quick solution.

The only encouragement they could find in their first reading of the long messages from Moscow was that the Russians had kept the door open for possible negotiations.

Diplomatic sources here indicated the West almost certainly will reject the proposal for the kind of conference of foreign ministers that Moscow advanced Monday. It was assumed that rejection would be the diplomatic initiative to the Kremlin.

Diplomats here found two fundamental objections to the Soviet position:

First, they noted, the Russians have indicated a willingness to discuss only those problems Moscow deems important — making West Berlin a "free city" and arranging a peace treaty with a divided Germany.

Second, Moscow wants to add two Communist states, Poland and Czechoslovakia, to the roster of conference participants. The Western position is that only nations with an internationally recognized "special interest" in Germany — the Soviet Union, Great Britain, France and the U.S. — should make basic decisions on Germany, with the advice of the Germans themselves, both Communist and non-Communist.

Western counter-proposals can be expected to concentrate on these points. The West can be expected to argue that if they are willing to discuss problems raised by the Russians, the latter cannot expect to rule out matters the Western allies consider important.

On the question of participation, experts here doubt the West will rule out the presence of other states. It would argue, however, that expansion of a conference should not be confined to Communist countries Moscow wants in, while ignoring others, and that to include all nations with an interest in Germany would make a conference unwieldy and unnecessarily complicated.

Headley's Days Numbered As Chief, Mayor High Says

By JUANITA GREENE
Herald Staff Writer

Walter Headley won't be Miami's police chief much longer, Mayor Robert King High predicted after Monday's surprise shakeup in city politics.

"There will be a lot of changes in the old brass at the police department," the youthful mayor said.

"As for Chief Headley himself," he added, "I would expect him to resign."

The police department has been the principal target of Mayor High. But until Monday he got no support in his demands for a cleanup from the other four commissioners.

High's sudden support from two commissioners from what was formerly a four-man majority on the commission is expected to have other significant repercussions.

Votes by High, Otis Shiver and George DuBreuil are expected to lead to:

THE TRANSFERENCE soon of all traffic cases from city courts to Metro courts.

THE FIRING, or resignation, of General Edward (Bo)Barber as a $9,000-a-year administrative assistant. He was hired by Evans as a "troubleshooter."

THE FIRING, transfer, or resignation of many other oldtimers in the police department and other city departments.

In uneasy positions are City Engineer Arthur Darlow, City Building Department Director Ellis Knox, and Slum Clearance Director Francis Kelly.

THE END of what Mayor High called "petty resistance to Metro auto inspection in the City of Miami."

High was emphatic in his predictions about changes in the police department.

"Since I've been in office (a year and a half)," he said, "Evans and Headley have ridiculed any efforts to clean up organized rackets."

"I predict," he said, "a new attitude among the high brass at the police department."

The mayor has been particularly critical of what he called "wide open bolita peddling." From time to time he has toured the city and bought bolita tickets, and confronted Evans and Headley with the evidence.

Until Monday, however, Shiver and DuBreuil have sided with Commissioners James High and B. E. Hearn in supporting Evans and his claim that there was nothing seriously wrong in the police department setup.

In forecasting other changes in personnel, High said he was sure Barber, an old Army friend of Evans', will not be around long.

"The days of the generals are over," he declared.

This Man Willard Is Metro's Friend

By DOM BONAFEDE
Herald Staff Writer

Miami's new city manager, Ira F. Willard promised close cooperation between the city and Metropolitan government in his first statement upon being named to the post.

"Metro is here to stay," Willard commented. "A close working agreement with the city and Metro is necessary to best serve the people."

He added he is not thinking of making any changes in department heads "at the present."

The annual salary of the new city manager was put at $18,200, compared to $25,000 received by his predecessor, E. A. Evans.

Willard disclosed that he was first approached about the job about two weeks ago by Mayor Robert King High.

"Mayor High asked if I'd be interested and I told him I would be if there was a vacancy.

"He called again last weekend to confirm it and I told him the same thing."

Willard, called "Dutch" by his acquaintances, was appointed city manager of Coral Gables in May, 1956, after having served in the same capacity at Alexandria, Va., for four years. Prior to that he was city manager of Hopewell, Va.

He resigned the Coral Gables post three months ago to accept an executive position as director of new business development with the Sottile banking group.

Unlike many city managers, who come from the ranks of academic engineers, Willard is a former practicing attorney. He completed pre-law studies at the University of South Carolina in 1934 and obtained his law degree from Southeastern University, Washington, D.C., in 1938.

In 1941 he joined the U.S. Army as a lieutenant. He was honorably discharged as a lieutenant colonel in 1946.

Willard, 47, and his wife, Mary, have four children. They live at 902 Catalonia Ave., Coral Gables.

During his tenure at Coral Gables, Willard established a reputation as one of the most astute city managers in the country.

He was frequently mentioned as a candidate for the position of county manager.

Willard said Monday he had no hesitancy about accepting the Miami job.

"I'm very honored. I'll do my very best to be a success," he said.

He said he expects to start work at Dinner Key City Hall immediately.

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaya—(UPI)—Juke box operators scratched a candidate for the hit parade Monday under government pressure.

The government advised them it was in poor taste to have the Negara Ku— The Malayan National Anthem—listed under "hit tunes."

The record, played by a police band, was getting a good whirl by non-rock 'n' roll enthusiasts.

Council Hears From Nugent

Lake Park Zone Bribe Offer 'Has No Basis,' Probe Shows

Report Is Read For The Council

By ED PFISTER
WPB Bureau Chief

LAKE PARK — A reported "bribe" offer to Mayor Frederick D. Freed to push through a change in zoning, was shrugged off by the Town Commission Monday night as "without basis in fact."

County Solicitor Charles A. Nugent had earlier reached the same conclusion, and reported he had found no evidence of wrongdoing.

It was a letter from Nugent to Commissioner C. B. Root—explaining an investigation he had dropped and absolving the mayor — that brought the question before the commission meeting.

Root opened the disucssion by saying there had been a lot of talk about the "so-called bribe" and said he thought it ought to be cleared up.

Mayor Fred asked the commissioner if he had received a letter from Nugent, and when Root said he had, Freed asked him to read it to the meeting.

The letter repeated Nugent's earlier statement that he had found no indication of any wrongdoing and had dropped the inquiry into the purported bribe attempt after questioning five persons.

Root said he understood Mayor Freed had mentioned the bribe offer to former Commissioner Kenneth Stone, and Freed said he had — to Stone and one other person. But, he said, it was their view at the time that the "offer" appeared to be "just conversation and nothing that could be proved," that it should be dropped.

The mayor hinted the approach of the city election "might have caused some persons to become interested" in a matter he regarded as "closed."

That's the way the commission accepted it.

Nugent's inquiry was launched when it was reported an ex-convict — since sent back to prison — had sought to obtain valuable zoning commissions through a bribe offer.

In Lake Worth

City's Water Line Police Protested

Herald Bureau

LAKE WORTH — Joseph A. Peel Jr. well known attorney who ceased practicing law in West Palm Beach a year ago, made a surprise appearance before the city commission here Monday night.

His appearance was in the role of a spokesman for the H. I. R. Bldg. Co. and had to do with the extension of water service from Lake Worth to homes Peel and his colleagues are building outside the city.

Peel protested the city policy which extends the lines only to the limits of a subdivision, leaving it up to the developers to pipe the water into the homes.

He protested that his organization consists of builders, not developers, and because the company is buying lots as it builds houses it is a burden to extend lines throughout the area where the homes are built.

Much of the situation, it appeared, developed from a misunderstnading. Peel's firm, the commission decided, had laid six .. inch pipes where only two pipes were needed.

The commission set up a meeting with Lake Clarke Shores on March 20 to discuss the extension of water lises to that subdivision.

The city decided to extend its own water lines to a treatment plant through the use of municipal crews rather than layout $17,000 for the project.

March Is Like A Lion

WEST PALM BEACH — Yankee visitors who swear by that old saying that "When March comes in like a lion, it goes out like a lamb," probably had some reason for knowingly nodding their heads Monday.

You'd hardly call the weather that dipped into the Palm Beaches Sunday lionlike, but it did scratch in spots like a lion cub, dropping the mercury to the low sixties.

In fact, Monday morning the thermometer at the U.S. Weather Bureau here registered a low of 49 degrees. The mercury climbed to 67 during the day, was to dip back to 50 early today and then crawl back up again to 73.

Only thing that might mar the situation thereafter is another cool spell, which might make itself felt about Wednesday.

PB Gives Pledge To Martin

Herald Bureau

WEST PALM BEACH — Palm Beach County commissioners took the first step toward mapping out a county road program Monday, and in other business agreed to cooperate with Martin County in extending Pratt and Whitney Rd.

Commissioner Kenneth Foster called for a study to determine how the county can finance a program to improve and build county roads.

The county now has on tap a 20-year program for primary and secondary roads.

Commissioners agreed to the study. They also agreed to extend Pratt and Whitney Rd. one mile to the Martin County line. The construction will be financed out of District 1 road funds.

Martin County commissioners appearing in person said they will obtain the right-of-way if Palm Beach County builds the one-mile link.

The road now terminates at Indiantown Rd. Martin County officials called the extension of the road "vital to our economy."

Haverhill Finds Plan Unpopular

Herald Bureau

WEST PALM BEACH — There were indications Monday night legislators will be flooded with protests against suburban Haverhill's plan to annex 2,500 acres south and west of the town.

About 500 attended a meeting called by Haverhill, to discuss the proposed annexation, and most objected.

Object of the meeting was to determine if the town should ask for an enabling act from the Legislature to authorize annexation.

A petition, bearing 750 signatures, opposing annexation, was presented to Jack Evans and Robert Foster, representing Haverhill.

The opposition was unorganized, and even asked the town attorneys how to oppose the plan.

They were told the best thing would be to appear at the March 20 legislative clinic and express their sentiments.

Evans said the hearing was for hearing opinions of people living in the annexation area.

Earthquakes, Too

Parching Period In Store for Us

By ROSE ALLEGATO
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE WORTH — It might sound kind of cloudy to you. But give Ed Pintar 10 minutes of your time and a pencil, and he'll explain.

Pintar, that self-fashioned weatherman who called the turn on last year's cold wave, is at it again.

This time the retired Michigan man, who winters in Lake Worth, predicts that when June starts busting out all over it'll bring the first signs of a three-year drought.

He bases his forecasts on "astro magnetic principles," and his weather bulletin covers every day in the year — in advance. His advance predictions for a whole year makes the weather bureau look like a piker with only a five-day forecast.

But don't get Pintar started on the weather bureau.

"They're all wet," he says. Back to the drought.

Saturn will be moving across the U.S., and as it moves, it will bring a drought to areas east of the Mississippi., Pintar explains, pencil in hand. ("I can't talk without a pencil.") He says the entire U.S. will feel the impact of this dry spell.

He also has something to say about earthquakes. And in barely a week, we will know whether he's right or wrong.

He predicts that at noon, March 9, earthquakes will rock an area near the Aleutian Islands, parts of Central Africa, Honduras, Nicaragua, and parts of South America.

It's his first attempt at forecasting quakes — something the weather bureau doesn't do at all. So far he has only doped out those for new and full moon periods.

The "astro magnetic" principles Pintar uses for his forecasting are, he says, the type of "magnetic impulses emanating from the sun and moon" which cause tide changes.

In Pintar's system, whenever Mars, or heavy planets, are in opposition, or in conjunction, with the new moon or full moon, there's weather trouble afoot. You don't understand? Don't let it bother you.

Pintar says, "it's very complicated."

Late March will also bring earthquakes off Alaska near the Russian Coast. In April, Chile, Columbia and Nova Scotia are in for some earth trembles. All, of course, according to Pintar's forecast.

Pintar has been at his weather forecasting for three years now — ever since he retired from the merchandising field.

Oh, yes, in case you're interested, it'll be a white Christmas in 1959 in most sections of the U.S. except, of course, the Deep South.

No Records Of Lands, Mayor Says

By BILL BECK
Delray Bureau Chief

BOYNTON BEACH — Mayor James J. Mahoney charged Monday the city "does not know what it owns" in the way of property. "We have no records to show what land is owned, or was bought or sold by the city in the last 10 years," Mahoney said.

The lack of records came to light, the mayor said, when state and city auditors requested a list of municipal properties. The commission authorized the city attorney to go back as far as 1939 in making an abstract of all property owned, or formerly owned, by the city.

Mahoney also said a check of old municipal records revealed checks to the city for $800 and $750, more than five years old, which had never been cashed.

His disclosure followed a vote to retain the firm of Bateman and Jeffries to audit the books for the this fiscal year.

Just last month the city hired the same firm to audit the last fiscal year.

Grand Jury Indicts 5

Herald Bureau

WEST PALM BEACH — The spring Grand Jury came up with a 100 per cent average for its first day of deliberations Monday.

With three murder and two rape cases placed before it, the jury returned true bills in all five.

The return was made to Circuit Judge Joseph S. White approximately eight hours after he swore in and instructed the new panel.

The indictments returned were:

Major Bo Martin, Delray Beach Negro, for the gunshot slaying of his wife; Charles Palmer, Pahokee, for the knife killing of James William Best Jr.; James Ward, for the gunshot slaying of Eddie Lee Dudley in Belle Glade.

Robert E. Longwell, West Gate, and George Davis, West Palm Beach, on charges of rape.

Dinner on the Ground Flushed Them

Spirits in Pisgah's Pulpit!

TALLAHASSEE — (AP) — "Build your church from a firm foundation" advised the speaker at services conducted at a little church in the wildwood.

But the speaker, Sam Teague Jr., said 200 gallons of moonshine whisky found later concealed beneath the pulpit of the old Pisgah Methodist Church wasn't what he had in mind.

The cache was uncovered Sunday when a small boy crawled beneath the building to locate some tables for the monthly dinner on the grounds.

Sheriff's deputies, summoned by Teague over his newly-installed automobile telephone, later nabbed two men who returned to the church and loaded part of the whisky.

The two, Jerry E. Reeves, 27, and Steve A. Edward Jr., 25, of Crawfordville, were charged with moving and concealing moonshine whisky.

The congregation of the church helped in the arrests. They disbanded after the discovery and the two deputies waited in an outdoor building four hours before making the arrests.

The church, located in an isolated area in the northern part of the county, is celebrating its 100th anniversary.

The Rev. James Farr reported that he had noted two strange men driving away when he arrived at the church grounds Sunday morning for services. But he said they appeared friendly and waved to him as they drove off.

It's Little Things That Gain Friends

By ROSE ALLEGATO

PALM BEACH — Take a tip. Never touch a Siamese on his head. It isn't polite.

For that matter, don't rub shoulders with him. This, too, is rude.

Absurd?

Not to Princess Rudivoravan of Siam, who spoke on "East and West Can Meet," before the Palm Beach Round Table Monday afternoon.

These "little things," she said, count very much in building better relations — in East meeting West.

"If we respect others' traditions and religions, we can meet as human beings," she told her capacity audience in the orange garden of the Everglades Club.

She urged them to observe the "little things" — like not touching the head or shoulder of a Siamese citizen. And not sitting on a book either.

"The people of Thailand," she said, "have a great respect for education. They won't sit on a book. 'Til this day I won't even sit on a telephone book."

The princess, granddaughter of Anna's King of Siam — King Mongkut, now lives in Washington, D.C., where she broadcasts for "The Voice of America." She is the author of "The Treasured One."

She was schooled in England and then returned to the grand palace in Bangkok, where she lived until her marriage.

Dressed in a gayly-colored aqua Siamese dress, the youthful looking grandmother said everything America, or an American does, is noted.

Carrying out her East-and-West-can-meet theme, she suggested Americans "get acquainted with the ways" of the East and "learn a little of their language."

Since 1935, she explained, men of Siam have not been allowed more than one legal wife. Her father, in his day, had several.

"But he treated them all the same. He didn't have a head wife. He was very democratic, you see," she quipped.

Boat Ramp By-Passed By Board

By NORVAN ROGGEN
Herald Staff Writer

WEST PALM BEACH — The Cty Commission Monday, in effect, passed over the question of building a boat ramp at the foot of Summa St., and turned its attention to a site north of Southern Blvd. bridge.

There was some action at the meeting, however, on the Summa St. location. Residents of the area dropped into the lap of City Commission a petition, with 259 signatures, opposing construction of a ramp there.

The board simply, received the petition and filed it.

Attention focused on the Southern Blvd. bridge area when the board agreed with a proposal by Commissioner Perry McCampbell to poll boat owners to determine how many favored that location.

To spur action, the board agreed to meet with the County Commission and Palm Beach Town Council to determine if the three could cooperate on the Southern Blvd. location.

The County commission would be asked to spearhead the project, but the city fathers took view use of present boat ramps made a contribution from the municipality justified.

A proposal by Commissioner L. W. Kelloway to change the name of West Palm Beach to "Palm Beach City" failed to get anywhere.

Commissioners agreed any change could be made only if a referendum were held, but the board took no action.

The commission also:

AUTHORIZED the mayor to sign an agreement with Ira Haupt Co. to handle preparations for sale of bonds for a proposed downtown off-street parking plan.

SUPPORTED a request the Palm Beach County legislative delegation support a proposed act for child care centers.

POSTPONED until next week action on a resolution authorizing the mayor to sign an agreement to certain amendments to the Perini-Westward Developer's contract.

State Finances Perk Up,' School Funds OK

TALLAHASSEE — (UPI) — Florida's up-and-down financial situation brightened a little Monday.

The comptroller's office reported it expects to be able to distribute state school funds on schedule for the first time in months.

Ray Higgins, general auditor for the comptroller, reported a cash general revenue balance March 1 of $10,000,000 —the largest in months.

He spent $4,000,000 of it Monday — sending the counties their share of the first proceeds of sales tax collections, and mailing out welfare checks.

He said the big school fund distribution to counties probably will be mailed out next week, in plenty of time to meet deadlines for payment of teacher salaries and other bills.

March is the month when Florida is supposed to recoup and return to a healthy cash condition — after paying back $20,000,000 borrowed from trust funds last year to get by the lean revenue months.

Higgins said the loan will be repaid toward the end of the month, with big automobile license tag receipts which are beginning to flow into the treasury, and anticipated large sales tax collections.

Meanwhile, the financial outlook — a subject of varying degrees of optimism and pessimism — gets a thorough going over here Tuesday afternoon when the Legislative Council's Finance and Taxation Committee meets.

The council's research arm, the Legislative Reference Bureau, will present the lawmakers with a pile of figures to back up its estimate that present taxes will produce no more than $700,000,000 in the next biennium.

Based on this analysis, Chairman B. C. Pearce of Palatka said he does not see how the state can expect to finance the $725,000,000 general spending bill recommended by the cabinet.

The cabinet based its proposed budget on Budget Director Smith's optimistic forecast of revenue between $726,000,000 and $729,000,000.

Smith so far has not backed down on that estimate, despite conflicts with estimates of the reference bureau and Comptroller Ray E. Green.

Green started out with a prediction of $716,000,000, but said he now has revised this downward to $700,000,000, based on the fact that Florida's recovery from recession and last winter's freeze has not been as rapid as anticipated.

No Relief Forecast

Chill Lingers On -In Orange Prices

By ERWIN POTTS
Herald Staff Writer

HOLLYWOOD — There's no relief in sight for the housewife who's finding the soaring price of oranges upsetting her grocery budget.

While citrus fruit orchards are well thawed out from last year's freeze, citrus prices are still feeling the chill.

Though the Department of Agriculture predicted lower citrus prices during the first half of this year, local growers and retailers shiver at the thought.

"Prices of oranges are up from about $3.00 a box to $3.25 and $3.50 a box off the tree," said William Wood, general manager of Flamingo Groves in nearby Davie.

"And they'll probably go even higher," he added.

Wood said the increase in the wholesale price will mean a rise of about 20 per cent for the housewife who buys a bag of oranges at the grocery store.

But a wholesale buyer for a local supermarket presented an even more dismal picture.

"We're getting 59 cents for a dozen oranges today. Five or six weeks ago it was 39 cents a dozen," he said.

"Grapefruit is up from 10 for 29 cents five weeks ago, to 10 for 49 cents today."

Citrus people attribute the rising prices to the 1957-58 freeze, which put the industry in a hole it hasn't been able to climb out of.

"Florida will produce 80 million boxes of oranges this year," said one grower. "But that's about 45 million short of the demand.

"I don't expect they'll catch up with the demand for a couple of years."

He explained that, while Davie growers were not hard hit by the freeze, the citrus industry as a whole was, and the higher prices are a result of the statewide demand.

Florida Citrus Mutual, a growers co-op in Lakeland, issued a statement claiming "right now all citrus prices are higher than the average for the past 10 years."

Retail Men To Explore Schedules

Herald Service

VERO BEACH — Store hours, a holiday schedule and special sales events will be included in the discussion when the Retail Division of the Vero Beach Chamber of Commerce meets at 8 p.m. today at the chamber building.

All Chamber of Commerce members engaged in retail business are invited by George Loy Jr., division chairman, to attend and take part in the discussion.

"It is realized that the retail field is widely diversified, so that patterns of practice must be adapted to meet the varying business requirements," Loy said. Locations such as the Beach and outlying areas also need special consideration.

"However, it is the hope of the committee that it may be possible for a major number of merchants, at least in the central business area, to agree upon some basic policies."

2 Vero Men Set To Detect Fallout

VERO BEACH — In the event of an atomic attack Vero Beach now has two men trained and qualified to detect the presence and amount of radioactive fallout, it was announced Monday by L. C. Elliott, Region Two Administrator of the new Federal Aviation Agency (FAA).

Robert A. White and Fred L. King, FAA Airways Operations Specialists in the Air Traffic Communications Station at Vero Beach Municipal Airport have completed an intensive training course at Thomasville, Ga.

The course dealt with the effects of nuclear blasts and how to detect the presence of radioactive fallout with delicate detection instruments.

White and King's training was not only practical, but realistic since as a vital part of the course, highly radioactive isotopes of Cobalt 60 were scattered over a wide area and White and King were required to search for them with a geiger counter.

When White or King discovered the radioactive capsules, they were required to use long tongs to place them in special 250-pound lead shielding containers.

Victor Gardner, Radiological Defense Officer of the Federal Aviation Agency's Region Two, said at the Regional Headquarters in Fort Worth, "White and King proved their ability at radioactive fallout detection and have qualified for a special license issued by the Atomic Energy Commission.

Now that White and King are trained they will help form the hard core of the FAA's Region Two organization of trained experts in the detection of fallout.

Gardner emphasized, "Because FAA people, during an enemy attack, are committed to remain at their stations to furnish traffic control to military planes, the Federal Aviation Agency plans to have trained radiological monitors in every air traffic control facility in the southern United States and the Caribbean by July 1, 1959."

White lives at 2234 18th Avenue and King lives on 44th Avenue.

Peel-Bait Experiment To be Tried

LAKELAND —(UPI)— The Florida citrus industry, seeking new uses for its products, is going to try out orange peel as fish bait.

Florida Citrus Mutual said that its president, Vernon Conner, and General Manager Robert W. Rutledge, will take a fishing trip in Tampa Bay, using orange peel for bait.

If it works at trolling, the bait will be tried out in other forms of fishing, including fresh water.

Mutual noted that the U.S. sport fishing industry turns over a billion dollars annually and that a good part of that is spent for bait and lures.

Chevalier Wows All With Imitations

PALM BEACH—Still the playboy of Paris, Maurice (The Magnificent) is also good will ambassdaor from La Belle, France to Palm Beach, Miami, or wherehaveyou.

Mary Howes brought the famous comedian to Palm Beach Sunday night as the second in her Sunday evening series of great players. An audience that overflowed the Four Arts Auditorium gave him a tumultuous welcome.

From the same stage where great thinkers have often thrown out banners of words settling world problems, Maurice Chevalier tossed his gay, bright hued confetti.

Wearing an electric blue suit and black bow tie, he sang and danced to excellent piano accompaniment, told jokes, and, what came as the biggest surprise, he gave hilarious imitations and impressions. His pantomime was perfect. He can shade his voice and twist his face in the most delightful fashion.

In one original sketch called accents politiques, he gave his impressions of statesmen of varying nationalities speaking over TV to their countrymen.

In his caricature of President Eisenhower he even managed to look like his model and sound like him too. His takeoff on a German and a Chinese statesmen were also classics. In all these spoofs he never spoke an intelligible word — just wonderful abracadabra. His message was clearly understood.

He sang "Thank Heaven for Little Girls," and in singing "Fascination," from "Love in the Afternoon," he explained that it had been a well loved melody in France at the turn of the century.

"And I played the onkle of Oudray Hepburn, not the loafer," he moaned. "The loafer was Gary Cooper. Oh well - -" and a French shrug shrugged off the matter of passing years.

Next on Mary Howes' series is Katharine Cornell and Brian Aherne in "Dear Liar," based on the intimate correspondence of Mrs. Patrick Campbell and Bernard Shaw. That's coming March 14-16.

City Sets Deal For Water

Herald Bureau

STUART—Water for Hutchinson Island came a bit nearer reality recently when the Stuart city commission agreed to enter into negotiations with the Florida Water and Utilities Co. to sell water at wholesale.

The commission, within 45 days, will present a proposal to the water company setting forth minimum and maximum costs of wholesale water and other conditions.

Black & Associates of Gainesville are working with the commission on the proposal. The city was granted a water franchise from the county several years ago.

At the time the new bridges were constructed water pipe hangers were placed on the bridge.

A new subdivision regulations and plat law was finally passed by the commission, after years of study and requests that such an ordinance be passed.

The commission repealed all setback regulations in commercial one and two zoning areas, and adopted one ordinance covering C-1 and C-2.

The commission will also continue negotiations with Kenneth Harris, owner of the Commodore Hotel, to purchase a lot for offstreet parking.

February Was Very Crowded

UPPER KEYS — The short month of February will be remembered for many social activities, bulging hotels, busy restaurants and prize catches of fish. The weather, which couldn't have been better, added to smiles of both residents and visitors. Reports say reservations through March are heavy.

Saturday was packed with dates. We were sorry to have missed Peggy and Ralph Smith's al fresco party at their Key Largo Beach lighthouse area. We hear the barbecue, libations and good company were perfect in the beautiful ocean setting.

Following the selllout barbecue at Tavernier Fire House, requests were made for another in March. So far a date has not been set.

There will be one of those special barbecues, however, at this same fire house and it is a St. Patrick's Day dinner by the San Pedro Altar Society. No corned beef and cabbage this year. The gals will serve the popular Keys ribs and chicken on March 14 from 5-8 p.m. Peggy Frins, secretary of the society, says she hopes you'll remember the date.

Bill to Allow Coloring of Oranges Blocked

Measure Held Up In House

Action Delayed Until March 16

More State News P. 1B, 2B

WASHINGTON — Final congressional action on a bill to permit coloring of Florida and Texas oranges was held up in the House Monday by a technicality — and indirectly by an objection.

The bill was passed over without prejudice until the next consent calendar day, March 16, because the House Commerce Committee, along with its favorable report on the bill, sent to the House the original bill approved by a Senate committee rather than the bill actually passed by the Senate with amendments.

Chairman Oren Harris of the House Commerce Committee obtained approval for the measure to be recommitted to the committee so that the proper Senate bill could be attached to the House committee's favorable report.

Rep. James Delaney (D., N.Y.) had informed Rep. James Haley (D., Fla.), the bill's sponsor, that he would object to it. This alone would have caused the bill to be passed over for two weeks.

The clerk of the House Commerce Committee told a reporter Harris probably would ask the House Rules Committee to send the bill to the House floor promptly, thus removing it from the consent calendar.

He said there is an urgency in getting action on this measure because a law permitting the coloring of oranges expired Feb. 28. This will make Florida and Texas growers wait until Congress acts before they can color oranges to be shipped to market.

As a result of Monday's House action, Florida and Texas growers cannot color oranges with dye.

Rep. Haley, conceding it is a legal question, said he believes growers could ship oranges now which were colored prior to the last day, but that no coloring could be done, beginning Monday, until the House passes the Senate bill and President Eisenhower signs it.

Early OK Due

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D., Wash.) said Monday he had informed Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson that the Senate Interior and Insular Affairs Committee was expected to approve the Hawaiian statehood bill today.

Mayor High, left, Evans Are Close But Oh-So-Distant

. . . on way out after commission meeting was adjourned

Evans Is Bounced Out Of City Manager Job

Headley Next? 2A
Willard, His Views 2A
Evans Set Record 7A

By JOHN MORTON
Herald Staff Writer

E. A. Evans was fired as Miami City Manager Monday by a new majority that developed suddenly on the City Commission.

He was replaced immediately by Ira (Dutch) Willard, former city manager of Coral Gables, who recently entered the banking business.

Voting to remove Evans "as of today" were Otis Shiver, George W. DuBreuil and Mayor Robert King High.

Commissioner James W. High angrily protested the surprise action and announced his immediate resignation from the commission.

Failure to cooperate with Dade's new Metropolitan government was given by Shiver as the reason for Evans' ouster. Shiver made the motion for the firing.

Also asked to leave the city's employ immediately was Assistant City Manager Ray Williams. The veteran employe said he will retire.

Evans took the sudden loss of his $25,000-a-year job calmly.

"I have no hard feelings," he said. "I knew some day this would happen."

Willard immediately accepted the job after he was told of the offer by telephone. He will go to City Hall this morning to take over his new office. His salary will be $18,200 a year.

He said the job was first offered to him two weeks ago. He said he told the commissioners then that he would take it.

Ira Willard

. . . and he's in

The firing came as a surprise, however, even to many City Hall insiders. Up to now Shiver and DuBreuil have voted with a four man majority that included James High and B. E. Hearn.

Like James High, Hearn continued loyal to Evans.

He challenged Shiver's complaint that Evans has been ignoring the wishes of the commission and pursuing his own policies.

"I believe the city manager in every instance," said Hearn, "has carried out the will of this commission."

Shiver charged that Evans was "standing in the way of an orderly transfer of Miami functions to Metro, and that means standing in the way of the wishes of the people."

Last summer Evans was a leader in the Dade League of Municipalities campaign to curb Metro's powers by passage of a proposed "autonomy amendment" to the Metro charter. The City Commission, with the exception of Mayor High, offered no objection when Evans mobilized city employes and equipment to work in the "vote yes" campaign.

Still bitterly opposed to Metro, James High said in making his exit from the commission that it was led by "nitwit theorists with silly, power-grabbing moves."

The commissioner said he will devote his full time between now and the November city election "to making known to the people what has been done here."

"At the end of that time," he added, "I expect to be a candidate for reelection to this commission."

The firing came Monday afternoon when commissioners changed an informal session into an official meeting.

They took no action on High's resignation. Mayor High said it will come up at Wednesday's formal meeting.

Evans sat through the meeting calmly smoking a pipe, with one knee propped against his desk.

After the ouster vote there was an awkward silence. Evans finally broke it.

"I don't know why we are looking so glum," he commented. "Why don't we just smile?"

Before the official meeting was called, Mayor High complained he had been embarrassed earlier in the day when asked by a group of lawyers what Miami was going to do about transferring city traffic courts to Metro, as the court had ordered.

There's Plenty of Confusion

Civilian Heads on Pan in Missile Race

Who decides what missiles research the U.S. will pour its billions into? In today's installment of his series on the great defense debate famed Reporter Bob Considine puts the spotlight on a little-known but powerful official in weapons development.

By BOB CONSIDINE
Herald Columnist

The position of the U.S. at this time has been likened to that of a man crossing a rocky ford in a stream, daring not to take his weight entirely off one foot until he is sure that the other foot is on solid ground.

We are in some cases haltingly and other cases feverishly changing our military retaliation reliance from manned bombers to missiles. Articulate members of the Democratic Congress believe that many aspects of the Eisenhower administration's defense problem are being bungled now or have been in the past.

But no other segment has come under more fire than that part of the setup which must compete with the Soviet Union's unquestionably brilliant rocket developers. We were caught with our Sputniks down on Oct. 4, 1957, and despite a tremendous awakening to Russia's scientific and engineering prowess we have yet to catch up.

The task of getting the U.S. abreast of or preferably ahead of Russian missile wizardry was complicated until the 1958 Reorganization Act. There were conflicting and competing groups, not to mention jealousies and the fanning of the dead embers of old interservice rivalries.

As outlined by Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy before the House Armed Services Committee last Feb. 2, here is where the breath-taking authority rests:

Dr. Herbert York

. . . directs research

"A Director of Defense Research and Engineering, Dr. Herbert York, has been appointed with the mission to assure that all scientific and technological resources of the Department of Defense are put to the best possible use.

"The Director of Defense Research and Engineering will supervise and coordinate all Department of Defense research and engineering programs. He will be responsible for providing effective leadership, eliminating unnecessary duplication, encouraging basic research, and developing an integrated research and development program covering all operational needs."

U.S. Set For Fight On Berlin

We're Ready, McElroy Says

By Herald Wire Services

WASHINGTON — U.S. military forces are ready to back up President Eisenhower's avowed determination to stand fast on American rights in Berlin, Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy told Congress Monday.

"We think we have a definite offensive superiority over the Russians at this time," McElroy said in discussing the situation with the House Space Committee.

While voicing doubt the Russians want to start a war, the Pentagon chief told the congressmen "we are prepared to meet various stages of the Berlin situation as it develops." Then he added:

"We are prepared to make good on the statement of the President that we will not yield one inch on our rights in Berlin."

McElroy said there are no plans now to mobilize because of the deepening crisis over Russia's campaign to force the U.S. and other Allied powers out of Berlin, 110 miles inside Communist-held territory.

Mobilization steps have been suggested in Congress in recent days, and Rep. James Fulton (R., Pa.) raised the issue again Monday. He asked McElroy if this country has adequate protection for a firm position on Berlin and "if not, should we mobilize in whole or in part?"

"We don't regard that as being required at this time," McElroy replied.

Saying the German crisis has been studied by the Joint Chiefs of Staff and the State Department, McElroy said there may be some moves to strengthen the U.S. position. He did not go into detail.

McElroy also said during the course of his testimony that present U.S. policy is not to strike the first blow in a war, but "whether that always will be true is another matter." He did not say what conditions could lead to a first strike by the U.S.

The secretary said this country is ready for anything. He conceded Russia greater strength on the ground in Central Europe, but said it has been "clear for a long period of time that we will never fight the Russians on the ground."

Rep. Victor L. Anfuso (D., N.Y.) raised the possibility that Berlin could touch off a world conflict.

"Every time you resist aggression you have to consider that possibility," McElroy conceded.

To Anfuso's suggestion that Russia can defeat the U.S. by forcing it to bankrupt itself, McElroy said he doesn't think Russia cares how it defeats the U.S.

He said Russia "intends to stick right with it," until it defeats the U.S. "one way or another."

As McElroy testified, Russia sent new notes to the Western Allies proposing conditional Big Four negotiations on the Berlin crisis. Several key members of Congress interpreted the Russian proposal as a "thaw" in the cold war.

The White House and State Department deferred comment until the text of the note can be studied.

Sen. J. William Fulbright (D. Ark.) chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, was guardedly optimistic. He said, "I hope this justifies a more hopeful attitude" toward Berlin.

But No Damage Done

Minute-Long Quake Hits San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO — (UPI) — A long, rolling earthquake which alternately swelled and diminished for more than a minute, struck earthquake-conscious San Francisco late Monday.

The temblor hit the city and surrounding areas at 6:29 p.m. Miami time. The University of California seismographic office at Berkeley, Calif., said the quake registered a magnitude of 5.5 on the Richter scale.

The quake, it said, was centered 65 miles northwest of Berkeley, which would put it near Santa Rosa, but residents of that area said they barely felt the shock. There were no immediate reports of damage.

In southern California, the California Institute of Technology at Pasadena reported the temblor registered 4.5 on the Richter scale, a full point lower than what was registered at Berkeley. There was no immediate explanation for the discrepancy in the readings.

Telephone service was sporadically disrupted throughout the Bay area by overloading calls from anxious residents calling schools — where their children were still in class—relatives, and the police department.

Reports of the temblor came from as far south as Salinas, Calif., some 100 miles from San Francisco, and from San Rafael, a suburb 20 miles to the north.

A San Rafael housewife said the quake sounded like "truck gears" engaging.

A passenger in a downtown office building elevator said the car "banged against the shaft walls" and the lifting cables slapped to and fro as the shock hit the building.

The quake was felt "strongly" in the east Bay where residents called police in San Leandro, Oakland and Berkeley.

However, residents in Daly City, just south of San Francisco, said they felt nothing, although their city sits smack on top of the San Andreas Fault, which has caused most of San Francisco's major quakes.

Oakland police said they had some 1,500 calls within a few minutes. San Francisco's police switchboard was so jammed with calls it was impossible to reach city officials immediately by phone.

The quake struck at 3:29 with a strong swaying motion, then diminished and swelled with a sharper, stronger tremor some 30 seconds later. Intensity of the quake compared with the one which caused millions of dollars in damage on March 22, 1957. That quake also had a magnitude of 5.5.

Frost to Hit N. Florida

Frost will hit the lowgrounds of North Florida early today — while South Florida temperatures will drop to 45, the weather bureau said.

But by late today, the thermometer is expected to be climbing again.

The weatherman said it'll be back in the mid-70s again in Greater Miami this afternoon.

Scattered frost is expected in the Suwannee and Gainesville districts, the upper east coast, Orlando and the Brooksville district.

But South Florida farmers won't have to fear temperatures of 44 to 50, the Frost Warning Service said.

Ministers' Parley Is Accepted

Nikita Recants On Berlin Talks

By Herald Wire Services

MOSCOW — Russia reversed itself Monday and conditionally agreed to a foreign ministers' conference on the Berlin crisis in notes that warned that the German issue could cause war "a hundred times more serious" than all past conflicts.

Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev withdrew his rejection of the Western plan for a foreign ministers' meeting after pleas from Britain's visiting Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

The Soviet note handed to the ambassadors of the U.S., Britain, France and West Germany urged a summit conference as having "the greatest chance" of success.

But if the West "is not ready" for that, the Russians agreed to a ministerial-level parley on one condition: Inclusion of Poland and Czechoslovakia.

The Western proposal which Khrushchev rejected verbally last Tuesday called for a Big Four foreign ministers' meeting. Russia wants the two Communist nations included to give the Eastern bloc numerical balance. East and West Germany also would attend and have "active participation" in the talks.

(In Bonn, West German official sources said the government will oppose the presence of Poland and Czechoslovakia at a conference.)

The Soviets suggested a meeting of "not more than two or three months" which would begin next month at Geneva or Vienna. The West also has proposed such a time and choice of places.

Western diplomats said the proposal for two or three months of negotiation starting in April shows the Soviet Union has long since scrapped May 27 as an absolute deadline for settlement of the West Berlin question.

They pointed out that since Khrushchev set the original date, Soviet officials both here and abroad — including Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan in the U. S. — have reiterated that no deadline exists and that the proposal contains no ultimatum.

However, the note stressed again that Russia intends to hand over control of the Berlin lifelines to the East Germans by May 27.

It warned the West that any attempt to use "tanks or avia-

Premier Khrushchev was having tea with some students when he suddenly turned to one of them and demanded:

"Who wrote 'Anna Karenina?' "

Stammered the terrified student: "I didn't write her, sir, honest I didn't."

The next day Khrushchev related this incident to Gen. Ivan Serov, recently deposed security boss. Later in the day Serov reported back to Khrushchev:

"You know that young man you were telling me about? Well, I have news for you. After questioning him for two-and-one-half hours I've gotten his written confession that he did write 'Anna Karenina!' "

The Town Crier

"A quiet Friday morning: the sun shining, people going to work, children on the way to school, dogs and cats running and playing. People striving for a good life, to better their community, working for the American way: freedom of speech, religion.

"But serenity can be shattered. A school is blown up, a church threatened, people beaten. That's right, mister, don't let those Communists enforce the Constitution.

"It has been a long hot day. Go home. Greet the family. Have a beer. Call the boys. When is the meeting? Tonight, now! Get your cloak, your cloak of authority. And don't forget the mask. Pick up the bums, the mental defects. Get on to the meeting. Look at your leader . . . great man . . . knows how to hate . . . praise him for leading you. After all, you've no mind. Absorb it all: blind hatred. It's yours for the asking. When is the next bombing or beating? Get drunk with the rest of the animals. Go home; even the little ones must be taught to hate.

"Live long. Have a blast. Spread hatred and corruption. Grow old — and die. You've been a good man — says you. Into the promised land you go."

Anti-Missile Defense Year Away--McElroy

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy said Monday the time when the U.S. will have a defense against ballistic missiles is some years away.

Even then there is no assurance the defense can stop more than a modest number of ICBM's launched in a mass attack, he said.

McElroy was quizzed by the House Space Committee in the row over his turndown of an Army request to put into production the Army's Nike-Zeus, a missile-and-radar system designed to knock down intercontinental missiles.

McElroy said the Nike-Zeus is getting the highest national priority in its development but his best scientific advice has been that the weapon is not ready for production.

Until there is a missile defense, McElroy said, the U.S. protection lies in its strike-back power — a deterrent aimed at discouraging a potential aggressor from starting a war in the first place.

'Random' Signals Reported

INGLEWOOD, Calif. — (UPI) — The Air Force in a cautiously worded statement announced Monday that the "lost" 1,300-pound satellite Discoverer I is apparently circling the earth every 96 minutes in a polar orbit.

Preliminary studies indicated the 19-foot-long satellite's life would be in excess of one month, the Air Force said.

The satellite was blasted into the heavens Saturday afternoon at Vandenberg Air Force Base to become the first satellite launched on the West Coast.

Its fate remained in doubt for nearly 32 hours because of an apparent radio failure before the Air Force's Ballistic Missile Division (BMD) here broke the suspense by releasing a guarded statement Sunday night reporting the reception of "random" radio signals.

A BMD spokesman explained the difficulty the Air Force was having in determining whether the Discoverer I actually achieved orbit.

"We are not saying that it definitely is in orbit, neither can we say that it is not, at this point," the spokesman said. "We don't feel that we will definitely know an orbit has been achieved until we have tracked it by radar, obtained a visual sighting or received more definite radio signals.

"Until that time, we can say only that information 'tends' to confirm, not definitely confirm, an orbit."

The Discoverer shot was the initial launching in "Project Discoverer," a program designed to lead eventually the way into space for man. Another shot in the project already was being readied for 30 days hence.

Western Refusal Is Seen

Red Proposal Has 2 Flaws

See Story, P. 1A

By WILLIAM J. JORDEN
The New York Times Service

WASHINGTON — Western diplomats found little in the latest Soviets notes on the German problem to encourage hope for any easy, quick solution.

The only encouragement they could find in their first reading of the long messages from Moscow was that the Russians had kept the door open for possible negotiations.

Diplomatic sources here indicated the West almost certainly will reject the proposal for the kind of conference of foreign ministers that Moscow advanced Monday. It was assumed that rejection would be the diplomatic initiative to the Kremlin.

Diplomats here found two fundamental objections to the Soviet position:

First, they noted, the Russians have indicated a willingness to discuss only those problems Moscow deems important — making West Berlin a "free city" and arranging a peace treaty with a divided Germany.

Second, Moscow wants to add two Communist states, Poland and Czechoslovakia, to the roster of conference participants. The Western position is that only nations with an internationally recognized "special interest" in Germany — the Soviet Union, Great Britain, France and the U.S. — should make basic decisions on Germany, with the advice of the Germans themselves, both Communist and non-Communist.

Western counter-proposals can be expected to concentrate on these points. The West can be expected to argue that if they are willing to discuss problems raised by the Russians, the latter cannot expect to rule out matters the Western allies consider important.

On the question of participation, experts here doubt the West will rule out the presence of other states. It would argue, however, that expansion of a conference should not be confined to Communist countries Moscow wants in, while ignoring others, and that to include all nations with an interest in Germany would make a conference unwieldy and unnecessarily complicated.

Headley's Days Numbered As Chief, Mayor High Says

By JUANITA GREENE
Herald Staff Writer

Walter Headley won't be Miami's police chief much longer, Mayor Robert King High predicted after Monday's surprise shakeup in city politics.

"There will be a lot of changes in the old brass at the police department," the youthful mayor said.

"As for Chief Headley himself," he added, "I would expect him to resign."

The police department has been the principal target of Mayor High. But until Monday he got no support in his demands for a cleanup from the other four commissioners.

High's sudden support from two commissioners from what was formerly a four-man majority on the commission is expected to have other significant repercussions.

Votes by High, Otis Shiver and George DuBreuil are expected to lead to:

THE TRANSFERENCE soon of all traffic cases from city courts to Metro courts.

THE FIRING, or resignation, of General Edward (Bo)Barber as a $9,000-a-year administrative assistant. He was hired by Evans as a "troubleshooter."

THE FIRING, transfer, or resignation of many other oldtimers in the police department and other city departments.

In uneasy positions are City Engineer Arthur Darlow, City Building Department Director Ellis Knox, and Slum Clearance Director Francis Kelly.

THE END of what Mayor High called "petty resistance to Metro auto inspection in the City of Miami."

High was emphatic in his predictions about changes in the police department.

"Since I've been in office (a year and a half)," he said, "Evans and Headley have ridiculed any efforts to clean up organized rackets."

"I predict," he said, "a new attitude among the high brass at the police department."

The mayor has been particularly critical of what he called "wide open bolita peddling." From time to time he has toured the city and bought bolita tickets, and confronted Evans and Headley with the evidence.

Until Monday, however, Shiver and DuBreuil have sided with Commissioners James High and B. E. Hearn in supporting Evans and his claim that there was nothing seriously wrong in the police department setup.

In forecasting other changes in personnel, High said he was sure Barber, an old Army friend of Evans', will not be around long.

"The days of the generals are over," he declared.

This Man Willard Is Metro's Friend

By DOM BONAFEDE
Herald Staff Writer

Miami's new city manager, Ira F. Willard promised close cooperation between the city and Metropolitan government in his first statement upon being named to the post.

"Metro is here to stay," Willard commented. "A close working agreement with the city and Metro is necessary to best serve the people."

He added he is not thinking of making any changes in department heads "at the present."

The annual salary of the new city manager was put at $18,200, compared to $25,000 received by his predecessor, E. A. Evans.

Willard disclosed that he was first approached about the job about two weeks ago by Mayor Robert King High.

"Mayor High asked if I'd be interested and I told him I would be if there was a vacancy.

"He called again last weekend to confirm it and I told him the same thing."

Willard, called "Dutch" by his acquaintances, was appointed city manager of Coral Gables in May, 1956, after having served in the same capacity at Alexandria, Va., for four years. Prior to that he was city manager of Hopewell, Va.

He resigned the Coral Gables post three months ago to accept an executive position as director of new business development with the Sottile banking group.

Unlike many city managers, who come from the ranks of academic engineers, Willard is a former practicing attorney.

He completed pre-law studies at the University of South Carolina in 1934 and obtained his law degree from Southeastern University, Washington, D.C., in 1938.

In 1941 he joined the U.S. Army as a lieutenant. He was honorably discharged as a lieutenant colonel in 1946.

Willard, 47, and his wife, Mary, have four children. They live at 902 Catalonia Ave., Coral Gables.

During his tenure at Coral Gables, Willard established a reputation as one of the most astute city managers in the country.

He was frequently mentioned as a candidate for the position of county manager.

Willard said Monday he had no hesitancy about accepting the Miami job.

"I'm very honored. I'll do my very best to be a success," he said.

He said he expects to start work at Dinner Key City Hall immediately.

County Is Using Pushbutton Tactics

St. Lucie Steps Up Its War on Mosquitoes

By DOUG SILVER
Herald Correspondent

FORT PIERCE — Push-button warfare now even extends to mosquito fighting.

The battleground is St. Lucie County. Waging the warfare is the county's Sanitary District.

It is charged with the responsibility of getting rid of what the State Board of Health refers to as "arthropods" — but what are known to you and me as just plain bugs. District Chairman is County Commissioner Joe Nelson.

Chief button pusher is Frederick W. Harden, young entomologist (bug expert) who takes care of the county's ceaseless campaign against mosquitoes and sandflies.

He's figured out a system whereby the drivers of the jeeps and trucks that carry the fogging machines around the county can now control the action of the foggers mounted on the rear without getting out of the cabs of their vehicles.

This saves much valuable time that was formerly lost in making adjustments to the fogging apparatus — starting it up, turning the flow of chemicals on and off and changing the direction of the nozzle.

The drivers usually work two hours a night — and if an hour that was formerly lost in tinkering can be saved — it means an extra 200 acres can be fogged.

Many other things have changed during the 32 years St. Lucie County has been fighting insects. The budget, for one thing.

It's now running around $150,000 a year which is a lot more than the county spent for the ten-year period between '27 and '37.

Beliefs as to the best way of killing pests are much different than even a few years ago. Used to be that DDT was considered the most lethal method.

Nowadays, in this county at least, the fogging is done with a mixture of malathion and lethane — because the bugs were getting used to DDT and building immunity.

Conceptions of permanent control, as distinguished from temporary methods via chemicals, have also been altered.

The modern system is based on the fact that the salt marsh mosquito must have moist soil on which to lay eggs.

If the marsh is flooded and the water kept impounded with a series of dikes — the mosquito can't lay her eggs. About one fourth of St. Lucie County's 5,000 acres of salt marsh are now impounded — with more scheduled each year.

Harden says one thing which hasn't changed much in man's ceaseless bug battle around here is the method of learning where the most mosquitos hang out.

"It's pretty simple," he pointed out, "just have a man with light khaki trousers stand still and then count the mosquitoes that land on the front of his pants. We take counts all over the county all the time like that — and the fog program is based on the mosquito count.

"A landing rate of 100 a minute is not unusual in summer — but it shows an area that needs treatment. The year 1958 was a real freak year — the lightest mosquito year anybody can remember. We took 5,000 counts and the average landing rate per minute per pants leg was only 1.4. In 1957 it was 10.07."

"Nobody really knows," he went on," why last year was so much better than the year before. We believe our ditching and diking program had something to do with it, but it isn't the whole story. The best answer is that in 1957 natural conditions — rainfall, tides other natural phenomena, were conducive to mosquito breeding, and in 1958 weather and tide changes hurt the bugs and helped the people.

He wouldn't issue any cast iron prediction for this season — beyond saying it would probably be tougher than last year.

Then There Was the Time A Ball Game Was Fogged Up

Herald Service

FORT PIERCE — St. Lucie County's war against insects is a serious job.

But the battle has some off-beat moments — some humorous, some embarrasing — that keep the day-to-day routine from getting too dull.

Frederick W. Harden, who heads up the county's campaign against mosquitoes, and his chief assistant Roy Carlile who has jockeyed bug wagons many thousands of miles, recalled some of these incidents.

Annually they can count on some excited tourist seeing what he believes to be smoke coming from houses and turning in a fire alarm.

Long before the fire department gets on the scene the "smoke" from the fogging machine has disappeared — and so has the tourist.

Then there was the time last summer when an over-zealous fogging machine operator nearly broke up a ball game.

It was the most important ball game in the state — when the Key West Conchs were playing the West Palm Beach Wildcats for the high school championship at Jaycee Field in Fort Pierce.

A lot of out-of-town visitors were on hand and the county farmers didn't want to take any chances of anyone being mosquito bit.

A bug wagon was stationed near the outfield, to windward of a wire fence marking the right hand boundary of the field.

It was the ninth inning, tie score and the count three and two. The West Palm Beach pitcher walked to the plate for a conference. The he started back towards the mound.

At that moment the fogging machine started up and slowly charted a course towards the stands, parallel to the fight field foul line.

In a few seconds the whole infield was covered with fog and it was eight minutes before the pitcher could see the batter.

Usually the taxpayers kick about not getting enough service from the Sanitary Department — that night the squawks went the other way.

Extra service requests have long been the bane of the department — people who want the truck to make a private run out to their house for weddings, bridge parties, or other special occasions. Much tact is required by Fred Harden and his men.

Old timers in the insect fighting business like to tell the story of John Hull, one of the first entomologists hired by the county years ago.

The staff was small and he used to run the one fogging truck himself. In those days people weren't as used to the program as they are now, and there was considerable suspicion and even resentment.

One evening around supper time John Hull and his fogging machine were proceeding down a street in a fairly tough neighborhood, the truck billowing forth clouds of DDT.

A householder, well known for a mean disposition, jumped out in the middle of the road and waved his arms. The truck stopped. So did the smoke. Hull was wary, ready for trouble.

"Hey" yelled the arm waver, "Will that stuff kill bedbugs?"

Hull, relieved, allowed that it probably would.

"Then back it up to my door and shoot the whole house full of it."

The entomologist obliged and later heard that it worked. It was the beginning of a beautiful friendship.

Vero Beach Council Meeting

Street Project on Agenda

Herald Correspondent

VERO BEACH — A discussion of the possible widening of 13th Avenue between 20th and 21st Streets is on the agenda for revival at the Vero Beach City Council meeting at 7:30 p.m. today.

It was proposed several months ago by J. J. Schumann, who owns some of the store buildings on the west side of 13th Avenue that the street be widened to permit parking on the east as well as the west side.

At that time the councilmen decided not to widen the street because the city parking lot is on the east side of 13th Avenue and it usually was not full.

Schumann has requested that the street-widening be reconsidered, City Manager Eugene Lyon said Monday.

A request for a beer and wine license for Pete's Meats and Groceries on 20th Street also is on the agenda.

There has been some question about it because of the nearness of the store to a church.

'Big Fair' Plans Mapped at Vero

VERO BEACH — The first woman operations specialist at Vero Beach for the Federal Aviation Agency has begun work at the air base here.

She is Miss Vera Self who came here from Daytona Beach. She was employed by the FAA and its predecessor, the Civil Aeronautics Administration, for 16 years.

Miss Self will be one of those maintaining contact with aircraft in this vicinity, giving weather and landing information, receiving and transmitting flight plans, etc.

She is replacing Alden B. Davis who is being transferred to the Tampa FAA station.

PB Gives Pledge To Martin

WEST PALM BEACH — Palm Beach County commissioners took the first step toward mapping out a county road program Monday, and in other business agreed to cooperate with Martin County in extending Pratt and Whitney Rd.

Commissioner Kenneth Foster called for a study to determine how the county can finance a program to improve and build county roads.

The county now has on tap a 20-year program for primary and secondary roads.

Commissioners agreed to the study. They also agreed to extend Pratt and Whitney Rd. one mile to the Martin County line. The construction will be financed out of District 1 road funds.

Martin County commissioners appearing in person said they will obtain the right-of-way if Palm Beach County builds the one-mile link.

The road now terminates at Indiantown Rd. Martin County officials called the extension of the road "vital to our economy."

Fellsmere High

School's Secret: 'Flexible Faculty'

Herald Correspondent

VERO BEACH — With an average of only about 10 students in the seventh through twelfth grades the Fellsmere High School offers most subjects taught at other accredited high schools.

The exceptions are speech and foreign languages because the school has no teachers qualified for them and agriculture because there are no facilities for it.

In a report to the Indian River County School Board, D. G. Frisby, principal of the Fellsmere School, told how he manages to keep the scootl on the accredited list and offer the same courses as the larger high schools.

This despite the fact the school has only five fulltime and two "itinerant teachers" of music and physical education shared with other schools.

"He has done a fine job with the limited facilities he must have," School Superintendent J. A. Thompson said of Frisby to the board. He cited the general flexibility of the Fellsmere faculty.

Before employing a teacher the principal makes it clear that he or she may be required to teach more than one subject. Because of the state minimum of ten students in a class some subjects are taught only every other year.

Sometimes it is as late as the first day of school before Frisby is certain which subjects will be taught that year because some courses are provided only if there is a demand for them.

No Fellsmere graduates have had any trouble getting into college. "In 13 years we have lost only one child from college," Frisby said.

The school serves as the leading center of social life at Fellsmere. "If you put on a high school play it's hard to get a seat," he said.

The first through sixth grades at Fellsmere also average about 100 students, with four fulltime teachers.

None of the students are permitted to leave the school at lunchtime without special permission unless they go home to eat.

A lunch consisting of meat, two vegetables, salad, milk and dessert is served at the school for 25 cents. Some help is obtained from federal school lunch funds.

The predicted development of Vero Lake Estates southeast of Fellsmere could add quickly to the population of his school, Frisby said.

Rains Fall On Citrus

FORT PIERCE — The first rains in a month drenched this area Saturday and Sunday. Over an inch of rain came down over the weekend.

St. Lucie County agent Challes D. Kime said the tomato fields have received the rain, but he had heard no reports of damage, and it may have been beneficial.

The area citrus definitely needed the welcome downpour.

The city savanna water level was about 14½ feet above sea level, rising after the rain.

It is still lower than it has been for nearly two years, but officials say there is plenty of water for the city.

Expansion Of 1960 Event Eyed

By THELMA FROSCHER

VERO BEACH — Hopes for a "real county fair" possibily by next year have been expressed by officials of the Vero Beach American Legion Fair Association.

Officials made the announcement following the closing of the 1959 fair which ended its six-day run Saturday.

Walter Benjamin, president of the fair association and voice commander of Felix Poppell Legion Post No. 39, said the fair corporation obtained its charter in 1951.

Funds realized from the annual fairs are being saved for a down payment on an adequate fair grounds.

The fair site at US 1 and 12th St. has been rented.

With its own grounds the association plans to construct permanent buildings where farmers would be willing to show their prize livestock and women would be willing to leave their masterpieces in handicrafts or cooking.

"You can't blame them for not wanting to put them in our tent that would blow down in half of a good windstorm," Benjamin said.

It was noted that a page-long, two column list of premium entries was advertized in the local newspapers on Jan. 22 and Feb. 12.

Asked what they would have done if anyone had appeared with livestock entries, he said they would have done the best they could.

Fortunately for the committee, the total livestock in the fair consisted of a rooster and two hens in a commercial egg-ranch exhibit.

State Finances Perk Up,' School Funds OK

TALLAHASSEE — (UPI) — Florida's up-and-down financial situation brightened a little Monday.

The comptroller's office reported it expects to be able to distribute state school funds on schedule for the first time in months.

Ray Higgins, general auditor for the comptroller, reported a cash general revenue balance March 1 of $10,000,000 —the largest in months.

He spent $4,000,000 of it Monday — sending the counties their share of the first proceeds of sales tax collections, and mailing out welfare checks.

He said the big school fund distribution to counties probably will be mailed out next week, in plenty of time to meet deadlines for payment of teacher salaries and other bills.

March is the month when Florida is supposed to recoup and return to a healthy cash condition — after paying back $20,000,000 borrowed from trust funds last year to get by the lean revenue months.

Higgins said the loan will be repaid toward the end of the month, with big automobile license tag receipts which are beginning to flow into the treasury, and anticipated large sales tax collections.

Meanwhile, the financial outlook — a subject of varying degrees of optimism and pessimism — gets a thorough going over here Tuesday afternoon when the Legislative Council's Finance and Taxation Committee meets.

The council's research arm, the Legislative Reference Bureau, will present the lawmakers with a pile of figures to back up its estimate that present taxes will produce no more than $700,000,000 in the next biennium.

Based on this analysis, Chairman B. C. Pearce of Palatka said he does not see how the state can expect to finance the $725,000,000 general spending bill recommended by the cabinet.

The cabinet based its proposed budget on Budget Director Smith's optimistic forecast of revenue between $726,000,000 and $729,000,000.

Smith so far has not backed down on that estimate, despite conflicts with estimates of the reference bureau and Comptroller Ray E. Green.

Green started out with a prediction of $716,000,000, but said he now has revised this downward to $700,000,000, based on the fact that Florida's recovery from recession and last winter's freeze has not been as rapid as anticipated.

No Relief Forecast

Chill Lingers On -In Orange Prices

By ERWIN POTTS
Herald Staff Writer

HOLLYWOOD — There's no relief in sight for the housewife who's finding the soaring price of oranges upsetting her grocery budget.

While citrus fruit orchards are well thawed out from last year's freeze, citrus prices are still feeling the chill.

Though the Department of Agriculture predicted lower citrus prices during the first half of this year, local growers and retailers shiver at the thought.

"Prices of oranges are up from about $3.00 a box to $3.25 and $3.50 a box off the tree," said William Wood, general manager of Flamingo Groves in nearby Davie.

"And they'll probably go even higher," he added.

Wood said the increase in the wholesale price will mean a rise of about 20 per cent for the housewife who buys a bag of oranges at the grocery store.

But a wholesale buyer for a local supermarket presented an even more dismal picture.

"We're getting 59 cents for a dozen oranges today. Five or six weeks ago it was 39 cents a dozen," he said.

"Grapefruit is up from 10 for 29 cents five weeks ago, to 10 for 49 cents today."

Citrus people attribute the rising prices to the 1957-58 freeze, which put the industry in a hole it hasn't been able to climb out of.

"Florida will produce 80 million boxes of oranges this year," said one grower. "But that's about 45 million short of the demand.

"I don't expect they'll catch up with the demand for a couple of years."

He explained that, while Davie growers were not hard hit by the freeze, the citrus industry as a whole was, and the higher prices are a result of the statewide demand.

Florida Citrus Mutual, a growers co-op in Lakeland, issued a statement claiming "right now all citrus prices are higher than the average for the past 10 years."

2 Vero Men Set To Detect Fallout

VERO BEACH — In the event of an atomic attack Vero Beach now has two men trained and qualified to detect the presence and amount of radioactive fallout, it was announced Monday by L. C. Elliott, Region Two Administrator of the new Federal Aviation Agency (FAA).

Robert A. White and Fred L. King, FAA Airways Operations Specialists in the Air Traffic Communications Station at Vero Beach Municipal Airport have completed an intensive training course at Thomasville, Ga.

The course dealt with the effects of nuclear blasts and how to detect the presence of radioactive fallout with delicate detection instruments.

White and King's training was not only practical, but realistic since as a vital part of the course, highly radioactive isotopes of Cobalt 60 were scattered over a wide area and White and King were required to search for them with a geiger counter.

When White or King discovered the radioactive capsules, they were required to use long tongs to place them in special 250-pound lead shielding containers.

Victor Gardner, Radiological Defense Officer of the Federal Aviation Agency's Region Two, said at the Regional Headquarters in Fort Worth, "White and King proved their ability at radioactive fallout detection and have qualified for a special license issued by the Atomic Energy Commission.

Now that White and King are trained they will help form the hard core of the FAA's Region Two organization of trained experts in the detection of fallout.

Gardner emphasized, "Because FAA people, during an enemy attack, are committed to remain at their stations to furnish traffic control to military planes, the Federal Aviation Agency plans to have trained radiological monitors in every air traffic control facility in the southern United States and the Caribbean by July 1, 1959."

White lives at 2234 18th Avenue and King lives on 44th Avenue.

Peel-Bait Experiment To be Tried

LAKELAND —(UPI)— The Florida citrus industry, seeking new uses for its products, is going to try out orange peel as fish bait.

Florida Citrus Mutual said that its president, Vernon Conner, and General Manager Robert W. Rutledge, will take a fishing trip in Tampa Bay, using orange peel for bait.

If it works at trolling, the bait will be tried out in other forms of fishing, including fresh water.

Mutual noted that the U.S. sport fishing industry turns over a billion dollars annually and that a good part of that is spent for bait and lures.

Retail Men To Explore Schedules

VERO BEACH — Store hours, a holiday schedule and special sales events will be included in the discussion when the Retail Division of the Vero Beach Chamber of Commerce meets at 8 p.m. today at the chamber building.

All Chamber of Commerce members engaged in retail business are invited by George Loy Jr., division chairman, to attend and take part in the discussion.

"It is realized that the retail field is widely diversified, so that patterns of practice must be adapted to meet the varying business requirements," Loy said. Locations such as the Beach and outlying areas also need special consideration.

"However, it is the hope of the committee that it may be possible for a major number of merchants, at least in the central business area, to agree upon some basic policies."

Chevalier Wows All With Imitations

PALM BEACH—Still the playboy of Paris, Maurice (The Magnificent) is also good will ambassdaor from La Belle, France to Palm Beach, Miami, or wherehaveyou.

Mary Howes brought the famous comedian to Palm Beach Sunday night as the second in her Sunday evening series of great players. An audience that overflowed the Four Arts Auditorium gave him a tumultuous welcome.

From the same stage where great thinkers have often thrown out banners of words settling world problems, Maurice Chevalier tossed his gay, bright hued confetti.

Wearing an electric blue suit and black bow tie, he sang and danced to excellent piano accompaniment, told jokes, and, what came as the biggest surprise, he gave hilarious imitations and impressions. His pantomime was perfect. He can shade his voice and twist his face in the most delightful fashion.

In one original sketch called accents politiques, he gave his impressions of statesmen of varying nationalities speaking over TV to their countrymen.

In his caricature of President Eisenhower he even managed to look like his model and sound like him too. His takeoff on a German and a Chinese statesmen were also classics. In all these spoofs he never spoke an intelligible word — just wonderful abracadabra. His message was clearly understood.

He sang "Thank Heaven for Little Girls," and in singing "Fascination," from "Love in the Afternoon," he explained that it had been a well loved melody in France at the turn of the century.

"And I played the onkle of Oudray Hepburn, not the loafer," he moaned. "The loafer was Gary Cooper. Oh well - -" and a French shrug shrugged off the matter of passing years.

Next on Mary Howes' series is Katharine Cornell and Brian Aherne in "Dear Liar," based on the intimate correspondence of Mrs. P[illegible]rick Campbell and Bernar[illegible]haw. That's coming March 14-16.

City Sets Deal For Water

Herald Bureau

STUART—Water for Hutchinson Island came a bit nearer reality recently when the Stuart city commission agreed to enter into negotiations with the Florida Water and Utilities Co. to sell water at wholesale.

The commission, within 45 days, will present a proposal to the water company setting forth minimum and maximum costs of wholesale water and other conditions.

Black & Associates of Gainesville are working with the commission on the proposal. The city was granted a water franchise from the county several years ago.

At the time the new bridges were constructed water pipe hangers were placed on the bridge.

A new subdivision regulations and plat law was finally passed by the commission, after years of study and requests that such an ordinance be passed.

The commission repealed all setback regulations in commercial one and two zoning areas, and adopted one ordinance covering C-1 and C-2.

The commission will also continue negotiations with Kenneth Harris, owner of the Commodore Hotel, to purchase a lot for offstreet parking.

Saturday was packed with dates. We were sorry to have missed Peggy and Ralph Smith's al fresco party at their Key Largo Beach lighthouse area. We hear the barbecue, libations and good company were perfect in the beautiful ocean setting.

Following the sellout barbecue at Tavernier Fire House, requests were made for another in March. So far a date has not been set.

There will be one of those special barbecues, however, at this same fire house and it is a St. Patrick's Day dinner by the San Pedro Altar Society. No corned beef and cabbage this year. The gals will serve the popular Keys ribs and chicken on March 14 from 5-8 p.m. Peggy Frins, secretary of the society, says she hopes you'll remember the date.
